"I am thoroughly convinced that Christianity in America stands in need of the awakening to a consciousness of God. I believe the American people are becoming more humane, but they will be more so when the men in public life are allowed to pursue their chosen duties without the interference of the malicious. It were best to tell man of the gulf which lies between what he is and what he might become for it will help them to see how pitiful is their present condition. Pilate was an interesting character. He was a good man and a good judge, but he broke into a world that he did not know. He knew what he should do, but he had not the moral courage to do it. Men are the same today they know they ought to do differently, but they haven't the moral courage to try. Don't frown down on your brother or sister who may have fallen into sin for you never can tell when it may be your turn and regrets are useless.

No matter how lowly your condition remember that money cannot purchase anything more than what God in His wisdom has intended for you. If you can see the beauty of all around you, can taste of the glories of God in what your senses can tell you; if every faculty is perfect what more can money get for you? Most things do not matter in life. There are very few things worth fighting for, but those few are worth dying for. Fight for the skies, for eternity. Fight for God and let the other things go. Let us get a true perspective of men and see them as they are for just so will be the measure of our success with them. Let us bring to them the consciousness of God."

Miss Adam, of Yonkers, presided at the organ in place of Mr. Russell and filled the position with credit to herself and pleasure to the congregation. Mr. Pilcher, the tenor of the choir, sang beautifully, "Come Unto Me."

MARTINE WILLING TO RUN

Besides friendship for Mr. Martine, they are animated by a desire to see a Democratic candidate for the United States Senate submit himself to a direct vote of the members of his party.

When asked about the matter today, Mr. Martine said:

"I have been a candidate for so many political offices in past years, that I am now reluctant to enter a contest for another one. However, if my friends secure the necessary number of signatures to insure the printing of my name on the official primary ballot, I will yield to their wishes and stand as a Democratic candidate for the Senate, subject to a popular vote of the members of my party.

"Three years ago I was glad to receive the votes of the Democratic minority in the Legislature for the high honor of Senator, and I may be pardoned when I say that I would be even more pleased to be the Senatorial candidate of the Democratic legislative majority."

W. DE LA R. ANDERSON WANTS TO BE TOWN COMMISSIONER.

W. de La R. Anderson, of North Plainfield township, today announced his candidacy for town committeeman, and he is now preparing his petition with the required number of signatures, which will be filed at the proper time. Mr. Anderson has been active in township affairs for several years and his friends predict success for him. He will be a candidate on an independent ticket.

Mr. Anderson was born in North Plainfield and has lived there and in the township all his life. He is familiar with local conditions and it is said would be a valuable member of the committee, if elected. His friends announced today that they would leave no stone unturned in securing for him the nomination.

NEED OF BEAUTY SLEEP.

We have all had the necessity for beauty sleep impressed upon us from childhood up, but it is a need we neglect systematically as soon as we escape from the guidance of our parents. It seems a waste of time, but it is far from being so.

Nerves, eyes, complexion, the entire system, fight for their rightful amount of sleep; not only sleep, but rest.

The person who feels fagged out and over-wrought looks it, and to look that way is not to look beautiful. It affects not only the skin, eyes, carriage, etc., but leaves its indelible mark upon the expression, in the form of either discontent, depression or irritation.

To be beautiful is to feel beautiful, well, content and happy.

Services at Camp Tonight.

The Epworth League of the Munroe Avenue M. E. church will have charge of the services at the Netherwood Fresh Air Camp tonight.

The Summer Resort.

"She says that the place disagrees with her."

"Then why don't she leave?"

"Seems her pug dog has gained a pound."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

HE PLAYED CRITIC.

The Composer Tried to Be Funny and Got a Surprise.

Signor Leoncavallo, the composer, recounted an amusing experience that befell him in a theater where he occupied a stall one evening to hear the performance of his "Pagliacci."

Leoncavallo, imagining himself utterly unknown in the audience, thought it would be fine fun to play the critic of his own work, so chimed in ironically:

"A masterpiece? I don't in the least agree with you, sir. I'm a musician myself, so know what I'm talking about. The fact is this opera is a worthless production and brimful of imitations and plagiarisms. For instance, that cavatina is filched bodily from Berlioz, the duet in the first act is all Gounod, while the finale is a sorry copy of one you will find in Verdi."

Next day Leoncavallo drove to the railway station and bought the leading local journal. On comfortably seating himself in the train he opened it and was aghast with astonishment at encountering the following lines:

"Signor Leoncavallo's opinion on 'Pagliacci.' Declaration of plagiarism. Confession of a composer bereft of all originality."

The great Italian master added, "Evidently my neighbor was a journalist who had dogged me, but to this day I have cold shivers every time I recall the incident."

STEALING A DOG.

Sir Edwin Landseer's Experience With a London Fancier.

Sir Edwin Landseer, the animal painter, one time was about to put the finishing touches to the portrait of a dog belonging to a nobleman and was expecting a visit from his model when the owner arrived in a state of great perturbation without the dog. The animal had been stolen. After talking over the loss with Sir Edwin the owner decided to leave the matter in the painter's hands, together with a ten pound note as a reward for the recovery of the dog.

Sir Edwin's acquaintance with the dog fanciers was large, and he summoned to his aid one Jem Smith, who he thought might put him on the right track. He showed the man the picture and the banknote and promised that if the dog was restored no questions should be asked. Six weeks later Smith arrived at the studio leading the missing dog by a piece of string. "Here is your £10," said the artist, "and I suppose I must ask no questions. But now that the affair is done with you may just as well tell me about it."

After a moment of hesitation the man confessed that he himself was the thief. "You, you thundering rascal!" exclaimed Sir Edwin. "Then why on earth have you kept us in suspense all this time?" "Well, you see, gov'ner," was the answer, "I stole the dorg, but the gen'leman I sold him to kep' 'im so jolly close that I hadn't a chance of nicking him again till yesterday, and that's the truth, s'elp me."

Birds as Oracles.

A most remarkable superstition of the Kenyahs of Borneo is the consultation of birds. If, for example, a Kenyah has to undertake a long journey he will not risk it without having first consulted the "flakki," a kind of hawk. If the hawk flies with its wings spread out to the right side it is a good sign, but if it goes to the left or flaps its wings then the journey is not begun in any circumstances. The next day the Kenyah tries once more until the hawk gives the sign which he wants. Thus the continuation of the journey depends on the flight of the birds. Some birds are of greater importance than others, and also to the singing of the birds attention is given. Other animals are also consulted, and the sea Dyaks call every animal a "bird" when they consult it.

Prodigality of Life In Ancient Egypt.

The reckless prodigality with which in ancient Egypt the upper classes squandered away the labor and lives of the people is perfectly startling. In this respect, as the monuments yet remaining abundantly prove, they stand alone and without a rival. We may form some idea of the almost incredible waste when we hear that 2,000 men were occupied for three years in carrying a single stone from Elephantine to Sais, that the canal of the Red sea alone cost the lives of 120,000 Egyptians and that to build one of the pyramids required the labor of 360,000 men for twenty years.

An Infamy.

Some years ago we remember meeting at the door of a secondhand bookshop an excited Irishman. He had just bought the "Irish Melodies" for a shilling when he turned round on the bookseller and burst out, "But I could kill ye for selling these immortal gems so cheap!"—London Athenaeum.

The Handwriting.

"If you look about you," said the ominous acquaintance, "you will see the handwriting on the wall."

"The handwriting on the wall does not worry me," replied Senator Sorghum, "so long as they don't go rummaging into my private memoranda."—Washington Star.

A Hardware Talk.

"Yes," said the nut to the nail, "it gave me a terrible wrench to part from him, but I knew it would be only a matter of a few days before he would bolt anyway."

Hazing Him.

"Mr. Chairman," said the new member of the literary club, "I move you, sir"—

"I rise to a point of order, Mr. Chairman," interrupted one of the other members.

"State your point of order."

"The gentleman says 'I move you.' It is not only out of order, but utterly absurd for a man of 114 pounds to talk of 'moving' a chairman who weighs 300."

"The point is well taken!" roared the presiding officer, bringing his gavel down with a resounding thud. "The gentleman will merely 'move' or take his seat."—Chicago Tribune.

Abbreviated Eulogies.

Old Homer sang of Helen, wife
Of Menelaus, king of Spart.,
Who thought to lead a merry life
At Troy, Turk. (not on the chart);
Of Cleopatra, queen of Eg.,
A lot of poets raved, by gosh!
But, then, they never knew Fan Clegg,
Who hails from Walla Walla, Wash.

I've heard a lot of Nicolette,
Whom Aucassin considered cute;
Of Heloise, who when a vet.
By Abelard was thought a beaut.;
Of Rosamund men called the "fair"
I've likewise read—I say, "All bosh!"
With Fanny Clegg they can't compare,
Who hails from Walla Walla, Wash.
—Harper's Weekly.

Fidelity to Principles.

"Why did Brown let the man beat him up so brutally? Why didn't he yell enough?"

"Well, you see, Brown is a simplified speller, and as there are forty-eight different ways of spelling 'enough' he had some trouble in picking out the form that was least objectionable, and that gave the fellow a chance to blacken his eyes and loosen his teeth."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The Lazy One.

Too lazy to sow and too lazy to reap;
Too lazy for all things but plenty of sleep;
Too lazy for makin' the grass come to hay.
Each day that he lives is his laziest day.

And if he had wings to the regions on high
He'd just be too lazy—too lazy to fly.
With a harp in his hand—and regret for to say it—
He'd still be too lazy—too lazy to play it.
—Frank L. Stanton.

Two of Them.

Towne—My wife's nerves are such peculiar things. She always worries when she's having a dress made just as if—

Browne (interrupting)—Huh! My wife only seems to worry when she isn't having one made.—Catholic Standard and Times.

Rodents!

A long, lean cat once met a friend.
The friend was plump and round.
Said the long, lean cat, "You can scarcely bend;
Too fat by many a pound."

The plump cat looked around in fear,
Then whispered soft and low,
"Do tell me, Tom, if no one's near—Tell me, does my rat show?"
—Lippincott's.

Lost the Place.

Sally—Please, ma'am, I can't find the broom.

Mrs. Shipshape—Haven't I told you often enough to have a place for everything and everything in its place?

Sally—Yes, ma'am; I did that, but I have lost the place.—Evening Wisconsin.

A Lazy Citizen.

They talk about the reapers! Let 'em reap!
Let 'em reap!
I'm happier where the river is singin' me to sleep,
Where it waves the water lilies, and it's mighty cool and deep—
Oh, I'm happier where the river is singin' me to sleep!
—Atlanta Constitution.

Escape Too Easy.

Landlord—What's that up there, sir?

New Arrival—It's my airship. There is no suitable shelter for it about here, so I'm obliged to keep it flying up there, see?

Landlord—Yes, I see. My terms for guests with airships are cash in advance.—Throne and Country.

Heiress of All the Ages.

She owns lots of houses and lots, it is known.
She owns all she wants, I engage.
But there's one thing she doesn't and never will own—
It's her age!

Neighbors Love Him.

Knibbs—Easley has a room in his new house that's double walled, padded and entirely sound proof.

Robbertley—What's it for?

An Epitaph.

A chronic kicker here doth lie,
Who never let a chance go by,
And e'en when death stole over him
He kicked the bucket with a vim.

"Hush! He might overhear you. He's a pork packer," she whispered.—Buffalo Express.

Special Privilege.

Let dogs delight to bark and bite.
'Tis their predestined function.
They send "defys," and no one tries

Up to the Minute.

"Up to the minute! I should say she is. Why, man, she's actually making sofa pillows for a young man's aeroplane."—Detroit Free Press.

The Difference.

To see the first gray hair arrive
Will fill a woman's heart with woe.
But man to grief you cannot drive
Until he sees his last one go.

Points For Mothers

What becomes of precocious children when they grow up? Nobody knows. It is a good thing that average gets hold of them or we would be a land overflowing with geniuses. There would be so many of them that common people would not be missed from the directory, says an exchange.

As a matter of fact, the men and women who are doing things when they are fifty years old are not the ones who were pointed out on children's day. Very often precocity is a flower that blooms early and withers early. Even the big men and women who stand out in history were commonplace children, while their precocious companions sleep in obscure graves. The most precocious thing George Washington did was to lay low the historic cherry tree, and this is more than duplicated each day by boys who never rise to dizzier pinnacles than school directors.

Too often the boy who stood at the head of the spelling class comes when he is forty years old to the boy who stood next to the end for a job. Congress has within its halls today men who didn't learn to read until twelve years of age. Life is not a dash and sprint, with the prize to the child who gets away from the starting line first, but is a day in day out Marathon, with the laurel to the one who keeps plugging along. More life meets are won by plugging than by sprinting.

So let the mother of the ordinary child up and clear her looks. Do not envy the precocious child of your neighbor. Rest secure in the knowledge that the precocious child across the street may be only a morning glory to dazzle for an hour, while your own child, with its glories yet unrevealed, may be a lily of the valley to gladden hearts for many days.

Overattention to Children.

Few mothers realize the risk of overcaution and overattention to their children after they are old enough to play and romp about. A child is happier with few and simple playthings than with a multitude of complicated toys. There is no such good fun or good training as making oneself useful in doing little things like work, and it is cruelty to deprive the child of this pleasure and stimulus. Let the brain and body be trained through hand, foot and eye. Give the boy a carpenter's bench; encourage the girls to do housework. Where possible let both boy and girl have a little garden patch, if only a few feet square, and the care of a few plants. A woman in her home, a man in his garden—this seems to be a fundamental type from which we cannot entirely depart without risk to body and mind. Cheerfulness, sincerity, industry, perseverance and unselfishness may be acquired by practice and constant repetition as much as the art of correct speaking or of playing the piano and are far more necessary to health.

In the Nursery.

Better than chairs are low, broad seats built in all around the wall of the room. The seat should be eight or nine inches high and from one to two feet broad and may be put up by a carpenter at slight expense. The children may slide all along these and draw their toys up beside them, and there will be less danger of bumped noses and bruised elbows from tipping over of the chairs. Little pillows with durable covers may be strewn about for small, sleepy heads or to make the seat less hard. Such a seat is best made of hard wood if the floor is hard wood; if not it should be made very smooth and varnished, so that there may be no danger of splinters.

The Value of Laughter.

A famous doctor once said: "Encourage your child to be merry and to laugh aloud. A good, hearty laugh expands the chest and makes the blood bound merrily along. Commend me to a good laugh—not to a little, sniggling laugh, but to one that will sound right through the house. It will not only do your child good, but will be a benefit to all who hear and be an important means of driving the blues away from a dwelling. Merriment is very catching and spreads in a remarkable manner, few being able to resist the contagion. A hearty laugh is delightful harmony—indeed, it is the best of all music."

Here's Good Advice.

Do not use devices for keeping baby's food warm.

Keep the food on ice until feeding time, then warm it and give immediately.

When the Baby Sleeps.

Do not permit a baby to sleep with its head under the bedclothes. Trained nurses who are supposed to know better are often responsible for this habit. They keep the head of an infant so carefully wrapped for fear of draft that the child becomes accustomed to muffling.

A ROMANCE OF FLYING

... By ...

Herbert Quick

Copyright, 1909, by the Bobbs-Merrill Company

All that day Carson watched Craighead. From a trunk covered with the labels of foreign travel Craighead took a sheet of cardboard and painted upon it an elaborate sign which bore the legend, "Craighead, Attorney and Counselor at Law." This he fastened outside the door, chuckling from time to time as the passersby paused as if to read it. After awhile he added to it, "Personal Injury Cases a Specialty."

Craighead went out late and brought back several legal looking books, which he ranged upon the dresser in dusty formidability—an old set of Illinois statutes and a tattered Broom's "Legal Maxims," from which he read unctuously such Latin aphorisms as "De minimis non curat lex," "Falsus in uno, falsus in omnibus," and the like, and lectured upon them very informatively. The remainder of the library consisted of a ten years' file of Martindale's Legal Directory, containing nothing more authoritative than lists of the world's lawyers.

"Where did you get them?" asked Theodore.

"Secondhand man," replied Craighead, "on approval. We must keep up appearances even if we have to buy 'em."

They went out for a walk to give O'Grady a chance, as Craighead expressed it, to see what he was up against, a statement that mystified Theodore greatly.

On their return Mr. O'Grady seemed to have been wrought upon by what he was "up against," for he asked Mr. Craighead if he would be so good as to give him a few minutes. Mr. Craighead looked at his watch, pleaded lack of time and asked Theodore if their business could wait. When Carson admitted that it could O'Grady said "Thank you, sir," in the tone of a porter accepting a tip.

What under heaven had suddenly raised the expelled Craighead from his despised position in the institute to a thing to inspire terror and panic Theodore could not imagine nor guess the reason for Craighead's sardonic laughter as he sat in their room drawing indictments against O'Grady and Witherspoon. He saw, however, that these were awesome documents, which set forth in a large, round hand that these gentlemen had been guilty of obtaining money under false pretenses, false imprisonment, malicious assault and the like, all done "feloniously, of malice prepense and aforethought, not having the fear of God before their eyes, but instigated thereunto by the devil," and "against the peace and dignity of the state of Illinois and contrary to the statutes in such cases made and provided."

"Theodore, when we return," said Craighead, "this room will be full of corpses knocked stiff by these impeachments of O'Grady and Witherspoon. Take the spoor of the billionaire. Hike—oh, hike—with me!" They crossed a dim field, followed a farm road and came back into the village from the opposite side. Craighead hurried Carson to a broad porch under tall elms and maples knobby with swelling buds. He pushed a button, and they waited.

At slow steps in the hall Craighead squeezed Carson's arm spasmodically. The door opened, and a low figure stood before them in which Theodore noted something familiar, and a voice not altogether strange, he thought, invited them into the "other room."

"Mr. Carson," said Mr. Craighead, "does not recognize in our host the erstwhile guide of my wandering and wabbly feet. Mr. Carson, in your new and fully established capacity as a respectable citizen let me present you to Mr. Waddy, to whose counsel, precept and example while acting as my attendant I feel myself indebted for my complete restoration to Philistinehood, Mr. Carson, Mr. Waddy!"

Mr. Waddy, ignoring this reintroduction, led them silently down the hall, past a door, which gave forth scuffling sounds, female voices and the peeping of young chickens, and took them into a snug den, the shelves of which were covered with books—tall, imposing, learned looking tomes in time darkened bindings—where they sat down in leather covered chairs gray with dust.

"So you did reely drop into the garden?" their host finally asked.

"Yes," answered Carson. "I think it was foolish to take the risk, but I did."

"Why?" queried Waddy, and Carson explained.

"Boy foolishness," said Mr. Waddy, and silence fell again, broken at last by Theodore's inquiry as to whether Mr. Waddy was active in eight banks and if he did not find his duties irksome.

"No," replied Waddy. "The things growed up on me. I never wanted to be a banker, but my rents kep' loadin' me up with deposits, an' I sort of got one bank after another—darn it!—country banks—the boys run 'em. I came here to have a quiet time in my own way, an' see how I make out. They wanted me to put on style. They reckoned I was going to when I bought this place. I could slick up an' go to stockholders' meetin's, an' the boys never knowed. An' jest as I got things right Caroline's man dies, an' here she comes to 'take care' of me! I shan't be allowed to earn a cent by workin' for Witherspoon, an' it brought me into such society. Them jags is mighty nice fellers, some of 'em."

"I thank you," said Craighead, with an excess of manner. "And as for your being condemned by family pride to sterile uselessness, it is truly a shame. But is Caroline a relative?"

"Only daughter," answered Mr. Waddy. "Come to live with me. Settin' things to rights."

"Mr. Waddy," said Craighead, "bear up under this. It may be for the best. And let us take up Mr. Carson's great project for monopolizing aviation. I have long believed that some one would turn up with the machine to subordinate all others, but since the time of Santos-Dumont, Farman and the Wrights aerial navigation has made no real progress. Mr. Carson is the genius. We offer you the unique chance to be with us comaster of the world. Mr. Carson will be glad to explain his aeronef."

"I won't put a cent in it!" said Mr. Waddy.

Carson's heart sank.

"Certainly not," replied Craighead, as if Mr. Waddy's refusal were the most natural thing in the world, "until you have ciphered the thing down to brass nails. And then— But tell Mr. Waddy about it, Mr. Carson. You need not enter into the offers of millions we have had and spurned. Just describe the machine."

Carson switched on the lights, and they gathered about the table.

CHAPTER VIII.

MR. WADDY INVESTS.

THE young man talked slowly. Once in awhile Mr. Waddy interjected a question which evinced intelligent comprehension of the heart of Carson's explanation. Carson explained that his aeronef differed from all others in having wings like a bird's, which did not flap, like those of the absurd orthopters and yet used half their surface in beating the air with a straight thrust like that of an oar in water.

"Don't yeh use screws?" asked Waddy.

"Not at all," answered Carson. "The screw can never be effective, because it strikes with a slant. It will do in water, but air requires a more effective thrust. When your propeller blade moves at a hundred miles an hour, say, you have a lift of thirty pounds to the square foot of surface with the direct stroke. But the surface of the screw"—

"Now, how d'ye figger that?"

Carson repeated laboriously.

"Why," said Carson, "I can lift weights that none of the other airships can stir and fly off like an eagle with a fish!"

The farmer-banker and the inventor were so absorbed that they scarcely noticed the entrance of a messenger from the institute with a message from Mr. O'Grady asking if Mr. Craighead would step outside for a moment nor Craighead's withdrawal and return.

"The direction of the blow of the propeller," said Carson, "is under perfect control. A bird's wing isn't. This is a better wing than an eagle's."

"Kin you raise right straight up," asked Waddy, "without running along like a buzzard?"

"I sure can," replied Carson, falling into dialect. "No bird can do that—no big bird. It's a better, stronger flier than any bird. The best any other machine can do is to support four pounds to the square foot of surface. With my new motors I can fly off with five times that, and I've got four times their bearing surface. I can carry mail and express at a profit or passengers that can afford it. I can hover over a ship with good heavy torpedoes and sink her and overtake any vessel that floats. I can"—

"What kind of motors you got?" interrupted Waddy.

Carson went into details. The old man looked through his eyebrows, whiskers and mustaches at Carson and the drawings.

"What if your engines stop," he asked, "when you're a mile high and over water mebbe?"

"I can soar," answered Carson. "I can make headway and gain height with no power if there's a wind, and I can stay up for hours with the propellers set for aeroplanes. But the best thing I haven't mentioned—the gyroscopic balancing device."

"What's that?" asked Mr. Waddy.

"Why, it's the successful application of the gyroscope to aviation."

"They used to talk about that," observed Mr. Waddy, "long ago—the Brennan single rail roads. I thought it turned out that the gyroscopes was too heavy f'r air work."

"They are too heavy," cried Theodore, "if you use them to do the balancing. That's sure. And so we have had to balance by feeling, just as we do a bicycle. Thought isn't quick enough, so you have to rely on feeling, as a bird does. But I use little gyroscopes not to control by their weight and stress, but to distribute power to the wings and rudders—positive, automatic distribution of power. Why, if the engineer of my machine should fall dead it would fly on just as he set it until the fuel was exhausted. It feels and thinks."

They did not notice the opening of the door nor see the woman who entered.

"Papa," she said.

Mr. Waddy rose hastily and faced her. She looked like Mr. Waddy, but was undeniably pretty. He was blocky and short; she, round and plump, with small hands and feet. The turned up, pug nose of Mr. Waddy was modified to a delightful little retroussé. She had no

"Papa," said she, "this is hardly a place in which to entertain these gentlemen. We have cleared out the parlor."

"Oh, yes!" assented Mr. Waddy, with feverish haste. "To be sure, Caroline! Take 'em in, won't you? I've got to see the hired man. My daughter, Mrs. Graybill. Mr. Craighead; Caroline, a—a friend of mine, Mr. Carson of Alabama. Excuse me for a minute, gentlemen."

"Supper," said she, smiling, "will be served very soon."

The long dining room was gloomy with decayed gentility—black beams, dark wainscoting and a broad plate rail bearing wrenches, clevises, oil cans and baskets of eggs labeled as to breeds and dates. During the meal Craighead came out amazingly in his encounters with Mrs. Graybill, to whom, as it seemed to Theodore, he was making violent love. Mr. Waddy sat buried in thought, save when he questioned Carson concerning the aeronef.

"There's no cinch in it," said Mr. Waddy, "no monopoly, an' as soon as it's public everybody'll build 'em. I do business on cinches."

"Oh, but the patents, Mr. Waddy!" cried Craighead. "You forget the patents."

"They expire in a few years," said Mr. Waddy, "an' then where are yeh? Land, now—that I made my money in—land's an eternal cinch."

"Mr. Waddy," said Craighead, "this matter of securing exclusive control of the air is a part of our plans. It is one of my specialties."

Carson was amazed. Mr. Waddy grunted as if lightly impressed, as no doubt he was.

"How long will it take you," said he, "to kind of draw out your plan for clinchin' the control of the air legally?"

"Oh, a very brief time," said Craighead. "I have installed a fine law library in my apartments so the consultation of authorities will be easy, but"—

"Well," interrupted Mr. Waddy, "if you can have that done by the time Mr. Carson can go where his machine is, put it in shape an' fly back it'll do. When he lights in the front yard an' you bring me a good law proof monopoly I'll go in with you, but he's got to fetch a letter from Mobile within twenty-four hours o' the time it's stamped there. I'm from Missouri! What say?"

"Done!" cried Craighead.

Theodore was trembling.

"Before we call it a bargain," said Theodore, "I should like a word with Mr. Craighead if you will excuse me."

"Certainly," said Mrs. Graybill.

"I wish to explain," said Theodore, "that I—I can't pay the charges on the motors; I can't get them down to the beach. So how can we accept Mr. Waddy's offer?"

"Gad, cunnel," exclaimed Craighead, "I'm glad you told me in private instead of disclosing our impecuniousness to his Waddiness. But have no fear. You carry Caesar and his fortunes. I have the fund for the motors."

"Fees," said Craighead — "damages, actual and exemplary. I've settled the case of Carson versus the Slattery institute. Fair sir, we have a swollen fortune."

"What do you mean?" asked Carson.

"I mean," said Craighead, "that this roll of tainted money is our loot of the emporium. Wit well that I soaked 'em plenty."

"But I can't allow this!" cried Theodore.

"It's already allowed," answered Craighead, with an air of perfect innocence. "Come, callow sir, we can't begin now the ruinous policy of scrutinizing the sources of our supplies. We can endow a college later, and that—What you doing?"

Carson was cramming the bills into his pocket.

"Going back to Mr. Waddy," said he. "Come on."

"Aye, aye, sir," said Craighead, his hand to his forelock. "But I warns you, capting, that there's breakers dead ahead and on both bows and that Craighead's the only pilot as knows these waters. But here's with you, if it's to Davy Jones!"

"Mr. Waddy," said Theodore, walking up to him and looking him in the face, "before accepting your offer I must make sure that I can fulfill my part of it. I must install the motors in the aeronef. There are some financial arrangements to be made. It may be some weeks"—

"I'll let you have what money you need," said Mr. Waddy. "I know how it gen'ly is with these here geniuses."

Theodore grasped the old man's hands, his face flushed with joy.

"I accept your advances with pleasure," said he, "and within sixty days I shall be here with the aeronef."

"As certain," said Craighead, "as the world turns over sixty times on its shafting. Got your order, Mr. Waddy!"

They took their departure.

"Oh, about that money!" said Carson. "I must return it to Dr. Witherspoon, Craighead. You won't misunderstand me, will you?"

"Not in the least," replied Craighead sleepily. "Ingrowing conscience and all that rot. Get over it as you get richer, you know. I would fain dream of Caroline."

CHAPTER IX.

THE INCEPTION OF "UNCLE THEODORE."

THEODORE'S mind, habituated to the airy ease of an unuttered faith in his mastership of the air, felt the galling of reality as he walked westward from the station toward dilapidated Carson's Landing.

He had had his chance with Shayne, "the prince of the powers of the air," and had thrown it away in hot words to Shayne, in a blow to Silberberg and by leaping from the Roc into the unknown abyss of night. These were actualities. The broken deflector of the parachute he carried proved that, as did the memory of his foolishness over Shayne's niece, now happily forever past.

Mr. Waddy's money and Mr. Craighead's telegrams saved the day.

The first three yellow dispatches had come in one delivery at Nashville, addressed to "Theodore Carson, the Illustrious Inventor and Thaumaturge, Care Conductor, Train 75." Theodore, the illustrious, could not accumulate the courage to ask for them, but the wise conductor had pounced suddenly upon him and said, "I reckon you're Mr. Carson."

"Yield not to temptation, fear or cold feet," the first read. "Your Uncle Fuller is at the helm." This was signed "The Great Uncalled," with the first two words run together as "Thegreat" in a telegraph operator's effort to reduce to the semblance of a name Mr. Craighead's nom de guerre. The second ran: "Have no fear. Monopoly is as clear in the air as on the land. Apologies to Sir Humphrey Gilbert. None to any one else by a dern sight. Conspucz Shayne." This was signed "Craighead, the Legal Bloodhound." "An old Broom," ran the more mysterious next, "albeit minus one cover and dog's eared, nevertheless sweeps clean. He yokes the whirligig to our car and sweeps the howling skies!" (Signed) "Dandy Jim of Caroline Graybill." The fourth, delivered at Birmingham, was addressed to General Theodore Carson, M. A. ("Monopolist of the Air"), and consisted of ten repetitions of "Eureka," signed "D. J. of C."

The last came at Bay Minette and was too astonishing to be explained on any theory consistent with Craighead's sobriety and sanity. "Caroline's dad," it read, "falls dead at unveiling of Broom idea. Sees absolute cinch and rises to it as per lifelong custom. Formed today Universal Nitrates and Air Products company. Laws of West Virginia. You come in for 25 per cent. Caroline impressed. Either universal genius or rodents in campanile. Greatly encouraged, not to say titivated. Almost converted to belief in my own schemes and self, but am cautiously suspending judgment. Will have Chicago surrounded by time you return. Go east to Wheeling (or is Charleston capital?) tonight and will incidentally run up and construct first line of circumvallation (see cyclopedia) about Greater New York. Monopoly end of deal absolutely nailed down; brass nails, with Waddy doubloons coming copious. Up to you to produce flier. Getting wabbly in head. Losing faith in you as concrete entity. Have you any aeronef? Answer 'Yes' or 'No' at once." This also was signed "D. J. of Caroline."

What could he mean by an "an old Broom?" The old copy of Broom's Legal Maxims in Craighead's "library" was indeed minus a cover and dog's eared, but how this "Broom" could, even in metaphor, yoke the whirligig to any car and sweep the howling skies Carson could not guess. Mr. Waddy's demand for aeronautical monopoly was being complied with, to Mr. Craighead's mind, and the last telegram seemed to imply that the bucolic financier had been convinced. His "falling dead" might mean much or little, but his "doubloons coming copious" was eloquent of faith. And what in the name of all the gods at once could a "Universal Nitrates and Air Products company" mean in an aerial navigation deal or those mysterious expressions about "surrounding" Chicago and Greater New York?

Chalmers MOTOR CARS

The Chalmers "Thirty" is the Only Medium Priced Car That Was Ever Awarded the Glidden Trophy

Never before has a car costing under $4,000 won the Glidden Trophy.

This year—the longest, the hardest, and most racking route ever undertaken—the Glidden Trophy was won by the Chalmers "Thirty" in competition with cars of more than twice its price, and rated power.

What more could you ask of any car, at any price?

With such a proof of its study and reliable quality, the demand for 1911 models is going to be even greater than last year, when the output was sold before the season was half over.

The increased demand will not effect the Chalmers policy of building cars of quality, not quantity, not how many cars, but how good, is our constant aim and effort, this is the principal reason for the fact that the Chalmers has never been defeated in any motoring event by any car of its price and power.

The 1911 Models are being delivered in order of purchase. Demonstration of new models by appointment.

RARITANS DEFEAT Y. M. C. A.

Through Errors the Local Team Loses Thrilling Contest by a Score of 4 to 1.

ONLY 6 HITS OFF FREDERICKSON

Peacock and Fritts Distinguish Themselves by Fine Work—Conty Gets Three Safeties and a Double.

In another one of those fast snappy games, the Plainfield Y. M. C. A. team went down to defeat at the hands of the Junior baseball team of Raritan at that village by the river, Saturday afternoon. The score was 4-1, but the game was a thriller nevertheless for the Raritan boys made their runs on errors and, in a bunch, and the local players scored their tally in the second inning, thus making it an up hill fight for the home team.

Frederickson, in the box for the association team, pitched a classy article of ball but fate was against him. The Raritans could only muster six scattered hits from his delivery but errors helped to swell their score. The Plainfield team was minus the services of the Adams boys and this helped materially in the defeat. Fritts went on first base in place of Ben Adams and he held down the bag like a vet., crediting himself with twelve putouts.

Plainfield started the scoring in the second inning. Fritts led off with a single to right; then stole second and reached third on an error by Porter. Coyle fouled out to Schoeller and Frederickson poked. Then Carlton Smith, the old North Plainfield High School hero, sent a screeching single into deep center and Fritts brought home the bacon.

In the fourth round the Raritan boys got busy and scored thrice. Conty started the ball a rolling with a hard slam into left field for two bases. Purcell then sacrificed him to third and Hickey fanned the air. Conty came home when Smith banged out a clean single past shortstop. Kelly then got to first when Taylor threw ten feet over Fritts' head in an effort to catch him. In so doing Smith crossed the rubber. Then Carlton Smith went to return the strayed ball to the home plate and heaved it far above Hand's reach, thus allowing Kelley to make a home run.

The fourth run for the Juniors came in the eighth, when Schoeller singled, went to second on Ammerman's sacrifice, advanced to third on Conty's single, and scored on Hand's error.

The error column shows that the Plainfield boys were slightly off form but their line-up was badly patched up. The Raritan team showed itself to be a clean bunch of sports and the work of Umpire John Galvin was unusual in its fairness. Conty, the second baseman for the Juniors, was the whole show. He touched up Frederickson's delivery for three safeties, one of which was a double swat. Peacock led at the bat for the association nine but did not have a chance to show his ability in the field.

This defeat was the first one which the Y. M. C. A. team has suffered in eight games. The association team has the Newark Y. M. C. A. for its opponents on the Oval next Saturday.

BOUND BROOK GAME ENDS IN A DISPUTE.

What might have been a very exciting game between the Bound Brook and McNulty Brothers baseball teams at Bound Brook, Saturday afternoon, ended in a dispute in the seventh inning with the score 6-6. The McNulty team withdrew from the field and refused to continue the game.

In the seventh round, Umpire Dally called Reeves and Donnelly both out at third whereupon Seaman called Dally a vile name, which the latter resented. The two came to blows but were quickly separated. The McNulty team then withdrew from the grounds.

EX-COLLEGIANS DEFEAT PLAINFIELD TEAM, 9-3

The Plainfield Baseball team went down to defeat at the hands of the Ex-Collegians at Asbury Park Saturday afternoon and were smothered to the depth of 9-3. It was a case of heavy hitting that turned the tables for the Plainfield lads played a snappy game in the field.

Warry McLaughlin was pounded for thirteen safeties, which were bunched at opportune times. Creede held the local team safe throughout, although the three runs made by the Plainfield boys were all earned.

It looked at the start as though the local team would bring home a victory, for it opened up the first round with two tallies. Brit Martin shoved out a single and was advanced to second on Boyd's safe bunt. Emery wasn't there in the pinch and fanned, but Jack Martin banged out a clean safety to left, scoring Brit and Boyd.

In the sixth, Plainfield came across with another tally. Emery reached first on an error by Hayes and made second on a passed ball. Jack Martin poked but Nelson slammed a screecher to right, bringing Emery home.

DUNELLEN SHUTS OUT SCOTCH PLAINS, 4-0

Dunellen took a big brace Saturday afternoon and shut out Scotch Plains, their old time rivals, by the score of 4-0. It was an exciting game throughout for Dunellen had only scored one tally up to the eighth inning, when the borough boys got after Miller for three runs.

In the eighth round, Miller singled, Montross got a pass, Piddington singled; and an error on top of Seery's two-base swat finished up the carnival, which resulted in three runs.

Montross pitched a great game allowing only two hits. Miller also worked well on the mound but was given poor support. Nonemaker made two brilliant running catches of flies and Seery caught his usual classy game behind the bat. "Red" Alberts was the whole show on third base, with Harry Giddes dividing the honors at shortstop.

"EDDIE" M'NEE WINS HIS THIRD CONTEST

Edward McNee, starting from scratch, won the regular Sunday morning five-mile race of the Plainfield Cycling Club on the Mountain avenue course yesterday. Scarcely a tire's width behind McNee came Jack Todd and following closely on his heels was George Simon. William Drake, with a half-minute handicap, finished first but was disqualified for taking pace from a motorcycle and cutting in at the turn.

The first three men to finish from scratch and their times were caught at 14 min.; 14 min., 1-5 seconds; 14 min., 3-5 seconds, respectively. The race was anybody's affair up to the finish. First one of the three led and then another. In the last hundred yards, the three leaders started on a lively sprint for the tape. McNee finished a hair's breadth in the lead. Drake's time was 14 min., 8 sect., and would have won if he had not been disqualified.

Yesterday's results put McNee far in the lead for the championship as he has won three races and the time prize in addition yesterday.

Next Sunday's race has been postponed until the following week in order to allow several of the club members to go to Baltimore, to enter in a twelve-mile handicap at that place. The summaries of yesterday's race are as follows: First, Edward McNee, scratch, 14 min.; second Jack Todd, 14 min., 1-5 seconds; third, George Simon; fourth, Harry Brokaw; fifth, Thomas Kelley; sixth, Russel Andrews.

MISS LOIZEAUX RETURNS BEST SCORE AT P.G.C.

Miss Lydie Loizeaux, the only woman golfer who enters the men's competitions at the Park Golf Club, returned the best net score in Saturday's competition for the President's and golf club trophies. She made a 77 with a handicap of 23, which is much better than is often done by the men. Besides taking the first three points for the President's cup, she also won one point for the scratch trophy. The best scores:

Miss Lydie Loizeaux, 100, 23-77; Dr. H. K. Carroll, 97, 16-81; W. V. Byard, 102, 21-81; A. N. Merrill, 111, 30-81.

H. D. HIBBARD WINS MEDAL PLAY HANDICAP

An 18-hole medal play handicap for Classes A and B, was the chief event at the Plainfield Country Club, Saturday. Although many did not return their scores, there was a good field out, the day being ideal for the game. The course and greens are in especially good conditions by reason of the recent rains, and low scores were the rule of the day. Henry D. Hibbard posted the lowest net score for the day, a 72, while E. P. Goodwin finished second with a 74. The leading scores follow:

Henry D. Hibbard, 81, 9-27; E. P. Goodwin, 89, 15-74; H. T. Eaton, 91, 15-76; P. C. Langdon, 87, 10-77.

FUNERAL OF LAURANCE BRAY HELD THIS MORNING.

The funeral of Laurance Bray was held from his late home on Plainfield avenue at 8.30 this morning. At 9 o'clock a solemn requiem mass for the repose of his soul was offered in St. Mary's church, by the Rev. Fathers Hogan, Boone and Scniola.

Interment was made in St. Mary's cemetery this morning. The pall bearers were: Robert Skinner, Thomas Fitzgerald, William Flatley, Dennis O'Keefe, Thomas McCormick and Peter McCluskey.

Taken to State Hospital.

Grafton Norris, for some time an inmate at the poor farm, was committed to the State Hospital at Morris Plains today, after an examination as to his sanity made at police headquarters this morning. On Saturday Norris attempted to burn down the poor house at West Front street and Rock avenue by setting fire to his bedclothing. It was believed that this act was that of an insane person, and the examination by City Physician C. F. Lufburrow and Dr. Pittis confirmed the belief. He will be removed today to Morris Plains.

Ice Cream for Children.

The children at the Netherwood Fresh Air Camp were treated to ice cream yesterday by W. W. Warnock, of East Front street. Four hundred youngsters enjoyed the feast.

MOOSE PARADE IN RAIN

Six Hundred Members Representing Six Cities Join in Celebration.

ANDREW McCARDELL AT HEAD.

Joseph Harrigan, F. J. Blatz, John Green and William Addis Among Officers of New Lodge.

The Moose is a hardy animal, as witness the parade of last night in the rain. More than six hundred men of the order braved the downpour and marched over the entire route announced in yesterday's Daily Press. The paraders were headed by the Citizens' Band of Somerville and with Joseph Harrigan at the head of the column presented a real martial aspect as they formed columns of fours and marched out toward Grant avenue, followed by several carriages and automobiles containing out-of-town vistors and officers. Andrew McCardell in his Mitchell car headed the procession of vehicles.

Much red fire was burned by the enthusiastic crowd, all of whom carried little canes decorated with a triangular flag bearing the insignia of the order. Hundreds of the little flags were distributed along the line of march. A whistling chorus executed by the Moose from other cities was a feature of the music.

The parade formed in front of Henry Windham's hotel on Front street, where another band discoursed music from a wagon illuminated with huge oil torches. This concert lasted from 6:45 until the marchers had returned on their way to Saengerbund Hall in the borough. At the hall, after the installation, Past Dictator Andrew McCardell, Joseph Harrigan and others made speeches, after which the members repaired to the banquet hall, where they enjoyed themselves until after midnight.

The mayors of several cities who had been expected to take part in the parade with their automobiles were detained by the weather, as were several other delegations. At the business session last night fifteen members were added to the local lodge from Amboy. This group is to form the nucleus of a new lodge to be established there in the near future. Nearly one hundred others were obligated last night, bringing the total up to about three hundred in Plainfield No. 310.

Among those initiated last night were three vaudevillians from Proctor's theatre, who took this opportunity of joining so as to be acceptable at lodges in the West where the Moose flourishes.

The first lodge of Moose was established at Camden about two years ago, and during that time the lodge in that city has bought and paid for its own home, having a building costing $125,000. At Trenton the Moose have their own home, which was dedicated about six weeks ago, and it is said to be one of the finest fraternal halls in the country. Plainfield lodge will eventually have its own home and to this end the members will work with all possible vigor.

The officers of the new lodge are: Past Dictator, Andrew McCardell; dictator, Joseph Harrigan; vice-dictator, Francis J. Blatz; prelate, John Green; sergeant-at-arms, William Addis; trustees, C. W. Fogarty, Chas. Kling and H. P. Greenwood. To the above officers and John Vardon, chairman of the celebration committee, is due the splendid success of the inauguration of the new order in this city.

During the parade last night some one threw a stone through the glass windshield of Arthur Giles' automobile. Another case of stone-throwing during the festivities was accounted for in the police court this morning. Edward Hamilton, of North avenue, is accused of having stoned Charles Pugalucia, an Italian. This case will come up before Judge Runyon tomorrow morning.

To Hold Lawn Fete Tomorrow.

A lawn fete will be held at the home of the Misses Ruschke, 431 West Sixth street by the Young Ladies' Aid Society for the benefit of St. Peter's Lutheran church. Ice cream, home-made cake, coffee and fancy articles on sale. Everybody welcome. In case of rain, will be held on Friday.

Clerk-Carrier Examination.

A clerk-carrier civil service examination will be held at the local postoffice in November and all applications must be filed with William B. Sharp, at the office, prior to the hour of closing business on October 1. Further particulars can be obtained from Mr. Sharp.

MEISEL'S CANDIDACY MEETS WITH FAVOR

Although the Union County Republican Committee does not formally endorse any candidate, at a meeting of the committe in Elizabeth, last night, the candidacy of Freeholder Peter Meisel as successor to Assemblyman Carlton B. Pierce, seemed to meet with considerable favor. It now looks as though Mr. Meisel will be the choice of the party for the nomination and, according to his many friends in the county, if nominated he will be elected.

There was little business of importance transacted at the meeting. An incomplete report from the outing committee was received, showing that the affair was a success. All the returns have not yet been made. County Chairman Frank H. Smith presided at the meeting and all of the other Plainfield members were present. Some time was devoted to a discussion of the situation in the county and all seemed optimistic as to the result.

James White made an informal report on the Dollar Dinner to be held at Elizabeth on October 6, stating that plans for the affair are progressing favorably. The dinner this year promises to be the biggest one in the history of the party.

DEMOCRATS MAY BOOM TUTTLE FOR CONGRESS

William Tuttle, of Westfield, chairman of the Union County Democratic committee, will likely be boomed for the Congressional nomination on the annual outing of the Union County Democrats tomorrow. He has constantly been mentioned in connection with the nomination, and it now seems as though he will be the choice of his party. The Democrats will spend the day at Witzel's Point Grove, on Long Island, the trip being made by boat from Elizabethport.

Of course, James E. Martine will be aboard and his latest announcement that he is again willing to be a candidate for his party, will no doubt arouse considerable interest among those who will join the outing. The "Farmer Orator" is enthusiastic over the prospects of success for his party this fall, and is just as optimistic as ever. Yesterday a large delegation of Democrats from South Jersey called on Mr. Martine at his home, and gave him much encouragement, and in addition he has received letters from friends all over the State urging him to make a fight for Senatorial honors.

Some of the big Democrats of the State, including James Smith are expected to take in the outing tomorrow, and there is every indication that it will be as large an affair as the one held by the Republicans on Saturday. There will be plenty of good things to eat and drink on the boat and dinner will be served in the grove.

The exhibit of the Larkin Co. products now being given at 160 East Front street is drawing hundreds of interested visitors. This company claims to give the middleman's profits to its customers in the way of premiums, ranging all the way from a needle to a parlor outfit.

In the store which has been rented for the purpose the company has on exhibition the completely furnished house, including everything from the kitchen to the reception hall. These articles of furniture are the premiums given to purchasers of the product of the company and embrace every essential for housekeeping.

A reception will take place tonight, at which the local secretaries of the company are the especially invited guests. There are one hundred Larkin clubs in this city, embracing a thousand people. Souvenirs are given to adult visitors.

Tea Room at Truell Hall.

A tea room has been opened at Truell Hall and it is a feature which is appreciated by the guests and the other residents in that section. The room is pleasantly situated, overlooking the tennis court; its decorations are of the Oriental character and the effect is wholly conducive to the serving and drinking of tea. Visitors are always welcome.

SENATOR KEAN FOR PARTY VICTORY

Senator Kean has made public the letter he wrote ex-Governor Franklin Murphy in reply to the latter's proposal that the people of the State be allowed to indicate at the primaries their choice of a Republican candidate for United States Senator. The attitude of the Senator, as already forecasted in The Daily Press is that he is unwilling to jeopardize the chances of Republican success this fall by being a factor in factional dissensions. For that reason he frowns upon Mr. Murphy's suggestion.

In his opening letter the Senator says that if either he or David Baird were to adopt the course suggested it would indicate that the action had been forced by Mr. Murphy.

Maintaining that party interest must be subserved, Senator Kean declares that further dissensions within the party would result disastrously for the Republicans. He says he would be willing to submit to the question of the election of a Senator to the primary if the Democrats would do the same.

The letter points out that the Republican party in the State appears to be full of dissension and that the Democrats have no serious primary fights on hand. He thinks the Republican Governor is in doubt and asserts that primary contests in the past have been disastrous to the Republicans, instancing the Colby case.

In closing he says: "It seems to me that it is wiser for us to all unite in electing a Republican Governor and Legislature rather than to spend our time and energies in advancing our personal ambition towards an election to the United States Senatorship."

MISSED AN EGG OMLET; GARNISHED WITH KICKS

Becoming frightened at an Arlington avenue trolley car which was passing, a horse belonging to George G. Forgerson, of Summit avenue, a dealer in butter and eggs, dashed into a tree on Union street this morning, completely demolishing the wagon to which he was hitched. Mr. Forgerson had left the horse standing at the curb while he delivered some goods at a house. The horse immediately became frightened at the trolley car and started to kick the dashboard and then wrecked the wagon completely.

Butter and eggs flew in every direction before Mr. Forgerson could quiet the frightened steed. After the eggs had finished flying they rolled down the street, with the butter balls after them. Except for a demolished wagon, no serious damage was done.

MRS. PERCIVAL SEEKS SEPARATION FOR CRUELTY.

Judge Hendrick, of New York, on Saturday, ordered Lewis A. D. Percival, president of the Amalgamated Paint Company, with an office at 42 Broadway, New York, to be served by publication with a summons in a suit brought by his wife, Mrs. Ethel M. Percival, for separation.

Mrs. Percival asserts that on July 4, while riding in their automobile between Spring Lake and Belmar, Mr. Percival assaulted her by striking her with his clenched fist. She also avers that on other occasions he had flourished a revolver and threatened to shoot her unless she left him.

Mrs. Percival is well known in Plainfield among the lovers of horses and has been an exhibitor at the shows of the local Horse Show Association. She has a fine stable of thoroughbreds and has carried off many blue ribbons here, and at the national and other exhibits.

Mrs. Percival is the daughter of Mrs. May A. Hendee, of Claremont, N. H., and the late Judge Hendee, of New York.

Last Excursion to the Shore.

Don't forget that Warren chapel excursion to Asbury Park on Thursday will be the last one from here to the shore this season. Reports from the Park indicate that some wonderful things are being accomplished by the bird men and those who go there Thursday will have an opportunity to see these airships.

THINKS OF CHILDREN, TOO

Mayor Gaynor, While Not Out of Danger, Thinks of Little Sufferers Nearby.

REASON FOR NOT OPERATING.

Possible Secondary Hemorrhage Feared by Surgeons—Operation Deferred Until Strength is Recovered.

One of the most interesting problems ever faced by the surgeons who are in attendance upon Mayor William J. Gaynor has come to the surface in the recent developments of the Mayor's case. It has been the opinion all along of these skilled men that the bullet which lodged in the fleshy part of the throat of their patient would not under any circumstances produce an attack of tetanus, lockjaw. However, yesterday afternoon it was discovered that unless precautions were taken against this disease the result might be fatal to the patient.

Another thing to be evaded was what is termed "secondary hemorrhage". A secondary hemorrhage is bleeding twenty-four or more hours after a wound has been inflicted. In Mayor Gaynor's case it would mean that the bullet had so abraded the wall of some artery that the pulsing blood had broken through. Such a hemorrhage must be checked within a couple of minutes if death is to be averted.

All these tokens from the point of view of the surgeon, make it plain that danger has not been eliminated from the shooting of last Tuesday morning at Hoboken. And besides this it engenders grave apprehension among the friends of the Mayor.

Every contingency conceivable to the alert surgical mind has been provided in the disastrous attempt upon Mayor Gaynor. Just as much effort, both professional and sympathetic, as that influenced on the fatal shooting of President McKinley, have been adopted, and even though present indications seem to favor Mr. Gaynor, there is the latent possibility of a fatal later development.

That is the reason why there is always at least one able-bodied physician on duty with the Mayor night and day. If a secondary hemorrhage were to come the physician in the room would have to stanch the flow of blood with his finger until ligatures could be applied.

Reports given out this afternoon would make it seem that there is no immediate danger of the apprehended hemorrhage. At 2 o'clock this afternoon it was announced that although the cough which had been irritating the patient during the night had partially subsided, there was still grave danger of the secondary hemorrhage.

It is believed that this secondary hemorrhage was all that the surgeons had in mind when speaking of an operation last Friday. They are not concerning themselves so much now to the prevention of lockjaw as to building up the strength of their distinguished patient.

It is said that Mayor Gaynor occupied his thoughts with the children of the hospital yesterday, and sent his wife and friends out to buy toys for the sick children of the institution.

PATROLMAN'S BENEFIT ASSN. TO CONVENE SEPTEMBER 8.

An important meeting of the members of the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association is scheduled at Elizabeth for this afternoon. It is expected that booms will be launched for some of the patrolmen for official positions in preparation for the general convention which is to be held at Atlantic City on September 8.

Two special trains have been chartered from the Pennsylvania Railroad Company to convey the bluecoats to their rendezvous. Chief Kiely, of this city, has been invited to attend the convention and has signified his invitation of being present.

THE WEATHER.

Showers this afternoon; unsettled weather tonight and Wednesday; light northeast winds becoming variable.

POSTMASTER BIRD OPENS SUB-STATION, NO. 3

Postoffice sub-station No. 3 was officially opened this morning. The new branch office is located in the confectionery and ice cream store owned by Elmer R. Mills at Clinton avenue and West Front street.

The office is designated to sell postage stamps, postal cards, domestic money orders and to register letters. In fact the new station handles everything that the home office does except foreign money orders and the distribution of mails. All mail is given out and distributed directly from the main office.

Mr. Mills opened the office with a goodly supply of stamps and other useful postal material and is ready to do a big business.

This branch office will be a great convenience to the residents of the West End. Formerly the people living near Clinton avenue were compelled to travel over two miles to purchase a one-cent stamp. Now stamps can be secured within a short distance and mailed in the office, from which regular collections are to be made.

Plainfield's postal system is now developing rapidly in size, two substations having been opened during this year. Beside, increasing the efficiency at the main office, Postmaster Elias Bird is being complimented upon having opened three sub-stations, one at Deble and Stahl's store on Somerset street, one at J. C. Field, Jr.'s store on Park avenue, and the last one at E. R. Mills' store at Clinton avenue, for the convenience of the citizens of the city and borough.

LEVY BROS. SIGN LONG LEASE FOR FACTORY

Charles H. Hand announced today that he had signed a ten years' lease with Nathan Levy & Co., manufacturers of women's underwear, for his building on Watchung avenue, which has been occupied by the concern for the past eleven years. The lease has an additional clause which calls for extensive improvements, which are now well under way.

These improvements will make the factory almost double its present size and capacity. By the addition of an entirely new floor, with dimensions of 160 feet long by 35 feet wide the company will make room for fifty more sewing machines and positions for more than eighty girls.

The new lease goes into effect May 1st, 1911, and extends until May 1st, 1921. Mr. Hand said this morning, when interviewed by a Daily Press reporter, that the terms of the lease are considerably in advance of the old figures. Thus the increase in the value of the property, especially of manufacturing sites, in this city within the past few years is clearly shown.

The repairs which are being made upon the property consist in a new second floor above the present floor of the factory; a brick wall between the factory and the living apartments; a new steel ceiling in the main building; a new steam heating plant, and two wall hydrants for better fire protection.

The building in which the factory is located, is well known to Plainfielders as the old skating rink. It was built in or about the year 1880 by John Evans, who sold it to Frank H. Barnaby, of New York city. Mr. Barnaby conducted a skating rink and amusement hall there for several years and then sold the building to Charles Hand. Mr. Hand continued to use the place as a skating rink for seven years and then he remodeled the place and leased it as a skirt factory. The building has been used in this capacity for the past fourteen years being occupied by several different firms.

At the present time there are over 180 Plainfield girls employed in the factory, whose business extends over the whole United States. There will be room for a large force of girls, but the officers of the company fear that they will be unable to get them as such help is scarce in this city. When the new alterations are completed, it is expected that the total output of he facory will be increased by nearly 40 per cent. The repairs will be finished before the first of next year.

Saw the Passion Play.

John J. Kenney received a postal card today from his brother, David T. Kenney, who with his family is abroad, in which he says that he witnessed the Passion Play at Oberammergau, on August 3, describing it as being wonderful. Mr. Kenney says that all are well and having a fine trip.

CAN CAMDEN CORRALL LOCAL ELKS' TEAM?

The line-up of the Elks' team for the game on Thursday at Camden has been posted and it behooves the Camdenites to keep a wary eye on the Plainfield ball tossers. Warry McLaughlin will have Torpey, of Somerville to back him up behind the bat and with Smith at center Van Arsdale at short. Captain Hoyt at second and McNaughton on first, there will be some doings.

Either Craig or "Doc" Cadmus is slated to cover the third station and either will be there with the goods and the necessary fling. If Burlington has the "bug" that Plainfield is a cinch it would be better for them to take another hitch in their thinking belts and be on the lookout for a surprise.

Last evening when a few of the local boys were slamming the pellet around the Oval it was incidentally discovered that McNaughton had missed his vocation. As a premier station artist he has several of the big league artists stung. The way he whipped the ball across to third looked to the few spectators like a combination of Chance, Chase and Merkle. And there you are! The locals will be right there on Thursday and it will take a team of experts to stop them on the bases and as for swatting the ball, we'll leave that to the game.

CO. K GOES TO HIGH BRIDGE LABOR DAY

At a meeting of the members of Company K in the armory last night, it was voted to accept the invitation of the citizens of High Bridge to participate in their carnival at that place on Labor Day. The vote was almost unanimous.

The invitation to participate in this carnival is an enviable honor for the local company, as it was picked by Colonel Collins, of the Second Regiment, New Jersey National Guard, as the foremost company in the regiment. The local boys will be the only representatives of the State militia at this carnival. They will parade and give an exhibition drill with the regulation exhibiton of firing by company. The carnival at High Bridge begins on Labor Day and continues for three days.

The camp outfits used by the members of the company at Gettysburg were returned to Quartermaster Sergeant George Apgar last night. An estimate as to the loss of the company by the recent fires was made. It is approximated at over two hundred dollars to the property of the company.

MISS RAYBERT'S SINGING DELIGHTS SUMMER GUESTS.

Under the auspices of the Upsal Banjo Club, of Philadelphia, a delightful concert was given Saturday evening at the Seaside Park Yacht Club, Seaside Park, near Toms River, at which time Miss Etta Raybert, soprano soloist of Trinity Reformed church, took part in the program. There was a large attendance of guests, and the fine program was enjoyed greatly. Miss Raybert sang "Kashmiri Song", by Finden; "The Years at the Spring", by Beach, and "A Song of Thanksgiving", by Allitsen, and generously responded to encores. Her singing was a feature of the program, and she was royally received by the large number of guests.

Miss Raybert was introduced by Former Mayor Weaver, of Philadelphia, who is commodore of the Seaside Yacht Club. Mr. Weaver is spending the summer at Seaside Park, and frequently guests have an opportunity to enjoy his fine naptha launch. Among Plainfielders who spent Saturday and Sunday at Seaside Park were Mr. and Mrs. George Cornwall, who were guests of Mr Cornwall's sister, Mrs. Crowell.

Democrats to Hold Outing.

The West End Democratic Club, of this city, will hold its annual outing on Thursday, August 25. Speeches will be made by Senator Silzer, candidate for Governor, and James E. Martine. A delegation from Elizabeth is expected to attend.

PLANS FOR CONVENTION

Probable That Republican Congressional Gathering May Be Held in This City.

WILL ANNOUNCE DATE SOON.

Believed That Bringing Convention Here Will Strengthen the Candidacy of Judge Runyon—Fowler to Visit Here.

Additional interest in the approaching campaign was found today in the announcement that the Republican Congressional convention for the Fifth district will probably be held in this city soon after the primaries on September 13. County Chairman Frank H. Smith has communicated with the members of the committee, requesting them to fix the date for a convention, and it has been suggested that it be held here. This will be the first time in a great many years that such a gathering has been held in Plainfield and the possibilities of it has only served to arouse greater interest in the candidacy of Judge William N. Runyon, who is seeking the Congressional nomination in opposition to Charles N. Fowler.

Alexander Gilbert, of this city, is chairman of the Congressional committee, other members being John I. Howe, of Roselle; Harry A. Van Gilder, of Morris county and J. Walter Ingham, of Warren county. Plans to bring the convention here are looked upon by the friends and supporters of Judge Runyon as a good political move and doubtless would have a tendency to strengthen his claims for the nomination.

Judge Runyon is conducting an active campaign and leaving no stone unturned in presenting his claims to the voters throughout the Fifth district. He plans to visit Warren and Morris counties within the next week or two for the purpose of meeting the voters and the leaders. His friends are also devoting their time in the interest of his candidacy. Encouraging reports have been received from Morris county where "Uncle Dan" Voorhees is doing all in his power for the Plainfield man, and today it was learned that practically all the Republicans of Berkeley Heights who are for Judge Runyon, are doing some good missionary work in Morris. Much good work is also being accomplished in Warren county.

Congressman Fowler and his close advisers have mapped out a plan of campaign, a secret meeting being held at Elizabeth, last night, to discuss further details. It was learned that Mr. Fowler decided to spend this week in Union county, visiting every city, town and borough, and that one day would be devoted to Plainfield for the purpose of trying to strengthen his cause.

The Representative from the Fifth district is not likely to find many warm supporters in this city with such a candidate as Judge Runyon opposing him. It is the general opinion that the latter is the most popular man in the county that could have been selected to make the fight. This is shown by the constant assurance he is receiving every day from friends not only in the county, but in other parts of the district.

AN ENGLISHMAN ENTERTAINS CROWD WITH FOOLISH ANTICS.

John Dunn, who said he was an Englishman and employed as a laborer in Fanwood, was arrested on Somerset street, yesterday, by Acting-Chief Marshal Keller, on the charge of drunkenness. Dunn had partaken of enough fire-water to make him happy and his foolish antics amused a large crowd of bystanders. When placed in a cell in the borough jail, he tried to chew up a roll of bills, which he had in his possession, but the extravagance was quickly stopped by Marshal Keller.

When arraigned before Recorder Dolliver this morning, Dunn was in a different frame of mind and sentence was suspended.

Paul Kleber Injured.

While turning into Somerset street from Front, yesterday afternoon at 5.30, Paul Kleber, an ash carter living at Watchung, was thrown from his wagon in a collision with a trolley car. Kleber was injured on the arm. He was able to lead his horse away, but the wagon remains at the scene of the collision. It is alleged by Kleber that the motorman of the trolley car was to blame for the accident, but this could not be verified.

Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Townley and son, of Watchung avenue, are spending a week at Ocean Grove.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

John Marron, of the borough, was arrested by Patrolman Chas. Flynn, Saturday night in Plainfield for alleged rowdyism on a main line trolley car. Marron and a companion boarded the trolley, which is due in Plainfield at 9.45, at Elizabeth in an intoxicated condition and refused to pay their fares. Then the two began to fight at Scotch Plains. Word was sent ahead to Plainfield by the crew of the car and Flynn put Marron under arrest when the car reached that city. The other man had jumped from the car before that city was reached. In the Plainfield court yesterday morning, Judge Runyon gave Marron twenty dollars or twenty days. Marron took the days.

In a hotly contested battle on the diamond, the New Market team defeated the South Plainfield nine Saturday afternoon by the score of 15-12. The New Market sluggers drove three of the South Plainfield pitchers off the mound and then were ready for more gravy. The teams lined up as follows: New Market—Barone, c.; McFadden, p.; Nelson, 1b.; J. Penrose, 2b.; W. Penrose, 3b.; Croner, ss.; Vogt, cf.; Ritter, rf.; Johnson, lf. South Plainfield—Smith, c. and p.; Sofield, p. and 3b.; P. McDonald, ss.; A. McDonough, 1b.; Randolph, cf.; J. McDonough, rf.; Hannon, lf.

Marbles is the popular game among the younger set of boys in the borough nowadays. A group of young lads (with several older ones too) may be seen near Voorhees' butcher shop rolling the little pellets and disturbing the neighbors. One good housewife in that vicinity does not enjoy the fun as much as the boys do and so the marble players receive a pailful of water down their backs every little while.

The committee of the Borough Board of Trade is hard at work getting pictures for the new booklet, which has been planned to advertise the borough. A photographer is at present making the rounds of Dunellen, taking pictures of those houses, whose owners wish to have them shown in the booklet. Former Mayor Harry J. Swackhamer is chairman of the committee and is in charge of all inquiries.

It was well worth the price of admission to watch Smiling Jimmie Montross shoving them over the pan for the Dunellen boys in Saturday's game. He had those Scotch Plains high balls at his mercy throughout the contest and it was easy money for the local team.

Frank T. Farrell has purchased the lot on Front street, which was owned by Michael A. Gallagher. Mr. Farrell intends to build on his new piece of property.

The local ball team certainly had their gloved mitts on for keeps in Saturday's game. The nine members of the team worked together like a clock.

Rev. George H. Gardner, of New Market, is enjoying his annual vacation in New England. He will spend his time in Connecticut and Boston.

Benjamin A. Cole, Jr., of Washington avenue, is planning a trip to Asbury Park. He will start for the shore in a short time.

Rev. J. A. Cubberly occupied the pulpit of the New Market Baptist Church Sunday morning.

Edgar Starker is enjoying a vacation in Asbury Park.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Fanwood B. and E. Co., has nearly doubled its membership within a year past. The enrollment now being close to the half hundred mark. The boys are interested in the company and new life which was enthused in the organization by Chief Meyer has had the effect of livening things up, with the result that the membership has grown at a most encouraging rate.

An ice cream festival for the benefit of All Saints Episcopal church will be held in the Fanwood fire house, Saturday night at 8 o'clock. Besides refreshments there will be an interesting program of music and recitations, after which dancing will be enjoyed.

Two well-known citizens had a heated argument and running match on Park avenue yesterday afternoon. The only loss was a little blood and a "growler."

It is expected that the public schools will reopen for the fall term on Tuesday, September 13. There will be several changes in the corps of teachers.

Mr. and Mrs. Gene Paff are spending a week or two with Mrs. Paff's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Augustus D. Osborn, at Glen Gardner.

LAKE HOPATCONG TO MORRISTOWN, BY TROLLEY.

In a few days, possibly by the end of this week, the trolley service from Lake Hopatcong to Mt. Tabor will be extended to Morris Plains, and it will then be possible to travel from Morristown all the way to the lake by trolley. There still remains the long stretch through Summit to Morristown to complete the connection to Newark and New York, and while the road may soon move up from Summit to Chatham's upper boundary, it may be a long time before the final links in the chain are forged.

In the meantime the Morristown to Hopatcong service is bound to become popular, during the milder six months of the year at least, and summer sojourners in all that region are now taking advantage of it to more thoroughly enjoy and appreciate the whole beautiful region which the line already in operation throws open.

CHEATED UNDERTAKER.

Pronounced dead by hospital physicians when they could detect no signs of breathing or heart beats, even with the aid of instruments, David Campbell, forty-six years old, of Millville, gave the doctors the scare of their lives at Atlantic City on Sunday. He stirred restlessly, opened his eyes and then drifted back into a coma just as an undertaker's wagon backed up to the door. The physicians made haste to use heroic measures and finally succeeded in bringing back normal respiration. They are now hopeful of his ultimate recovery.

Campbell was found unconscious on the Albany avenue bridge Sunday morning by Sergeant Charles Holmes. He was bleeding from a gash in his scalp caused by a fall to the bridge planks.

The Misses Bonwell, of Madison avenue, are registered at the Montauk, Asbury Park.

With a platform that provides, among other things, for a primary vote without the need of a declaration of party affiliations on the part of the voter, Archie Steengrafe, Jr., of South Plainfield, has declared himself a candidate for a place in the Republican Assembly. His declaration of principles is as follows:

"Actuated only by a desire for the public good and by the earnest solicitation of my friends, I have consented to offer my name as a candidate for the Assembly. Should I be elected I shall propose an amendment to the laws governing the primaries which will include the elimination of the extra box, so that all men may vote without a public declaration of their action, for I believe in the secrecy of the ballot. I shall also propose the extinction of those useless commissions which have no power to act only to draw their salaries, for I believe that elected or appointed officials should carry the responsibilities, and I see no reason for expensive commissions which are not empowered to act.

"I am opposed to the multiplicity of laws on the statute books. I would wish to see sixty-six per cent. of them wiped off and the balance so published that they can be understood by every man who has received a common school education.

"I also hold that the United States Senator should be the man of your own choice, and whoever he shall be I shall stand back of him in every endeavor to promote your best interests. I fully realize that the Republican party must in the future as in the past live up to and uphold modern methods and conform to advanced ideas of today."

GREAT ELECTRICAL SIGN AT K. T. CONCLAVE.

A feature of the thirty-first triennial conclave of the Knights Templar in Chicago was the use of the largest electrical spectacular sign in the world. The sign was 133 feet high, 66 feet wide, weighed 19 tons, with 20,000 feet of wire and 5,000 feet of steel cable in the construction. The lamps which were used were made with the Tungsten filament.

Henry Liefke and Judge John Uhlrich were the Plainfield representatives at the conclave. Mr. Liefke has returned to this city, but Judge Uhlrich still remains in Chicago.

An Outdoor Necessity.

"An inventor! What has he ever invented?"

"Don't be too fast. The man has got a mighty good thing. It's a portable safety kiosk with four wheels and a heavy wire glass roof."

"What's it for?"

"Why, it's for the use of innocent bystanders who prefer to take no chances when the aeroplanes begin to tumble."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

QUEEN AND SUFFRAGETTES.

Just now, when the question of woman suffrage is uppermost, it is interesting to recall the attitude of the late Queen Victoria toward the subject forty years ago. Her majesty although herself a conspicuous illustration of the capacity of women to engage in public affairs, was emphatically not in favor of what used to be generally termed in those days "Women's Rights." It was in 1870 that the appearance of a certain aristocratic young matron, who had then made her first platform political appearance, drew forth the following remarkable protest from the first lady in the land:

"The queen is most anxious to enlist everyone who can speak or write to join in checking this mad, wicked folly of 'woman's rights,' with all its attendant horrors, on which her poor feeble sex is bent, forgetting every sense of womanly feeling and propriety. Lady —— ought to get a good whipping. It is a subject that makes the queen so furious that she cannot contain herself." Truly we have travelled far since those far-off days.

JEWELED LACES.

The very newest thing in jewelry is the reproduction of old and priceless laces in tiny pearls and diamonds mounted upon gunmetal, platinum or diamond net. The exact pattern of the lace is copied, and the whole is formed into a jabot or a lace fall for the collar. Sometimes there is a bow above, composed of some colored stones—emeralds or amethysts or rubies—set in solid.

This new and wonderful work has revolutionized the art of the jeweler, since the workmanship has become quite as valuable as the stones themselves. These laces of jewels are, of course, ruinously expensive, but they are such marvels of beauty that a woman might well dispense with all other ornament for the sake of possessing one of them.

Cured.

"I want to get a ham, but I understood my neighbor to say she got one from you and there was something the matter with it," said the customer.

"Well, there was something wrong with the last lot of hams we had, but these have all been cured."—Yonkers Statesman.

BASEBALL.

Only a corporal's guard of Elks attended the practice at Crescent Oval, yesterday afternoon, but those who braved the dampness had a good hour's practice of the kind needed for fielding the ball. The game scheduled for Thursday at Camden promises to be a hard fought battle and it is not believed that Burlington will have a walkover by any means. Warry McLaughlin will be on the mound again and one of the best Elk catchers will be on the receiving end. MacNaughton will probably cover first and the other changes in the team promise victory. A big bunch of rooters is expected to accompany the local team.

SMALL CHANCE OF CHANGE IN CONVENTION DATE.

Charles H. Gallagher, member of the Democratic State committee from Mercer county, and chairman of the sub-committee on fixing a date for the Democratic State convention, states that there is little likelihood of having the convention held at a later date than September 15, as requested by the Union County Democratic committee. Mr. Gallagher says that the only dates open for holding the convention in the opera house in Trenton are September 15, 19 and 21. September 21 has been eliminated from considering on account of its following the day of holding the Republican convention. The 19th comes on Monday and Mr. Gallagher says that it would be inexpedient to arrange for a convention of so much importance as this year's assemblage promises to be on account of the Gubernatorial contest, so that the "night-before" crowd of politicians would gather there on a Sunday night.

"As things now stand I don't see how we can hold the convention on any other date than the 15th," said Mr. Gallagher today. "Of course, I realize that this will allow only one day to intervene between the primaries and the convention, during which credentials must be prepared for about 1,200 delegates, coming from all sections of the State. This will cause the country delegates considerable hustling to qualify themselves to sit in the convention, but it canot be helped now, for at this time it will be impossible to obtain any one of the theatres in Trenton on dates other than those mentioned."

Elizabeth, Aug. 16.—A movement has been started by the Union county Democrats to have the date of the Democratic State convention changed. Because of the fact that the convention is scheduled to be held two days after the primaries, the delegates claim that they will not have enough time to get ready their credentials. The committee decided to put the question of change in the date up to James Nugent, of Newark, chairman of the State committee.

MEET IN A NON-UNION HOTEL.

The discovery yesterday by delegates to the thirty-second annual convention of the New Jersey State Federation of Labor, that the Executive Committee had arranged headquarters in a non-union hotel in Newark, threatened for a time almost to break up the convention in a row. Members of the Waiters' and Bartenders' Unions who attended were the first to find that the headquarters were in a non-union hostelry and they nearly had fits.

Nothing much was done all day yesterday by officers of the federation but explain how they had been led into making the mistake and arranging for the transfer of headquarters to a union house.

Cornelius Ford, chairman of the committee, finally got a chance to make a speech, and then he said that the affairs of the organization were more flourishing than ever before in its history.

Horse Stolen on River Road.

The New Brunswick police have reported the theft of a horse and wagon taken from a stable at River Road near that city. The horse is the property of J. V. D. Mettler and is a sorrel, fifteen hands high. Two of the hind feet of the animal are white and he has a white forehead. The wagon is one of the top variety and it is claimed by Mr. Mettler that it was taken by a colored man who is above the medium height and weighs about 170 pounds. The distinguishing feature of the alleged thief is a gold front tooth a la Jack Johnson.

EACH $700 MADE MILLIONS FOR THE MILLER BROTHERS.

Fifty years ago a Connecticut farmer called his four sons together at Middletown, gave them his blessing and $700 apiece, and told them to go out into the world and make their living. Sunday the four brothers gathered at Bridgeport to hold a reunion and help celebrate the golden wedding of the eldest. They are old men now, and in the hands of each the parental $700 has increased and multiplied enormously.

The brothers are Darius Miller, of New York, Charles Miller, of Waterbury, New Britain, Nathan G. Miller, of New Britain, and Frank Miller of Bridgeport, the latter being the host of Sunday's gathering.

Darius Miller is 81 years of age. With his $700 he founded a big dry goods store in New Britain, which has prospered, and he is interested in many big financial projects.

Nathan G. Miller, of New York, increased his patrimony vastly. He was the first President of the Iron Steamboat Company owned the Nickel Plate Railroad, was President of the Eagle Lock Company, and heavily interested in the Edison Electric Light Company.

The Waterbury member of the quartet likewise prospered, founding the Miller & Peck Company in Waterbury and the Randolph & Clowes Company, and is rated as one of the wealthiest men of Waterbury. In January last he turned over the Randolph & Clowes firm to the clerks in the store. He is 71 years of age.

Frank Miller, of Bridgeport, youngest of the quartet, is President of the City National Bank, of Bridgeport, President of a large lumber concern in Bridgeport, and owns vast tracts of timber in the South. He is rated as one of the wealthiest men in the eastern part of Connecticut.

Sunday's gathering marked the golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Darius Miller, and was appropriately celebrated. A group picture of the Millers was taken. The Millers are descendants of Thomas Miller, who came to Middletown, Conn., in 1650 and opened a mill there. The town offered him a bonus of $700 for doing so, but never paid it. If the descendants could collect this debt now, with the accumulated interest, they would have enormous wealth.

PENNINGTON ALUMNI TO CELEBRATE AT OCEAN GROVE.

Alumni and friends of Pennington Seminary will gather in great numbers at Ocean Grove on Monday next, August 22, for the annual celebration of Pennington Seminary Day. Two public meetings will be held in the Young People's Temple at 10 a. m., and 7:30 p. m. At these there will be addresses by the Rev. Dr. J. Morgan Read, the president of the seminary; Bishop L. B. Wilson, of the M. E. church; the Rev. Dr. Charles H. Mead, of Hoboken; the Rev. Dr. John Handley, of Long Branch; A. La Bagh, Esq., of Yonkers, and Willis Fletcher Johnson, of the New Jersey State Civil Service Commission.

There will be elaborate programs of vocal and instrumental music, including numbers by the Aida Quartette. Following the evening meeting there will be a reception at the Arlington Hotel, Ocean Grove. All alumni and friends of the seminary are urged and the general public invited to attend.

Double Wedding of Sisters.

New Brunswick, N. J., Aug. 16.—A double wedding took place last night at the home of the brides, the Misses Bessie and Edna Van de Car, the double ceremony being performed by the Rev. Paul Hayne, of the Livingston Avenue Baptist church. The brides are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Van De Car. Bessie was married to Walter D. Reed and Edna married John T. Arnold. On returning from their honeymoon the couples will live at No. 5 Alexander street, in the same house in which they were married.

Good Show at Proctor's.

"The Three of Us," are real live fun-makers at Proctor's theatre, this week. All are good comedians and they can sing some, too. Gertrude Griffin & Co., in "A Woman Hater," have a clever comedy; Elmer and De Witt, comedy jugglers, are unusually good in toe and straight dancing and balancing. Tennessee Hall, the coon shouter, is typical and her songs are catchy. For a cool place go to Proctor's.

Fred Dickerson and Murdock Hetfield, both of East Second street, have returned from a trip by tugboat to Boston.

CHARGED WITH DROWNING A TWO-YEAR-OLD CHILD.

Charged with having tossed her two-year-old child into the Passaic River near the county bridge on July 21 last, Mrs. Julia Levendusky, of 154 Second street, Passaic was locked up Saturday in the Bergen County jail, the crime, it is alleged, having been committed on the Wallington side of the river, which is in this county.

It is understood that the woman has made a confession to the police, in which she admitted her child was alive when she threw it into the water.

The arrest was made by Detective-Sergeants Turner and Crowbuck, who have been at work on the case since shortly after the child's disappearance.

Mrs. Levendusky's husband died two years ago and since then she has had a hard time trying to support her family. On July 21 the two-year-old child disappeared and neighbors questioned Mrs. Levendusky, who made evasive answers as to her offspring's whereabouts.

The neighbors notified the police, and detectives got to work. Although there is no witness to the alleged crime, the police say the woman finally admitted that, despairing of supporting her several children, she decided to get rid of one rather than have them all suffer.

The woman was arrested Saturday and taken before Judge Costello, where she confessed, it is declared. The Bergen county authorities removed her to jail yesterday.

A BELATED HONEYMOON.

After deferring their honeymoon for thirty years, Mr. and Mrs. John P. Genung, of New Providence, with their daughter Loraine, have started on their wedding trip to Watkins Glen, to which place the original trip was to have been made.

After their marriage circumstances prevented the couple going away, but Genung promised his bride that when he had time they should go on a wedding trip. All the years he has been too busy to take a vacation.

Mr. and Msr. Oliver Ulmer, of Richmond street, are the parents of a boy, born to them yesterday morning.

AS IT REALLY HAPPENED

"Tickets!"

The broad shouldered, firm jawed, resonant voiced conductor flung open the door of the parlor car of the famous express train and uttered the word almost in a tone of command.

Immediately all the passengers lolling in the chairs proceeded to get busy hunting up their tickets, so that when the conductor reached them they had their pasteboards ready.

All but one.

He fumbled in his wallet for his ticket, but it wasn't there. Then he began a hurried search of his pockets. Nothing doing. The ticket wasn't in any of his pockets.

"By ginger!" he was heard to mutter, "it seems to me that I brought those—"

Then he stood up and made a systematic search of his pockets, turning over old dog's eared letters, formal looking papers and heavy looking envelopes tied with red tape.

But he didn't find what he was looking for.

Then he clawed his Gladstone bag down from the rack above his head, tugged at the lock and finally got it open. He spent several minutes in turning the contents of the bag topsy-turvy, perspiring all the time and muttering quite petulantly as he went through the performance.

"Tickets!"

The broad shouldered, firm jawed, resonant voiced conductor was towering right over the well groomed elderly gentleman with the ruddy face and the white side whiskers.

"Say—just a minute, will you?" said the elderly gentleman, not meekly at all, to the surprise of the other passengers. "I know that I put those pesky passes somewhere, but they've got away from me for the moment—just pass on to the next car, will you, and in the meantime I'll see what in tarnation has become of them."

The conductor of course scowled, as all conductors with a proper appreciation of their position do in like circumstances. But he went to the next car and the elderly gentleman continued his fruitless search. He gave it up after ten minutes and leaned back in his chair, looking mad.

Presently the conductor returned and bore down upon the elderly gentleman with a ponderous stride.

"Your ticket, sir, if you please!" said the conductor sharply, flicking the punch ominously.

"I haven't got any ticket, blast it!" broke out the elderly gentleman. "Lost it, I reckon. But here's my card," and the elderly gentleman handed the conductor his pasteboard, which showed that he was the first vice-president of the road.

The conductor—

However, just a moment.

Right here the rule, if followed, would have the conductor remark grouchily to the elderly geneleman that, card or no card, vice-president or no vice-president, he'd have to show something entitling him to a ride on that line of cars or stand for a toss off at the next station. Then the according to rule narration would go on to tell how the elderly gentleman was filled with admiration over the conductor's strong sense of duty and how he dug up the price of his fare in good money and how, a little while later, the conductor found himself appointed a division superintendent of the line, and so on.

Nothing whatever of that kind happened, however.

"Oh, very well, sir," said the conductor, bowing and scraping profusely as he turned the vice-president's card over in his hand. "Don't mention it. The pleasure's mine. Of course you probably dropped or mislaid the pass somewhere. But it's all right. Are you comfortable, sir? Is the porter taking proper care of you? Fine day for traveling, sir."

"Uh-huh," replied the first vice-president of the line, looking out of the window.

"I'm danged glad I didn't get chesty or new with that old gazoob before I got next to who he was," murmured the conductor to himself as he passed on again to the next car.

The Wise Magazine Editor.

The magazine editor looked up.

"I want to protest, sir," said the caller, "against the way in which one of your reckless proofreaders mangled my copy. See here. The judge in the story looks down at the detective. 'Are you Pendleton King?' he asks, and the detective, removing his beard, replies 'I am!' Now just see what your proofreader made him say."

The editor glanced at the line and read it aloud.

"'The detective, removing his beard, replied 'I a. m.'"

The unhappy author groaned.

"Where does that leave the readers?" he demanded.

The editor slowly smiled.

"At 1 a. m. they are naturally left in the dark," he replied. "Take an extra chapter and get them out of it."

The author suddenly laughed.

"Happy thought," he cried. "I will."

Reason for His Objection.

"I have engaged to take a course of lessons in mind reading, dear."

"I don't think you had better spend money in that foolish fashion, dear."

"Do you think I could not learn to read your mind?"

"No, I think perhaps you could."

The Passionate Shepherd.

Come live with me, and be my love,
And we will all the pleasures prove
That valleys, groves, and hills, and fields,
Or woods or steepy mountains yields.

And we will sit upon the rocks,
Seeing the shepherds feed their flocks
By shallow rivers, to whose falls
Melodious birds sing madrigals.

And I will make thee beds of roses
And a thousand fragrant posies;
A cap of flowers, and a kirtle
Embroider'd all with leaves of myrtle.

A gown made of the finest wool
Which from our pretty lambs we pull;
Fair lined slippers for the cold,
With buckles of the purest gold;

A belt of straw and ivy-buds,
With coral clasps and amber studs;
And if these pleasures may thee move,
Come live with me and be my love.

The shepherd swains shall dance and sing
For thy delight each May-morning;
If these delights thy mind may move
Then live with me, and be my love.

—Marlowe.

How to Win.

When you see a pleasant chap,
Sort o' brisk and cheery,
Giving luck a friendly slap
'Stead o' looking dreary,
You will find beyond a doubt,
Fortune he's beguiling—
Find that he is winning out
With his cheerful smiling.

You can see with half a glance
That he has the habit;
Smiles, and when he sees a chance
He is there to grab it.
Does not sulk when things go wrong—
Rather'd be a-grinning.
Feeling sure it won't be long
Till he'll make a winning.

Bad luck causes no dismay,
Though it tries to squeeze him,
For he ducks and slips away—
Doesn't let it tease him.
Maybe that's the reason he
Smiles and looks so breezy,
When such ways as his we see

If Love Is Blind.

If Love is blind, why is it that he spies
So many wonders hid from other eyes—
Strange new delights in earth and sky and sea,
That lend the grayest day his sorcery?

If Love is deaf, why is it that he hears
Sweet harmonies unheard of other ears,
The softest whisper and the faintest breath,
And, aye, the lightest word a woman saith?

If Love is dull, why is it that he knows
The very secrets of the bird and rose,
The word that shall awake a sleeping heart,
The honeyed poison needful for each dart

If Love can neither see, nor hear, nor know
The wiser paths down which his subjects go—
If none may understand his mystery,
How is it that he holds the world in fee?

—Charlotte Becker, in New York Sun.

The Magician.

Love moves in a mysterious way
His wonders to perform,
About his steps delusions play
And marvels round him swarm.

E'en as the crafty wizard shifts
The cards this way and that,
Or unsuspected rabbits lifts
Out of a tall silk hat;

So Love doth clothe with saving grace
Each bandy legged freak,
Tone down the terrors of his face
And smooth his mottled cheek.

Oh, Providence was wondrous kind
To all poor homely chaps,
When he armed Love and made him blind
To facial mishaps;

So that although your passage through
The world may raise a grin,
There's sure to be one woman who Is always taken in.

—D. B. Van Buren, in New York Sun.

Nancy.

Not softer clouds shade evening skies
Than deepen in her shining eyes;
Nor gayer than her laugh at me
Is morning sunlight on the sea!

Like mountain air 'mid dewy grass
The musings of my little lass!—
With her my dusty thoughts regain
Greenness like leaves in tender rain.

Ah, yes, you smile! But I confess
I simply dare not love her less,
Or scorn heaven's well-inverted plan
That makes the child protect the man.

Sin, strong as boa's living snare,
Glides past, surprised to find her there.
The stealthy ills that suck my breath
Draw hers in mine, and feel it death.

But if I gravely stoop to kiss
That little mischief-loving miss,
She scampers off, with teasing spite,
And furtive glances of delight!

—Spectator.

Eternity.

HE.

When the moon is nothing but floating dust,
When the sun is shriveled and dark and cold,
When the seas have dried on the earth's gray crust,
And the last sweet story of love is told.
I shall love you still and recall the bliss
That came to me with your first glad kiss.

SHE.

When the stars fall out of the milky way,
And when day and night shall have ceased to be,
When the hair of the last comet's tail is gray,
And the last glee club has forgot its glee,
I shall probably still wait on somewhere
For you to make good with a solitaire.

—S. E. Kiser, in Chicago-Record Herald.

The Demand of Weakness.

Tell me lies, I'll doubt you!
Tell me truths, I'll hate you!
Spare me either—tell me neither,
And my love will wait you!
I am sad without you—
With you I am frightened;
Fool me partly—tell truth smartly—
Keep me half-enlightened!

Magnify my virtue,
Minimize my failings—
Sympathize with ills I prize,
Soothe my self-made ailings.
Laugh whene'er I hurt you,
Weep but when you can—
Be a human, love-wise woman—
I am but a man!

—Cleveland Leader.

CYNICAL DON'TS.

Don't mind what you borrow so long as it is not another's signature on his check, which means 20 years.

Don't tie up capital in an automobile so long as you can sponge on your friends when the speed craze strikes you.

Don't fail when you do borrow a machine to push it to its limit, then send the bill for damages to the owner and let the chauffeur go to jail.

Don't trouble over a small income so long as your friends are generously inclined; nor stint yourself so long as there are fool lenders to do.

Don't hesitate to borrow your friends' wit. It is much less exhausting than working your brain and you needn't give credit for your smart sayings.

Don't be so improvident as to return a book loan. Fine libraries can be stocked with the little knack of pasting over book plates with your own name.

Don't bother about laying in a supply of household wares when the path is well trodden to the neighbor's back door and that neighbor has not learned to say "No!"

Don't pay when you can borrow, nor pay back so long as the borrower is not strong on dunning, and you cannot overhear his comments on your nerve.

Don't think of returning the sugar, thread, cigars, milk, eggs, ice cream freezer or dress suit you found it convenient to borrow until the lender gives you a gentle jog. He may be forgetful or sensitive about favor reminders.

THE MOST TALKED OF SOVEREIGN IN THE WORLD.

Yet, amid all the clash and competition of these prodigious developments, the kaiser has not only kept but clinched, his hold upon the interest and imagination of the world. He is today, as he was twenty years ago, the most talked-of man in the universe, says Sydney Brooks, in McClure's. People differ about him, but no one is indifferent to him. No event, however dramatic and unexpected, no personality, however many-sided and compelling, has been able for more than a moment to rival the supreme and inexhaustible fascination of his character and actions. When other excitements have passed away, the abiding excitement of the derision; he has amazed it, amused it, repelled it, scandalized it, but he has never failed to interest it. A strong son of the strongest, most tenacious, most intelligent and successful ruling house that the world has ever produced, the sovereign of a State that after centuries of disunion now dominate the continent by the laboriously disciplined might, virility and mental alertness of its people, and a monarch in whose highest word and most casual deed there is apparent a tingling individuality—William II. is easily the outstanding figure of time.

FLOUNCINGS ON LINGERIE.

Embroidered flouncings are used on many of the season's lingerie gowns, an allover embroidery for waist, bandings, and galoons for trimmings showing the same designs.

Most of the embroideries used are of Swiss manufacture, the hand loom work, which is hardly to be told from genuine hand work, being particularly effective.

The hand embroidered bands which are a feature of the smart heavy linen gowns are very handsome, the heavy padding making the bold designs employed stand out most effectively.

Embroidered batistes in white and ecru and white ruffings with colored embroidered edges as well. Matched sets in ecru find much favor with modish dressers.

NEW AUTOMATIC GUN

THE SECRET SOUGHT BY TRUST.

Practical Demonstration Given at Stapleton, S. I., on Friday—Government Officers Excited.

Apparently without an explosive of any kind and from a device, the size of which would hardly permit storage of compressed air in quantities of any use, Frederic Bangerter, a Swiss inventor, gave a remarkable demonstration of mechanical law as applied to the use of the machine gun Friday afternoon. The exhibition took place in the factory of the Auto Machine Gun Company at [illegible] Broad street, Stapleton, Staten Island.

Discharging round bullets at the rate of more than 16,000 a minute and at a distance of about seventy feet, the little secret contrivance without any more noise than was made by the electric motors used to operate it, drove the steel pellets through three layers of pine board, each half an inch thick. Incidentally, numerous possibilities with reference to future warfare were shown.

Hidden under a piece of table oilcloth and mounted in a crude manner, the gun which the inventor claims will do the work of 30,000 men was placed in a small room at one end of the factory. At the other end were the pine board targets, each layer being separated by about four inches of space.

All that could be seen of the death-dealing device were two hoppers, into which the bullets were dumped, and the plungers by which the steel pills were driven to the point of expulsion. Mr. Bangerter and officials of the gun company explained that in accordance with request of the ordnance department of the government the apparatus was being kept under cover. They added that a glimpse of the mechanism would be sufficient for even a layman to learn the secret of it.

While only the round bullets were used in the demonstration, the claim was made that conical bullets could be discharged with the same precision from the barrels of what will be the standard gun. Being only a model the little machine, it was said, was equipped with smoothly bored barrels, whereas those in the standard gun will be rifled.

The exhibition Friday, like that given some weeks ago for the benefit of United States army officers, according to the inventor, showed the gun doing much more than was expected of it. In constructing the model, Mr. Bangerter declared he figured on penetrating half-inch targets, but that the first and subsequent demonstrations disclosed his invention was capable of doing three times the work.

Aside from the economical viewpoint the claims as to the future of any government that obtains the exclusive right of the machine are such that representatives of the company asserted that the Powder Trust has already opened negotiations for the patent. Alleging that the trust has already offered a large sum for the secret, the gun company officials declared that the conditions were that the machine would have to do only half of what it already accomplishes.

Probably the most striking claim made for the secret is that it will put an end to future wars, even going so far as to discourage any further attempt at the perfection of the aerial war engines. With the possibility of such destructive powers to face it is figured out by the inventor that no country would venture into final conflict.

Mounted on an automobile that will run sixty miles an hour it was pointed out that no matter how fast the bullets are discharged, the gun will never heat or explode. Placed on a swivel it may be operated so that the barrels may be turned in any direction and shoot with a force that is calculated to kill at a distance of a mile.

Mr. Bangerter, the inventor, is a native of Switzerland, and claims that none but an employe knows the secret of his invention. Capitalists who furnished the money for the building of the apparatus, he said, were obliged to put their money into the company without learning anything more about the gun than was shown by the demonstration, although mechanical experts employed by them plied him with questions for ten hours.

Speaking of the expense of firing a million bullets, the inventor declared it would cost $20 with his machine, while the cost of firing the same number of bullets with powder and shell would be about $20,000. The muzzle velocity, he claimed, is greater than that of any other gun made and at the same time has greater penetrating force.

The velocity of the projectiles will be more than 3,000 feet a second, it was asserted. At the point of expulsion the bullet will have a velocity of 800 feet a second, and by the time it reaches the middle of the barrell it will have increased to 1,600 feet a second, while as it leaves the barrel the speed will be 3,200 feet, which, it is claimed, is 600 feet greater than the ordinary velocity of the explosive bullets.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

The annual State campfire and reunion of the Ladies' Circles of the G. A. R. will be held at Millville, Wednesday, August 31.

Joseph Gibson, thirty-five years old, of Norfolk, Va., dropped dead in the restaurant of Ulysses Banks at 49½ Colgate street, Jersey City, Sunday.

Suffering from a fractured skull and broken collarbone, received in a plunge from a thirty-foot-high platform on one of the Boardwalk piers, Atlantic City, Anna Bowen, fourteen years old, lies unconscious in the City Hospital, and is not expected to recover.

Born near Pemberton, August 15, 1815, Thomas S. Logan, a descendant of a distinguished Pennsylvania family of that name, celebrated his ninety-fifth birthday anniversary yesterday. Until a few years ago Mr. Logan followed the occupation of a farmer, and is well known throughout Burlington County.

State health authorities are going to Atlantic City to co-operate with City Health Officer Guion in patrolling the polluted waters of Beach Thoroughfare, back of the city, into which thousands of gallons of sewage is deposited daily, and instituting warfare upon men who are said to be taking fish and clams from the stream for sale in the city.

Diving from the Central Railroad bridge, at Union street and Garfield avenue, Jersey City, Sunday, James Lynch, twelve years old, of 197½ Grant avenue, plunged head first into the mud bottom of the Morris canal. He was unconscious when rescued by John Ryan, of 968 Garfield avenue, who jumped into the canal when his attention was attracted by the kicking of the boy's feet above the water. Lynch was taken to the City Hospital.

Miss Rachael Davis, of Woodstown, who won the gold medal at the Women's Christian Temperance Union oratorical contest at Pitman recently, is a graduate of the Pilesgrove High School, of Woodstown, and will enter Bucknell University, Lewisburg, Pa., the coming fall, where she will specialize in elocution. Miss Davis had previously won a silver medal in a similar contest. In preparing for the gold medal contest Miss Davis sought the solitude of a big apple orchard near her home, and had the trees as an audience. There were seven contestants, and the judges were unanimous in deciding in her favor. Out of a possible fifty points she scored forty-five.

OYSTERS ON TREES; FISH EAT OUT OF ONE'S HAND.

Oysters grow on trees in Porto Rica and fish that have never yet had the honor of mention on expensive restaurant menus swim unsuspectingly in the waters of the island, fish of hitherto unknown varieties will eat out of the angler's hand in Porto Rico; fish of every kind and description are waiting to be caught there.

All the foregoing is described in a report to the bureau of insular affairs from San Juan. The angler might try this from the report to the bureau on his rod and reel:

"At one port the following food fishes are taken by hand, hook and line or trolling: Candil, red goat, Spanish mackerel, 2 to 10 pounds; kingfish, 10 to 40 pounds; runner; cabra mora; Nassau grouper; red hind; toro; red grouper, 5 to 100 pounds; pargo prieto, 5 to 30 pounds; dog snapper, 5 to 20 pounds; schoolmaster; red snapper; muttonfish; lane snapper; margate; yellow tail; pluma, 2 to 8 pounds; chopa amarilla, 1 pound; red goat, 5 to 8 pounds; blue parrot, 3 to 8 pounds; trunkfish, 1 to 4 pounds; robalo, 5 to 25 pounds, and baluja, one-quarter to three-quarter pound."

As for oysters, Captain John H. Kerr, of Baltimore, who is in Porto Rico looking over the fishing field, is authority for the declaration that they grow on trees, and the report of the bureau of insular affairs says: "Oysters of good flavor are quite plentiful on the south side of the island; they are usually attached to the roots and lower branches of the mangrove trees at the shore."

In spite of all these conditions the report shows that Porto Rico imported more than $654,000 worth of dried fish last year and exported none.

Mrs. E. C. Schenck and daughter, Edythe and Gola, of 36 Jackson avenue, are registered at the Buena Vista, Ocean Grove.

BASEBALL.

Plainfield teams seem to have had an off-day Saturday.

And another strange thing was that Warry got his bumps from those college boys. It seldom happens that Warry ever gets pounded for thirteen hits.

John Fritts, the captain and crack hitter and short-stop of the Y. M. C. A. team, has signed to play with the Plainfield B. B. C. nine, starting his first game next Saturday. He will certainly strengthen the Plainfield team, but will greatly weaken the Association bunch at this time in the season.

Baseball is a peculiar game—no doubt about it. Yesterday after the Chicago Cubs had beaten and whitewashed them 14-0, the Brooklyn Trolley Dodgers turned around in the second game and cleaned house with their opponents to the tune of 9-1.

"Charlie" Line is certainly making good as manager of the Y. M. C. A. team. He uses the right policy and he'll get there. "Yes, Willie Cass, 'Charlie' does fill a long felt want!"

"Smiling Jimmie" Montross was right in his old time form Saturday against Scotch Plains and those who saw him pitch at Dunellen were reminded of baseball in Plainfield ten years ago. Jimmie had those Scotch Plains batters at his mercy, and fooled them time and time again with his quick out-drop and his puzzling spit-ball, which he has perfected in great shape.

Boyd was there as usual for the Plainfield team Saturday. Chick didn't get a chance to shine in the field, but his work at the bat showed that he is a ball player from the word "go". His bunt there in the first inning when everybody expected that he was going to lace one out in the woods was as pretty a piece of engineering as one could see on the big league diamonds.

One safe bet now is that Detroit will not win that American league pennant.

And we wonder, as we go galloping to press, which league pennant Miss Anna Held referred to when she sang "That Kankianna Rag".

Jim Emery says, regarding his slump, "Why, I'm in style—just look at Ty Cobb—not a hit in the last five games."

Brokaw didn't show up very well with the Y. M. C. A. team Saturday. Why, Morris, what's the matter?

"Red" Alberts is a clever third baseman. He works hard all the time and plays the game with every bit of ginger that is in him.

The Adams boys were greatly missed from the Y. M. C. A. team Saturday. Their loss showed itself as the machinery of the nine was loose in a couple of places.

CYCLING.

The regular Sunday morning race, which is scheduled for next week, has been postponed by the Plainfield Cycling Club in order to allow some of its members to go to Baltimore to compete in a big meet there. Three members of the local club, Russel Andrews, E. W. Burns and F. G. Sheppard, will enter the twelve-mile handicap in that city. These three riders will be accompanied in their journey by the ever-ready Jack Horner, who will act as their trainer and general moral support.

This Baltimore race is the first appearance of F. G. Sheppard in competition. But good luck to you, anyway.

Several members of the Cycling Club rode to Newark Sunday and watched the races on the Vailsburg track. George Simon competed in one of the amateur events and he did this after winning third place in the five-mile handicap races in this city Sunday morning. That's going some, George.

Jack Horner says that the Labor Day races will attract some of the classiest riders in the country to this city. Karl Erickson, the winner of the one-third-mile handicap at the Velodrome Sunday, and Jerome Steiner, who came second in this same race, are among the entries for the ten-mile handicap on Labor Day. Both of these men are considered to be among the top-notchers among amateur riders.

Eddie McNee seems to have a long lead, but you never can tell when a dark horse will step forward to the tape.

Considerable interest was shown among the colored riders at the Velodrome Sunday in the races in this city on Labor Day, and many expressed themselves as willing to enter. And these riders are some classy speed artists, too.

Virginia of the Air Lanes

A ROMANCE OF FLYING

. . . By . . .

Herbert Quick

Copyright, 1909, by the Bobbs-Merrill Company

Well, Aunt Chloe was in there, shuffling about, wondering where he might be, and here he was, looking on spectrally and unsuspected. With the common human impulse to secret approach, Theodore walked on, concealed between the Spanish bayonets and a somber line of red cedars, climbed the end of the veranda, scuttled into the broad hall and up to his room, into which he stepped quickly, breathing a little harder. He opened the closet for a change of clothes and started back in wonderment quite as paralyzing as horror, for his clothes were gone. Instead there sat a huge trunk with its lid back, its open tray full of silken hosiery, corsets, laces, gloves, handkerchiefs and openwork things of mystery and terror. On the hooks were many, many others quite as awful, frilled and tucked and ruffled and plaited garments, silks, dimities, cashmeres, linens, cottons and soft light woolens, filling his closet and spread against the wall for occult reasons connected with keeping them in shape, and protruding from the trunk were more clothes, while in corners of the bedroom were more trunks.

A light step sounded, and he froze to a statue of panic and trance and paralysis. Some one entered. His heart bounded and then stood still, for it was Psyche of the dunes, Shayne's niece, Virginia, entering jauntily, maddeningly, like a real woman taking possession of his bedroom as her own! She had a little subjectively derived smile on her lips, held in her hands a spray of huckleberry blooms, which she put to her nostrils and then stuck in a vase by the old mirror.

"Psyche!" he stammered.

With a little scream she darted toward the door, recognized him as he emerged from the closet noted his paleness, turned back, her hand on her breast and a quick palpitation in the "V" of her gown, like the heart of a snared robin. Yet she was the least excited of the twain. Her alarm ceased with her recognition of him.

"My robber," said she in a half whisper. "Oh, I'm so glad!"

"Psyche," said he, "when you say you are glad"—

"Oh, I'm so glad you aren't dashed to pieces!" she cried. "I've seen you falling, falling, falling, in my dreams and never alighting! But evidently you did!"

"Yes," said he, "quite safe. But how came you here?"

"Oh, I live here," said she. "But how did you know? Or did you just happen? Shall I hide you? I'll never betray you, never, no matter what they say you've done!"

"Yes," said she hurriedly—"with my uncle. I couldn't endure the Shaynes and Silberbergs any longer. Why, the way they did just drives people to crime! And if you did anything it was in open war with the officers and not by stealth as the Shaynes and Silberbergs do. I told them so to their teeth—only you ought to reform and all that, you know. And I couldn't bear Aunt Marie any more," here the voice trembled, "though everybody will say I'm ungrateful and all that. And General Carson's family are all my relatives in the world, except the Shaynes. And this is their plantation—my uncle, that I never saw lives here—and I came to him. I hope he won't hate me. I'd rather not have to ask him to shelter a robber the very first thing, and so I hope you aren't pursued. But if you are I'll hide you before I'll see you caught. There!"

Mr. Carson reeled back against the wall, drew his hands across his eyes and looked again. She seemed to be there still, rather nearer than before, hands clasped in adorable anxiety, divinest pity in her eyes.

"Of course it's a shock," said Miss Suarez, "to find you"—

"I am sorry," said Theodore, "to have shocked you by being visible. I"—

"Oh, now," said Miss Suarez. "Try to supply ellipses—and—and those things. I meant to find you so"—

"So incapable of—so lacking in the qualities of—of—of"—

"You're gradually getting closer to it," commented Virginia. "Our danger, where there is nobody hanging about to sort of mitigate—no, not that—to—to"—

"To absorb and diffuse the 'shock,'" suggested the engineer.

"The very word," said she. "Why, uncle, you're clever—once in a while"—

"Thank you, Miss Virginia. I"—

"Don't interrupt, please. Our danger here in the wilderness is that of not catching the shades of expression. The nuances one has to have ground into one's system with regard to one's friends—if nuances can be ground into anything—and that we'll misunderstand and fight and pull hair needlessly—doesn't that cover the case?"

"I don't think it does quite. But you were saying I lack some quality. Please go on."

"The quality of unclehood," said she. "You don't create the role. I suppose my image of a charming young robber, for you're not bad looking, uncle, you know."

Theodore blushed.

"Piracy and yeggism and those things are so incompatible with one's only surviving live live-with-able uncle," said Virginia.

"In 'The Babes In the Wood,'" said Theodore, "the uncle was quite that sort."

"The odd thing with us—I like living with you immensely—is that you seem a babe in the woods more than an uncle, and I the other."

"MY ROBBER," SAID SHE IN A HALF WHISPER.

"What I wish you to understand is how honored I am to be your guardian, even though I don't deserve it."

"Oh, but you do!" said she. "And there's the Carson blood, isn't there?"

"There's the Carson blood," assented Theodore uneasily, "and the trust that blood alone couldn't confer."

"And the relationship must stand in the place of years," said Virginia, "for I can't go back to the Shaynes. I'm afraid they'll find me and make me"—

"You shall not go back!" said Theodore. "Never!"

"My, my!" said Virginia. "How fierce, uncle! And now let's go fishing."

Yes, Theodore had fallen. Fleeing the best bedroom, in which Aunt Chloe had established Miss Suarez, he had unmoored his launch for flight, but, reconsidering, had demanded of Chloe an explanation of the incomprehensible mystery of the presence, under a statement that she lived there, of Shayne's niece.

"She's come to live with we all," said Aunt Chloe. "She's kin o' ou'n."

Theodore gasped.

"There must be some mistake," said he. "How can she be related to me, Chloe?"

"W'y, yo' some kine o' uncle to huh," replied Chloe. "Huh mothah was a daughtah to ole Gin'rel Cahson. She married Lee Suarez and died. Miss Ginnie knowed about us, an' when huh aunt throwed huh off'n the aiahship foh stan'nin' up foh you she come hyah, ez she had a right to, suh."

"But she didn't know I was here?" Theodore suggested.

"Oh, law, no," replied Aunt Chloe. "She don't know yo' Mistah Carson yit onless yo' tole huh."

"But, Aunt Chloe, we aren't any kin to old General Carson, are we? And I'm no uncle to this young lady, am I?"

Aunt Chloe was indignant.

"Hev Ah been wuckin' foh po' whites all these yeahs?" said she. "Yo' sho as clus as uncle. Yo' paw knowed he was a Cahson."

"What have you told her about this relationship?" said Theodore.

"She knowed all erbout it."

"Did she know how father—how nobody thinks we are any kin to the general and"—

"Who you mean by nobody?" queried Chloe. "Ah reckon we some kin o' ou' name wouldn't be Cahson, would it? Ah tuk huh in as a Cahson. If you tuk huh in yo' ahms an' squenched huh teahs I reckon you wouldn't be bringin' up these heavy arguments."

Uncle Theodore was stately, ceremonious and, with due allowance for sundry blushes when Miss Virginia emitted a little giggle, promptly smothered in her napkin, quite grand in his demeanor at luncheon. He formally kissed Virginia's hand, and when she told of her need, of her reliance on the Carson fidelity, he yielded to the temptation without a moment's hesitation. He became her uncle, entered calmly upon the deception, oblivious of the vast consequences involved.

"I have the honah," said he, "to drink your health—the health of the jewel and the hope of the Carson family."

She rose as if at a formal signal for withdrawal, took both his hands and kissed him on the forehead. There were tears in her eyes.

CHAPTER X.

THE RETREAT OF THEODORE

THE first day Theodore sent orders for the shipment of the engines and began to provide better equipment for the house. He brought as a companion for Miss Suarez an elderly widow, Mrs. Stott, who was addicted to the writing of poems of a lovelorn nature. Virginia's opinion of her new uncle's worldly wisdom rose at this provision for chaperonage. But she gave him too much credit. He merely thought of Virginia's becoming lonely.

He could not depart until sure that "Miss Virginia" would not feel slighted should he push on.

Craigland's telegrams came in from the east, still Delphic in significance. One reported that New York was practically "surrounded," another that the country would soon be "gridironed." Theodore was deaf to voices from the outer world. A letter from Harrod, proving that the news of his return had reached the cabin in the dunes, lay on the old escritoire one morning. Theodore inserted a paper knife in the envelope, half cut it open—and saw Virginia's dress glimmering outside. The half opened letter fell to the desk, and Uncle Theodore leaped out on the veranda.

"Morning, uncle!" said she. "Have you slept well?"

"Fine."

"You don't look it," said she. "Your eyes look dull. You devote too much time to business while your family is asleep, don't you?"

"Uncle" thought of the unopened letter, the unanswered telegrams, the neglected business, Mr. Waddy's money, the incompleted aeronef, the sleepless nights, tormented by—not business at all, not business! Decidedly not!

"I sleep too soundly," said he.

They spent most of their time out of doors. Theodore ate wolfishly each day and drank great quantities of coffee to show that he was in fine fettle—quite unable to pick up his end of the conversation. It was youth and spring and sweet fellowship, though the items made him sick of Mrs. Stott's table talk. He wanted the river and Psyche, knowing that he ought to go and leave her. Every night he vowed to go next morning—and laid plans for another day with her.

Early one morning they started out on a berry picking expedition. The girl tripped in a hollow and fell in a heap on the Bermuda grass. Theodore found her with her ankle gripped in her hands and her lips tight to hold back a cry. A hurried question, a cheery reply cut in two with a twinge of pain, and he picked her up. She threw her arms about his neck to ease the burden. Alas, it made it heavier! The fervor of his embrace did the ankle no good and nearly crushed poor Virginia. The color rose slowly to her brow as he set her down on the veranda and stood over her, breathing hard. She rose on the sound foot and tried the other carefully.

"It isn't bad at all," said she.

Taking off the shoe, she held the little foot in her hand, examining the ankle critically.

"Do you think it's swelling?" she asked.

Theodore tenderly squeezed the shapely ankle and rose to his feet.

"I don't know," said he. "I—Virginia"—

He had seized her hand and was looking at her with none of the impersonality of the surgeon or physician. She did not take her hand away. He dropped it and ran—ran—toward the river.

Theodore was absent at dinner without apology, and the women were in bed before he stole to his room and lay tossing again. Desperate, he rose and went to the library, lighted a lamp, saw the still sealed letter from Captain Harrod and slashed it open as if it had been the breast of his mortal foe. It ran:

I hear that you are back south. I hope you can come right soon. The engines is here for ten days. The man that lost the flying thing the young lady come in is back. He is right crazy, Mr. Theodore, from losing his machine. He keeps trying to git into the shed and yells he is rooned. They is a lot of letters and telegrams at Palmetto Beach.

Theodore struck himself on the breast and started to his feet determined to flee to his work and from the romantic dangers of his unclehood. Trembling with excitement, he attempted a note to Virginia. Wizner at the cabin, messages at the beach, meant danger and disgrace if he neglected his task, danger, infamy if he toyed on with temptation. He told Chloe through her door that he had been called away and that she must explain to the ladies. He hastily packed a bag, ran down and unmoored the launch and fled down the river.

* * * * * * *

Captain Harrod, dignified, barefooted, soft voiced, unkempt, kept his lonely vigil on the white straight edge of beach that lay from Fort Morgan to Perdido bay. Captain Harrod, ignoring landscape and seascape, devoted himself to the study of sand tracks of all sorts—tracks of foxes examining the beach for turtles' eggs, months ahead of time; talon marks of opossums and raccoons prowling about for crabs, mice and birds' eggs; hoof marks of wild hogs, etc. Trails of men there were along the sparsely traveled highway of the strand and the footprints of one in particular attracted him. Tracks in the sand were to Harrod book, newspaper, telegraph and circulating library. He knew several things that this man might be—a deserter from the fort, perhaps, or it might be some one connected with the revenue service. His cabin was "Harrod's fishing camp"—nothing more. What had revenue officers to do with such humble piscatorial headquarters as these? They should not care about Theodore's hidden invention.

And yet one day a slimy metal sea monster stuck a blunt nose out from the water at about the five fathom contour line, opened a rectangular mouth and flicked a square red tongue like an angry snake until Captain Harrod on the highest dune opened a brilliant red handkerchief with a Chautauqua salute and wiped his nose elaborately. Whereupon the sea monster sank beneath the brine. What took place that night was concealed by darkness. If Captain Harrod was busy carrying packages ashore until morning he came by them honestly, no doubt.

An examination of the popular novels or periodicals of the past—say of the era of that president whose Christian name our Theodore bears—will be rewarded by a realization of prophecy gone wrong as to the influence on smuggling of aerial navigation. It must bring free trade, they said. Ships navigating the air could land their cargoes anywhere. Yet the airships gave the custom house people little trouble. Airships were so conspicuous; their loads were necessarily so light; the system of reporting them by wireless from Canada, Mexico and the islands was so efficient.

Very unexpectedly it was the submarine that drove the "revenues" wild and filled the law books with Draconian statutes. No trade ever grew faster. The boat fish dived beneath the waves and rose on some lonely coast like this by appointment with some Captain Harrod sitting like a bewhiskered bit of wreckage on the dunes.

Harrod was nervous about the footprints, and he persevered in a search until he found their maker lying asleep in a comfortable sleeping bag in a nearby thicket. He recognized him as Wizner, inventor of the helicopter that was blown out to sea. He waked Wizner, and the latter assailed Harrod in abuse which included the absent Carson.

"You let my helicopter go out to sea," he wailed, "and it was worth a million dollars to me."

Harrod took pity on the inventor, and as a result Wizner stayed for weeks, sleeping in his bag on the porch of the cabin, and, to the captain's intense anger, tried several times to visit the shed where Carson's newly invented airship was in course of completion.

Finally Carson arrived. Theodore ordered the spying man away, and an altercation ensued in which Wizner was roughly handled. At last he took his leave, vowing vengeance on Carson and the airship, which, he said, was worthless. He had made rough drawings of the airship, as he had managed secretly to elude Harrod's watchfulness.

At the lagoon he took a boat and rowed to the north shore. The boat from the submarine that had signaled Harrod had brought her crew ashore. He addressed one of the men as Faville and learned that the Stickleback, the submarine, was offshore for some unknown purpose. Reagan, the Stickleback's captain, came lazily up, and Wizner informed him that he (Wizner) was going on board her. The captain, amazed, asked for what reason.

"I'm goin' to use her."

"The d——l you are!"

"Well, if not I'll show you up to the authorities as a smuggler, Reagan—you an' Harrod."

Reagan's face paled. He hastily drew a revolver from his pocket, then thrust it back.

"How do we know," said Reagan, "that you won't peach after you get through with us?"

"If I make the play I expect to," replied Wizner. "I'll be in a d——d sight deeper'n you are!"

"That means," said Reagan, "worse than smuggling."

Reagan answered slowly:

"I didn't expect I'd ever go that far, but I guess I'll have to serve under you, Wizner. You're captain of the Stickleback."

(To be Continued).

Financing Her Vacation.

"Yes, it's a lovely day, Mr. Quibble."

He bitterly: "Squibble, Miss Brown, Squibble. That's a fine inheritance, isn't it! Nobody ever gets it right. How would you feel with a freak name like that?"

OLD LONDON INNS.

Some That Are Famous Because of a Special Dish.

Though various restaurants in New York, Washington, New Orleans or San Francisco are famous for certain dishes, yet this is generally the result of accident rather than design that one article upon the menu should be pre-eminently successful and popular. The day is past when this one dish could make the reputation of the place.

In London, however, this is not the case, though it must be confessed that there are not now as many inns as formerly which have become famous by reason of the popularity of one dish. In times gone by every London inn of any pretensions at all had its special dish whereon it prided itself and to partake of which patrons traveled many miles.

Eel pies were once the great feature of breakfast served at the old Sluice House, near Finsburg park. The necessary quantity of fish was regularly dredged up from the stream which ran under the windows of the inn. The pies are still to be had, but the eels are procured from a nearby fish market.

Simpson's, in the Strand, is noted for its fish dinners. This place was once immensely popular, and even today there is a certain following who swear by its repasts. For a certain sum the guest eats as much of a variety of fish as he cares to.

Another inn boasts of a special dish in the shape of Southdown mutton. This is wheeled up to the table in order that each individual may select the particular cut to which he is partial. The mutton is kept warm by means of water heated by a lamp.

THE RIVER NILE.

Egypt Would Be a Wilderness but For This Wonderful Stream.

The Nile is probably the most wonderful river in the world. It has made Egypt possible by turning an arid wilderness into the richest land in the world. It has provided at the same time an admirable commercial highway and made easy the transportation of building materials. The ancient Egyptians were thus enabled to utilize the granite of Assuan for the splendid structures of the hundred gated Thebes and of Memphis and even for those on Tanis, on the Mediterranean coast.

At a time when the people of the British isles were clad in skins of wild beasts and offered human sacrifices upon the stone altars of the Druids Egypt was the center of a rich and refined civilization. Most of the development of Egypt was due to the Nile, which not only watered and fertilized the soil annually, but was and is one of the best natural highways in the world.

From the beginning of winter to the end of spring—that is, while the Nile is navigable—the north wind blows steadily up the stream with sufficient force to drive sailing boats against the current at a fair pace, while, on the other hand, the current is strong enough to carry a boat without sails down against the wind except when it blows a gale. That is why the ancient Egyptians did not need steam power nor electric motors for the immense commerce that covered the Nile nor for barges carrying building materials for hundreds of miles.—New York Herald.

The Uses of Rubber.

It is probable that no other commodity ever came into such varied use within so short a period as india rubber. First employed practically for footwear and other waterproof apparel, rubber has come to be employed in electrical insulation, hose pipes for the conveyance of water, steam, air and so on; pneumatic and other tires for all sorts of wheeled vehicles, balloons and the planes of aerial machines, innumeral articles for the comfort of invalids, household conveniences and what not. Thus far rubber has never come into use to an important extent for any given purpose to which it is not still devoted. In other words, its advantages are so marked in many uses that when once introduced no substitute can be found for it.—Cassier's Magazine.

Odd Hair Styles.

Some of the New Hebrides people do their hair up in a bunch on the top of the head and stain it yellow, while the inhabitants of the Ombai islands pass it all through a tube so as to make a kind of plume. The Marquesas chief's favorite method is to shave all the head except two patches, one over each temple, where he cultivates two horns of hair. No doubt this is to render him more a thing of terror to his enemies than admiration to his friends. His reason for shaving the rest of the head is to allow more space for tattooing, as if all the available skin of the body were not enough.

Explained.

"Our air mattresses," said the dealer, "are all filled in the months of April and May. That accounts for their remarkable resilient qualities."

"Is the air of those months better than others?"

"They are the spring months, you know."—Exchange.

Justice.

The only way to make the mass of mankind see the beauty of justice is by showing them in pretty plain terms the consequence of injustice.—Sydney Smith.

Progress is the activity of today and the assurance of tomorrow.—Emerson.

The Circus Band.

Over the hills and far away,
I hear the horns of the circus play,
Every day more loud and clear
As the gilded caravan draws near,
"Oom-pah-oom!" goes the slide trombone,
With a festive note in its strident tone,
While the fluttering tips of banners gay
Wave over the hills and far away.

Like the blare and the glare of the circus band.
The tunes are old, and the playing's lame,
But you tap to the music, all the same.
The "Oom-pah-oom!" of the slide trombone
Has a joyous lilt to its strident tone.
And hints of sawdust and canvas stray
From over the hills and far away.
—Spokane Spokesman-Review.

Ingratitude.

"How's this for a chicken dinner, old man?" whispered Hallrume proudly.

"Just about it," said Hungerford meanly, "but I usually eat more than a chicken does."—Illustrated Sunday Magazine.

His Plea.

The young man who was calling thought some of taking flight.
"I cannot sing the old songs!" she whooped a second time.
The caller sat and listened with fortitude sublime.

She turned the music over and pounded on the keys,
Then screeched again more loudly. He fell upon his knees.
"I cannot sing the old songs!" she bellowed. With a sigh
He rose and wildly pleaded, "For God's sake do not try!"
—Chicago Record-Herald.

Kept Her Busy.

"My husband is so helpful in our household work. You know I just love to be tidying up and cleaning and rearranging all the time." "And he takes a hand in the tidying up?" "Well—er—indirectly. He throws things around and out of place so that I'll have something to do."—St. Paul Dispatch.

The Yellowhammer.

Once upon a morning dreary as I lingered, still a-weary,
In the warm and downy covers, which with rest I loved the more,
While I thought of further napping suddenly there came a tapping
As of some one soundly rapping, rapping on the upper floor.
"'Tis the hired girl," I muttered, "rapping on the upper floor.
I have heard her dress before."

A Day Lost.

First Church Worker—How was the meeting today?

Second Church Worker—Very uninteresting. Every one of the sisters was there, so there was no one to talk about.—Yonkers Statesman.

But there found such a drought
He changed his tactics, so to speak,
And kissed her on the mouth.

TORTURE MACHINES.

Curious Instruments That Were Used in the Middle Ages.

In an old tower in Nuremburg there is a room set apart especially for the preservation of the curious instruments of torture used during the uncertain period historically referred to as the middle ages.

In that room you can see thumbscrews of the most approved pattern closely arranged along shelves filled with "liar helmets" and "bridles" for gossiping women. One horrid relic, called the "spike wheel," is a heavy cylinder on one side of which stand out two or more score of sharp iron spikes. In days of old when an offender had been sentenced to undergo a "rolling" he was stripped naked and firmly bound on a plank, face down. In this position the "spike wheel" was slowly dragged up and down his back, the number of times depending upon the gravity of the crime and the wording of the sentence.

In several instances the poor victims were prodded so full of holes that they died before they could be removed from the plank. When death was intended the number of "rolls" was not specified, but double length spikes, heated red hot, were put in the surface of the cylinder. This mode of carrying out capital punishment was hardly as expeditious as the guillotine, but it was equally certain.

GIANT BUTTERFLIES.

Have a Wing Spread Greater Than That of Many Small Birds.

The largest butterfly known to naturalists is found only in British New Guinea, and specimens are worth anything from $100 upward. The male measures eight inches across the wings and the female not less than eleven inches, a wing spread exceeding that of many small birds.

The story of the first discovery of this gigantic butterfly is a curious one, says the Wide World Magazine. A naturalist saw a specimen perched on the top of a tree and, failing to capture it by any other means, finally shot it.

From the fragments he decided that the species was entirely unknown to science, and he forthwith fitted out an expedition at a cost of many thousands of dollars to go in search of the magnificent insects.

Two members of the party fell victims to the Papuan cannibals and another was rescued only in the nick of time. In spite of this inauspicious commencement to his enterprise, however, the naturalist persevered and ultimately succeeded in obtaining a number of perfect specimens.

Origin of the Letter V.

The letter V may be regarded as the mutilated remains of one of the symbols used by the ancient Egyptians in their hieroglyphics or picture writing. A common animal in their country was the two horned sand viper, a representation of which stood for V. The priests ultimately found that for the practical purposes of everyday life it was a waste of time to use elaborate hieroglyphics and invented a kind of shorthand to meet the occasion. In this the snake was reduced to a V with a dash (V—) to represent horns and body. The Phoenicians adopted this letter, and from them we get our V by loss of the dash, leaving only the two little horns of the original picture. This snake is still common in Egypt and is probably the one mentioned in Genesis xlix. 17, "Dan shall be a serpent by the way, an adder in the path, that biteth the horse heels, so that his rider shall fall backward." Travelers tell us that it is still addicted to this unpleasant habit.

Wet Weather and Camels.

Camels are very sensitive to moisture. In the region of tropical rains they are usually absent, and if they come into such with caravans the results of the rainy season are greatly feared. The great humidity of the air explains the absence of the camel from the northern slopes of the Atlas and from well wooded Abyssinia. This sensitiveness expresses itself in the character of different races. The finest, most noble looking camels, with short silk-like hair, are found in the interior of deserts, as in the Taureg region in north Africa, and they cannot be used for journeys to moist regions. Even in Fezzan, south of Tripoli, the animals are shorter and fatter, with long coarse hair, and in Nile lands and on coasts it is the same. These animals, too, are less serviceable as regards speed and endurance.

The Eyes of the Musk Ox.

The skull of the bull musk ox is remarkable for the development of the eye orbits, which project sufficiently beyond the plane of the frontal bones to compensate for the interruption the horns would otherwise make in the range of vision. The musk ox, however, does not seem to rely greatly on keenness of sight, far less on acuteness of hearing, for the ears are of small dimensions and are completely covered by the heavy growth of fur about them. The organs of scent are evidently more highly developed, and they exact of the hunter his greatest cunning.

Just Imagine!

"Why don't they have women on juries?" she asked.

"Imagine a woman sitting through a long argument by a lawyer and not interrupting," was the answer she received.—Buffalo Express.

Wit is brushwood, judgment is timber. The first makes the brightest flames, but the other gives the most lasting heat.

CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY

Martha Washington Council, No. 23, Daughters of America, is 14 Years Old.

INSTITUTED AUGUST 4, 1896.

With Thirty-four Charter Members, Which Has Increased to Two Hundred—Old and New Officers.

Martha Washington Council, No. 23, Daughters of America, celebrated its fourteenth anniversary in its rooms in the Coward building, last night. There was a large attendance of members, and the affair was a pleasing one. During the evening there was an informal program of vocal and instrumental music, dancing and later refreshments were served. The anniversary was planned by the officers and a committee appointed for the purpose.

The council was instituted on August 4, 1896, with thirty-four charter members, and today there is a membership of about two hundred, while the organization is constantly growing, new members being received at almost every meeting. During the past fourteen years thousands of dollars have been expended in funeral benefits and for relief of sick members.

These were the first officers of the council:

Councilor, Gilbert S. Martin; associate councilor, Mrs. Tillie Riker; vice councilor, Mrs. Sarah Page; senior vice councilor, Fred Leland; recording secretary, Miss Laura Johnson; financial secretary, Mrs. Reny Mattis; treasurer, Mrs. Eva Moore; conductor, Mrs. Andrew McComas; warden, B. L. Webster; inside sentinel, Mrs. Maria Horton; outside sentinel, Garret Mattis; junior past councilor, Mrs. Sarah Higgins; associate past councilor, Mrs. Margaret Firstbrook; trustees, Mrs. Tillie Riker, Gilbert S. Martin, Mrs. Agnes Randolph; representatives to State council, Mrs. Sarah Higgins, Gilbert S. Martin.

These are the present officers:

Councilor, Mrs. Anna Schmidt; associate councilor, John Goodman; vice councilor, Charles W. Taynor; associate vice councilor, Miss Mary Hoffman; conductor, E. E. Townley; warden, Mrs. Adam Townley; recording secretary, George B. Allen; assistant, Mrs. Elizabeth Bye; financial secretary, F. G. Welsh; trustees, Gilbert S. Martin; inside sentinel, Harry Leach; outside sentinel, Mrs. Margaret Harris; junior past councilor, Edwin Hughes; associate past councilor, Mrs. Mabel Goodman; trustees, Mrs. Mary Welsh; Mrs. E. O. Lant, John Goodman; representatives to State council, Mrs. Mary Welsh and G. N. Van Norden.

These were the charter members: Gilbert S. Martin, F. W. Leland, Mrs. Emma L. Bird, Mrs. Amanda McComas, Mrs. Sarah Higgins, Mrs. Mary Hoffman, Mrs. Maria Horton, Mrs. Ella Webster, J. Augusta Jennings, Mrs. Eva J. Moore, Mrs. Sarah E. Vail, Mrs. Sarah T. Vail, Daniel R. Page, Mrs. Patience Manchester, Mrs. Minnie Allen, Mrs. Laura R. Everitt, W. J. Hartpence, B. L. Webster, John C. Dayton, F. G. Welsh, G. S. Mattis, W. W. Cleaves, A. H. Johnson, Mrs. Henrietta Johnson, Mrs. Rachel Johnson, Mrs. Tillie Riker, Mrs. May Webster, Mrs. Sarah Page, Mrs. Margaret Firstbrook, Mrs. Agnes Randolph, Mrs. Annie M. Angleman, Mrs. Caroline Blackwell, Mrs. Reny Mattis and Miss Launia Johnson.

Entertained Club Secretaries.

A pleasing reception was given to its local club secretaries by the Larkin Company, at its exhibition rooms, 160 East Front street, last night. The secretaries were received by the manager and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Persons and were shown the exhibit by the gentlemen attendants. A fine buffet luncheon of Larkin products were served. Later in the evening each guest received an appropriate souvenir. The showrooms will be open to the public every day this week, also this and Saturday evenings. Souvenirs are given to the visitors.

String Band at Salvation Army.

The string band and choir from the Swedish Church, Sixth and New streets, will be at the Salvation Army tent tomorrow evening and will give a delightful evening's music. On former occasions when the string band and choir were present the tent has been packed to its capacity and a large crowd is looked for on this occasion. Admission will be free and a cordial invitation is extended to all. In case of rain the service will be held at the hall on Second street near Watchung avenue.

FREEHOLDER'S COMMITTEE UNABLE TO FIND KEYS

The election committee from the Union County Board of Freeholders, of which S. P. T. Wilbur, of this city, is a member, is on the warpath rounding up the ballot boxes in the county and getting them in shape for the approaching primaries and election. The committee has met with no end of difficulty in finding the keys for the boxes and in many cases the old keys have been lost and new ones will have to be made.

In Plainfield twenty-nine ballot boxes are required, and of this number, nineteen of them are without keys. Freeholder Wilbur in discussing the matter today, said that if the boards of registry do not deliver their keys to the County Clerk Jas. C. Calvert and get a receipt therefor, they will get no money when the election bills are presented.

Heretofore, it has been the rule to return boxes to the municipal clerk, but in the future the boxes must be returned to the county clerk and get a receipt for the same. This change has been made by reason of the fact that a committee from the Board of Freeholders has been appointed to take charge of not only the boxes but other material necessary to conduct a primary and an election. The board's committee will meet at Elizabeth, this afternoon, to further complete arrangements for the coming primaries.

A. F. TODD SUCCEEDS LEWIS T. CHURCHILL

Augustus F. Todd was elected a member of the Dunellen Council last night, to succeed Lewis T. Churchill, resigned, and fill out his unexpired term. Mr. Todd's election meets with popular approval as he has been actively identified with borough affairs for some time and is in close touch with the local government. Mr. Todd is also a member of the Dunellen school board.

Mr. Churchill resigned as a member of the council last week, because he has taken a position with Hering & Fuller, engineers, and will be engaged in making the survey for the sanitary sewers proposed for Dunellen. The only other business transacted by the council last night was a discussion regarding the sewer survey.

MARRIED THIS AFTERNOON AT ST. MARY'S CHURCH.

Miss Winnie Duffy and Thomas Miskell both of this city, were married in St. Mary's church this afternoon by the Rev. Father Bogan. The bride was attended by Miss Mary Connelly, and Martin Cuddy acted as best man. Following the ceremony a reception was tendered the newly married couple at the home of Mrs. Martin Deskin, the bride's sister, on Plainfield avenue.

The bride was attired in a gown of white satin and carried a shower bouquet. Mr. and Mrs. Miskell were the recipients of many handsome presents from the large number of guests at the ceremony.

The newly wedded couple will leave tonight on a wedding trip to Niagara Falls. Upon their return to this city they will reside on Plainfield avenue.

MARION WHEELER BOWLED OVER BY AN AUTOMOBILE.

Marion Wheeler, the eight-year-old daughter of James Wheeler, of Dunellen, became confused this afternoon while crossing Front street, near Rock avenue, and collided with Andrew McCardell's automobile. She was bowled over, receiving slight injuries. Dr. Platt, of Dunellen, was summoned, and after an examination said that the child's injuries were not serious. She was taken to her home in the automobile and Dr. Platt will look after the girl.

Mr. McCardell and his chauffeur, who were alone in the machine, were on their way home from Dunellen, when the accident occurred. Mr. McCardell deeply regretted the affair and di all that was possible for the injured child.

ULYSSES AND CLARENCE

Youthful Colored Tramps Walking from Philadelphia to Brooklyn.

HAD LUCK PICKING RAGS.

But Provender For the Inner Man Scarce—Had Several Pieces of Discarded Silverware.

A couple of chocolate colored wayfarers were apprehended on West Front street yesterday afternoon and taken to police headquarters by Patrolman McGinley on general principles. It was the proper move by the patrolman, for otherwise Ulysses Lee and Clarence Garland (just listen to those names) would have had to seek some more uncomfortable shelter than the gridiron at headquarters. Together with the pair of young colored men the police gathered in a small assortment of plated silverware which consisted of four spoons and an oyster fork.

"Where did you get the silver?" asked Judge Runyon of Lee. "Ah picked it outen ash barrels in Philadelphia," responded the darker of the two prisoners.

"Do you live in that peaceful city?"

"No, sah. Ah lives in Brooklyn wiv mah muvver," said Ulysses.

"How about you, Clarence; were you living in Philadelphia, too?"

"Yas, suh. Me and Uly, there was pickin' rags outer barrels and along the streets in Philamadelphia and I only found a pair of spectacles, but Uly. he got dem spoons and dat fork and dey ain't worth much, nohow."

"Where do your folks live?" asked the judge.

"Dey all live in Brooklyn, where we do, an' wese on our way home, walkin' all de way. We hain't had nothin' to eat since Sunday 'reptin' some apples and a few handfuls of wild cherries, but we ain't none despondent on dat account, 'cause wese got people who'll take keer on us w'en we gets home." This long speech from Clarence had its effect upon the judge, and after telling the two youths that the cool weather was ideal for pedestrian exercise, advised them both to hoof it out of town. They went, taking their small collection of plated ware with them.

"They'll get pinched again for that plated stuff," remarked Chief Kiely, as the two made their way toward the trolley terminus at Fourth street and Watchung avenue.

CHARLES E. AARON BUYS THE SPENCER PROPERTY.

Charles E. Aaron, who recently leased the Milliken house on Central avenue, has purchased, through Mulford's real estate agency of North avenue, the valuable Spencer property at Park avenue and East Seventh street, and will, in the near future, build a fine residence there for his own use. Mrs. Towner, who purchased the adjoining piece of property on East Seventh street, will also improve the same.

Charles Keller, of East Fifth street, has purchased the property at 414 East Fourth street, and Albert Close has purchased two large lots on Netherwood avenue, north of Front street, and will erect two fine dwellings there. Both deals were made by the Mulford agency.

SHORT VACATION AT SHORE FOR WILLIAM JEFFERY.

William Jeffery and his son, William Jeffery, Jr., left this afternoon for Ocean Grove where they will join Mr. Jeffery's father and remain at their bungalow until next Monday.

It is Mr. Jeffery's intention on his return to this city to visit Morris and Warren counties in the interests of Judge William N. Runyon. Mr. Jeffery declared this morning that he would work right up to the time of the primaries in behalf of Judge Runyon's candidacy for member of Congress.

Smith Gets Two Months.

Charles Smith, colored, who was arrested about two weeks ago for the theft of a bicycle from Morris Werner, of West Fourth street, was sentenced this morning by Judge Atwater, at Elizabeth, to serve two months in the county jail. Smith pleaded guilty to the charge. During the time Smith has been in jail awaiting trial he has amused the attendants of that institution by creating several new inventions, including a flying machine and a machine that would produce perpetual motion with initiatory impetus. His antics more than once had his jailors guessing as to his sanity.

TOTAL INCREASE $750,090

Books of Assessors Just Filed with County Board Show Local Valuations.

GAIN IN ALL FOUR WARDS.

The Figures Completed by Local Board Shows a Total of $24,180,430 Against $23,430,340 for 1909.

The local Board of Assessors have completed their books of assessment and filed the same with the Union County Board of Taxation. The total figures show a big increase in valuations in all four wards of the city, indicating that there is a possibility of decreasing the tax rate in Plainfield. The total valuations for the different wards here for 1910 are as follows:

First ward, $4,835,640; Second ward, $7,569,305; Third ward, $6,125,185; Fourth ward, $5,650,300. This makes a total for all four wards of $24,180,436.

The actual increase over last year can be seen in comparison with the totals for 1909, which were as follows:

First ward, $4,721,075; Second ward, $7,299,050; Third ward, $5,906,365; Fourth ward, $5,503,850. It will be noted that the largest increase is in the Second ward, where there has been considerable building during the past year. The total figures for 1909 were $23,430,340, making a net total increase of $750,090.

TIME TO GUESS IS NOW

What is the Population of Plainfield and North Plainfield?

$10 IN GOLD FOR TWO WINNERS.

Census Figures Expected in a Few Days—Awards Will Be Made Promptly, so Hurry Your Prediction Along.

In the Daily Press of April 30 an inducement for the real good guessers of this city and North Plainfield was offered, and as the time is approaching when it will be necessary to award the two prizes mentioned in that issue it behooves those who want to forecast the total population of the city and boroughs to get their figures in promptly. It will only be a few days before the official figures will be published at Washington and all those who want to make a guess ought to do it now.

The Daily Press has offered two prizes of five dollars each, in gold, for the two men women or children who come nearest to the actual figures of the present population as declared by the census bureau at Washington. Five dollars will be given to the person guessing the nearest to the government figures for this city and another prize of five dollars in gold will be awarded to the person coming nearest to the actual population of the borough of North Plainfield.

There are no conditions attached to the guessing. You do not have to be a subscriber to this newspaper in order to compete. Just place your guess in an envelope with your address written plainly and mail the envelope to the Daily Press.

The awards will be made promptly as soon as the official figures are received from the census bureau at Washington. Already several hundred guesses have been received, but none will be opened until the figures are received. Send in your guess today. You might happen to be the lucky one. Address your envelope to "Census", care of the Daily Press.

President Montt Dead.

President Pedro Montt, of Chile, who was one of the last to say good-by to Mayor William J. Gaynor before the shooting of the latter, died at Bremen, Germany, yesterday, shortly after the arrival of the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse at that port. President Montt had intended taking the baths at Bad Nauheim for his health. He was one of the noted men of the west coast of South America and had successfully carried out the work begun by his father, who was also president of the country and who was making an ideal and progressive Republic of Chile.

—The Union County Board of Election met yesterday, but owing to the lack of a quorum, the meeting was adjourned to next Monday.

HE TOOK THE FURNITURE

So Mrs. Josephine Cheever, of Philadelphia, Alleges Kearns Did.

PICKED OUT THE VERY BEST.

Held Under $200 Bonds to Await the Action of Grand Jury on Charge of Larceny.

Lewis Kearns, of Park avenue, discovered this morning that it does not always pay to take it for granted that when occupying another person's residence the movable appurtenances of a home also belong to the occupant. Mr. Kearns was arraigned before Judge William N. Runyon in the city court this morning on a charge of larceny of $50 worth of furniture and bric-a-brac from the home of Mrs. Josephine Cheever, who lives in Philadelphia, and owns the place in which Kearns was the caretaker. Judge Runyon held Kearns in the sum of $200 to await the action of the October grand jury.

Mrs. Cheever pressed the complaint against Kearns and told of the means adopted by him to get the furniture and other things away from the house. She declared that the prisoner not only took the stuff mentioned in the complaint, but neglected to properly look after the premises in fact he had left a "muss" which took a long time to clean up and besides instead of trying to rent some rooms which were not needed by Mr. and Mrs. Cheever, kept the apartments locked up.

In his defence this morning Kearns declared that Mrs. Cheever had promised him not only the furniture but a building lot adjoining the house, but it was not stated for what consideration these gifts were promised. According to Mrs. Cheever, Kearns has been dishonest in his dealings with her and although she was favorably disposed toward him at one time she had lost faith in his promises and believes that he ought to be made an example of.

Kearns was rather taken aback by Judge Runyon's disposition of the case and seemed dazed when he was told he would have to remain in the lockup until the requisite amount of bail was secured. He is a youthful appearing blonde complexioned young fellow and does not seem to appreciate his position. There was no one forthcoming with the necessary bail this morning and failing that, Kearns will be taken to Elizabeth tomorrow.

HAMILTON WILL HAVE TO FACE PROBATION OFFICER.

Edward Hamilton, the twelve-year-old boy who was accused of stoning an automobile in which Chas. Pagliucca was riding in the Moose parade on Monday evening, was arraigned before City Judge Runyon this morning and after hearing the two sides of the story Hamilton was told to present himself to Probation Officer Hamilton on Saturday morning.

Pagliucca swore that he had been struck by a missile thrown into the automobile of Arthur Giles on the evening in question and besides had seen Hamilton steal several of the penants which the celebrators were dangling from the sides of their vehicles.

Drunk Once More.

Sherdon Jones, a colored man whose home is any place he can hang his hat, was arraigned in the borough court this morning for being helplessly drunk. He was arrested by Marshal Reinman, last night. This makes the fourteenth time that Jones has been arrested on the same charge in the borough during the past two years. The county jail has had no effect upon him and so Recorder Dolliver made it a fine of five dollars, which he is to pay in weekly installments of one dollar. He must also show up at the borough jail every Saturday night sober.

Ephraim S. Ackor, Jr.

Ephraim S. Ackor, Jr., the four-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ephraim S. Ackor, died on Tuesday after a short illness. The funeral services will be held from the residence of the parents, Watchung, tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

To Be Married Today.

FACES COURT IN TWO COUNTIES IN TWO DAYS

Apparently the experiences of John Dunn, an Englishman, in the borough police court yesterday morning did not influence him in the right direction for Dunn was taken into custody again yesterday afternoon by the local police on a charge similar to that upon which he was incarcerated in North Plainfield, drunk and disorderly.

When arraigned before Judge William N. Runyon, this morning, Dunn declared that he was having a good time, but did not remember having committed any breach of the peace. He complacently contributed $5 to the city treasury in the shape of a fine and went away smiling.

Dunn was found chewing up a wad of bills in his cell in the borough lockup on Monday, but was prevented from destroying his wealth through the vigilance of Marshal Keyser. It was observed that he had started in to tank up again shortly after his release from court this morning, but he had declared his intention of enjoying himself in some other town until his money is gone. Although Dunn described himself yesterday as a laborer he said this morning that he was a machinist of the best kind capable of earning from seven to ten dollars a day and he did not think it was anybody's business how he disposed of his superfluous wealth.

FREEHOLDERS PLAN FOR COUNTY ROAD WORK

Freeholders S. P. T. Wilbur, Henry Krausse, Charles A. Smith and Peter Meisel, comprising the road committee from the Union County Board of Freeholders, and Director Cary and Engineer Bauer, went over several county roads, yesterday, some of which are now under improvement. Among the roads inspected was Westfield avenue, near Roselle, where it is proposed to spread 1,600 feet of Amiesite; also the new Amiesite road on Springfield avenue, the road extending from Westfield to Mountain avenue, Springfield, and the new highway from Turkey road to Mountain avenue, Springfield.

This committee is devoting more than usual time and attention to county roads, because of the extra heavy wear caused by automobiles. Plans are constantly being considered for the preservation of the county roads and the repair of those highways which need attention. A number of patent preparations have been used on the roads with a view to finding the one that will give the best service, and it is believed that this year will come near deciding this important matter, so that in the future the committee will be able to use one standard preparation and thus do away with experimenting.

BOY SCOUTS OFF FOR CAMP AT LAKE GEORGE.

The boy scouts from this city left yesterday afternoon in charge of Chauncey Murphey for a two weeks' Indian life on the shores of Lake George in Earnest Thompson Seton's experiment camp. The boys made the trip to Albany on the night boat and from there will go to Lake George by train.

There were six in the party that left this city and one more scout is to be added at the lake. He is Julian Hegey, from Washington, D. C. The boys carried their tepee and camp utensils with them in a large wooden box. It was certainly a happy bunch of youngsters that started for the camp and from all indications they will have the time of their lives.

Those in the party were: Chauncey Murphey, Cedric Ostrom, Frank Dunning, Jr., Murdock Hetfield, Scylur Line and William Thompson.

James Davis Going to Texas.

James Davis has resigned his position as manager for the Plainfield Cab Company, of which William J. Hudson is the owner, and will leave tomorrow for El Paso, Texas, where he will take a position as manager for a large stable, where more than two hundred horses are kept. He will be joined later by his family. John Foster, of the cab company, will succeed Mr. Davis.

AFTER M'CARDELL'S SCALP

Fowler, It is Said, Trying to Prevent the Re-appointment of Factory Inspector.

BECAUSE HE IS FOR RUNYON.

Trenton, Aug. 17.—As a result of the factional fight among the Republicans of Union county over the question of whether or not Representative Charles N. Fowler is to be renominated, efforts are being made to induce Governor Fort to refuse to re-appoint Andrew McCardell, of Plainfield, as one of the inspectors of the State Bureau of Labor, a job that pays $1,500 per annum.

For many years McCardell has been one of the staunchest supporters of Fowler in Union county, but when William N. Runyon announced his candidacy against Fowler, McCardell lined up in favor of his fellow townsman. McCardell is foreman of the foundry department of the Pond Tool Machine Company, of which James T. MacMurray, city clerk of Plainfield, is general superintendent. McCardell and MacMurray have always worked together in politics, but they took different sides in the Fowler-Runyon contest. MacMurray remained faithful to Fowler, and except for Charles H. Codding, deputy supreme court clerk, who lives in Westfield, is the most influential friend the Congressman has in Union county.

Notwithstanding their close business association, MacMurray is out after McCardell's scalp as an office holder, and he and Fowler are doing their best to induce the Governor to refuse to appoint McCardell.

The impression prevails about the State House that McCardell will be reappointed. He has the endorsement of Senator Ackerman and Commissioner Bryant, of the Labor Department, is said to be satisfied with the way he has handled his job since he entered the service six years ago.

It was reported today that Councilman William L. Gloak is a candidate for Mr. McCardell's position, and that he has the support of Mr. MacMurray. Mr. Gloak is now one of the State tenement house inspectors, and it is said, that he would look with favor on the appointment of factory inspector which has a larger salary attached. It is known that Mr. MacMurray and Mr. Gloak are warm friends and the former, under the circumstances, would naturally do what he could to advance the interest of Mr. Gloak's candidacy.

BUTCHER'S HORSE WRECKS WAGON IN MAD RACE.

A horse belonging to Frank Vanderhoff, a butcher in the City Market, became frightened on Fifth street, yesterday afternoon, and started on a mad race down Watchung avenue. The horse was hitched to a butcher wagon, which was driven by a young boy.

The animal made good use of its heels and demolished the dashboard of the wagon. Not content with this, the horse banged his load against a telegraph pole, and wrecked the wagon completely. The young boy was thrown backward by the force of the impact and rolled out of the wagon uninjured.

The steed then broke loose from the wagon and ran madly up Watchung avenue. At the corner of North avenue the horse slipped on the wet pavement and fell. Several bystanders grabbed the animal and returned it to the owner.

Ham and Eggs Too Much.

Ham and eggs for breakfast and ham and eggs for dinner with luncheon on ham and eggs was too much for William Brownell yesterday and he told his wife so. Then things began to fly. Brownell received a black eye from his wife who handed him the decoration without an apology. Brownell says his grub had too much of a sameness to suit his jaded palate. Mrs. Brownell declared that the grub was good enough for any man whether it was served every day or every week and if her husband did not like her cooking he could provide something different. It is believed that a change will take place soon.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

A great boom in property is going on all around this section. The Van Court and Knight farms have recently been sold and it is rumored a syndicate is about to buy D. M. Kellogg's farm formerly owned by John I. Holly, and known as the Holly Grove farm. Judge Smith, who has the finest farm in this vicinity for improvement being nearest Plainfield of any above mentioned and seven minutes from the railroad, has just refused a most flattering offer, although he is willing to sell.

Henry A. Meeker, who lived on a farm here for many years, is still with the Nevada Consolidated Copper Company, whose office is in New York city. He is a graduate of the Plainfield High School and at present is camping at Greenwood Lake with Philip Smith and Robert Morrison.

Mr. Galligan's house is rapidly nearing completion and when finished will be an ornament to the village. Everyone seems to be outdoing each other in painting and fixing up their premises.

Mr. Chamberlain, who bought the Quinn property, is putting a new roof on his house and barn, and making extensive improvements around his place.

Tony Alsop was fined five dollars and costs by Judge Smith last night for assault and battery.

WESTFIELD.

W. E. Tucker, of Rahway, has bought a large lot on the corner of Dudley and Harrison avenues, where he expects to erect a large residence.

Chief Thomas O'Neil, of the Westfield police, returned to his duties Monday after a vacation of two weeks.

H. C. Piker, of the Board of Assessors, is seriously ill at his home. Heart trouble is his ailment.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

On Sunday afternoon on the Madison avenue grounds, the Star A. C. was defeated by the Dunellen Chiefs in an exciting twelve-inning battle by the score of 8-7. Both teams did some classy playing and the entertainment was enjoyed by many of the borough citizens. Such games are unusual among the small teams of the village. The teams lined up as follows: Chiefs—McFadden, p.; Purnell, c.; McGovern, 1b.; Gray, 2b.; Schottinger, ss.; Hannan, 3b.; Waldron, lf.; Wyckoff, rf.; Block, cf. Stars—Lenow, p.; Fisher, c.; Benson, 1b.; Ritter, 2b.; Quinn, 3b.; O'Leary, ss., Harris, rf., Greenall, cf., Sheenan, lf.

Frank Margentino, of North avenue, is rejoicing over the return of his prodigal fox-terrier, which wandered away from the fold two weeks ago, and as far as Frank knows, has been living with the swine ever since. The little dog came slowly walking into the Margentino residence Monday with his little tail a wagging, thus completing the old song "Leave them alone and they will come home, wagging their tails behind them."

Viola Braund, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Braun, of Prospect avenue, was buried yesterday in the South Plainfield cemetery. The little girl was only three weeks old.

A special meeting of the Borough Council was held in the town hall last night. The sewer and water matters were brought up before the borough fathers at the meeting.

One of the glass show windows in Clarence T. Voorhees' butcher shop on North avenue was accidentally broken by one of the rogueish borough youths on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Carman, of North avenue, are rejoicing over the arival of a baby girl.

Mrs. Josephine Vance spent Sunday in Providence, R. I.

13th Annual Sale of Furs

Read This Extensive List of Coats, Collars and Muffs

Regular season's prices, one-quarter to one-third higher than quoted prices.

It is a great source of satisfaction to know that the stamp of approval has been so largely given to the L. S. Plaut & Co.'s magnificent display of furs, presented here in styles for the Fall and Winter season of 1910-11. As we have already said:

Quality and Style

means more to discriminating women than the mere heralding of a low price which represents nothing but cheapness. It is not our ambition to reduce the workmanship of the L.S. Plaut & Co.'s furs to a sweatshop basis, or to search the market for those dealers who make a specialty of second grade and mended goods in order to quote such inferior goods a dollar or two cheaper. We believe the women of Newark and vicinity want reliable merchandise, and the great stock shown here demonstrates our faith in their good judgment. Comparisons are not odios to us—we welcome them in order to strengthen our position—but we have yet to hear any unfavorable opinion of either our styles, our qualities or our prices.

Beware Camden, Plainfield is coming!

You catch the drift that the Merchants' games tomorrow are scheduled to start at 1.30? Those Merchants are keen business men every one of them and so they're going to start that double header early so as not to miss any of the next day's trade.

And now why shouldn't the cops, firemen and postmen be representatives of this "city beautiful" on the diamond, as well as the merchants? Then there are the politicians, doctors, lawyers and ministers to make the other necessary teams in the league.

Jack Peacock is the most consistent player on the Y. M. C. A. team. He seldom makes a fielding error and his batting is right along amidst the top-notchers.

Baseball is again a funny thing—Proof No. 635,729: The Philadelphia Athletics defeated the Cleveland team yesterday by the muddy score (in other words they were swamped) of 18-3. But—now that doesn't sound peculiar—but (as we say once more) Philadelphia made 14 runs in the last two innings, even when everyone thought that the game would have to go to extra rounds.

Two games on the Oval Saturday afternoon to make up for lost time last week. The Plainfield Y. M. C. A. team has for its opponents the Newark Y. M. C. A. nine and the Plainfield B. B. Club crosses bats with the strong Dunellen team. The Y. M. C. A. nine expects a hard fight from those Newark boys and is preparing itself for them. Dunellen will undoubtedly make the Plainfield team keep on the jump and if Smiling Jimmie is in any kind of form whatsoever, the boroughites have a good chance of taking home the Plainfield scalp.

Poor Lew Wiltse, the former Plainfield boy, is certainly getting his bumps this year for keeps. He was just recently released from the Syracuse Club of the New York State League.

That boy Conty of the Raritan Juniors will be heard from some day. He showed up with the stars in the game with the Plainfield Y. M. C. A. The lad certainly is there as a second sacker.

Tom and Bill Mullin swapped their positions on Saturday. Bill whose regular berth has been in right field with the Plainfield team took Tom's place at shortstop on the Scotch Plains nine and vica versa. The change worked O. K.

There isn't much shouting to the playing of Barnes, the Plainfield first baseman, but the initial sacker gets there just the same.

Warry McLaughlin is slated to pitch for the local herd of Elks at Camden, Thursday. It is extremely likely that Howard Craig, the old Plainfield High School and Y. M. C. A. phenom, will be on the third station. And as you know Howard is a clouter for he has fed on singles from the time the he was old enough to walk. He had a double once in a while for dessert.

ADVERTISE IN THE DAILY PRESS

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

Voting on Senator.

The difference between Franklin Murphy and the Sunday Call in regard to the popular vote upon the election of United States Senators is that he favors retaining the present method of selecting Senators by a legislative vote, but approves the law which enables voters to express a preference, although it is not binding; while the Sunday Call favors electing Senators by the direct vote, but opposes the expression of a preference without responsibility on the part of the voter. Naturally, our view seems more reasonable to us than any of the other schemes proposed by hasty reformers, and approved by some political leaders.

In a general way, we believe this government should maintain the representative method, but should labor constantly to make it more truly representative, so that eventually there may be actual government by the people, as democratic as possible, with provision for simplicity and convenience. A representative government may be as completely democratic as the first Saxon ever desired. When the American Government was instituted there was natural fear of mob rule, and many conservative barriers were erected. It has been practicable, as the nation has stood the tests of time, to give the people a greater voice in the management of their affairs. It seems to us that one step which could now be taken to bring the people nearer the government would be to permit the people of the States to elect their Senators at the polls, instead of leaving the choice to the Legislatures. A constitutional amendment is necessary, and the present Senate has long refused it.

Now, to elect United States Senators by the popular vote is a very different thing from voting at the primaries in recommendation to the Legislature of some one man. There would then be no responsibility. Members of the Legislature could not be found to elect the successful candidate, and might easily use the results to evade their duty. The people, having no real voice in the matter, would not feel bound to exercise that care which they have shown in choosing officers, and the genuineness of the expression would be subject to grave question. In actual practice, the result in New Jersey would be little more than a travesty. The odds would favor the men from the more populous counties, but each minority expression would be so large as to requ're consideration, and the Legislature would either reach no decision, or be compelled to ignore the vote. It would be quite likely that the choice would lie between James Smith, Jr., and David Baird, unless those two astute politicians have entirely forgotten their cunning.

In short, the primary election preference plan is impracticable and likely to prove unfair. Elect Senators, but let it be an election, not a straw vote.—Newark Sunday Call.

LEADERS SAY FOWLER WILL BE SWAMPED

Trenton, Aug. 17.—Frank H. Smith, chairman of the Union County Republican Committee, and right hand man to Senator John Kean in a political way in the latter's home bailiwick, was here yesterday and had a long conference with State Treasurer Voorhees concerning the situation in the Fifth Congressional district.

Both Messrs. Smith and Voorhees said there was absolutely no doubt in their minds about William N. Runyon, of Plainfield, being successful in his fight for the Republican nomination against Representative Charles N. Fowler. "In my home town of Plainfield, where Fowler has heretofore had lots of support, he will not get a single delegate," said Mr. Smith. "He may get some delegates in Westfield and in a few of the upper wards of Elizabeth, besides some from Warren county, but he will be swamped in the convention."

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

George Long was stricken with paralysis while walking on East Main street, Millville, Monday.

Declared insane through excessive cigarette smoking, James R. Cotton, twenty-one years old, of Haddonfield, was committed to the Camden County Hospital as a patient on Monday.

Company I, Third Regiment, of Woodbury, will take part in the G. A. R. parade at Atlantic City on September 19. Captain Nixon having received word from headquarters to that effect.

Gasoline pirates have been making some good hauls from boathouses along Woodbury Creek. Even the boats are robbed by syphoning. The Woodbury Yacht Club has placed officers at the houses.

Henry Patton, seventy years old, of Porchtown, was instantly killed by the northbound Ocean City express on Monday. Freeholder Harry W. Jones came near meeting a similar fate in trying to save the man, who was deaf.

Coroner Litchfield on Monday held an inquest in the case of Rebecca Butler, seevnty-two years old, mother of Councilman Butler, who was killed by falling downstairs at the residence of her son in Gloucester, and found death was accidental.

Harold B. Ayres, president of the Asbury Park Carnival Commission, is confined to his bed as the result of a wrenched side sustained when he stopped a runaway Sunday. Mr. Ayres was pulled sharply sideways as he grasped the horse's bridle.

Jonathan McCarmack, fifty years old, fireman on a tugboat, made a mis-step in the dark from the Beverly wharf to a barge, fell into the river, struck his head against the side of the boat and sank without a cry. The body was recovered and sent to relatives at Richmond, Va.

Michael Seinist, of 1719 Van Buren street, Camden, who was badly scalded about the body Monday by an explosion at the Camden Licorice Works, is expected to recover. He was working near a tank filled with boiling water and steam, when the jacket blew off and he was drenched with the hot fluid.

Mr. and Mrs. Xavier Walters, of Riverside, were remarried Monday by Rev. T. J. Goth at St. Peter's Roman Catholic Church after passing fifty healthy years of married life. Mr. Walters, possessor of much real estate, retired from active business life many years ago. A multitude of residents met them at the church door, and deluged them with rice.

After a chase of more than a mile on Monday Fire Chief Alfred Davis and Policemen Rigney and Smith, of Bayonne, caught one of the three youths who are charged with sending in two false alarms. The entire department was called out. The captured boy is John Zellman, of 163 West Twenty-fourth street, Bayonne. He was remanded and the police are searching for his chums.

Mrs. Mary Eisenberg was looking from a window in her home, 534 Avenue C, Bayonne, on Monday, when she saw her little son Bernard playing about a bonfire. Before she could warn him to keep away the child's clothes caught fire. Mrs. Eisenberg rushed to the street and grasped her son in her arms. She managed to stamp out the flames, but both she and the boy were burned severely. She ran all the way to the hospital with the child.

The Asbury Park budget, adopted by council Monday night after a conference last week, shows a total of $206,024.61. The Board of Health receives an additional $700. There is a slight decrease in the library appropriation. Lighting is lifted $1,000. The police fund remains stationary. Water construction is reduced to a nominal figure, compared with last year's expenditure. An additional $400 is secured for advertising and 3$,000 is added to the maintenance appropriation. An appropriation of $2,000 is included for the Ocean boulevard route around Wesley Lake. Streets and parks are availed $5,000, as against $4,500 last year. The poor will have the benefit of an additional $500.

On Nagging.

My son taught me a lesson on the subject of "nagging" when he was but four years old and one that I have never forgotten. He had been guilty of a small misdemeanor and had tried to wriggle out of it by not telling the exact truth. I gave him a mild spanking and, as has always been my custom, talked the matter over afterward. I began by saying, "Now, Robert, if you had told me the truth I should not have punished you."

He stood before me, scraping one foot along the carpet, and he looked up at me and said, "What would you have done?" And I answered, "I should have only talked to you." "Well," he drawled, "how long would you have talked?"

He is a big boy in high school now, but when times arise requiring a reprimand and I get started I still hear that little voice, "How long would you have talked?" and I go right to the point and say what I have to say on the subject; but, in the boy's own language, I "cut it short" and never refer to it again unless it is absolutely necessary.—Harper's Bazar.

Killing a Bull Without a Weapon.

Cayetano, a famous Spanish toreador, once was strolling across a meadow with a couple of friends when his attention was attracted by an old and infuriated bull which was galloping toward them with lowered head and erect tail. Cayetano had no weapon, not even a cane, but he seized a dust coat which one of his friends was carrying over his arm. As soon as the bull got close to them Cayetano bade his companions make their escape while he engaged the animal's attention. Using the coat as a capa, he drove the bull crazy with fury, stepping aside with the deftest agility at each of the animal's charges. In this manner he caused the bull to turn sharply in the midst of its onward rushes until finally an ominous crack was heard, and the bull fell in a heap, with its backbone broken by the sudden wrench given by the animal's abrupt swerve.

A Lincoln Anecdote.

"One of the comical characters in Washington during the war was jolly old Isaac Newton, the Philadelphia Quaker whom Lincoln appointed commissioner of agriculture—a new office just created by congress. Newton, who tried and at the same time amused the president, had made his reputation on a dairy farm. Beyond this he knew little of agriculture.

"Hearing which, I could not refrain from asking Lincoln why he had appointed such an ignorant man to the office.

"'Because I think he's competent enough to attend to all the agriculture we will have till the war is ended,' was the answer."

The Long Silence.

"Yes, we are pretty comfortably fixed here," admitted a veteran employee in the reading room of the Congressional library when a visitor envied him his soft berth and comfortable surroundings. "But there's one thing we long for—yes, thirst for with a burning thirst. That's noise—a real, nerve racking, ear splitting noise. The long hours of soft silence, the dead stillness of everything about, grows so oppressive that at times we could shriek out. We get into a sort of sickroom tiptoe and a low tone of voice that finally degenerates into a whisper even at the telephone. Give us an occasional battery of artillery or a roaring lion or a steam calliope. Even a squalling baby would help some."—Washington Star.

Just a Blunder.

Sir Uptree Moniless (who has got old Coldkash in a corner at the club)—Mr. Coldkash, your daughter is the idol of my life, the one hope and aim of my existence. Might I dare hope that some day I may be permitted to call her wife?

Mr. Coldkash (astounded)—But, my dear sir, I have no daughter.

Sir Uptree M.—Oh, pardon me! Somebody told me that you had. Let's have a drink.—London Scraps.

The Decoy.

"I notice," said the man to the parson, "that, although I am in the front pew, there is always a five dollar bill on the collection plate when it comes to me. Is that the contribution of the man who takes up the collection?"

"Not at all," replied the parson, who believed in business methods. "That's our decoy."—Detroit Free Press.

She Thought Right.

Mrs. Young—I want to get a divorce from my husband. Lawyer—Well, what are your charges? Mrs. Young—My charges? Mercy! I thought I'd have to pay you.—Boston Transcript.

A Duke's Maxim.

It was a maxim of the first Duke of Portland, who was a great lover of race horses, that there were only two places where all men are equal—on the turf and under the turf.

Sir Walter's Knock.

"Raff on the cloak," remarked Sir Walter Raleigh as he spread down his velvet garment before Queen Elizabeth. He could not resist giving her this little wrap.

Just the Contrary.

"I suppose you're one of those idiots that touch wet paint to see if it's dry."

"No, I'm not. I touch it to see if it's wet."—London Punch.

A straight line is shortest in morals as well as in geometry.—Rabel.

CURED TO STAY CURED.

If you suffer from a backache—
From any disease of the kidneys,
Be cured to stay cured.
Doan's Kidney Pills make lasting cures.
Plainfield people testify.
Here's one case of it:

Mrs. J. Mottley, 546 West Sixth street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills cured me of kidney trouble three years ago and I have never had a return of it since. I am glad to confirm the public statement I gave in favor of this remedy at that time."

The endorsement to which Mrs. Mottley refers was given on August 26th, 1905, and was substantially as follows: "About two months ago I was seized by a severe backache and dull pains in the top and back part of my head. I could not rest well and had no strength or energy to do my housework. Doan's Kidney Pills which I procured at Randolph's drug store, gave me prompt relief and I am convinced that they are a first-class remedy."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Royal Mistakes.

Sovereigns and princes are strangely given to making astonishing mistakes while dealing with dates. The inscription on King Edward VII.'s coffin that he died in the ninth year of his reign instead of the tenth is only an example of many similar errors. In November, 1858, Queen Victoria wrote to the late king to inform him that he might consider himself emancipated from parental authority and control, as he was now eighteen years old and therefore of age. Her majesty's letter, which was very long, was a quasi sermon, and it ended by informing the then Prince of Wales that he would be forthwith made a knight of the Garter and a colonel in the army. How Queen Victoria and Prince Albert fell into so extraordinary a mistake it is impossible to understand, for the prince had only then completed his seventeenth year. Dean Wellesley, to whom the young prince showed the letter, at once detected the serious error into which the queen had fallen, but he thought it best to say nothing.—London Truth.

Got Full Measure.

All yesterday James had played truant from school, and when the irate master raised his cane threateningly James burst into a flood of tears.

"Please don't lick me, sir," he sobbed.

"And why should I not lick you, pray?" thundered the schoolmaster.

"W'y, sir, 'cos I think I've 'ad enough!" gasped James. "Yesterday the boy as I played truant with and I fell out and he licked me, and a man we threw stones at caught me and licked me, the driver of a cart we hung on to licked me, the owner of a cat we chased licked me. Then when I got home mother licked me, and after that father licked me, and then mother licked me again for calling her a sneak for telling father."

"Well," responded the master grimly, "by this time one licking more or less won't make much difference, and it seems hard I shouldn't have my whack. Come here, sir!"—London Answers.

Remnants of a College Course.

Prosecuting Attorney (examining a prospective juror)—Do you know anything about chemistry?

"I studied it at school."

"Do you think you remember enough of it to make you a competent juror in a poison case?"

"I'm not sure."

"Do you remember any of the formulas?"

"Let me see—two."

"Only two?"

"Yes, sir."

"Are they in a poem?"

(Blushing) "Yes, sir."

"Is this the poem?

"Our Willie boy is dead and gone.
We ne'er shall see him more.
What Willie thought was H2O
Was H2SO4."

(Blushing furiously) "Yes, sir."

Went Back on His Authority.

Leslie Stephen's single meeting with Freeman, the historian, was in the nature of a collision. "I came in contact with him only once," he said. "He wrote a life of Alfred for the Dictionary of National Biography under my editorship, but declined to do more because we had a difference of opinion as to whether Athelstane should be spelled with an 'A.' That was, I confess, a question to which I was culpably indifferent, but I had taken competent advice, and my system (I forget what it was) had been elsewhere sanctioned by the great historian Stubbs. Now, as Freeman was never tired of asserting the infallibility of Stubbs, I innocently thought that I might take refuge behind so eminent an authority. The result was that for once Freeman blasphemed Stubbs and refused to cooperate any longer in an unscholarlike enterprise."

Three Men.

When H. H. Rogers was in the prime of his power, says a New York writer, he formed a "friendship partnership" with Mark Twain and Thomas Brackett Reed and took personal charge of their affairs, looking after them as he would a couple of children. It was great fun for all three, and especially Rogers. Neither Clemens nor Reed had any sense for business. The big ex-speaker came to New York a poor man. Five years later he died suddenly, and his estate assayed over $600,000. He probably had no idea what he was worth at any stage. Rogers made as much or more money for Clemens.

A ROMANCE OF FLYING

CHAPTER XI.

THE AERONEF VIRGINIA.

VIRGINIA, left alone, was rather glad of it. Her desertion of the Shaynes was a crisis in her life. She had acted impulsively in a matter of great moment and needed time for thought. She had taken flight to Carson's Landing and to shelter in the shade of the sole remaining branch of her family tree, full of confidence that she would find there a silver haired uncle and a delicate old lavender aunt, redolent of the old regime and ready to receive her tenderly loyal to the Carson blood.

Instead of silver hair, Theodore, the audaciously false uncle, had the "little, silky kid's mustache," and there was no aunt. The grandniece of old General Carson, related to Theodore Carson by no chain of descent save the dubious one of the original third Carson brother of hundreds of years ago and the ownership of this plantation, was weakly allowed to assume kinship from the place and name and never thought of sitting down with Theodore and tracing the thing out. She wondered just what the relationship was anyhow. Chloe said that Cahsonses were Cahsonses, and she never bothered about different kinds. He couldn't be a real uncle, Virginia felt sure of that. He might be a son of General Carson by a second wife. He was the head of the family anyhow. She must be satisfied with that.

Of his invention, save that it was in the mysterious shed, chosen because of its remoteness and its unobstructed beach, she really knew nothing. She began to wonder now whether he was a world's genius or only the crude product of a country college, with nothing to command a second glance except his sinewy erectness, the pathetic yearning in his eyes and the wonderful softness in his voice.

"Uncle Theodore," suggested Virginia to Mrs. Stott, "has invited us to visit him. And, do you know, I think we'll go back with the captain if you can overcome your aversion to the water."

"Will the bay be rough?" asked Mrs. Stott as if confident that the captain served out the weather.

"Dead ca'm, ma'am."

"We'll go," said Mrs. Stott.

The ladies hurriedly packed their dunnage and embarked. They were a gay party. Virginia was full of laughter. Her color rose and her eyes dilated as they took the stream early enough to let them through the new canal into the lagoon by daylight.

"Do you see any signs of a storm?" asked Mrs. Stott, noting his upward glances.

"No, ma'am," he returned. "Ah was just tryin' to make out if Ah'd eve' seen that craft befo' aloft thah."

The craft alluded to was a great silver Condor, gleaming in the sun.

Virginia studied her absorbedly with her field glasses.

"I think," said Virginia, "that she's the Roc. I'm sure of it."

"Yes, ma'am," replied Harrod.

"She's lyin' to," said the captain. "Thah goes huh lift down."

"Why," asked Virginia wonderingly, "what can she want over there in the woods?"

"She's jist about ove' yo' home, ma'am," said Harrod.

Virginia grew pale and, asking for the glass, scanned the great aerostat with the lowered lift, like a nexus, to the ground.

"Can't you go a little faster?" said she, laying down the binoculars.

"Aftah we clear Week's bay," said the captain.

Once clear of the channel, they stood for the south shore, the engines firing in continuous explosion. Suddenly with a little scream Virginia leaned out to look upward past the awning. In the water, instead of bird or sail or cloud, she had seen, coming up from the depths under their rail, the Roc, under full speed, her great engines purring like tiger cats, her screws shimmering, her giant hull a resplendent bubble of steel. Looking up, Virginia saw her overhead and cowered back into the boat, for peering over the rail and calling like an evil bird was Silberberg.

"Shall Ah answer the hail, miss?" asked the captain.

"No!" whispered Virginia. "Take no notice, I beg of you, captain!"

The Roc swept on like a meteor, leaving the launch behind. Virginia asked the captain if he supposed she had been recognized.

"Ah reckon not, miss," said he. "Jist a chance meetin', Ah reckon. She's come to, raght ove' the inn," said the captain.

Virginia sat under the middle of the awning, quite in a tremble. The boat slowly threaded the shelly entrance to the bayou and passed the wharf of the inn. The people on the quay were craning their necks at the descent of the passengers from the Roc.

"Hurry, captain, hurry!" urged Virginia.

"Ah cain't, ma'am," said he. "Ah'll nev[illegible] ne to a minute fon that [illegible] Neve[illegible] fear, miss; yo' all raght with me!"

"Here you see," said a voice from the wharf, "two soon to be discarded modes of navigation—the boat displacing water and the aerostat floating in the air upheld by gas. The hydroplane must replace the boat; the aeronef, the aerostat. I have made a specialty of this, I know. The value of that cigar shaped craft up there as junk, deducted from her present value, is the measure of Mr. Finley Shayne's loss when our big show opens its ticket wagon. Seest thou?"

Virginia looked attentively at the speaker, startled to hear her uncle's name mentioned almost in his presence. She saw a youngish man of medium height, thin habit of body and long, thick hair, who was gazing, with every appearance of interest, not at the airship, but at a lady of perhaps twenty-seven years, short, plump, admiratly gowned in a sort of reduced half mourning, with her jolly little face turned toward the Roc, her brown hair tousled about her face, her prominent little chin carrying the facial angle forward and downward.

"That talk will do with me," said she, "but you've got to show papa something besides oratory pretty soon or there'll be trouble. He tells me that you and Mr. Carson are the first ever to sell him a gold brick, and he proposes to make an example of you. You're supposed to be in custody now. Why, here's papa!"

Mr. Waddy came down the wharf, combing his whiskers and mustache out in front of his nose with his fingers. As Harrod's boat glided within arm's length of the wharf the lift descended from the airship, filling Virginia with terror.

"I don't think I'll get you another posy, Caroline," said the old man, "picking it to bits like that."

"I'm trying my fortune," said she, with a little embarrassed laugh.

"Humph!" said her father.

The younger man, seemingly recovered from his perplexity, was touching the row of buttons one by one, and as the launch gathered way Virginia heard him say to button after button: "She loves me! She loves me not! She loves me! Hooray!"

The shout greeted the favorable answer of the oracle. The lady, as if feeling the fingers in her curls, turned and gently slapped the gentleman's ears. The launch shot into the canal and out of sight. The ladies were made sole owners of Carson's cabin, and the men kept with the aeronef by night, while by day Captain Harrod stood by to aid Theodore, slipping away to the top of the dunes at times to scan the offing for the slimy nosed Stickleback, inexplicably reappearing with her oval deck just awash, her thin, semi-invisible periscope in air. Having arranged with Reagan for a cessation of the contraband business until the aeronef was off the stocks, the captain was worried. He waved the Chautauqua salute one day, whereupon the submarine sounded like a gallied rorqual. The captain's ingenuity was not equal to the task of developing a theory to account for her presence or her alarm.

Carson suddenly became possessed of an unremitting energy that commanded Virginia's admiration. As he told her again of his struggles, his experiments, his falling into the garden of Dr. Witherspoon, his meeting with Craighead, the financial embarrassment of Mr. Waddy and of the puzzling messages he had received she became an enthusiast too.

"I'd like to meet Mr. Craighead," said she. "I'd like to feel sure that he can secure a monopoly of the navigation of the air."

"You might form an opinion of him," said he, "by reading his telegrams."

"Of whom?" inquired Virginia, evidently thinking of something else.

"Craighead," replied Carson. "Here they are. What do you think of them?"

The first was dated Charleston, W. Va. "Air products incorporated," it ran. "Immense sensation in trust incubator and brooder. Why don't I hear from illustrious co-conspirator? Craighead, the Plute."

"Tries to be humorous," said Virginia. "Let's see the next."

The next date was dated. "En route to Cosmopolis from Incubator," and was unsigned. "To him who commands the winds, from him who winds the commands, greeting," it ran. "Be of good cheer. The train is laid, the gin is set, the dogs of war strain forward in the leash. But is there any aeronef? Broom end of pipe dream assumes terrifying concreteness. Noble, sir, assure me of thine! Just wire saying you are you and there is an aeronef, collect!"

"Did you answer this?" asked Virginia.

Theodore shook his head.

"It was days and days before I got it."

"Why didn't he send it to the plantation?" asked Virginia.

"I gave him this address," said Theodore. "I—I stayed there too—too long."

He opened the gyroscope globe and began running the engines lightly, setting the heavy little wheels spinning, rocking the aeronef from side to side to note the operation of the balancing devices. Preserving their perpendicularity, as if of intelligent purpose, the gyroscopes moved the levers of the wing differentials which would accelerate the propeller wheels of the lowered wing and correspondingly slow the upper. Right or left, stern or bow, the depressed area would work the harder, the raised part slower, while powerful rudders co-operated, moving like a fish's fins, even now while the propeller rested. Theodore was getting past an awkward reference to his long stay at the plantation by a painstaking examination of the brain of his airship.

"See how it works, Virginia," he exclaimed. "It knows the levers to be moved. Why, if a puff starts to overturn her she'll strike with the lowered wings alone like a bird. And see the intelligence of those rudders! And Wizner said she'd turn turtle!"

"And Mr. Craighead doesn't get any report of all this! What must he think?"

"I told him about it," said Theodore proudly. "And it was no time to telegraph apologies. It was a time to work."

Virginia opened another of Craighead's telegrams. It was addressed to Palmetto Beach, "or somewhere it is hoped," and seemed to be regarded by Craighead as very important. "My luck hath turned! It is Craighead Felix now," said he. "Have found a gang of grafters organized to get us grants in no time; will cinch New York by Friday; Chicago already hemmed in. New thought—fee of roads in grangers everywhere. Will secure title except for road purposes. Shayne, thy sun sets apace! Whoop! Whoop! Whoopee! We've got 'em, we've got 'em! Caroline's dad ready to bust all eight banks to back scheme. You must make good, Theodorie. Answer for the sake of divine pity just one leetle teeney peep! Napoleon Bonaparte Hannibal Miltiades Craighead."

"What does he mean," asked Virginia, "by all this about grants, highways and fee simple? It's awfully queer."

"I don't know," replied Carson. "Some visionary thing."

"And who is Caroline?" asked Virginia.

"Mrs. Graybill, Mr. Waddy's daughter. Now, listen, Virginia, and watch. She's ready to try."

He threw in the clutch, and the wings began whirring like great buzzes. Faster and faster the wing sections whirled until the aeronef strained upward on her lashings like a restive horse. Theodore tipped a lever, and she leaped forward, stretching the ropes at an angle of forty-five degrees. He reversed it, and she slacked backward, as might an eagle repulsed by a foe. Virginia swung her hat and shouted.

"Pull the line on the end of that wing," said he, "and see if you can tip her. Pull!"

Virginia walked gingerly forward, her dress flying, her hat whisked to the top of the room. Grasping the flying rope end, she pulled downward. The wings settled slightly, and then as the gyroscope brain felt the depression the lowered wings lifted as if consciously rising to a load. It was marvelous.

"Can't you pull harder?" cried Theodore, bareheaded, his hair flying. "Try."

Reaching up, she pulled herself clear of the floor, her strong little form swaying like a most charming pendulum. The enormous dragon fly, throwing its power into the depressing wing, rode level, with nine stone weight of solid American girl dangling from the tip of one wing—a mechanical paradox. The boat stood in air as level as a ship in a calm.

"Hurrah!" shouted Theodore, swinging his arms. "Never anything like it in the world. Carried you on one wing and kept level. Hurrah for the Virginia!"

He eased her down and stepped to where Virginia waited, hands outstretched, red from the rough rope, hair blown abroad.

"And are you going to name her that?" she cried. "Oh, how perfectly dear of you!"

Theodore held the chafed hands, triumph in his face. He opened the little red palms and kissed them over and over again. Mrs. Stott came in and saw him doing it.

"I hurt my hands," said Virginia, showing them. "And uncle is kissing them well."

"Very kind and self sacrificing, I'm sure," replied Mrs. Stott.

BASEBALL.

Somerville certainly had an easy time blanking Flemington, Saturday afternoon. And the Somerville boys did the trick to the extent of 14 to 0.

Snodgrass, that Giant catcher, is still in the tall weeds on the batting list.

Here's hoping for clear weather tomorrow and Saturday.

Team Wants Games.

The Fourth street A. C. baseball team would like to arrange games with teams whose members range in age from ten to fourteen years. The Fourth Streets have an enviable record of victories. All aspirants for the scalps of this team should call at 402 Washington street.

Miss Louise Foote, of Buffalo, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Schuck, of West Sixth street.

LOCAL ELKS TO INVADE CAMDEN TOMORROW

The doughty warriors of the local Elks' basebal team will fare forth tomorrow morning on the 10.43 train for Camden where they will attempt to break the winning streak of the Camdenites and incidentally make a display of their new uniforms. This latter adjunct to a well organized baseball team promises to be the sensation of the baseball season.

The suits, which have been made by the New York Sporting Goods Company, are of white flannel with purple trimmings. On the front of the shirts will appear the letters B. P. O. E. in red, while the sleeves will be decorated with the antlered head, the symbol of the order. Black stockings with a single broad band of purple just above the ankle will identify the pedal extremities of the locals and bring terror to the hearts of their opponents.

According to a forecast issued by a home sport there will be nothing to it but Plainfield when Warry McLaughlin and Torpey get into their stride. With MacNaughton on first and the rest of Capt. Hoyt's promising colts working like well-greased machinery it will fare ill for those who would take liberties with Plainfield, No. 885 tomorrow.

A special car will be attached to the 10.43 tomorrow morning and a special rate of $2.80 has been secured for members for the round trip. The train on the return journey will leave Philadelphia at 9 o'clock and reach home, barring accidents at a little after 10 o'clock. So far nearly twenty-five members of the local lodge have signified their intentions of attending the game.

LOCAL MERCHANTS WILL PLAY A DOUBLE-HEADER

Provided that the weather man permits, there will be two exciting (?) games on the Oval tomorrow afternoon, when the East and West Front street merchants clash in the second and third battles of the series of summer games. The first contest starts at 1:30 sharp and if there is time enough after that game, the second exhibition will be run off.

But if the spirit of the East Front streeters counts for anything, both games will be hair-raisers. The East Enders are writhing under the humiliation which they suffered two weeks ago at the hands of their contemporaries, and so they are going out tomorrow with the "do or die" spirit in their craniums and plenty of elbow grease behind their bats. Of course the West Front street "stand-behind-the-counters" are anxious to uphold their reputations as champion ball players, and consequently they will have lots of glue in their mits and will have their eagle batting eyes working.

Captain Lohrman, the big chief of the East Enders, said this morning: "Those West Front street boys have got to go some to scalp us tomorrow. We're out for blood." Manager Weinberger of the West Enders says that every member of his team is in fine fettle and consequently he has clothed them with plenty of determination.

Lohrman and Luthman will be in the points for the East Front street team, while the Wilson brothers will do the battery work for the other side. Both of these pitchers, Lohrman and Morris Wilson, showed up well in the last game although the former weakened in the fifth inning. Nevertheless, Lohrman will twirl again, and he says that he has some new twisters up his sleeve that will fool 'em.

VICTORY SURE, SAYS 'JIM'

"Farmer Orator" Tells Democrats on Outing That They are Certain to Win.

LIVELY BOOM FOR W. E. TUTTLE

Political Bee Buzzes and Many Candidates are Discussed on Trip to Witzel's Point Grove.

James E. Martine, of this city, who has once more entered the political arena, this time seeking a seat in the United States Senate to succeed John Kean, together with one thousand other Democrats, were aboard the Steamer Sirius, yesterday, and enjoyed the annual outing of Union County Democrats at Witzel's Point Grove, on Long Island. The outing was attended by almost every influential Democrat in the county, including County Chairman William E. Tuttle and General Dennis F. Collins.

One notable feature, aside from the strength added to Mr. Martine's boom, was that William E. Tuttle, was prominently named for the Congressional nomination, and he was the unanimous choice of the party on the outing. Everybody had a good word for Mr. Martine and gave him assurance that he would be successful in his candidacy.

"I firmly believe," said Mr. Martine, "that the next House of Representatives will be Democratic, that the next Governor of New Jersey will be a Democrat, that the New Jersey Assembly next year will have a Democratic majority and that we will gain one or two seats in the Senate.

"Many things have happened during the past year which have enhanced our chances. People all over the State are disgusted with Republican methods. One of the chief factors which will aid the Democrats is the increase in commutation rates. The feeling in this vicinity is not so bitter, but in other sections of the State there are thousands of commuters who will vote against the Republican candidates because of the failure of the last Legislature to enact a public utilities law which would give the State the power to fix rates. Yes, sir, our chances were never brighter."

"Farmer Jim" was the leader in the cheers for Mr. Tuttle, followed by the others in quick succession. Then came another toast for Frank Pfaff, of Elizabeth, for the Assembly. He was given cheers.

From every town in the county there were scores of Democrats who predicted a Democratic success. They believed, they said, that the recent Legislature so dampened the fervor of the Republicans that there will be many G. O. P. votes in the Democratic ballot box.

The majority of those on board seemed to favor Woodrow Wilson for Governor. They pointed out that he is a man of sterling character and would net many votes.

Everything went smoothly. There was not a hitch to mar the program. Leaving the dock at 10.30 a. m., the boat sailed around Staten Island and then up the East River to the grove where dinner was served.

Among those on the outing were: James E. Martine, County Chairman William A. Tuttle, President of Elizabeth Council Alfred A. Stein, Councilmen Patrick J. McGurn, Jeremiah McNamara, John P. Fuhrmann, Michael V. Regan, John F. Byrnes, Peter McGurk, Thomas Durett, Chas. H. Moore, Owen Farrelly, George Schlotterer, Edward Nugent and William Marsh; President of the Board of Fire Commissioners Frederick Kurtz, Fire Commissioner John J. Collins, Secretary to the Fire Commissioners William J. Cox, Chief of the Fire Department August Gerstung, School Commissioners James E. Desmond, James E. Butler, Chas. Matthews, Secretary to the Board of Education Andrew P. Hughes, Tax Assessor Michael Kelly, Comptroller John S. Sauer, City Clerk John F. Kenah, Street Commissioner Nathaniel K. Thompson, City Surveyor William H. Luster, Jr., Assistant City Surveyor John Kreig, Judge Owen P. Mahon, Captain John J. O'Leary, City Treasurer John J. McGrath, of Elizabeth; City Tax Commissioner M. M. Scudder, Assessor J. M. C. Morsh, Major Wheatley, J. Russell Marsh, William Duffy, Bernard Roake, John Goldra, E. Eckel and Charles Burtis, of Westfield; L. J. Ellis, president of the Plainfield Democratic Club, Frank Shattle, Walter L. Hetfield, P. J. Reville, J. V. F. Dilts, of Plainfield.

Mrs. J. C. Foster and daughter, Helen, have returned home after spending two weeks with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Beekman, of Bernardsville.

AUTOISTS WANT REFORM

Will Vote for Candidates Who Will Work for Change in Frelinghuysen Law.

FOUR HUNDRED SIGN APPROVAL

Retaliatory Measures Adopted by Other States Caused by Present New Jersey Statute—Want Road Signs, Too.

New Jersey automobilists met in force in Newark last night to protest against the present unsatisfactory automobile laws and incidentally to draft a set of resolutions in which endorsement is given to candidates for office in the coming elections who shall declare to use their influence for the changing of the Frelinghuysen statute which acts, according to the automobilists, contrary to the interests of the State of New Jersey in relation to license priviliges in other States, and which have been the cause of retaliatory measures in those other commonwealths.

The resolutions, which will be found below, were endorsed by the four hundred members of the New Jersey Automobile Association who were present in the Hall of the Motor Club last night and vigorous work will be commenced at once for the changes desired. Letters from former Governor Franklin Murphy and bthers were read, in which the changes proposed in the present law are approved. Many of the members of the local association were present and added their voices to the general demonstration of approval to the changes desired.

The following resolutions were adopted:

Whereas, The existing automobile statute known as the Frelinghuysen law, with its amendments, has caused our neighboring States to pass retaliatory measures, and

Whereas, The business interests of the State are being effected, tourists of other States being barred from entering our borders until they have filed with the Secretary of State powers of attorney and secured licenses for which compensation is exacted, and

Whereas, Because of this proviso our own citizens are required to take out licenses and pay the full resident license fees at great cost and inconvenience before they can enter the borders of som of our nighboring States, and

Whereas, Approximately $400,000 of the reported $500,000 to be expended by this State in the repair of improved roads during the year is received from the license fees from motorists; threfore be it

Resolved, That the automobilists in this vicinity, in massmeeting assembled, in order to protect the good name of our State, use their influence in the coming election to elect those men to office, regardless of party, who shall pledge themselves to the unqualified support of the motoring interest in passing the following amendments to the present law:

That nonresident automobilists desiring to tour in New Jersey be permitted to do so for a limited period of time without expense to them and without requiring them to take out special licenses or sign powers of attorney before entering the borders of the State, provided they have duly complied with the laws of the States in which they reside;

That the law which was recently passed requiring all vehicles to carry lights at night shall be re-enacted and made so that it can be properly enforced, a minimum penalty fixed, and the fines collected for breaches thereof turned over to the State treasurer, to be spent only on the repair of improved highways.

That the horsepower of cars for license purposes shall be rated A. L. A. M., and not upon the manufacturer's rating.

That in consideration of the large sums received from license fees by the State, automobilists be exempted from further taxation, and that the fees so collected shall be paid in lieu of any and all taxes.

That two thousand dollars ($2,000) per year for a period of at least three years be set aside from the funds paid by the automobilists for licenses, etc., such amount to be used in erecting proper guiding signs upon the highways where required.

DENIES THE ACCUSATION

Jas. T. MacMurray States That He Has Not Interferred with McCardell's Appointment.

NOT IN THAT KIND OF POLITICS.

Says He Has Always Been a Friend of Judge Runyon—Supports Fowler Because He Thinks He is the Best Man.

City Clerk James T. MacMurray, when seen today by a reporter for The Daily Press, denied emphatically that he had been a party to or had made any attempt to prevent the re-appointment of Andrew McCardell, of this city, as one of the State factory inspectors.

"I do not play that kind of politics," said Mr. MacMurray. "I have always been a good friend to Mr. McCardell and certainly would not stoop to such a trick as that. I have not seen Governor Fort for a year. Last spring I went to Trenton to see him about a personal matter, but the Governor was 'ill and I could not meet him at that time.

"While I am not speaking for Congressman Fowler, I feel safe in saying that neither has he been a party to any such scheme. I doubt very much whether he knows that Mr. McCardell is an inspector or has ever given the matter any thought.

"I have always been a friend to Judge William N. Runyon, and no one has ever heard me say a word against him. While I have stood by him in many instances, I certainly have the right to my own opinion as to whom I think is the most able man for an office. I have always been independent in my thoughts and actions, and I think that the people of Plainfield know that fact by this time. I am supporting Mr. Fowler because I believe that he is better fitted for the office he seeks, but as for seeking to prevent Mr. McCardell's re-appointment you can deny it with all the emphasis possible."

E. N. DOWNS NOW FULL-FLEDGED MANAGER

"Variety," the well-known theatrical publication, in this week's issue contains an interesting item about Emery N. Downs, who was formerly employed at Proctor's theatre, this city, and later at Perth Amboy. Mr. Downs has evidently made many friends since going to Atlantic City, as the following will show:

"Emery Newell Downs, who is managing the Criterion, at Atlantic City, has become quite popular since here. He arrived about two months ago to take charge of the Criterion for Marcus Loew and Walter Rosenberg. Since he has blossomed from a 'pop vaude' manager into a real sure enough Henry E. Savage manager he thinks (and with some right) that folks should take notice. Before this tow-headed young man reached our city it seems that he was quite a successful manager of some Proctor houses, having the Union Square and Perth Amboy on his hands. He has also written some pretty god press stories both here and elsewhere, but, of course, modestly kept dark the author. As he is a regular manager now, he has Adam Sowerguy skinned a mile. He expects Col. Savage to supply the orchestra, ticket sellers and stage hands. Of course, he got these ideas when he was a 'pop' manager—that much he admits. But at that he's a pretty good little fellow and deserves to get along."

Big Blaze in Jersey City.

A disastrous fire occurred in Jersey City last night by which $1,000,000 worth of property was wiped out and hundreds of families rendered homeless. Besides one fireman killed outright by coming into contact with a live electric wire, no casualties were reported. The blaze was so fierce that for the first time in twenty-three years the New York fire department was called upon for assistance in extinguishing it. One entire block bounded by Washington, Warren, Steuben and Morgan streets was consumed.

Lawn Festival Tonight.

A lawn festival will be held tonight at the residence of Mrs. Ruschke, 431 West Sixth street, for the benefit of St. Peter's Lutheran church.

Mrs. M. C. Dobbins, of Elmwood place, accompanied by her granddaughter, Erma G. Dobbins, is spending a couple of weeks at Caldwell, Essex county.

LOCAL ADVISORY BOARD ORGANIZED IN THIS CITY

The Plainfield Local Advisory Board, of the Mutual Profit Realty Company, of New York, was organized last night at a banquet given by the company to local people interested in the proposition, at the Waldorf Hotel on East Front street. There were about thirty guests of the company, and after Henry Windham served one of his excellent dinners, the advisory board was organized, W. R. Causebrook being elected secretary. Henry C. Corsa, of this city, is the local agent.

The local bond-holders are William C. Chamberlain, A. H. Rose, W. R. Causebrook, M. A. Causebrook, E. W. Poinier, M. C. Poinier, W. B. Marchant, E. Porst, Martin H. Marchant, Henry C. Corsa, W. W. Allen, Sidney T. Brown, H. P. Chamberlain and W. H. Callahan.

The New York company was formed to trade in real estate and the president, John W. Paris, and the secretary, Elmer Dwiggins, were present last night to explain the objects of the concern. The company is investing solely in New York real estate, chiefly in Queens, where it expects a big bom as soon as adequate transportation facilities are provided The local advisory board is the first one organized and the members here have subscribed to the amount of $30,000 worth of profit sharing bonds. Mr. Dwiggins complimented Mr. Corsa last night for excellent work performed by him in this city. There were also remarks by W. R. Causebrook and W. B. Marchant.

A THOUSAND PEOPLE ON WARREN CHAPEL EXCURSION

Braving the threatening weather this morning, a crowd of a thousand people started for Asbury Park on the excursion conducted by the Warren chapel Sunday-school. The fact that this is the last excursion of the season from this city, induced many dilatory ones to disregard the threatening showers and to pack their lunch boxes for a day's pleasure.

Two sections of ten cars each were needed to carry the throng of people. The first train was entirely filled but in the second, two cars were unoccupied. This excursion got under way at the unusual time of 8.20 with the second section following five minutes later. It is seldom that the excursion trains leave before 8.40.

Although the wind remained in the southeast quarter, the clouds broke away during the morning and except for a chilly breeze, the excursionists should have a most comfortable day. If the weather conditions are favorable toward evening, the Plainfield people will have a chance to witness some of the aeroplane flights, which are taking place this week every afternoon at about 5.30. The trains will leave the Asbury Park station for the return trip at 6.15 p. m.

The executive committee in charge of the excursion is composed of: Joseph W. Gavett, chairman, George Hoagland, Charles Hearn, Theodore Martin, Charles Windham, H. A. Stiglitz and Gibson Smith.

Quarrelled Over Wash.

Mrs. Ida Green had Mrs. Mary Jones of Plainfield avenue, arrested for an alleged breach of the peace in which Mrs. Green declared that Mrs. Jones had used vile language to her while she was hanging out a wash. Both women are colored and after Judge Runyon had heard both sides of the story this morning he suspended sentence, advising both women to behave in future like decent citizens.

Ninety-Two But Still Spry.

Jacob Reiber, of Butler, Pa., is visiting his granddaughter, Mrs. Charles M. Dolliver, the wife of Recorder Dolliver, of Fairview avenue. Mr. Reiber is ninety-two years old, and has been visiting his son, Albert W. Reiber, of West 29th street, New York city, for some time. After his visit in this city last year, Mr. Reiber returned to Butler alone.

BRANDON-CRAIG WEDDING

Couple Married in Bower of Hydrangeas at Home of Bride's Parents.

REV. E. O. BROWN OFFICIATES.

Miss Emma Craig, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Craig, of this city, and Bertram Hamilton Brandon, formerly of this city, but now of Elizabeth, were married at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents, 1834 West Front street, in the presence of about one hundred relatives and friends. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Ernest Brown, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, Dunellen.

The bride was attended by Miss Lillian Chichester, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Howard H. Craig, the brother of the bride, was the best man. The bride was given in marriage by her father. Following the ceremony, a reception was tendered the newly-married couple and the festivities kept up until well into the evening, when Mr. and Mrs. Brandon left for an extended wedding trip.

The house was tastefully decorated with flowers of the season, the parlor being filled with a solid mass of hydrangias. During the reception a wedding supper was served to the bridal party and the guests, by De Molli, the caterer. Among those attending the ceremony were friends and relatives from New York, Alabama, Pennsylvania, Chicago, southern part of New Jersey, Dunellen and this city.

An interesting feature of the wedding was that the bride was married in the same house that her mother was married in many years ago. The bride wore a white cream satin gown, with a point lace veil, and carried a shower bouquet. Miss Chichester's gown was white silk over pink. Her bouquet was of pink orchids.

The bride is well known in this city, being a graduate of the Plainfield High School and connected with many social activities. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Ella Brandon and the late Mathew H. Brandon, who formerly lived on Dunellen avenue. Mr. Brandon now lives in Elizabeth, being engaged in the dry goods business in New York city.

After an extended honeymoon, the destination of which is unknown, Mr. and Mrs. Brandon will make their home in Elizabeth.

WHO CAN GUESS NEAREST TO EXACT POPULATION?

The announcement made in yesterday's Daily Press that the guessing contest for prizes of ten dollars in gold is on has stirred up the interest of lots of the little folks as well as their elders and guesses are pouring into this office in great numbers. Those who want to make a prediction as to what the population of North Ploinfield is and those who want to hazard a guess as to the total number of people living in this city, would better get busy and send in their estimates now.

It will not be many days before the official figures will be announced from Washington. Besides you won't find many five dollar gold pieces growing on the trees hereabouts and the persons making the nearest guess to the actual figures will receive the awards. There are no conditions attached to the guessing excepting that the name and address of the guesser must accompany the guess and that the envelope containing the hazard be directed to "Census," care of the Daily Press. There are two prizes of $5 each. One for guessing the population of this city and the other for that of North Plainfield.

Judge Runyon Reserves Decision.

Additional testimony was taken in the case of the Public Service Railway Company against LeRoy Gwyer in the city court this morning and several witnesses were called by Judge Clarence L. Case, in rebuttal. Arguments for both sides were made and Judge Runyon reserved his decision for a week. S. S. Swackhamer represented Mr. Gwyer and Judge Case, the railway company.

EXHIBITS ROTARY ENGINE

Inventor Tygard Has Perfected His Reversible Turbine Steam Motor.

RUNS WITHOUT ANY VIBRATION.

A reversible rotary steam engine, which has paved the way for a new era in steam power, is being shown this week at the plant of the Spicer Universal Joint Manufacturing Company, by the inventor of the machine, James W. Tygard, of 920 South avenue. The engine, which is truly a little giant, is the result of sixteen years of experimenting by Mr. Tygard in his shop on South avenue. At present these engines are being manufactured in a factory at Pittsburg, Pa.

This little engine resembles a small turbine in appearance, but unlike the turbine, whose power depends upon the expansion of steam in straight lines, Mr. Tygard's invention receives its impulses from a continuous supply of compressed steam. The machine is one of the smallest power plants that is known. It weighs only two hundred and ninety pounds, as opposed to almost twice that weight in a turbine of the same power. Turning up five thousand revolutions a minute, Mr. Tygard's marvelous engine is capable of developing forty horse power. Its slowest speed is one revolution per minute. Unlike the steam turbine, this machine can be reversed and run at exactly the same speed and power as it produces while running in the opposite direction. This engine can be run at one-half the fuel consumption of the ordinary slide valve engine of the same horse power. Mr. Tygard says that one of these machines recently ran for ninety days at twelve hundred revolutions per minute without a stop. During this time the engine was hitched up to an electric generator of twenty-two horse-power.

The working principle of this little engine is this: The steam is admitted through the crank shaft, which runs on Hessbright bearings. There are three ports in this shaft, each of which open into a separate chamber. In each chamber is a rotary cylinder head, against which the steam expands, thus driving the shaft on its revolution. Each of these cylinder heads revolves with the shaft into the next chamber through a steel pocket, which works in unison with the crank shaft. As each cylinder head passes through the chamber, the exhaust port is opened and the waste steam passes out, as the next cylinder head comes into the chamber. The feature of this engine is that when running in the opposite direction the exhaust port acts as the intake and vice-versa.

No valves are used whatsoever except the sliding intake port. There are no cams at all in the machine. The crank case of the engine is made of cast iron while the shaft and rotary heads are of Bessemer steel.

It is expected that the engine will solve the problem of economical power transmission to a considerable degree.

The engine has run suspended on a rope from the ceiling without the slightest vibration. It is expected that the Plainfield inventor will be widely known in engineering circles within a few years.

ELKS OFF FOR CAMDEN TO PLAY BALL.

With every prospect of having a wet day for their game, the warriors from Plainfield Lodge No. 885, B. P. O. E., resplendent in their new uniforms and with ginger protruding from every angle, took train for Camden this morning and probably by the time this paper goes to press will have started in to show the Camdenites how to play ball.

Nearly thirty members of the local lodge boarded the special car which was attached to the 10:43 Philadelphia express this morning, and those who were unable to take this train boarded the 12:13, eating their dinner in the dining car. The line-up of the local team will probably be as follows: McNaughton, 1b.; Hoyt, 2d.; McLoughlin, p.; Torpey, c.; Smith, cf.; Monahan, rf.; VanArsdale, ss.; McCullough, lf.; Cadmus, 3b.; and Woolston ready for any position.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Story, of Somerset place, have returned from their vacation.

WILLIAM DOWD INJURED

Auto Plunges Into Excavation on East Front Street Near Berckman.

DANGER LANTERN UNLIGHTED.

Another Machine Disabled at Same Point, Five Minutes Previous—Cause Probably Due to Negligence.

Because of the confusing arrangement of the danger lights at an excavation on East Front street near Berkman street two automobiles came to grief there last night, and William Dowd, bookkeeper for the Plainfield-Union Water Co., is in Muhlenberg hospital suffering from wounds and serious lacerations of the face and head which will confine him to that institution for several days. Fortunately for the occupants of the car in which Mr. Dowd was injured they were going at only five miles an hour when the car tumbled into the ditch otherwise a different and sadder story would have to be told.

According to information obtained on the spot from Fred Conlin, of 835 Kensington avenue, he with his son were on their way home in a Knox car and had arrived at the place where the accident happened at about 8.30. Mr. Conlin's machine struck a pile of upturned dirt at the side of the excavation and the front axle of his car was twisted so that he could proceed no further. Knowing that other automobiles would soon be passing dispatched his son to Police Headquarters with the story of the accident. Chief Kiely immediately sent Patrolman Charles Flynn to the scene with a lantern, but before Flynn's arrival the Thomas car, driven by Carroll T. Runyon, had gone into the ditch with the results above noted.

Chief Kiely repaired to the scene of the accident and after seeing that Mr. Dowd was taken to the hospital hunted up Alfonso Collucci, the contractor having in charge the work at that point, and had the thoroughfare closed for the night.

Various theories have been advanced by automobilists for the causes of the accident. It is said that at the time the machine driven by Mr. Runyon was going on East Front street another car with brilliant searchlights was going east, blinding Mr. Runyon enough to prevent his own lights disclosing the hole in front of him. However that may be the result was the same. The trench was not guarded at its east end and the big machine went into it and this morning was standing at an angle of forty-five degrees in the hole.

Mr. Runyon had a machinist, Emil Corduroi, of Newark, in the car besides Mr. Dowd, and how either of the two escaped serious injury will probably remain a mystery. Dr. Pittis, who was called to attend to Mr. Dowd's injuries, found his patient badly cut about the head and with severe contusions about the face. He will probably have to remain in the hospital for several days.

The damage to the car will not be ascertained until it is lifted out and returned to the F. L. C. Martin garage. A superficial examination made this morning disclosed the fact that one spring on the forward end of the car is broken and the glass windshield in fragments. The car is valued at $4,500 and is a seven passenger touring car of the Thomas manufacture. The damage to Mr. Conlin's car was slight in comparison.

Labor Federation Officers.

The New Jersey State Federation of Labor, at its convention in Newark yesterday, re-elected Cornelius J. Ford, of Hoboken, president. Other officers elected were: Thomas Bow, of Woodbury, first vice-president; Francis Fetteridge, of Newark, second vice-president; Joseph C. Lone, of Hoboken, treasurer; Henry F. Hilpers, of Newark, secretary; Geo. Learey, of Newark, delegate to the American Federation of Labor.

Among the other organizers of the club are Glen Curtiss, Clifford Harmon, Augustus Post, James Duffey and others.

AMONG OUR NEIGHBORS

DUNELLEN.

There are several differences of opinion arising among the citizens of the borough in regard to the addition of the drainage system upon the borough taxpayers this year. Some argue that the expense of a sewer system will be as much as the taxpayers will stand for this year. Others say that now is the time for the borough to inaugurate street drainage since the work of excavation can be done in connection with the sewer work and hence the expense of such a system would be considerably lessened. But the question is to be left to the Dunellen citizens to decide and they are the ones that foot the bills.

Augustus F. Todd, the newly appointed councilman of the borough, meets with the approval of the entire body of citizens. Mr. Todd was appointed by Mayor Sandford to fill the vacancy in the Board of Councilmen, which was made by the resignation of Lewis T. Churchill. The new member of the borough fathers has been actively identified with the affairs of the borough government for some time as well as being a hard worker on the Dunellen school board.

Grace Wheeler, of the borough, was run down by Andrew McCardell's automobile at Rock avenue and Front street yesterday morning but was not severely injured. The child started to cross the street just as the machine came along and despite the efforts of the chauffeur to stop the car, the child was struck. Dr. Platt was quickly brought to the scene and said that the young girl was suffering only from a bad fright.

William Traup, of Front street, had his arm badly cut while working in the Ransome Concrete Machinery Company. The wound was located in the forearm and gave the victim considerable pain. Several stitches were taken in the gash by one of the local physicians.

Russell Runyon, the son of Walter G. Runyon, and Clarence T. Voorhees, the popular North avenue butcher, leave the borough Sunday for a visit of several days at Atlantic City.

Mrs. Earnestine Catrell, of Front street, moved to Plainfield yesterday. Her new residence will be on Albert street.

Carl Appert, of the Mansion House, is able to be about again after a severe attack of appendicitis.

WOMAN PUBLICLY BEATS MAN AT THE SEASHORE.

There was a high old time at the Casino on the Boardwalk Asbury Park, shortly before noon yesterday when a well dressed young woman clouted a well dressed middle-aged man with her umbrella, while a crowd of several hundred persons looked on with glee. The fair aggressor did not give her arm a rest until she had smashed the umbrella and sent the subject of her wrath running helter skelter down Lake avenue. Then she disappeared herself so quickly that her name could not be learned.

"I will give you twenty-four hours to get out of town," the woman shouted at the man, with fire in her eyes, as she walked up to him after he had left another young woman with whom he had been conversing. Then she broke her promise by proceeding to drive him away before he had time to look around. "You have been the cause of all the trouble to my family," she said as she raised her umbrella to give the victim another wallop, and then another.

In the meantime a big crowd had gathered, and the man started to walk, but she followed, and then he broke into a trot, but she proved a sticker.

Not until her umbrella was in shreds did she give up the chase. The woman was a decided blonde. She wore a tan tailor-made jacket, a black skirt and a big Chantecler hat.

Miss Myrtle Beekman, of Bernardsville, is visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Foster, of Chatham street.

Gilbert Fletcher, of West Eighth street, who has been sojourning at Seaside Park, near Toms River, has returned home.

BOOM J. J. O'BRIEN FOR STATE PRESIDENT

James J. O'Brien, of Elizabeth, for State president will be the cry of the county seat delegates of the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association in attendance at the annual convention of the organization at Atlantic City, on September 8. The delegates were elected Tuesday afternoon at a meeting in the organization rooms in Elizabeth. They are Patrolmen Dennis J. Holleran, James J. O'Brien and Daniel J. McCarthy. The meeting was a spirited one and enthusiasm was high when the name of O'Brien for State president was mentioned.

The delegates will go to the seaside city with instructions to inflate the boom which has been launched in the local patrolman's favor. O'Brien is vice president of the organization and is well-known in P. B. A. circles all over the State. He is in line for presidential honors. The presidency is now held by John J. Beggens, of Jersey City. Beggens has been in office several terms and it is said that he will decline to run again. If this is so there is little doubt but that O'Brien will return with the coveted honors. The patrolmen are assured that in case of Beggens declining the Jersey City patrolmen will be in line for O'Brien, his logical successor.

Plans for the excursion which the Elizabeth Association will run to Atlantic City over the Pennsylvania Railroad, on the day of the convention, were discussed at length and the committee in charge reported that already there had been a good demand for tickets. Two trains will carry excursionists from this city.

NEW JERSEY AUTO CLUB ERECTING MANY SIGN POSTS.

The sign posts prepared by the New Jersey Automobile and Motor Club are now being put up in Essex, Morris and Passaic Counties, under the supervision of Melville H. Carpenter, Chairman of the Roads Committee. The new signs are of great advantage to motorists, as well as to the others using the public roads.

In a great many places the local authorities have failed to erect signs, and traveling has not been enjoyable. In the sparsely populated sections of New Jersey, where houses are few and turns numerous, the placing of these signs have been heartily approved of.

THE FESTIVE CRAB.

The majority of housekeepers view the crab with suspicious eye. If they do not fear ptomaine poisoning they dread the frowns of the maid who must do the picking, or else think crab food an unwarranted luxury.

Most of these fear arise from lack of knowledge. As far inland as several hundred miles a dozen devilled crabs cost less than a juicy beefsteak and make a safe and pleasant variety of meals, near the coast they are proportionately cheaper.

If you know your dealer, more important, know enough about crabs not to be fooled, the danger from crab eating is practically eliminated.

Picking is not the task it is considered, and in many places delicious flakes of white, sweet crab meat come ready packed in cans. This is sent fresh each day, and is absolutely safe if your dealer is to be relied upon and the weather is not inordinately hot—when no fish food should be eaten.

Picked crab meat can be bought even far inland at 50 cents a quart, with a dozen shells thrown in. It should be kept on ice until ready for use, and must be carefully picked over for small bones, often several times.

Shells should be scalded, scrubbed with a clean brush, and if dirty, boiled in hot soda water. Wipe dry before filling.

In buying fresh crabs they should be heavy in proportion to their size, and while uncooked their movements should be rapid if they are in good condition. When cooked their odor is sweet as long as they are fresh. In hot weather, however, it is better to eat them the first day. This also holds good for lobsters.

To cook hard shell crabs, boil until the shells are red, pull off the claws, open the shells and remove the meat carefully, rejecting the stomach, which lies back of the eyes; the intestine, which is coiled in the middle of the body, and the soft fins, which lie under the legs. Save the green fat and curd which lies next the shell.

To prepare softshell crabs wash them in cold water and lay them on back on a chopping board. Use a small, sharp knife to cut a half circle out of the body, running knife blade just behind the eyes and sand bag. Lift apron or flap, which lies near the back of under shell, and cut off the hard, fin-like portions attached to it. Press the back shell away from the body on each side and remove tough, fibrous soft fins. Dry on clean towel and cook quickly.

Buy only those softshell crabs that are fat and much alive. They should be handled carefully to avoid breaking claws.

Softshelled crabs are boiled or fried after being prepared. To boil, dip in melted butter seasoned with salt and pepper, cook in a buttered broiler over hot coals for ten minutes, turning twice to broil evenly on both sides. Serve with drawn butter and lemon or with sauce tartare.

To fry softshell crabs roll in egg and seasoned bread crumbs and fry in deep lard. Serve with sauce tartare and cucumbers.

A NOVEL CALLING.

When pretty Sadie Jennings found on her father's death that she and her mother would have only a pittance, she put on her considering cap to see what she would do. At any cost she determined to stay with her mother, who had no other child to care for her, and was much too fragile to face the world alone; but this Sadie could not do unless she supplemented their small income. She could draw a little, and paint a little; she knew as most girls of French and German, and played just enough to give pleasure to herself and her intimate friends. None of these "accomplishements" would bring in money, however, since the market was already overstocked with women more talented than herself.

"There's your needlework, Sadie," ventured a friend, who had often watched exquisite wreaths of roses and forget-me-nots grow under Sadie's clever fingers.

"The very thing!" cried Sadie clapping her hands; but she was not thinking of embroidery for she knew that such work was ill-paid and difficult to dispose at a profit. "I'll be a 'family mender,'" she declared, after some minutes further thought. "There are numbers of busy people who would be thankful to have their mending taken off their hands, and I can darn! You wait and see!"

Before long Sadie's optimistic views of the money to be made in this new calling were amply justified. Her "notion" was welcomed with joy by many professional women and weary mothers who objected to holes in their own stockings, or in those of their belongings, and still had no time to men them.

Sadie undertook to keep all woolen garments at "so much a head," stipulating that they were to come to her each week when they were returned from the laundry, so that she might be on the watch for thin places.

Working at home, in her sunny sitting-room, with her mother to keep her company and match her wools, Sadie made more money than many a harassed typist or stenographer, and had the pleasure of knowing that she was, as her friends expressed it, "filling a long-felt want." It would be well if other girls were to give her plan a trial; for no one who knows how difficult it is to find a reliable "mender" will doubt its ultimate success.

EMBROIDERY IDEAS.

Applique of small velvet flowers on a neat scarf. Scarf and flowers—the latter in a border, narrow at the sides, wide at the ends—were both of deep terra cotta.

Shirtwaist linen with green silk-worked eyelets in two rows and a wide band of green and white rose embroidery in satin stitch between. Repeated in small pattern for the cuffs.

Silk net long gloves in queer greens and blues, embroidered at the elbow and down the back in a vine design of the same shade. Also silk gloves with a line of drawn work about halfway down the arm and a back of solid white embroidery in Chinese pattern.

White allover embroidery strips stitched in lavender to match a lavender and white striped linen suit, in which it was used as insertion. Only the central part of the pattern was so covered.

Strips of heavy wallachian embroidery in bright natural colors (a wild rose design), used as waist trimming and covered with thin folds of the sheerest chiffon to soften the color effect.

VENTILATE YOUR ROMS.

Nothing is more common than fresh air. Nature provided it in abundance for all who will take. There is no one thing so potent to prevent disease, so effective in maintaining a healthy action of the whole body. Consumption, pneumonia, bronchitis and catarrh are bad-air diseases. Bad air, too, is a cause of colds.

Sewage flowing into pure water polutes it. So the air we exhale from our lungs pollutes the air in the room. The impure air from the lungs of any number of people in a room mixes with the pure air and makes it dangerous and unfit for breathing. There must be a supply of fresh air constantly coming in to take the place of the foul air, which in all cases should be permitted to escape near the top of the room.

It is the law of nature that air is always in motion, and because this is true we have only to lower our windows a little from the top and to raise them a little from the bottom and the process of ventilation will go on without thought or care.

It is impossible to estimate the amount of misery and suffering caused by impure air. If you would escape, see to it that you get at all times a plentiful supply of fresh air.

LARGE, FLAT HATS.

The expected turn of the wheel of fashion has brought into the millinery field a different shape of hat. From the upturned brim there is a departure for summer wear in the form of large, flat hats, with slightly drooping brims and low crowns.

Some of the brims are slightly narrower at the front, while a decided element of comfort is evident in the deep bandeaux, that resembles a skullcap at the back of the hat, vanishing at the front into a thin rim of buckram. These are so fitted that no hatpins are necessary.

A wreath of flowers, nowhere rising above the crown, is the simple trimming used on the majority of the flat shapes. There can be the introduction of a velvet flower, if a note of contrast is needed.

Some of these new models are of the straw, leghorn or of frames covered satin and veiled with chiffon.

As a change from the towering turbans or the shapes that eclipse the features, the low flat hats, resting on the softness of naturally arranged hats come as welcome relief.

CROSS-CHANNEL FLIGHT WITH A PASSENGER

Deal, England, Aug. 18.—Moissant, a young American aviator, landed near here yesterday after flying from Paris. He will proceed in his machine to London as soon as he recovers from the rigors of the voyage across the English Channel. He departed late yesterday afternoon for the British capital.

Moissant in his trip across the channel, carried a passenger, his mechanician, Albert, making the cross channel flight not merely an incident in the longer Paris-London journey, but an achievement which surpasses the feats of Bleriot, De Lesseps, and the unfortunate Rolls, who was killed recently.

Moissant accomplished the flight from Paris to Calais and the journey across the channel to Deal with an ease and brilliancy rarely surpassed. He is now preparing to continue the trip to London, the completion of which will bring him the cup and the prize offered by a London newspaper for the course and the proceeds of the subscription raised in England for Graham White, which the unsuccessfull competitor in the London-Manchester flight generously offered as a prize for the Paris to London competition.

Hubert Latham, who started from Issy, a suburb of Paris, to race Moissan to London, had a series of unfortunate accidents, the last at Amiens culminating in the total wrecking of his machine as he was preparing to resume the flight. Latham escaped unhurt, but is out of the race. The last stage of Moissant's flight, the trip across the channel, was accomplished in a strong channel breeze, the wind being so high that experienced aviators looked upon the start as foolhardy. It was such a wind, as repeatedly deterred Bleriot, Latham and other aviators from attempting the passage of the straits, and correspondents who had witnessed the earlier attempts to cross the channel confidently wired their papers that Moissant would not start before evening, when the wind was expected to fall. Nevertheless, as soon as he could arrange for a French torpedo boat to follow him across the channel, Moissant launched his aeroplane from the cliffs near Calais, at 10.45 this morning and started for the English shore.

The breeze was still strong, and the monoplane, which, like other Bleriot machines, appears to spectators less steady in the air than the more stable and heavier biplanes, pitched and rolled so dangerously that spectators believed it in imminent danger. Moissant, however, though one of the youngest of the aviators, managed his machine with the greatest skill, and as the Bleriot with its guide passed out of the zone of greatest danger near the shore, seemed to steady his machine, and as she passed out of sight of Calais, was, according to the reports received here, flying well, at an altitude of about 500 feet. He was expected to land at Dover, but was driven a few miles north and made the coast near Deal, passing over Walmer Castle and the marine barracks at 11.15 a. m. He was unable to continue the journey to London so numbed was he by the cold during the crossing from Calais, and landed near Tilmanstone, a short distance from Deal.

The trip from Calais to Tilmanstone occupied approximately thirty-seven minutes. The torpedo boat was unable to get up steam in time to accompany Moissant, and the aviator was followed in his trip across the channel only by a single tug. The tug was utterly outdistanced in the race, and Moissant landed at Tilmanstone before the vessel had reached mid channel.

BURGLARS ENJOY A FEAST.

Empty wine bottles and soiled dishes on the dining table were mute evidence left by burglars of a royal feast at the home of Dr. Norton L. Wilson, in Westminster avenue, Elizabeth. The feast, according to the police, was probably enjoyed last night after the house had been ransacked by the thieves. Dr. Wilson and his family are away, and whether or not the burglars succeeded in getting anything of value will not be known until the family returns.

The burglars had evidently seated themselves at the table and drank their fill of the wine. Cigar stumps and crumbs showed that the feat was an elaborate one.

CONTRACTOR'S SON LOSES FOOT UNDER TRAIN.

With his right foot crushed by a train so that immediate amputation was necessary, James McGrath, son of Michael C. McGrath, a contractor, who is building the Lackawanna's additional trackage near Lake Hopatcong, was taken to the Memorial Hospital, Morristown, Tuesday night. Young McGrath, who is barely in his twenties, was foreman for his father, and at the time of the accident was superintending the work of a gang of men engaged in work near the Lackawanna's cut-off on the Lake Hopatcong junction to Mt. Arlington. He was run down by a drill engine.

McGrath was taken to Dover on the Easton (Pa.) mail train and there was temporarily attended by Dr. R. L. Cook, employed by the railroad. Then he was hurried to Morristown.

The surgeons at the hospital amputated the right foot and yesterday McGrath, though weak from shock and loss of blood, seemed somewhat better.

Since the elder McGrath secured the Lackawanna contract the family have made their home at Hacketts-town.

WRECK DELAYS COMMUTERS.

A freight train on the Pennsylvania Railroad was wrecked Tuesday afternoon near Perth Amboy junction. A tramp who was stealing a ride had his arm badly crushed, but there were no other casualties. Traffic was suspended for twelve hours while the wreckage was being removed and the tracks repaired. All the passengers on the Pennsylvania lines were compelled to transfer to the Jersey Central lines.

The freight was going east, and had twelve freight cars, loaded with coal. As it reached the point where the tracks of the Long Branch line converge into those of the main line a truck frame on one of the freight cars broke, causing it to leave the track and derailing all the other eleven cars, scattering coal and wreckage over three tracks, only the fourth track, westbound, being open.

Wreck trains were rushed out from Jersey City and New Brunswick and began at once the work of clearing away the wreckage and replacing the track, which had been torn up for over four hundred feet. The work was completed in time to bring into the city the commuters who had been compelled to take the Jersey Central out the night before.

UPHOLDS JERSEY AUTO LAW.

David Baird, the South Jersey leader, took another slap at former Governor Franklin Murphy yesterday, when in an interview he expressed himself as strongly opposed to any change in the New Jersey automobile law. Mr. Bird said:

"There are four farmers to every automobilist in New Jersey. The autos come over the State line in processions because there are seaside resorts in New Jersey to go to. What kind of legislation do they want? They ought to pay for the damage they do to the roads. I own a couple of autos myself, and I am willing to pay for them. They are a luxury. They certainly damage the road. Who will pay for keeping up the roads if not the automobilists?"

Former Governor Murphy was quoted recently as saying that the automobilists would be a factor in the coming campaign, and at his instigation the Republican State Committee adopted a resolution urging reciprocity.

MADE WIFE SLEEP IN BARN.

Rudolph Roeder, of Springfield township, is locked up at the county jail in default of $300 bail for his refusal to allow his wife to sleep in her own home. For the last week, according to the testimony of the woman before Justice Cain, she has been compelled to sleep in the barn. Mr. Roeder said their seven children were allowed to sleep in the house, and when some of them wanted to go to the barn with their mother the father refused to permit it. Mrs. Roeder said she was allowed to go into the house during the day, but when night came she was ordered from the house.

Roeder would give no reason for not permitting his better half to remain in their domicile over night, and said he would rather serve a year in jail than to allow her to sleep under the same roof that sheltered him.

ESSEX OUT FOR V. M. LEWIS.

By a unanimous vote last night the Essex County Republican Committee in Newark pledged its support to Vivian M. Lewis, of Passaic, the "Regular" choice for Governor. The resolution favoring Mr. Lewis followed many conferences among the machine leaders, and is said to have been decided upon with a hope that the help the Passaic man will be given will serve only to strengthen the chances of ex-Governor Franklin Murphy, the State Republican Committee chairman, to reach the goal of his ambition in the United States Senate.

It was decided to leave the selection of the Assembly candidate to the imaginary districts. This came as a body blow to Assemblyman Minard, of East Orange, who is desirous of being returned to the Legislature, but has a fight on his hands with the East Orange executive committee.

Edward E. Gnichtel, former Fire Commissioner, was indorsed as the candidate for Mayor of Newark, while Augustus Eggers received indorsement as candidate to succeed himself in the Board of Public Works. Other indorsements were Thomas P. Allworth, of Montclair, for Register, and Frederick L. Baldwin, of Caldwell, for Supervisor.

Democrats Hold Outing.

Asbury Park, N. J., Aug. 18.—Three hundred Democrats enjoyed a shore dinner at Neptune Heights yesterday afternoon. The occasion was the thirty-second annual outing of the Jeol Parker Association of Newark. Those present included Frank E. Katzenbech, Otto Wittpen and Edward Kenny, rival candidates for the Democratic nomination for Governor.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Aug. 21, 1910.

Topic.—Duty under difficulties.—II Tim. ii, 1-13. Edited by Rev. Sherman H. Doyle, D. D.

Duty is one of the supreme words in the human language. Next to love it is the mainspring of man's performance of great and noble deeds. Duty perhaps in the secular walks of life is the supreme motive of correct action. It is a word that needs to have the changes wrung upon it day by day in the age in which we live. Selfishness has too large a part in our lives today. Duty is cast aside, and in the industrial, financial, social and political world ambition has usurped its place. High places are sought not to perform duties that will benefit society or the state, but that personal ambitions may be reached. In religion love occupies the supreme place. "We love Him because He first loved us." Even the performance of duty is placed by Christ upon love. "Ye are my friends if ye do whatsoever I command you. Obedience, the performance of duty, are made the test of friendship or of love. Moreover, Solomon after reviewing the "best good of man" comes to this conviction: "Let us hear the conclusion of the whole matter. Fear God and keep His commandments. This is the whole duty of man." Moreover, Christ declares in the New Testament, "Not every one that sayeth unto Me, Lord, Lord, shall inherit the kingdom, but he that doeth the will of my Father in Heaven." Duty, therefore, is a great world, and it is well to repeat that it should have a large place in every human life. As the poet has said:

Where duty calls or danger,
Be never wanting there.

The performance of duty is not always easy. Sometimes and usually it is hard to do. Difficulties ever seem to stare us in the face when an important duty is thrust upon us. The man who in time of war does his duty for his country finds it no easy task to do so. The facing of shot and shell is no summer vacation. It demands bravery and courage and strength. To perform our religious duties is no less hard at times. To some it is easier to face a cannon than to confess Christ before men or to lead in public prayer or to speak a word for Jesus, especially when others are speaking against Him. As Joshua succeeded Moses and was about to undertake the difficult duty of conquering the land of Canaan God emphasized to him that he should "be strong and very courageous." Moreover, he told him that He (the Lord) would be with him (Joshua) as He had been with Moses. When Paul left Timothy as pastor of the church at Ephesus he knew that in the performance of his duties he urged him to "be strong in the grace that is in Christ Jesus." Again he adds, "Endure hardness as a good soldier of Jesus Christ."

The soldier who in the day of danger shirks his duty well deserves to be called a coward. So may he be called who as a soldier of Christ fails when duty spells danger. Are difficulties to keep us from the performance of our duties? If so then we are not true disciples of Christ. The greater the difficulties the greater should be our trust in God and our determination to do what He wills us to do.

Must I be carried to the skies
On flowery beds of ease
While others fight to win the prize
And sail through bloody seas?

Sure, I must fight if I would reign.
Increase my courage, Lord.
I'll bear the toil, endure the pain,
Supported by Thy word.

First C. E. Society In Australasia.

A tablet commemorating the formation of the first Christian Endeavor society in Australia has been affixed to the exterior of the City Tabernacle Baptist church of Brisbane, Queensland. This is the church of which that earnest and devoted Christian Endeavorer, Rev. James Mursell, is pastor. Mr. Mursell has done splendid work for Christian Endeavor in five widely separated pastorates. The following is the inscription on this tablet. This church shares with the Williston church of Portland, Me., the honor of having thus recognized the beginning of Christian Endeavor in the American and the Australian commonwealths:

For Christ and the Church.

This Tablet
Commemorates the Founding of
The First Society of Christian Endeavor in Australasia
In Connection With This (Then Wharf Street) Baptist Church on February 6, 1888.

Erected
In Token of Gratitude to God
by
Queensland Christian Endeavorers,
February 19, 1910.

Concerning this oldest society in Australia the pastor writes us that it is undergoing a thorough and drastic reconstitution. "Without dissolving the members have agreed to renew their pledge, and it is proposed to form one society with junior, intermediate, young people's and graduate departments. Graduation will depend not simply upon age, but even more upon circumstances. There will be no honorary members, as these will become graduates and make the church prayer meeting theirs."

I am glad to notice that this new society is leading the way in this somewhat new departure in Christian Endeavor of a graduate or senior society and hope it will be followed by many of our societies in all parts of the world.—Francis E. Clark, D. D.

DO NOT DELAY
Have Your Furnace Repaired

Have your heating system overhauled and repaired now, then when the first cold snap comes you can have your house comfortable at once.

To delay means possibly waiting your turn, as last fall we had over one hundred jobs ahead of us, that meant every job a rush one. You will have more satisfaction if we have plenty of time, for then we can do your work a little better than seems necessary.

Tell us when you want your work done, and—even if you are away we will do it in the best and most thorough manner.

We also install new systems of all kinds as we are doing expert repairing.

Let us figure on your contract.

Just 'phone, call or write to Griffen about your heating system or plumbing. Our prices are always as low as possible for the highest quality work.

A ROMANCE OF FLYING

CHAPTER XII.

MR. CRAIGHEAD IN CUSTODY.

THE money for the last touches to the airship was to be the extent of Mr. Waddy's new financial venture, and then came Craighead with his new hatched plan for actually monopolizing the air, and Mr. Waddy, having submitted it to his local lawyer, hesitated and was lost.

"I'll go into it," he said. "We'll make everybody come and settle that wants a trip by airship. Hey?"

"Exactly," replied Craighead.

"Jest as if the whole country was our farm," cried Mr. Waddy.

"It will be for circumambient purposes," replied Craighead. "And, as you so well said, a farm's a cinch. And remember, Mr. Waddy, in putting Shayne and his pirates down and out we and our pirates are making way for the matchless, unsinkable, double acting, universal speed, direct drive, nonhalation, orthochromatic, Carson aernoef. Don't forget our haughty southron coconspirator who will wing his way to Illinois by the time we return. Don't fall down and forget that."

"Well, you'd better have him on hand," said Mr. Waddy, "as he promised, or I'll know why he took my good hard money."

It was on occasions of this sort that Mr. Craighead had sweated telegrams begging to know if Theodore really had any airship.

"But think, my dear sir," protested Mr. Craighead, "of the untold millions in the Broom idea—aerial monopoly. Even if Theodore should be only four clubs and a spade, we still hold the aces, my dear Mr. Waddy. Do not grind your teeth thus so long as the American Nitrates and Air Products company remains as the Archimedean lever with which to pry up and dump the world. We are ahead, whatever happens to the aeronef end of the deal."

"Well, the aeronef end," said Mr. Waddy, "had better come to the center or I'll see what law there is for getting money by false pretenses."

The two men were the best of traveling companions. Mr. Waddy insisted on going in the smoker. Mr. Craighead took the stateroom while his money lasted and then borrowed of Mr. Waddy.

Mr. Craighead had advertised for people to organize a rapid business campaign covering the civilized world to meet him in West Twenty-third street at the studio of an acquaintance to whom he had neglected to impart any knowledge of the tryst with the specialists. Waddy and Craighead arrived somewhat late on account of the time consumed in adjusting Mr. Craighead's aura and found a crush of people entirely alien to the fine arts, filling the studio and the hall outside. Craighead's sculptor friend, with a lady model, escaped the angry mob into the scaffolding of an equestrian group representing an Indian maiden in a stampede of buffaloes. The model had been posing for something—an Indian maiden perhaps—and had feathers in her hair.

HE WENT ABOUT WITH MARVELOUS RAPIDITY.

Craighead broke through by impersonating an officer, shouting "Make way for the police!" and uppercutting the crowd with his elbows.

"Hello, De Land!" said he, nodding to the sculptor. "Most beauteous princess of the Apaches, how?"

"That you, Craig?" called down the sculptor. "What, not sober? Go after the police. Turn these people out, please, Craig!"

"Friends of mine," said Craighead. "I advertised for 'em. Hope you haven't been incommoded, old man."

"Not at all!" replied the sculptor sarcastically. "But get them out so Miss Brown and I can descend."

Craighead's manner of disposing of the crowd commanded Mr. Waddy's sincere respect. He went about with marvelous rapidity, sending away those whose nonutility was unquestionable and making engagements with others at "our Wall street office," the name of which made everybody more respectful.

The dinner to which Mr. Craighead took Mr. De Land, Miss Brown and Mr. Waddy was the first of a series which reduced Mr. Waddy to torpor. The old gentleman, in his long frock coat which buttoned to a surtout, his frowzy face and his evident attachment to Mr. Craighead, was remembered in certain ultra bohemian circles for his surreptitious slinking into the dimmest corners of cafes and roof gardens. He had a dark secret, Mr. Craighead said, which, he did not explain, originated in Mr. Waddy's agreement with the lady in goggles that the whole situation was improper. He felt obliged to keep with Craighead because of a suspicion that the aeronef was a figment of two Slattery institute imaginations, and he did not purpose to let any guilty man escape. So he providently engaged a detective to shadow both himself and Mr. Craighead, the unremitting presence of whom in very plain clothes made Mr. Waddy feel and look guilty and fugitive.

His second reason for becoming Mr. Craighead's double was his sense of duty of preventing that pupil of Dr. Witherspoon from breaking the vow of abstinence. So he drank most of the intoxicants served to Craighead, somewhat to the injury of his health, but much to the betterment of his reputation as a roisterer. Altogether it was a relief to get Craighead back home, where he installed him as a lodger and boarder, charging him well for his accommodation and lending him the money on his note to pay for it. On arrival he went to bed and turned Craighead over to Mrs. Graybill, with strict injunctions to telephone the sheriff's office if he was unaccounted for for more than an hour.

It was a situation with some unique aspects. Mr. Craighead began whiling away time with a work on the "Morphology of the Crawfish" and dips into De Quincey's "Spanish Nun." Looking from the library window, he saw Mrs. Graybill enter a summer house, leaving a red hat on the railing outside.

The "Morphology" grew uninteresting. Craighead stepped from the window, went into the summer house and started at finding Mrs. Graybill there, her hair tousled about her head, her little nose elevated in that comical resemblance to her father's. "Mr. Waddy informs me that the late Mr. Graybill was a minister of the gospel," he ventured.

"Yes," she replied, "he was."

"And that he has been called," Craighead went on, "to a better life a year or more?"

"Fourteen months," answered Mrs. Graybill.

"I have been reading," said Craighead, "a work on the 'Morphology of the Crawfish.' It holds me enthralled. The person who fails to glean wisdom from the crawfish has never tested his intelligence with a bare toe or studied his morphology."

Mrs. Graybill looked at Craighead sternly.

"Don't pose!" said she. "Don't think that I want a beautiful lesson in everything, if I have been a minister's wife. Tell me of Mr. De Land and—and Sadie Brown and the chop suey and—and that life. Tell me, Mr. Craighead!"

A Business Transaction.

"So, Mr. Pennywise married his typist!" said Miss Cayenne.

"Yes."

BASEBALL.

Well, bring home an antlered head this time, you B. P. O. E.!

It's a big show at the Oval Saturday. That Dunellen bunch is humming right along in great shape and now it is up to Smiling Jimmie Montross to show that he can come back and put the whitewash coat on his fellow citizens. But Warry is to be figured in that deal, too.

Don't wait on Saturday for the second game to begin, for the chances are ten to one that the first contest will be just as exciting or even more so than the second one. That Y. M. C. A. bunch is tossing some baseball, and Charlie Line, the boy that fills the long-felt want, prophecies that that Newark team has got to speed up some to trim the Association nine on Saturday.

Fritts, who captained the Y. M. C. A. team up to the last game, but who is now a member of the Plainfield team, will do the McGinnity stunt Saturday afternoon. Fritts will play short-stop on the Y. M. C. A. team against the Newark Association and then will cover right field for the Plainfield team.

Just watch Harry Giddes, the Dunellen short-stop, in Saturday's game. He plays a classy article of ball.

The P. H. S.-N. P. H. S. alumni game seems to have been forgotten. Hurry up there, old grads, and play ball, or the season will be over before you know it.

IMPORTANT RULING ABOUT FILING OF PETITIONS.

Trenton, Aug. 18.—Attorney-General Wilson made an important ruling today with reference to the filing of petitions for making nominations in the direct primaries. His opinion is that all petitions for ward, borough and township offices must be filed fifteen days before primary day on September 13, but that in case of city offices, like Mayor, only ten days are required. The Secretary of State asked for the opinion because of confusion in the legislation enacted last winter.

Kimball and Lewis hand out a line of talk and songs that are really good. Gordon and Gordon, scenic acrobats, present a novel idea in acrobatic stunts. One is dressed to impersonate Mephistopheles and his partner a frog. The idea is new, and the act is entertaining.

MAY BE THE END OF FREE LUNCHES HERE

"Away with the free lunch!" was the slogan adopted Tuesday by the Newark Retail Liquor Dealers' Protective Association. The liquor men came to the conclusion that the rate at which their customers are making away with everything in sight on their free lunch counters at every opportunity, is making too big a hole in their revenue.

So they voted to lay before the State association, at the annual meeting at Atlantic City in October, a resolution asking the State body to fight for legislation to make it unlawful for liquor dealers to give free food with drinks.

Tuesday's meeting of the Newark association was one of the liveliest and longest on record. The speakers waxed so enthusiastic at intervals that newspaper men waiting two floors below were requested to go down still another flight in order that none of the pictured horrors of the free lunch and the short dinner might fall upon their innocent ears.

Some of the men who have been in business for many years recalled almost tearfully the good, old days when, if a customer had nothing more than a salt roll and his beer, he paid for it. The gradual development of the free lunch idea, when delicacy after delicacy was added to the menu, and the free lunch became a thing of salads, instead of soup and pretzels, was discussed.

One thing which rankled sorely in the minds of the liquor dealers was the manner in which many persons used the free lunch counters as a means of getting a good meal gratis. More than one dealer asserted that scores of "patrons" walked up to their lunch counters, helped themselves generously without so much as the customary "smile". The dealers placed the amount which the free lunch feature cost them daily at from $5 to $12.

There was unanimity among the saloon-keepers that to give ten cents' worth of food free with a five-cent glass of beer made a big hole in the profits of the seller. The burning issue before the meeting was how to solve the problem in a manner which would make it unlawful for any dealer to give free lunch. The members of the association felt that it would be suicidal for any of their number to do away with the lunch feature unless every dealer should join in the movement.

After various proposed methods of solving the problem had been discussed, it was finally decided that the enactment of legislation similar to that in Connecticut and other states, where it is illegal to give free food with drinks, was the best course to pursue.

The association voted unanimously and practically without debate that the executive committee be directed to draft resolutions requesting the Excise Board to refuse to issue any more liquor licenses until the ratio of saloons to population be one saloon to 500 persons.

The committee consists of President William P. Kilderry, Frederick Hochbaum, Barnabas Fritz, Frederick Fuchs, George Kaegel, Joseph Elsen, John Lukan, Harry Roth, Henry J. Meyer, John Weisemann, Samuel Biem, Joseph Michel, Thomas Craig, and ames McManus. The resolutions will be laid before the Excise Board on August 31.

TRI-COUNTY PICNIC.

If the weather man smiles on the farmers of Essex, Morris and Union counties, the thirtieth annual picnic of the Patrons of Husbandry of these three counties, which will be held at Verona Lake, tomorrow, will be the largest in the history of the grange. Frank Agans, lecturer of the New Jersey State Grange, will be the principal speaker.

For twenty-one years the grangers' picnic was held in a grove at Swinefield, on the upper Passaic River. Then the attendance was largely confined to actual tillers of the soil and their families, with a small portion of city folk, most of whom had once been on farms themselves. During the last eight years, however, the picnic has been held at Verona Lake Park. Usually there has been 4,000 to 5,000 farmers on hand, and from three to five times that number of visitors from the city.

O. E. Lipscomb and family, of 504 Belvidere avenue, returned home last night from an extended sojourn. They have been away from this city since April.

STATE WILL FIGHT INFANT PARALYSIS

On being told that there were many cases of infant paralysis throughout the State where the parents of the children did not consider the disease contagious. Dr. Bruce S. Keater, secretary of the State Board of Health, has decided to take up the matter in a more detailed way. Dr. Keater says:

"The board has requested Dr. A. Clark Hunt, chief of the division of medical and sanitary inspection of the board, to keep under close observation any cases throughout the State which may be reported by physicians. Numerous epidemics of the disease have occurred in Europe, Australia and America. In Norway and Sweden epidemics have occurred since 1875. Careful study has been made of the epidemics in Boston and New York, which occurred in 1907, and valuable information has been obtained which will aid in the prevention of the disease.

"Within the past two months several cases have been reported to the State Board of Health. These cases occurred in various portions of the State, and as no large number were recorded in any single sanitary district it cannot be said that the disease is epidemic.

"The disease is being studied in many research laboratories in this and other countries and every effort is being made to discover the methods by which the disease is transmitted from one individual to another. It has been definitely determined by observation and experiments that infantile paralysis is an infectious disease, and especial attention has been directed to the danger from discharges from the nose and throat of those having the disease.

"With these points apparently settled it is the view of Dr. Simon Flexner, of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research, that rigid quarantine will do much toward the control of the disease. Suggestions for preventing the spread of the disease include watchfulness as to diet and exercise; the avoidance of association with other children sick or exposed to the disease, and strict isolation of the patient is advised.

"We are still far from a definite knowledge of infantile paralysis, but by the observance of the rules above referred to, and with the added information which observation and scientific research will surely give, we may reasonably hope that within a short time epidemics of the disease will be at least limited.

"The State Board of Health wil require the reporting of individual cases throughout the State, and the physicians of the State will aid in the study of the disease and in the adoption of preventive measures."

HERE AND THERE.

There are two young women living in North Plainfield who have discovered that it pays to do things for themselves, even though there is no absolute need of it. The faculty of being able to invent ways and means to attain an end is not given to everybody in this world, and these young women must be endowed with that peculiar ability.

Miss Helen George, of 87 Duer street, and Miss Margery Hart, of Fairview avenue, are the two industrious young women referred to, and they enjoyed their vacation with money earned by themselves and incidentally several of the neighbors and friends of the young people are enjoying some mighty good candy which otherwise they might not have had.

Of course, it was not necessary for either to earn the money to spend on their outing, but they thought it would be such fun to just make enough to defray their expenses. And they went at it. Of all the delicious morsels that any of the boroughites ever allowed to melt in their mouths, those provided by the Misses George and Hart were the most enticing, and after the first batch had been sold, orders for more poured in upon the amateur confectioners until their supply of money gradually assumed the right proportions for a good time.

And there you are! Industry always has its reward, and these two young people have learned the easy way to affluence as well as comfort, to say nothing of the pleasure they have afforded the consumers of their wares.

STATE MARKSMEN LEAVE.

Under the captaincy of General Bird W. Spencer, inspector general of rifle practice of the New Jersey National Guard, the team that will represent this State at the national rifle matches, at Camp Perry, Ohio, left Sea Girt, yesterday, for that place, where they will remain ten days. NEW JERSEY ROAD MAPS READY FOR DISTRIBUTION.

The Northern New Jersey road maps compiled by a committee of the New Jersey Automobile and Motor Club are now ready for distribution. The maps show every road, lane and street in the territory covered and are of extreme value to all users of the public highways in this section.

All through routes are indicated in blue; all smooth roads, both in city and country, are shown in red, and all other highways are shown in outline.

WANTS BLUE LAW ENFORCED.

Trenton, N. J., Aug. 18.—William Fitzgibbon, a Hunterdon county Justice of the Peace, has written Gov. Fort asking him how to proceed to force the Central Railroad of New Jersey from running its trains on Sunday against the sanctity of the Sabbath under the old blue laws.

He says he gave the conductors of the road copies of the complaint commanding them to desist running trains on the Sabbath, and that the men threw his complaint on the ground.

The Governor is away on a vacaion, so the vexed question remains unanswered.

WOMAN WHIPS A NEGRO.

Trenton, N. J., Aug. 18.—Mrs. Laura Elliott, the twenty-three-year old wife of William Elliott, of Elm street, is lying ill at her home after whipping Benjamin Carter, a Bucks County (Pa.) negro, with a black snake whip for attacking her. He is under arrest.

The negro attacked Mrs. Elliott in her yard. She grabbed the whip and gave him a severe beating. He managed to fell her with a blow, but her screams brought assistance, and he ran away, to be arrested later.

Sentiment vs. Regret.

"Dr. Sixthly, I've come to ask you for the hand of your daughter. You must have seen how things were going?"

"Yes, yes. I am not surprised. At the same time I cannot look upon the prospect with unmixed delight."

"I am very sorry, doctor. What is your objection?"

"I can have no real objection when when my daughter's happiness is at stake. At the same time I realize that the church will be a heavy financial loser when its hansomest and most successful passer of the plate becomes a married man. Nevertheless, she's yours, Clarence."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Howell Will be a Candidate.

Trenton, Aug. 18.—Republican leaders here have been advised that all opposition to the renomination of Representative Benjamin F. Howell in the Third New Jersey district has been overcome and that he will run for re-election to a ninth term in Congress with the Congressional convention unanimously in his favor.

Chauffeur Tips.

When the engine breaks down begin operations by lighting a cigarette. Take your time about it. This impresses the bystanders with your skill and coolness.

Lift the bonnet and peer into engine for a few minutes, whistling meanwhile. Walk round the other side and repeat.

Do the necessary repairs. Don't forget to lie on your back in the road beneath the car. The crowd will expect it.

Should the crowd grow restive offer its most noisy member the opportunity of taking your place.

If he happens to be in the business and accepts your offer let him do the work.

Start the engine, watch it for a minute and then replace bonnet.

Do not drive away at once. That would be inartistic. Maneuver with the clutch until the crowd grows joyous in expectation of another failure and then drive off smartly.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

ORGANIZE FIRE COMPANY

Citizens of Watchung and Vicinity Form a Department.

WILLIAM TITUS ELECTED CHIEF.

Chemical Engine Purchased and Sixteen Members Enrolled—Will Cut Insurance Rates.

At a meeting of the citizens of Watchung and vicinity last night at Maul's Hotel, it was decided by them to organize a fire department for the protection of property in that locality. Officers of the company were elected and a chemical engine was purchased. The residents of that vicinity are enthusiastic over the proposition and lost no time in completing the organization.

The meeting was called to order by George Mobus, the secretary of the Township Committee and then William Titus was elected as temporary chairman. Edward Canning was appointed as secretary. Chief Charles Meyers, of the Scotch Plains fire department, made a speech to the citizens in which he explained the organization of the department in Scotch Plains and other things pertaining to a fire company. Several timely suggestions were made by Mr. Meyers.

The new organization is to be known as the Watchung Chemical Fire Department. It was decided to make the initiation fee for membership fifty cents and the dues twenty-five cents a month. William Titus was elected to the office of chief of the department with Louis Snowden and William Walker, foreman and assistant foreman, respectively. Geo. Mobus was chosen as the treasurer of the company. Chief Charles Meyer, of the Scotch Plains company was made an honorary member of the department.

After carefully testing the chemical engine, which was owned by the Scotch Plains department, the Watchung department purchased the machine and will install it in the fire house, the location of which has not as yet been decided upon. This matter will be discussed at the next meeting of the company, which is scheduled to be held at Texier's Mills, Monday night.

The department has been a long-wished-for thing by the residents of Watchung, as there is absolutely no protection from fire in that locality and consequently the rates of insurance are high. By the organization of the fire department, it is expected that the insurance rates will be considerably decreased.

REPUBLICAN CONVENTION ON SEPTEMBER 16

The congressional committee met this afternoon and selected Friday, September 16, as the date for the Republican convention and this city as the place. Frank H. Smith, chairman of the county committee, was chairman of the meeting. Alexander Gilbert, of this city, was the only absentee. The convention will be held in the Plainfield theatre at 11.30 on the morning of the date mentioned.

A committee of arrangements was appointed consisting of Jacob Walsh, of Morris county; J. W. Ingham, of Warren county, and John I. Howe, of Roselle.

MISS MARY RYAN WEDS BIG CRANFORD MAN.

Miss Mary Ryan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Ryan, of East Third street, was married last night in St. Mary's church to James T. Dackery, of Cranford. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Father Hogan.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Anna A. Ryan, of this city. The best man was John T. Connell, of Easton, Pa.

Miss Ryan is well known in this city and is popular among a large circle of friends. Mr. Dackery, who is in the employ of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, has the distinction of being the biggest man in Cranford. He weighs over three hundred pounds. The groom is a member of the Foresters and several other fraternal organizations, being extremely popular among the citizens of Cranford.

CAMDEN ELKS COMING FOR RETURN CONTEST

The forty or more Elks who accompanied the local baseball team to Camden yesterday are enthusiastic in their praise of the reception accorded them by the Camden lodgemen. On the arrival of our men they were escorted to the lodge rooms of the Camden brothers, dined and entertained until time for dressing for the game. The courtesy of the baths at the Y. M. C. A. adjoining the lodge rooms was extended to the visitors with the privilege of using the lockers.

Next Thursday the Camden team will come to Plainfield for a return game and they promise that more than the number of Elk fans than went to Camden yesterday will be on hand with their team to root for a victory. They will meet with a cordial reception from the local lodge, but it is not at all likely that they will be accorded the privilege of winning the game.

SALVATION ARMY TENT HOLDS LARGE CROWD

A large crowd assembled at the Salvation Army tent last evening to hear the Swedish string band and choir play and sing. The service was one of the best held so far ,being full of interest and inspiration from start to finish.

The meeting started with the singing of the several familiar songs after which Captain Hewitt led in prayer. For about one hour the string band and choir played and sang alternately. There was several solos and duets and quartetts rendered. Miss Anna Johansen sang two solos and the Price sisters sang two duets. As the Swedish church is without a pastor Captain Hewitt gave a breif gospel talk from the words of Nathaniel to Phillip "We have found Him of whom Moses and the Prophets did write."

The speaker said that Phillip's discovery was the most important one to make and gave many reasons why men are not sucessful in their searches. If we are to discover the secret at all we must do as the miner does, go 'way down deep.' Success is only obtainable by the consecration of the mind, body and spirit to the work of seeking the salvation, which was the discovery made by Phillip.

REPUBLICANS FAVOR VON MINDEN FOR ASSEMBLY

Wilson S. Frederick, of Dunellen, and R. F. P. vonMinden, of New Market, were among the Republicans of Middlesex county, who enjoyed the annual clambake at Maurer, yesterday. All factions of the party were present and one of the noticeable features was that harmony prevailed. There was no speechmaking, but in a quiet way several office-seekers were endorsed.

Mr. vonMinden, who has already served one term in the Assembly, would like to go back to Trenton, and the party was with him yesterday in his ambition. Vivian M. Lewis was also the choice for the Gubernatorial nomination. The strength of Theodore Strong, as leader of the party in the county, was recognized and that he still holds the reins seemed to be apparent to everyone.

Price Sisters to Sing.

The Price sisters, of Burlington, accompanied by their mother, Mrs. John Price, arrived in this city yesterday, and will be the guests of Captain and Mrs. Hewitt over the week-end. Many will remember these young women for their sweet singing last year at the Army tent. They will be heard again on Saturday and Sunday evenings at the tent, and on Sunday afternoon at the Baby Camp on the mountains. Their singing will be a blessing and help to all who hear them.

MERCHANTS BREAK EVEN

LOTS OF FUN FOR SPECTATORS.

East Enders Take First Contest by Score of 24 to 10 and Lose Second by Score of 5 to 3—One Accident.

The East and West Front street merchants played a double header ball game, yesterday, in their series of summer contest and the result was an even break. The East Enders showed and proved beyond doubt that they could come back and so Lohrman's cubs romped away with the first contest (we hesitate to call it a game) by the score of 24-10. But the rival nine was not to lose its envious reputation with a single blow and so with a little of Manager Weinberger's "do and die" spirit in it and strengthened by the fragrant aroma from one of his many cigars, the team from the West End of the "Gay White Way" made its percentage for the day's work .500 by winning the second match with the the gravy at 5-3.

Both teams presented entirely new line-ups except for the first two pitchers in the first game. The change was for the better as can be merrily gleaned from the mutual improvement on the score board. Despite the inclemency of the weather, a large crowd of enthusiastic merchants, clerks and storekeepers, was on the job at promptly 1.30. And they were there with lots of fun and humorous remarks—indeed the game was almost as good as a vaudeville show, not because of poor playing, but on account of such comedy sketch artists as "Bill" Coriell, Geo. Clark, "Quaker" Vail and many comedians of baseball lingo that are too numerous to mention.

At the beginning of the first game it looked as though the story of the last merchant's game would be repeated, for Lohrman was banged all over the lot for a grand total of nine runs in two innings while the East End players only managed to scrape on tally from the delivery of Mr. Wilson. But in the third inning the fun commenced for the boys from East Front street. Eight runs were piled up on the afore mentioned Mr. Wilson and five more tallies were added in the next round. The runs kept on the increase for the East End daisies and a total of twenty-four was made before the umpire called time for a breathing spell between games. Lohrman retired from the box. "Bill" Coriell took his place. And enough said, for "Bill" was in form and the opposing nine only scored one more run in the remaining seven innings.

In the second game matters were a little more subdued and baseball like. Coriell again twirled for the East Front street team with Linke on the mound for the opposing side. Mr. Linke scared the batters with his motion and handed it to them 5-3. The first run was not scored until the second inning, when the Morning Glory team put one tally across the pan. And the second game was close all the way through thus breaking all previous records in this "Bread and Butter League."

There was one accident in the third inning, which marred the quiet proceedings of the first game: Cullen, who was playing third base on the West End team, collided with a runner at third base, severely injuring his nose. He was taken to the hospital, where the wounded member was properly attended to and Cullen returned to the field as a spectator.

To pick out any individual stars in the games would be hard work to say the least. Every player was possessed with a little of the grand stand spirit and of course that is the reason for the difficulty in selecting any shining lights.

As usual, the scorer went to sleep before the game began and hence there is only the score by innings to tell the terrible tales. The teams lined up as follows:

This is the score by inning for the two games:

First game:

East Front	1	0	8	5	2	5	2	0	1—24
West Front	3	6	0	0	0	0	0	0	1—10

Second game:

West Front	1	0	0	2	0	2	x		—5
East Front	0	1	0	0	0	0	2		—3

The umpire was George Merrill and he lived to tell the tale.

LOCAL ELKS VICTORIOUS

Beat Camden by Score of 9 to 5 in Game Replete with Brilliance.

HOME RUN BY McLAUGHLIN.

Local Team Play Ball Like Big Leaguers and Are Mighty with the Stick—Uniforms a Factor.

If Warry McLaughlin had not let down in his pitching after the eighth inning of the Elks game in Camden yesterday the Camdenites would never have crossed the rubber with a tally. It was simply a walkover for the Plainfield nine and some of the credit for the victory may be ascribed to the natty uniforms of the locals and the rest to the splendid team work of the locals. The score was 9 to 5 and the Camden team did not make the circuit until the eighth.

Plainfield had men on bases in every inning, but the sharp fielding and good pitching of Westcott and Thompson prevented any scoring until the sixth inning and then they came in bunches. Three hits and a couple of errors put the Plainfielders four runs to the good in this inning and in the seventh another batting streak, in which a home run by McLaughlin with three men on bases accounted for four of the five runs scored and it was all done without anyone being out.

It seemed that after this long lead that the locals felt some remorse and decided that it would be un-fraternal to scoop everything in sight, so Warry was given the tip to ease up and Camden took advantage of the slow easy ones and scored in both the eighth and ninth innings. But maybe there wasn't some style to Plainfield's play! MacNaughton at first accepted thirteen chances with but one excusable error and Captain Hoyt at second put over three of the prettiest assists seen on the Camden diamond in many a day.

McLaughlin's home run hit was one of the longest ever. He put the ball over the fence with about ten feet to spare and all the other fellows on bases had to do was trot leisurely home. The features of the game were the general all-round good playing of the locals where Smith and Moynihan shone as brilliant stars in the outfield and Hoyt, McLaughlin and Cadmus in the infield. For Camden, King and Loughead led in fielding. The six hits credited to the Camdenites were made by six different batters. MacNaughton and Torpey led in the stick work for Plainfield, each of them securing three hits. The summary printed below gives a good description of the game.

After the Game.

It was said late last night that the ball from Warry McLaughlin's bat which went ten feet over the centerfield fence has not been found yet and the entire detective force of Camden is searching for a clue as to its whereabouts.

When MacNaughton came to bat in the sixth he had a vindictive look in his eye and just as Westcott put a "groover" over the pan the swish of Mac's bat was heard in the grand stand and it is alleged that an American flag on a staff six hundred yards away was swayed and flapped with

TRANSFERS IN FIRE DEPT. APPROVED BY COMMITTEE

Several transfers in the city fire department were approved by the fire committee of the Common Council at their meeting last night, at which Mayor Fisk and Councilmen Tolles, Taylor, Mygatt and C. C. Randolph were present. The changes were made at the suggestion of Chief T. O. Doane for the good of the service.

The resignation of Fireman John Nichols was received and accepted and another man will eventually be appointed in Nichols' place. The following men were transferred: William Jaeger from headquarters to engine house No. 1; H. G. Freeman from engine house No. 1 to headquarters, and Fireman Joseph Robinson from headquarters to No. 4 company to take the place of Nichols, resigned.

William Gaub, of North Plainfield, and formerly a member of the borough fire department, has been appointed to fill the place made vacant by the resignation of John Nichols.

GEORGE HUFF RESIGNS; A. T. TODD DECLINES

George Huff, who has been a member of the Dunellen Council for two years, tendered his resignation at a special meeting of that body, last night, making two vacancies to be filled. Recently Lewis T. Churchill resigned to take up sewer work in the borough, and August F. Todd, who was appointed to succeed him at an adjourned meeting on Tuesday night, informed the council last night that he declined to accept the honor.

Mr. Todd is now president of the Board of Education, and this together with his business interests in New York city, occupies all his time.

Mr. Huff retires from the council because he has planned to remove from the borough. He has been engaged in a general trucking business in Dunellen for many years and during his service in the council has given general satisfaction. Another meeting of the council will be held soon to take action regarding the two vacancies. At present no one has been prominently mentioned for the positions. The present members of the council are: C. H. Berkeiser, J. A. Borgardus, F. H. Gise and C. E. Richards, the last named being president.

JUDGE RUNYON TO BE GUEST AT 'OLD HOME WEEK'

Judge William N. Runyon, who seeks the Congressional nomination to succeed Charles N. Fowler, is busy these days visiting all parts of the Fifth district, getting acquainted with the voters and presenting his claims for a seat in Congress. Yesterday the judge was in Dover, where he held a conference with the leaders of the party, and received assurances of support.

Arrangements were made for Judge Runyon to again visit Dover next Monday, where he will be historian at the opening of the "Old Home Week" festivities. Wherever the judge visits he makes friends and strengthens his chances for securing the nomination. While the Plainfielder is engaged here and there conducting his campaign, he has many friends who are working day and night for him in other parts of the district. Plans have about been decided upon for the holding of several other meetings throughout the district before the primaries on September 13.

It would have been a hard matter to have found a happier or better satisfied party of youngsters than the bunch which at the invitation of L. W. Randolph sat around on the floor of his drug store on West Front street yesterday afternoon, partaking of ice creaam soda. There were twenty-eight tots ranging in age from eighteen months to ten years, and for a little while they were the real thing of interest in that store. It took two attendants to serve the crowd, but it was an orderly one, in charge of wo caretakers from the Netherwood Fresh Air Camp, where the children came. A viva voce vote of thanks was given to Mr. Randolph as the children piled into the carryall which brought them from the camp.

'TWAS A NEAR-ELOPEMENT

KNOT TIED BY FORMER PASTOR.

Bride Went on Vacation, Ostensibly to Philadelphia, but Met Groom at Asbury Park—Both Well Known.

There was a little surprise manifested yesterday when word was received in this city that George E. Firstbrook and Miss Mabel Cole had been married at Asbury Park on last Saturday. Most of his intimate friends were aware of the attachment between the couple, but were not expecting that the event was so near. As a matter of fact the wedding took on all the elements of an elopement adding the spice of romance necessary for a story.

According to the dispatch received here, Miss Cole, who was a stenographer in the office of Harry C. Runyon, started on a vacation on Saturday and gave it out that she would go on a visit to relatives in Philadelphia. Instead she met Mr. Firstbrook at Asbury Park and after the formality of securing a license, they were married at Atlantic Highlands, by Miss Cole's former pastor, Rev. Frank Fletcher, of the Central Avenue Baptist church, the pastor's wife and Miss Blanche Cassaboom being the witnesses.

Mr. Firstbrook is a son of Mrs. Mary E. Firstbrook, of Grant avenue, and is best known as a newspaper man and baseball fan. Up to within two months ago he was in charge of the sporing page of the Daily Press, and is now engaged in a similar capacity with the Asbury Park Morning Press. He has been married before and has a son about 10 years old. His bride is a daughter of Captain and Mrs. Benjamin Cole, of Dunellen. Captain Cole is one of the best known pilots in the service of the Central Railway ferry, being now in command of the Cranford. Mrs. Firstbrook is a singer of some ability, being the soloist at the Dunellen Presbyterian church.

Words of congratulations were wired to the newly married pair today by a number of their friends in this city including the staff of the Daily Press.

EXCURSIONISTS WITNESS THE AIRSHIP FLIGHTS.

After a pleasant day at the shore and with plenty of sunburn on their faces to prove that they had clear weather the Warren Chapel excursionists returned home last night at eight o'clock. Nothing occurred during the day to deprive any of the party from the full enjoyment of the many attractions.

The surf was rather rough during the day, but the temperature of the water, which was 72 degrees, lured many of the Plainfield people to plunge into its boisterous waves. Toward evening the aeroplane flights took place, and the excursionists had a splendid opportunity to witness them, although the train left the station shortly after six o'clock. A thousand people went on this excursion.

ST. PETER'S CHURCH HELD LAWN FETE YESTERDAY.

A lawn fete was held yesterday afternoon and evening at the home of Miss A. M. Rushcke, 431 West Sixth street, for the benefit of St. Peter's Lutheran church. The affair was well attended and a good sum was realized.

The lawn was tastefully decorated with Japanese lanterns. Tables were placed about the lawn and fancy articles, coffee, tea, cake, candy and ice cream were sold.

The committee in charge of the affair was composed of Mrs. Richard Moldenke, Miss Elsie Moldenke, Mrs. Charles Schmidt, Miss A. M. Rushcke, Miss Anna Moldenke and Miss Pauline Schmidt.

Sykes—Walker.

Thomas Francis Sykes, of Scotch Plains, and Miss Ray Hudnut Walker, of Terre Haut, Indiana, were married yesterday at the Church of the Ascension, New York, by Rev. Andrew F. Underhill. Mr. Sykes is well known in Scotch Plains. Miss Walker is the daughter of Mrs. Geo. W. Scott, of Terre Haute.

Rev. Bergen Stelle Will Speak.

At the Plainfield Rescue Mission tonight at 8 o'clock, Rev. Bergen D. Stelle, of Clarksburg, Va., will be the speaker. Mr. Stelle is a widely-known Baptist preacher and will occupy the pulpit of the First Baptist church, Sunday morning.

J. HIMMELFARB,

Ladies' Tailor and Fashionable Dressmaker

I desire to thank my friends and patrons for their past patronage and to inform them that I have connected myself with Mr. J. A. Fass, of The Paris, 214 West Front street, telephone No. 877-L, where I shall be pleased to serve them as in the past.

AMONG OUR NEIGHBORS

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

There was a bit of romance connected with the marriage of Miss Mabel Cole, of Washington avenue, daughter of Captain Benjamin Cole, to George E. Firstbrook, of Plainfield. Miss Cole left the borough several days ago and everyone thought that she had gone to Philadelphia to visit friends. But Dan Cupid steered her toward Atlantic Highlands, where Baptist church in Atlantic Highlands. Mrs. Fletcher and Miss Blanche Cassabom were witnesses of the ceremony. The newly married couple will live in Ocean Grove.

Miss Helen Miller has returned to her home in Philadelphia after an extended visit with Mr. and Mrs. William Shively, of Whittier avenue.

Sylvester Tieple, of New York City, is spending his vacation in the borough as the guest of F. G. Rhinehart, of North avenue.

Fred Kirchiner, of Front street, and Miss Emilie Mosher, of Plainfield, spent Saturday and Sunday on Long Island.

F. G. Rhinehart, of North avenue, has returned from a visit in Keyport, Long Branch and Atlantic Highlands.

Benjamin A. Cole, Jr., of Washington avenue, goes to Asbury Park Sunday morning for a week's vacation.

Alan Fredericks, of Dunellen avenue, has returned from a three weeks' visit in Nutley.

Lewis Wahl, of Washington avenue, is suffering from a badly wrenched hip.

Charles Lake, of Little Falls, has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Woods, of the borough.

Gilbert Knox, of Front street, is working on a peach farm in Lebanon.

Robert Fern, of Whittier avenue, is seriously ill.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The Township Committee has posted warnings to owners of dogs, notifying them that the dog ordinance, prohibiting the animals running at large upon the streets without a muzzle, would be enforcel on and after August 15. The notice does not seem to have much effect on either the dogs or their owners as there seems to be as many loose as ever.

Samuel Johanson, of Front street, has returned from a trip to Atlanta, Ga., where he has been superintending the erection of a printing press for the Walter Scott Co., of Plainfield.

The Italian band, which discontinued practice during July, is again giving the residents of the east end of town music several nights a week.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Walpole, of Front street, left yesterday for a two weeks' outing which will be spent at Clinton Corners, N. Y.

Miss Marion Clark, of Front street, is spending a week with her cousin, Mrs. Fisher, at Newark.

Mrs. Anthony Dobbins, of Newark, is spending two weeks with relatives and friends in town.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The men who work in the Spicer Manufacturing Joint Company feel the need of a trolley between here and Plainfield, so that their families may be transported back and forth to get provisions and do their shopping. It seems strange we should be so isolated from Plainfield when a direct line of a mile and a half from Arlington avenue would bring you into the centre of South Plainfield and make a beautiful road along the banks of Spring Lake, coming out at Albert Manning's driveway. The people all along the line are willing to give their consents to such a line being built and would agree to any time limit the road might desire. It is to be hoped we will soon hear of such a line being built, as the isolation from a city so near us seems preposterous.

A welcome day for those employed on the Lehigh Valley Railroad is the 13th of the month—when the paymaster in his paycar is sighted coming up the road.

Mrs. Walter Listy has returned to her home in Dunellen after a visit here to her mother.

Mr. Fuller has harvested hundreds of bushels of fine peaches, the first crop of new trees.

Mrs. D. D. Rogers and W. D. Rogers, of Daytona, Fla., are visiting in this city.

PERSONAL.

Miss Mellick, of East Seventh street, is spending the summer at Kennebunkport, Me.

W. D. Rogers, of Daytona, Fla., who has been visiting here, left today for Horseheads, N. Y.

Miss Helen Sutton, of Spooner avenue, left for Nyack, New York, yesterday, to visit at the "Ivanhoe".

Mr. and Mrs. Stewart J. Whitney, of this city, have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. George L. Houghton, at Peekskill, N. Y.

Dr. J. H. Carman, of Watchung avenue, will leave on Tuesday for Cape Porpoise, Me., where he will remain for two weeks with his family, who are there for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Hubbard, Miss Ethel L. Titsworth and William E. Hubbard, of West Fifth street, left this mornig for a ten days' automobile tour of New England. Mr. and Mrs. Asa F. Randolph will join them Sunday.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

At the Plainfield theatre the popular "Smart Set" company, headed by the drollest of all negro comedians, S. H. Dudley, will be the attraction Saturday, September 3. Mr. Dudley will appear in a new musical comedy in three acts, entitled "His Honor the Barber," this being his second season in the play which has been augmented. Mr. Dudley has an exceptionally fine role as "Raspberry Snow," an eccentric but unlucky "coon", whose one ambition is to shave the President of the United States. Raspberry has other aspirations, but his pet hobby is to be able to act as the first tonsorial artist of the land. His efforts to obtain this exalted honor, his quarrels with his sweetheart, and his adventures with a favorite donkey form the nucleus of one of the funniest plots ever originated in musical comedy. Fifteen song-hits wedded to pretty and retentive music are introduced during the progress of the play. Last, but not least, there is a singing and dancing chorus of twenty-five talented people who have been especially engaged because of their respective abilities. Despite the cost of the production there will be no advance in prices.

A valuable addition to the cast is Aida Overton Walker, recognized as pre-eminent among able critics as one of the best singing and dancing comediennes in the business.

Registered this week at Bryant Villa, Lake Hopatcong, are Misses Harriet R. and May S. Shreve, of Grove street.

STATE COMMITTEEMEN WILL SERVE UNTIL 1912

Trenton, August 19.—This year for the first time the Democratic State convention that will nominate a candidate for Governor will not choose a new State committee. For many years it was the custom for the delegates to State conventions dealing with Gubernatorial nominations to select members of the State committee whose terms continued until the next time a Governor was to be elected. At the convention two years ago when delegates were chosen to represent New Jersey at the Denver convention, a resolution was passed extending the term of office of State committeemen to 1912 and providing for the election of their successors at that time and every four years thereafter.

Under this arrangement it will be impossible for any move to be made to oust Charles H. Gallagher of this city, from the State committee at this time, on account of his falling out with the other Mercer county Democratic leaders over the question of who shall be the next Democratic Gubernatorial candidate. Mr. Gallagher is the only prominent Mercer county Democrat who looks with favor on the candidacy of Woodrow Wilson.

BACK LIKE RIP VAN WINKLE.

Beverly, N. J., Aug. 19.—After an absence of more than forty years, John W. Milton, who left this place to serve in the Union army during the Civil War, returned here Wednesday but, like Rip Van Winkle, there was no one here who recognized him, and the place was an entirely different town from the little cluster of houses he knew in his youth.

When he went to the site of his birthplace and saw a modern building in its stead, tears dimmed his eyes. Going to the rear of the place, he took a drink from the well which he knew so well in his youth. With some fruit from an apple tree which he said he delighted to climb when a boy, he left the place and boarded a train, saying he was going to Boston.

Milton said when he went to the war a wife and several small children were left behind. After the war he drifted to Kansas and made a snug fortune raising wheat. He said he would hire detectives to find his wife and children, if they were living.

Mrs. Ida F. Quinn and daughter, of Stone street, have returned from their summer outing in Atlantic City and Pennsylvania.

Pianos & Player-Pianos

MATHUSHEK & SON PLAYER-PIANO is the most advanced instrument of its type on the market today, and in its capacity for individual musical expression and for the artistic rendition of music, whether popular or classic, it cannot be surpassed, for it places the control of tempo and phrasing entirely in the hands of the performer, enabling him to give expression to his moods and emotions quite as if he were playing the piano manually.

Our experts have spent a number of years in producing this instrument, and every detail has been carefully thought out and perfected so that it may, without exaggeration, be described as the most perfect Player-Piano Mechanism in the world.

PROBERS AT JERSEY CITY.

The committee of the New Jersey Senate that is investigating the transactions of the public school boards, and which brought to light scandals in North Bergen, Secaucus and West New York, spent yesterday in Jersey City.

Mayor Wittpenn was one of the witnesses. He and a partner manufacture and deal in brick. The Mayor testified that the firm had sold no brick to the city since he had been Mayor with his knowledge, and he had instructed his partner not to sell brick to go in public buildings in the city. It did develop that the firm sold brick to Cane & Co., who had been customers for years, and they were sent to Public School 32, but were rejected as defective by Supervising Achitect Rowland.

Another witness was former Health Commissioner William J. Murphy a plumber, who put in bills aggregating $3,800 for materials and work on schools Nos. 4 and 21. Many of these bills were rejected on the report of Leslie Brown, chief inspector of the School Department, that they were exorbitant. One item charged was $106 for a water meter that was supplied gratuitously by the Water Department. Each bill is sworn to.

Murphy said he signed only two of the bills; that the formality of making the affidavit was not complied with, as he sent the bill over to Joseph W. Hoban, a notary public, who affixed his signature. Murphy testified that the other bills were filled out by James O'Mara, his manager, or Mary Harvis, his bookkeeper, and he knew nothing about the charges for time and materials. The witness put all the responsibility on others. The committee issued a subpoena for Hoban, but he could not be found.

John H. Ward, ex-president of the board, who is in the insurance business, admitted that his firm got some of the school and city insurance when his partner, William G. Nelson, was City Comptroller. The committee adjourned to meet in Bayonne next Wednesday.

QUEEN FOR BABY PARADE.

Asbury Park, August 19.—Miss Lillian A. Sexton, of this city, is to impersonate Queen Titania X in the Asbury Park baby parade and carnival, which will begin on Tuesday, August 30, with the queen's coronation and end with the baby parade on Friday afternoon, September 2.

Miss Sexton is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael E. Sexton, proprietors and managers of the Coleman House and the Hotel Marlborough, two of the largest hostelries in Asbury Park. She is a beautiful girl of eighteen years. She will be graduated from the Armitage, a girls' school at Wayne, Penn., next June, when she will leave America for a year abroad.

The former queens of the baby parade were Miss Grace Crawford, of New York city; Miss Ethel Martin Jones, of Asbury Park; Miss Edith Leaming Reeves, of Philadelphia; Miss Clara Belle Logan, of Brooklyn; Miss Julia Doremus of Newark; Miss Jessie May Hazelrigg, of Asbury Park; Miss Norma Cole Hornberger, of New York city, and Miss Henrietta A. Elker, of Asbury Park.

MR. DOUD RECOVERING; DAMAGED CAR REMOVED.

The Thomas car belonging to the F. L. C. Martin Automobile Co. which went into an excavation on E. Front street on Wednesday night, was towed to the local garage of the company yesterday afternoon, and today is being taken down in an endeavor to discover the extent of the damages sustained from the mishap. Charles Hand with the aid of a derrick managed to extricate the car from the hole yesterday afternoon. A day or two will be required to determine the exact damage.

Inquiry at the hospital this afternoon elicited the information that William Doud, who was injured when the car sank into the hole, is doing nicely and will be able to leave the hospital in a day or two.

K. OF C. PURCHASE OLD HOME OF COLUMBUS.

A party of Knights of Columbus, together with about two hundred other Americans, yesterday visited the monument of Columbus, in Genoa, Italy. Dr. John Buckley, of New York, on behalf of the Knights, placed a wreath of laurel and palm at the foot of the monument. The party also visited the house where Columbus was born.

There is a plan on foot for the purchase of the house by the Knights of Columbus and its transformation into a kind of a shrine of international interest. This is the first party of Knights to visit the birthplace of the patron of their order.

BANKER AUTOIST MUST SERVE JAIL SENTENCE.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 19.—Frank W. Waterman, president of the Ramsey County State Bank, was given a sentence of forty-five days in the workhouse, without the option of a fine, by Judge Finehout, in police court yesterday for speeding his automobile in the city limits.

Mr. Waterman and a companion Wednesday night ran into a buggy containing two men. The buggy was upset and the occupants slightly injured.

In police court yesterday Mr. Waterman pleaded guilty.

DEDICATE GIFT AT VERSAILLES.

A statue of George Washington, the gift of the State of Virginia to France, was unveiled in the Napoleon vestibule, of the Versailles palace, in Paris, yesterday afternoon in the presence of a distinguished company of Frenchmen and Americans. Minister of War Brun presided and was assisted by United States Ambassador Bacon, Ambassador Jusserand, representing the foreign office and the Virginia commission consisting of Colonel James Mann, D. P. Halsey and F. W. King, all of whom made brief addresses.

The statue is a bronze duplicate of the famous Houdon statue of Washington in the State House at Richmond, Va.

THE STATELY STORK.

His Immense Power on the Wing and His Lack of Voice.

In Holland the nests of storks are generally on the summit of a tall post, put up on purpose for them, on which is fixed an old cart wheel. Says an English writer: "A Dutch gentleman of my acquaintance has one such post in his grounds within sight of his library window, but he improves on the cart wheel by having an iron framework for the reception of the nest. The first year it was put up, toward the end of June, a solitary young stork used to come daily and inspect this framework. I saw him there myself one day, standing in the empty receptacle exactly like a would be benedict inspecting an empty house, contemplating the view and wondering if the drains are all right. The verdict was apparently favorable, for next season saw the nest occupied by the newly wedded pair. Their power of wing is very fine, and on hot days I have watched them ascending spiral circles, hardly moving their broad, black wings, till they have looked no bigger than flies. After the young are hatched they appear to be suspicious of one another and unwilling to leave the nest unguarded."

Storks have no voice. The only noise they make is "klappering" (snapping their great red mandibles rapidly and loudly). Thus they greet one another, generally by throwing back the head until the upper mandible rests on the back, but occasionally "klappering" is performed with the head and bill in the natural position.

GREENWICH MERIDIAN.

Its Relation to Standard Time In This Country.

Standard time is the time in common use regulating the ordinary affairs of life. It is derived from the sun. Leaving out of account small irregularities of the solar motion that are of no consequence for our present purpose, when that celestial body is on the meridian of any place we call the time of that place noon, or 12 o'clock. It follows that when it is noon at any given place it is similarly noon at all other places having the same meridian. As the sun rises in the east and sets in the west, it is evident that when it is crossing the meridian of any place it must have already passed that of places to the eastward and not yet reached that of places to the westward. In other words, when it is noon in the given place it is forenoon in places to the westward and afternoon in places to the eastward.

Now, 15 degrees of longitude correspond exactly to one hour of time difference, and therefore the local times of the several standard meridians differ from Greenwich by an even number of hours. In the United States the standard time meridians are those whose longitudes are west of Greenwich 60, 75, 90, 105 and 120 degrees. The time of these meridians is respectively four, five, six, seven and eight hours earlier than Greenwich time because the sun in traveling across the sky from east to west passes the Greenwich meridian before it reaches the American meridians.—New York American.

Laugh and Grow Fat.

"Laugh and grow fat" is an old saying, and there is more than a little truth in it, asserts a doctor. "The convulsive movements which we call laughter exert a very real effect upon the bodily framework. They cause the arteries to dilate, so that they carry more blood to the tissues of the body and the heart to beat more rapidly, so that the flow of the blood through the vessels is hastened. In other words, laughter promotes the very best conditions for an increase of the vital processes. The tissues take up more nutritive material and the waste products are more promptly removed. A good laugh sends an increased flow of blood to the brain. This immediately causes that instrument of thought to work better, with the result that gloomy forebodings are sent packing."

The Origin of the Mastiff.

Mastiff is a term applied to a very large and powerful species of the canine family, and there is considerable conflict of opinion regarding the origin of the word. Some claim that it is derived from the Italian mastino or the French mastin, both of which signify large limbed. This word, they say, was gradually corrupted into masty, a Lincolnshire expression meaning very large, muscular or big, until it gradually assumed its present form. Others again say its true origin is the old German masten, to fatten, because the mastiff is a large dog and so seems better fed than any other.—London Field.

Good Scheme.

"It's a shame," commented the friend of the restaurant proprietor.

"What's a shame?" asked the restaurant proprietor.

"Why, that you have to give that pretty waitress all the tough steaks for the patrons at her tables."

"Oh, I pay her extra for that. You see, she is so pretty not one man would kick if the steaks were so tough they pulled his teeth out."—Chicago News.

The Eternal Feminine.

"Myrtle has gone upon the vaudeville stage and has made an instant big hit because of her daring."

"What is her act?"

"She sings in a cage of mice."—Lippincott's.

Adversity is the first path to truth.—Byron.

THE REASON

I have the confidence of the public is because I never take a contract at a figure too low to enable me to do the work properly and give permanent satisfaction to the customer. It may cost you a little more in the beginning, but a great deal less in the end.

Virginia of the Air Lanes

A ROMANCE OF FLYING

... By ...

Herbert Quick

Copyright, 1909, by the Bobbs-Merrill Company

The point here is that there was no danger of Craighead's running off while she listened with such breathless interest to his adventures. He explained his natural transition from the study of artistic anatomy to surgery and then through medical jurisprudence to law, and over all gloomed the shadow of his wonderful, his poetic, his epic dissipations. Mrs. Graybill was shocked, but she asked for all the horrible tale that he might so relieve it that nothing would ever, ever induce him to drink again.

"Only one thing would ever do that," said he, "or maybe two. The pangs of despised love"—

"Which you have never experienced?" she asked.

"Never," said he, "as I am now likely to!"

"And the other shock that might overturn your self control?"

"The failure of Carson," replied Craighead. "That would put me down and out—down and out!"

The relations of Craighead to Mr. Waddy became more and more strained, for the former could no longer explain satisfactorily the failure of Carson to appear with his airship. Finally as a last resort Mr. Waddy resolved to take Craighead and Mrs. Graybill and go to the south to settle the whole problem. Thus it was that the three were at Palmetto Beach when Captain Harrod with the launch passed through Strong's bayou with Virginia and Mrs. Stott on the way to the cabin where the first Carson aeronef was preparing for its delayed flight north. Tickets had been bought to Palmetto Beach on Craighead's statement that Carson was here.

"Ah!" said Craighead. "How natural it all looks! I seem never to have left these balmy, if somewhat sandy, shades. Dear old Yupon Hedge inn!"

Mr. Craighead was halted by a liveried attendant.

"Beg pardon, sir," said he. "This is a private clubhouse. The inn's over there!"

"Oh, certainly," replied Craighead. "All cement walks look alike to me."

"The one over at the inn looks like brick," said Mr. Waddy grimly.

Craighead searched in vain after their arrival at the inn for Carson.

If Craighead's easy flow of speech was somewhat impeded by his sense of the uncertainties, not to say dangers, of his position, it was worse when he and Mr. Waddy and the handsome, sympathetic Mrs. Graybill returned from the plantation, having elicited from the reluctant Chloe the information that Mr. Theodore, his machine, his niece and his niece's companion were at Harrod's camp on the beach, which was "off thatterway." They jist went down the river, through a canal, across some land, and then they were thar. She didn't know about no aeronef, but Mr. Theodo' was a-projickin' around with some flyin' machine. She recokoned the canal at Palmetto Beach was the one, but she didn't know. This information, Mr. Craighead declared, made everything clear, but on returning to the inn Mr. Waddy hired a local officer to guard Mr. Craighead's room and began taking thought of having a warrant issued against him for something Mr. Waddy was not quite clear for what.

Craighead was trapped, lost, betrayed. He sat in his room chewing a cigar and calculating the distance to the ground. It looked feasible to get down a pillar of the veranda and into the woods. Carson was an imposter, they were guilty of fraud, there was no aeronef, and the Air Products company would collapse at Mr. Waddy's defection.

Ting-a-ling-ting-ting-g-g-g!

His telephone rang. Was his good angel Mrs. Graybill on the wire? She was.

"You know who this is?"

"Know these tones?" he gushed. "Why, were I in deepest hades through geological depths of burning marl and lignite and other carboniferous deposits I'd know them! What is it, fair one?"

"Oh, nothing! Only I have just learned at the postoffice that Mr. Carson is back a few miles, through a lagoon, and the man will get us a guide with a boat to take us through those narrows in the morning. Is that all right?"

"You are— My God, Caroline, you have saved me from you know not what! I shall love you, love you, love you"—

And the telephone was hung up.

They went through the canal in great style. They skimmed the black waters of Freshwater lake and landed at the shelly hummock. While the boatman searched for the path to the gulf beach they sat on the shell mound, fascinated by the strange landscape. The expanse of black pools and reedy marshes between them and the line of surf, which they could hear roaring beyond the dunes, was dotted with clumps of tall pines and splotched with scrub oak thickets.

"Those pines," said Mrs. Graybill, "are like palms. Why, what's that?" exclaimed Mrs. Graybill.

Rising from beyond the dunes, as if from the sea, there soared a great something, which moved like a bird. It swelled like a magic ship as it neared them, sailing low and dominating the sky like a cloud. It came with the most amazing speed, like an eagle in midswoop, so swift, so light, so facile that all impression of weight was abolished, and the huge thing filled the mind with the notion of levity—like a humming bird.

"Oh, of course," said Craighead, his hands trembling, his face white, "this man Carson is a fraud! Oh, yes, we knew it all the time! But you see that his aeronef has gone through the empty form of eventuating, all the same. Flying like a frigate bird! Shayne, charge! Roll over, Silberberg, and don't dare move till I say so! Oh, this is rotten—rotten! I've got to kiss some one! Hurray!"

Mrs. Graybill was running along the path after the guide, Mr. Waddy puffing along behind, hopelessly unplaced.

"Did you see Carson?" said Craighead. "And there was a girl with him."

Emerging from the dunes, they saw the airship skimming off along the line of beach foam. Down the beach stood Mrs. Stott and Captain Harrod, looking after the airship in amazement and delight. Then, turning like a frightened heron, she swept seaward and came down the wind like an arrow, Virginia waving an American flag over the rail and Theodore swinging his hat.

Suddenly as she passed them with a maneuver so astounding for aerial craft that they could scarcely believe their eyes she stopped. The sharp whir of the beating wing sections told of the sudden reversal of their stroke and of the unprecedented phenomenon of the almost instant arrest of such a machine in midair. It was an unnecessary strain, thought the captain.

How to Regain Beauty of Form

The vagaries of Fashion are a great trial to ladies inclined to overstoutness; but it is a great mistake to go in for physical repression in the shape of special stays. Fasting and violent exercising are also dangerous. One very soon becomes limp, depressed and sallow of complexion when such methods of getting thin are adopted. There is absolutely no necessity to study dietetics or deprive one's self of wholesome rest and bodily comforts.

The following is a prescription which will restore beauty of form without any sacrifice of health or strength. Any druggist will make it up for you or supply the harmless ingredients, viz.: ½ oz. Marmola, ½ oz. Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic, and 3½ oz. Peppermint Water. The dose is one teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime.

Don't be afraid of a good appetite, especially as the digestive system will be much benefited by this simple treatment. Indeed, the whole body is beautified, and the reduction of weight occasions no wrinkles. The skin and complexion are rebeautified.

George Webster, of West Second street, is recovering from a dangerous attack of acute indigestion.

Proctor's Bill a Good One.

Devine & Williams, appearing at Proctor's theatre, make an exceedingly funny pair of comedians. Their line of talk and actions keep everybody laughing from start to finish. Gordon & Gordon, in "The Devil and the Frog," an acrobatic and contortion act, are wonders. Lew Williams & Co., in the comedy sketch, "All is Fair in Love," a tale of Jewish life, make a hit, while Kimball & Lewis, in songs and talk conclude a fine program.

Big Trolley Excursion.

Five trolley carloads of men, women and children passed through this city yesterday noon on their way to Riverside Park. It was the annual excursion conducted by the Public Service Railway Benevolent Association for the employes and their families of the Jersey City department. The cars came through this city on the return trip at seven o'clock.

Mrs. Anna M. Sutherland, a sister of Mrs. E. T. DeForest, of West Second street, died last week in Berkeley, California. Mrs. Sutherland was the wife of Edwin Sutherland and a frequent contributor to the newspapers in that locality.

BASEBALL.

Well those Merchant games did stop before night fell but the second game was only seven innings in length if you remember correctly.

Results of yesterday's games in the Bread and Butter League:
East Front, 24; West Front, 10.
West Front, 5; East Front, 3.
Standing of the clubs:

	W.	L.	Pc.
West Front	2	1	.666
East Front	1	2	.333

Now if East Front street nine defeats the West Fronters in the next game, the teams will be tied for the pennant. If the West End team wins, it will be two games ahead of its rivals.

Ty Cob can come back. He pasted out three clean drives in yesterday's game out of four times at bat.

Bill Coriell is certainly another iron man. He pitched great ball for the two games yesterday and he kept a smiling all the time.

And did you notice the size of the crowd at the oval to see the double header? Who says a league team wouldn't pay in this city beautiful?

Platt Adams has wired Manager Charlie Line of the Y. M. C. A. team, that he will be unable to play in the game tomorrow. Too bad, Platt, your stick work and good looks will be greatly missed.

Plainfield has only one baseball player whose picture is published in the cigarette boxes. Keeping up to style at least. This is Platt Adams, the popular first sacker of the association team. But do you remember that Platt was a champion javelin thrower and running, hop, step and jump performer several years ago. There's a reason.

Just cast your optics on that Seery, the Dunellen catcher tomorrow. The Elizabeth lad is O. K. when it comes to back-stop work, although he is weak with the stick.

Get out to the oval early tomorrow so as to see two full games.

One scalp for the Elks anyway, and a 9-5 one at that.

It certainly looked like a shut out there for a while for the Plainfield team was playing all around the Camden antlered ones.

Play ball!

TEAMS READY FOR DOUBLE HEADER TOMORROW.

The line-up of the Y. M. C. A. team in tomorrow's game will be slightly changed. Hervey Marsh will be back on second, Benjamin Adams will occupy the initial sack, Carlton Smith will take Dudley Wilcox's position in center field and William Coyle will chase the flies that come into right field, taking Dumont's job.

As yet Manager Doerflinger has not announced his line-up for tomorrow's game. "Warry" McLaughlin is sure to pitch while Nelson will do the receiving. Dunellen's slab artist will be "Smiling Jimmy" Montross with Seery as his backstop.

The first game starts at 2.15 sharp and the second begins at 4 o'clock. The place, of course, is Crescent Oval, and the girl?

Bound Brook vs. Somerville.

The Bound Brook baseball team has as its opponents tomorrow afternoon the strong Somerville nine. The game is to be played on the Bound Brook grounds.

STATE FAIR WILL OPEN GATES ON OCTOBER 3.

The opening date for the New Jersey State Fair, to be held at Olympic Park, Newark, has been announced as October 3, when the inaugural events on a week's program will be given. Besides the exhibition of cattle, farm products, fine arts and the various manufactures that will attract attention, there will be horse racing and various athletic events.

It is expected that the trotting and running events held in connection with the fair will be particularly interesting, while in addition to this there will be bicycle and motorcycle races. A program of special concern to automobilists and persons interested in aviation will also be provided.

Each of the six days of the fair will be set aside for special occasions and among these no little interest will probably attach to Military Day and Governor's Day. On the latter occasion it is expected that State, county and city officials and politicians from all over New Jersey will be in attendance.

Military Day will be of special interest to members of the National Guard, who will compete for honors in drills open to the military of the State.

C. A. Miller and wamily, of East Seventh street, have returned from their outing in the country.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Duffy, of 30 Somerset place, are the parents of a boy, born Tuesday night.

LOCAL ELKS VICTORIOUS.

the breeze created by the passing of the pellet.

'Twas passing strange, but when Warry wound up you could see the other fellow at the bat get ready to dodge. Gee! it was funny. "Doc" Cadmus was pretty quick, but hardly quick enough to get out of the way of one of Westcott's twisters which pleayed a rataplan on the Doc's ribs. Just the same the prescription compounder was not feazed and took first as though the reception of compliments was an everyday occurrence.

It has always been maintained by "Jawn" McGraw, of the Giants, that a suit or uniform on a man either made a ball player or a cigar sign of the wearer. It was nix on the cigar sign business with the wearers of the new suits worn by Plainfield's players yesterday.

That was some reception which the locals got in Camden yesterday. Baths in the Y. M. C. A., and a good dinner at the club house and a welcome from their brothers which it would be hard to beat. Well, after their visit to Plaainfield next Thursday perhaps a kind word will be said in Camden town for the ball tossers who play ball for the game's sake and who also know how to do the needful.

—Neuman Bros. will receive tomorrow a consignment of 100 baskets of choice Mountain Rose peaches. It is fine fruit and will be sold for 75, 85 cents and $1 per basket.

WHAT ATONEMENT MEANS

H. Coulson Fairchild Answers "A Local Pastor" from His Standpoint.

SAYS CRITICISM IS UNFAIR.

Writer Declares as a Whole There is a Chain of Confirmation of Christian Science Running Through the Bible.

Editor The Daily Press:

In a recent issue of The Daily Press one signing himself "A Local Pastor" criticizes my second reply to the Rev. John Y. Broek on the subject of the Atonement as taught in Christian Science. I do not think it was misleading, as my critic implies, to refer your readers to the Christian Science text book for the exact meaning of the Atonement as taught in Christian Science. There is no higher authority on the subject of Christian Science and its teachings than the text book, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures", written by Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy.

In view of the fact, however, that a brief explanation of our views may satisfy our critic, I will state that Atonement in Christian Science does not mean the loss of one's individuality. The true individuality of man is brought to light when man reflects the Divine image and likeness and becomes at one with God as His reflection.

Our critic presents some quotations from "Science and Health" and parallels them with some picked texts from the Bible, and ends up by saying that he wishes the general public to "know the radical difference between the Atonement as Christian Science teaches it and the Atonement as taught in the Bible." By what authority our critic presumes to state exactly what is taught in the Bible we do not know; we certainly have no objection to his stating his particular belief as to what the Bible teaches on this subject, but we must remember that there are at least one hundred and eighty different religious sects in this country calling themselves Christians who are ready to tell us what they think "is taught in the Bible". Without doubt all are doing some good and all have a right to their particular views. What we do object to is the tendency of critics of Christian Science to endeavor to explain what Christian Science teaches in addition to explaining their own beliefs.

During many years' experience in reading criticisms of Christian Science I have seen a number of so-called deadly parallels which purported to set forth a difference between the teachings of Mrs. Eddy and those of the Bible, but taken as a whole there is a chain of confirmation of Christian Science running through the entire inspired word of the Bible. Where verses from the Bible are separated from their context and quotations from Science and Health are likewise used, setting one quotation over against the other, this method of criticism is unreliable. Without the slightest intention of indicating that the Bible is contradictory and merely to show what an unfair method of criticism has been adopted by "The Local Pastor", I present herewith a few texts from Scripture over and against the ones which he has quoted. Our critic quotes from Hebrews 9:22, "Without the shedding of blood there is no remission." But contrariwise, the inspired prophet Isaiah says, "To what purpose is the multitude of your sacrifices unto me saith the Lord: I am full of the burnt offerings of lambs and the fat of fed beasts; and I delight not in the blood of bullocks, or of lambs or of he-goats." Isaiah 1:11. Are we to assume, therefore, that the God of the New Testament, who is a God of love, would delight himself in the sacrifice of the material blood of His divinely beloved son, Christ Jesus? The prophet Hosea says, "For I desired mercy, not sacrifice; and the knowledge of God more than burnt offerings." Hosea 6:6. And in St. Matthew 9:13, Jesus said, "But go ye and learn what that meaneth, I will have mercy and not sacrifice." In Micah 6:8, we read, "And what doth the Lord require of thee, but to do justly and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God?"

Our critic confuses the thought of Christ with the personality of Jesus. The Scripture verses which he quotes referring to the body of Christ from the Christian Science standpoint relate to a spiritual and not a material body. We partake of the body of Christ when we live and understand the truth as taught by Christ Jesus. We are redeemed by the blood (life) of Christ when we

KONESKY WILL TURN OVER NEW LEAF NOW

John Konesky, a twenty year old boy, was caught skulking in the rear of the stores on West Front street last night by Patrolman Daniel McDonald and was arrested. When arraigned before Judge Runyon this morning Konesky could give no excuse for his rather suspicious actions excepting that he was not living at home with his parents.

Konesky said that his father did not want him at home and in fact had sent word to him by a brother saying that he need not return to the parental roof. This action he declared was taken because of his frequent absences. Judge Runyon thought the fault was entirely the boy's and advised him to seek reconciliation with his father and to turn over a new leaf.

He was sent to his home accompanied by Detective Sergeant John Flynn, who will try to patch up the trouble between father and son and make it possible for the young man to become a useful citizen. There is no doubt in the judge's mind that Konesky has been led astray by evil companions.

AUTO FOUND BY ROADSIDE A WRECK

When E. S. F. Randolph, formerly of this city but now of Westfield, drove his auto into his garage Thursday morning, he found a poorly clothed man sitting on a barrel of gasoline. The man told Mr. Randolph a hard-luck story and asked for a job. Mr. Randolph set him to work washing his Mitchell roadster.

Then the former Plainfielder was called out of town, but paid the man who said his name was Taylor, for the work to be done. When Mr. Randolph returned to his home this morning, he found the garage door open and his car absent. Upon investigation he discovered a note, which informed him that his car was out on the Rahway road. Here the car was found by Mr. Randolph, with one side in a ditch, the axles bent, and the whole machine badly damaged. The car was towed to the F. L. C. Martin automobile garage in this city, where repairs will be made.

Mr. Randolph is now wondering whether it was Taylor, who took the car or whether it was the intention of the would-be chauffeur to steal the machine or to just have a little joy-ride. The question is a perplexing one to solve but the damage has been done and Mr. Randolph has decided to be more careful when engaging men to clean his cars.

PLAINFIELDERS HOLD SERVICE IN SOMERSET COUNTY JAIL.

Captain S. A. Hewitt, of the Salvation Army, and Martin A. Korff, violinist, conducted an interesting service at the county jail, Somerville, yesterday afternoon. Captain Hewitt besides making a stirring address, sang several solos and Mr. Korff also played a number of violin solos. Afterward the visitors personally visited each prisoner, leaving some religious literature. The prisoners expressed their pleasure over the interest shown in them by the Plainfielders.

SALVATION ARMY TO BE AT BABY CAMP TOMORROW.

The local corps of the Salvation Army in charge of Capt. Hewitt, will participate in the service at the King's Daughters' Baby Camp on the mountain tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. Music will be made a feature of the meeting and members of the Army will render a number of vocal and instrumental selections.

The services conducted by the Salvationists are always especially interesting and helpful, and a cordial invitation is extended to the public to attend the service tomorrow afternoon.

Another Panhandler Arrested.

Frank Wade, who said that he lived in Philadelphia, was arrested in the borough yesterday afternoon by Acting Chief Marshall Keller for panhandling. Recorder Dolliver listened to the man's pitiful story in court this morning with a sympathetic feeling and suspended sentence provided that Wade would leave the borough in 2.40 speed. With this penalty on his shoulders, Wade grabbed his hat and beat a hasty retreat across the brook.

Welcome Service.

There will be a welcome service at the Salvation Army tent this evening to Mrs. Price and her two daughters, the Misses Sadie and Julia Price, of Burlington. The young women will sing many selections at the services tonight and tomorrow.

AROUND WORLD IN AUTO

Mrs. Harriet C. Fisher, of Trenton, Completes Greatest Trip on Record.

SPENT MORE THAN A YEAR.

Accompanied by Nephew, a Chauffeur and a Brindle Pup Jersey Woman Astonishes the Country.

There passed through Newark Tuesday, en route to her home in Trenton, a New Jersey woman who has succeeded in accomplishing successfully one of the most remarkable feats in the history of the automobile age—a trip around the world in an automobile. Mrs. Harriet Clark Fisher, proprietor and active manager of the Eagle Anvil Works, of Trenton, is the woman, and her companions on the trip were H. Fisher Brooks, her nephew, who acted as her secretary and chauffeur; Miss Maria Boggia, Mrs. Fisher's maid, and A. E. Batcheller, chef and chauffeur. There was also Honk Honk, a Boston bull pup.

A squadron of gaily decorated machines, tooting their horns in salute of the fair motorist, greeted Mrs. Fisher in her Locomobile at Tarrytown, N. Y., and escorted her to New York City. She later came across to Jersey City, and made her way to Newark over the Harrison Turnpike, accompanied by A. E. Greene, of the Greene Motor Car Company of Newark.

Mrs. Fisher stopped at the Greene garage for a few minutes to take on gasoline, and then proceeded on her way to Trenton. She is a month ahead of her schedule. Mrs. Fisher traveled more than 20,000 miles of road that led through jungles and deserts, over mountains and down steep grades, through narrow passages, across shaky bridges and along mysterious roads, covering parts of both the Eastern and Western continents that have never been traversed by an automobile before. She started a year and a month ago, and has been traveling pretty steadily ever since, there being few days she has not been on the road. She believes that she has blazed the way for other automobilists, and declares that there is no more satisfactory way of seeing the world.

The cost has been about the same as if the trip was made by train, and at the same time she has toured many places of interest that a traveler by train would never hear of. She has met with all classes of people, from the beggars of India to the Emperor of Japan, and has been feted everywhere like a royal visitor.

Much of the time that Mrs. Fisher has spent abroad has been lived in the open, a tent and cooking equipment being carried on the car from the beginning to the end of the trip. This was due partly to her love of out-of-doors and partly due to her abhorrence of poor hotel accommodations which are encountered in so many places. In all of her varied experiences Mrs. Fisher has escaped personal dangers, although she was at all times armed and ready for defensive action. In speaking of her journey, Mrs. Fisher said:

"As you know, we went direct to London and then to France, where we got our touring directions. After visiting the countries of Europe, spending a good deal of time in France and Italy, and exploring the latter country more or less thoroughly, we sailed for Bombay. In speaking of Europe, I want to say that I did not meet with the trouble that some tourists have met with, and I never found a more courteous lot of people even in Switzerland, which seems to be the terror of most motorists.

"It is true we tried to obey their laws after learning what they were, as far as the roads were concerned, and the peasantry, instead of stoning us, as has been alleged by others, treated us very kindly, and I am glad to know that the splendid country of Switzerland is to be opened up by the Swiss Government, with the approval of the various cantons comprising the country. Many roads are now shut to tourists, but when they are opened Switzerland will make an ideal visiting place for automobiles.

"At Bombay a gentleman wanted to wager that we could not go twenty-five miles out of the city, but we toured 3,000 miles in India, much of is being over the great road known as the national highway. The people of India especially the Hindus, impressed me very much. From India we went to Ceylon and thence to Japan. The roads in this place are narrow and not too numerous, so touring is not very practical there."

Here Mrs. Fisher made an interesting observation and she said:

"I have been asked why I started from the east and came west. I had a good reason for this, and it was that the sun was on our backs all the way

WANT VAN ARSDALE FOR MAYOR A YEAR HENCE

Although there will be no Mayoralty contest in North Plainfield this year, there is a strong sentiment growing in favor of Councilman Morris C. Van Arsdale for that position, a year hence. Mr. Van Arsdale has been in close touch with borough affairs for several years and has acquainted himself with details of the government there which would make him a popular candidate. His many friends are anxious that he should be the choice of the Republicans for the honor and in consequence have started an early boom for Mr. Van Arsdale.

During his term of service in the borough council, Mr. Van Arsdale has been aggressive and wide-awake to all the best interests of that municipality and it is the opinion among his friends that he would make a good executive of the borough. It is understood that Mr. Van Arsdale will accept the honor, provided the party wants him to take the position.

WILL APPOINT FACTORY INSPECTORS ON SEPT. 6

Although their terms of office expire on September 3, next Governor Fort decided today before starting on his vacation, not to name the successors of seven of the present State factory inspectors until he returns from the automobile trip through New England, which terminates on September 6.

The Governor has about twenty-five applications for appointment to the places to become vacant, eight of which are from women. The applications from the women are for the position which has been made vacant by the resignation of Mary McKean, of Trenton.

Senator Leavitt, of Mercer county, is trying to induce Governor Fort to appoint James Tallon, of Trenton, in place of Joseph C. Millburn, of the same city, who has been a State inspector for several years. Tallon is backed up by the Independent forces and is a potter. It is stated about the capital that Councilman William Gloak, of this city, is one of the candidates who wishes to be Andrew McCardell's successor.

AUGUSTUS F. TODD FINALLY ACCEPTS THE APPOINTMENT.

Augustus F. Todd, of Dunellen, who declined the appointment as member of the Council at that place to succeeed Lewis T. Churchill, resigned, afterward changed his mind and at the earnest solicitation of Mayor Sandford, decided to accept the honor. He has been sworn into office and will fill the unexpired term of Mr. Churchill.

George Huff, who tendered his resignation as a member of the council, was persuaded to withhold the same for the present, and action on it has been postponed. It was stated today that Mr. Huff has determined to resign from the Council, however, as he plans to be away from the borough a greater part of the time during the coming year.

CYCLISTS GO TO BALTIMORE; SUNDAY'S RACE POSTPONED.

Russel Andrews, E. W. Burns and F. G. Sheppard, of this city, will leave for Baltimore early tomorrow morning to enter in the twelve-mile amateur bicycle championship race, which is to be held in that city. The Plainfield Cycling Club boys will be accompanied on their trip by the ever-ready Jack Horner.

On account of the trip to Baltimore, the regular Sunday morning five-mile championship race in this city has been postponed for a week.

Went Back to Stirling.

John Wegman, who claims residence in Stirling, was advised to make all possible speed in the direction of his home by City Judge William N. Runyon yesterday, as Plainfield seemed to be too strenuous a place for Wegman. The Stirlingite was arrested on Watchung avenue Thursday afternoon, too drunk to safely navigate. He made a hasty departure.

LEWIS ON FIRST BALLOT

G. O. P. Leaders a Unit, It is Said, That Banking Commissioner will get Nomination.

484 DELEGATES FOR A CHOICE.

Believed Passaic Man Will Have 700 of 973 Delegates in the Convention—Many "Favorite Sons" Mentioned.

Trenton, August 19.—Republican leaders in New Jersey are almost a unit now in interpreting the action of the Essex county Republican committee in endorsing Banking and Insurance Commissioner Vivian M. Lewis to mean that the Passaic county aspirant will surely be the Republican Gubernatorial nominee. It is calculated that he will be nominated on first ballot with a big margin to spare. With 973 delegates sitting in the convention, it will require the votes of 484 of them to make the nomination. Friends of Mr. Lewis say that as the situation is now lining up, he will have at least 700 delegates ready to vote for him when they enter the convention.

Barring exigencies that may bring out unexpected "favorite sons" at the last moment, it is figured about the State House that aspirants other than Mr. Lewis who will have their names presented to the convention will be William P. Martin, of Essex, who will probably receive between 100 and 125 votes on first ballot; Senator Edmund Wakelee, who will receive Bergen county's 50 delegates as a complimentary vote; Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen; with 112 from his home county of Somerset and possibly a few more from the upper end of Union and a handful from South Jersey, and Pierre P. Garven, prosecutor of Hudson county, who will probably not receive more than 50 out of the 173 votes in the Hudson delegation.

Although he has not declared himself, there are assurances in the Lewis campy that David Baird, of Camden, undisputed Republican leader in South Jersey, stands ready to deliver practically all of the 213 delegates representing the South Jersey counties to the Passaic man.

"Commissioner Lewis will be nominated for Governor by the Republicans beyond any question of doubt," said a close friend of Mr. Lewis today. "This result is in prospect without his having made a single promise to reward any man with an office or to use his influence in other ways for the advantage of certain politicians, especially with reference to the fight over the United States Senatorship."

Commissioner Lewis' friend intimated that within a short time he would issue a statement declaring himself on important questions of statecraft concerning New Jersey. This statement, it is intimated, will commit Mr. Lewis to Progressive principles.

James F. Billett to Wed.

James Fletcher Billett, of this city, and Miss Louise Elizabeth Wiesert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Wiesert, of Jamesburg, will be married at 8:30 o'clock tomorrow morning at the home of the bride's parents. After a trip to Niagara Falls, the couple will reside here. Mr. Billett is a special agent for the New Jersey Central.

J. E. MARTINE HONORED BY GOVERNOR FORT

James E. Martine today received the appointment by Governor J. Franklin Fort, as one of fifteen representatives from New Jersey to the National Conservation Congress to be held at St. Paul, between September 5 and 9. The congress is called at the request of the Governor and other citizens of Minnesota and will be an important gathering. Each State in the Union will send fifteen representatives. Mr. Martine has signified his acceptance.

The representatives from New Jersey will be former Governor Foster M. Voorhees, of Elizabeth; E. C. Stokes, of Trenton; and George L. Record, of Jersey City; E. B. Osborn, of Montclair; Chandler Riker, of Newark; Wm. Lewis, of Paterson; Howard Carroll, of Camden; Marshall Van Winkle, of Jersey City; J. H. Fort, of Camden; Frederick W. Donnelly, of Trenton; H. D. Thompson, of Princeton; Richard C. Jenkinson, of Newark; F. W. Kelsey, of Orange; Charles L. Pack, of Lakewood; J. W. Stover, of East Orange and James E. Martine, of this city.

ITALIAN SOCIETY HOLDS FEAST HERE TODAY

The Italian society of this city is celebrating the feast of Our Lady of Mount Carmel today. The festivities began this morning when the representatives of the local society paraded the streets of the city and borough. They were accompanied in their march by an Italian band of twenty-four pieces, which played the American and Italian national airs.

This afternoon the Italian Society of Bound Brook will join the local organization in the festivities. The two societies will parade through the streets of the city and borough at 3 o'clock.

A grand display of fireworks will take place tonight near St. Mary's cemetery on Berkman street, as the concluding feature of the festal day. This celebration is held every year on the twentieth day of August by the Italians throughout the civilized world in commemoration of the Feast of the Assumption. The banner of this society was blessed by the Roman Catholic church at this time last year.

Proceedings were stopped at the City court this morning while the Italian band serenaded Judge William N. Runyon and Chief Kiely. The opening bars of "The Star Spangled Banner" brought the judge and court attendants to the door where the concert was continued for ten minutes ending with a popular song composed especially for the Elks at their convention in Detroit last month.

No better encomium could be given of the music this morning than that passed by the judge. "That is certinly fine." And he was right. Everybody uncovered, while the national anthem was being played.

STRIPPED A TREE OF BARK, RECEIVED A LECTURE.

Walter Halliwell, an eleven-year-old boy was arraigned before Judge William N. Runyon this morning in the city court on a charge of having stripped the bark from a young maple tree on Spooner avenue. Young Halliwell declared that he was not alone in the spoiling of the tree, but that did not excuse him.

Judge Runyon talked in a fatherly way to the boy telling how much better it is to do something good for the city rather than to attempt to spoil the looks of the beautiful streets, and how much better it is to be always doing some kind deed than to be doing something wrong. The boy agreed with the judge and promised in future to not let mischief get the best of him.

S. S. SWACKHAMER TO SPEAK AT NETHERWOOD CAMP.

Instrumental music will be a feature of the service, and some of the camp children will take part. Clifford A. Braider, organist of the First Presbyterian church, will preside at the piano, and the service will be led by J. D. Loizeaux.

A cordial invitation is extended to all to come and enjoy the service and visit the camp.

STATES HIS PLATFORM

Jas. E. Martine, Who Would Succeed Senator John Kean Declares Himself.

FOR PROGRESSIVE PRINCIPLES.

"Farmer Orator" Says His Stand Will Vitalize a Great Democratic Principle Whether He is Elected or Not.

Declaring aggressively for Progressive principles, James E. Martine, who is a Democratic candidate for United States Senator to succeed John Kean, and will submit his candidacy to a vote of the Democrats of New Jersey through the direct primary election on September 13, next, today issued a statement telling the voters where he stands on questions to be dealt with by Congress.

Acting under the direct primary law, Mr. Martine has petitions requesting the Secretary of State to print his name as a Senatorial candidate on the official ballots, circulating among Democrats in Union, Mercer Hudson, Burlington, Atlantic, Passaic, Warren, Sussex, Bergen and Hunterdon counties.

"I was never more in earnest in any political contest in my life than I am as a candidate for United States Senator," said Mr. Martine today. "Until my friends induced me to submit my name as a candidate to succeed John Kean to a direct vote of the Democrats of the State, it looked as though the New Jersey Democrats were going into the campaign open to charges of insincerity and inconsistency in having for years demanded such a law we now have in New Jersey and then making no attempt to avail themselves of it. Aside from the question of whether or not I am elected to the United States Senate as a result of my position, I know that my stand will vitalize a great Democratic principle—the popular election of United States Senators."

Mr. Martine's statement is as follows:

"Having announced myself as a candidate for the dignified position of United States Senator for New Jersey, and desiring to avail myself of the recently enacted laws permitting voters to express their preference as to candidates for that important position, I feel that it is but just and fair to the people of this State that they should know what I sand for:

"First. I insist upon an honest and economical adminstration of government, not mean but not profligate.

"I favor a tariff for revenue only, and oppose the scheme of present Republican Protection as un-American, unfair and unjust, in that it does not favor all alike; its burdens are paid by the consumer and bread winner to enhance the wealth of a special few. In its workings the present tariff has built up great combinations, and trusts that are conniving against the cardinal principle of free government, though depriving the citizens of our land of equal opportunity. The cost of living has enhanced through its operation from 50 to 60 per cent. while wages have increased but from 15 to 18 per cent. Its enforcement is robbery for the masses; hence I oppose it.

"I hold that the blessings of government should, like the dews of Heaven, fall on all equally and alike.

"I am deeply impressed with the wisdom and necessity of a conservation of the nation's great resources—forests, coal-lands and waterways.

"In the interests of the people, I insist the government should not sell in fee water sites, but the same should be leased for stated periods.

"I favor the most liberal development of our country's waterways, as a means of cheap transportation for the people.

"All events of recent years have demonstrated the wisdom and necessity of the regulation and control of the great railroad interests of our country.

"I shall demand a physical valuation of railroad property.

"Through Republican legislation our merchant marine has faded from the seas. If elected it shall be my aim to favor such legislation as shall again establish our flaag as the merchant mistress of the deep.

"I earnestly favor all efforts to speedily complete the Panama Canal, the completion of which will multiply our trade and commerce.

"Over-stimulation has crowded our great cities, until the quest of living is hard and bitter. Back to the farm is not only popular, but in my judgment wise, and hence I shall favor a most liberal consideration of 'The Bureau of Agriculture.'

"I stand for the direct election of United States Senators by the people.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

The Eagles, a youthful but ambitious baseball team of Dunellen, took the scalps of its hated rivals, the Chiefs, in an exciting yet one-sided game on the Madison avenue grounds yesterday afternoon. The score at the end of the nine innings was 14-1 in favor of the bald heads. The feature of the game was the pitching work by Mackensick and Snyderwind. Both of these embryo Mathewsons twirled their heads off and finally came home disgusted and defeated by the superior pitching of Bill Hannon. The batteries were: Eagles, Hannon and Block; Chiefs, Mackensick, Snyderwind, Marenshank and Harris.

Five trolley cars full of men, women and children, passed through the borough Thursday noon and then returned at about six o'clock. Many of the boroughites were wondering what excursion it was. The affair was the annual outing given by the Public Service Railway Benevolent Association to the employes and families of the Company in Jersey City. A picnic was held at Riverside Park during the afternoon.

The trustees of the Presbyterian church held a meeting Thursday night. The routine business of the church was transacted and several bills were ordered to be paid. It was decided by the board to install a steam heating plant in the parsonage, which is located next door to the church. The contract for the work was given to a plumber in the borough.

From all indications there will be a larger crowd of rooters accompanying the borough baseball team to Plainfield this afternoon than there was at the time of the Bound Brook game. The contest with the Plainfield team is sure to prove an exciting one and there are many fans in the borough that think the Dunellen boys will bring home the bacon.

At the adjourned meeting of the Common Council Thursday night, August T. Todd was sworn in as the new member of the body to fill the vacancy made by the resignation of Lewis T. Churchill. A considerable quantity of routine business was transacted.

The entertainment and festival of All Saints' Episcopal church, which is to be held in the borough fire house tonight, should be well attended. The program includes recitations, music, ice cream and dancing. The proceeds are for the benefit of the church.

GOOD WORK.

Done Daily in Plainfield—Many Citizens Tell of It.

Nearly every reader has heard of Doan's Kidney Pills. Their good work in Plainfield still continues, and our citizens are constantly adding endorsement by public testimony. No better proof of merit can be had than the experience of friends and neighbors. Read this case:

Mrs. W. W. Mills, 304 West Seconds street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "A dull, heavy, bearing down pain in my back bothered me a great deal, especially when I caught cold. I also had frequent headaches and was at times so dizzy that I could scarcely see. If I did much stooping or lifting, my back became very lame and though I used plasters, I was relieved only for the time being. Finally on the advice of a friend, I procured a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at Randolph's Pharmacy and began their use. They acted in every way as represented and in a short time rid me of all symptoms of kidney trouble. I am pleased to recommend a remedy of such undoubted merit."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

RADICAL CHANGES IN FOOTBALL RULES

After an extended period lasting nearly six months, the Intercollegiate Football Rules Committee yesterday announced in Spaulding's Official Football Guide the rules which will govern the conduct of the game during the Fall season. Many of the changes are revolutionary in character and calculated to minimize greatly the danger of fatal accidents existing under the old rules.

The time of play is divided into four periods of fifteen minutes' duration instead of the traditional two halves of thirty-five minutes each. The usual intermission of fifteen minutes is maintained between the second and third period, but an intermission of three minutes only is allowed between the first and second and third and fourth periods. During this short intermission no player will be allowed to leave the field, nor will anyone be permitted to come on the field save only the individual who looks after the physical condition of the players.

At the beginning of the second and fourth periods the teams change goals, but the down, the relative spot of the down, the possession of the ball and the distance to be gained remain as they were at the conclusion of the preceding period of play.

Another radical acgn heis aiolao governing the flying tackle. This has been entirely eliminated by a new ruling, which provides that a player must have one foot at least on the ground when tackling an opponent. The new legislation governing the forward pass, which a number of the experts were inclined to abolish altogether, will materially alter the play and aspect of the game.

This year's rules provide that a player is only qualified to receive a forward pass who is at least one yard back of his own line of scrimmage or occupies the position on the end of said line. No man may make a forward pass or kick the ball unless he is five yards back of the line of scrimmage.

The territory forward of the line of scrimmage, and consequently in the enemy's camp, is adjudged neutral for a distance of twenty yards pending the completion of a forward pass or kick. A forward pass 20 yards in advance of the spot is not legal if the ball crosses a line where it was put in play before touching the ground or a player.

In case of a kick the players on the defense within the 20-yard zone must not interfere with the ends or other players in any way until these opponents have advanced 20 yards beyond the line of scrimmage.

Interlocked interference—that is, players on the side having the ball taking hold of each other, or using their hands or arms to grasp their teammates in any way—is forbidden, and it is also forbidden for any man on the side having possession of the ball to rush or pull in any way the man running with the ball.

Another innovation is to be noted in regards to substitution of players during a game. A rule has been passed which provides that a player who has been removed for any cause except disqualification or suspension may be returned to the game once at the beginning of any subsequent period.

The longitudinal lines formerly marking the field are done away with as the quarter back may now cross the line of scrimmage at any point.

The new rules have already been adopted by all the large colleges, nearly all of them being represented on the Rules Committee, which consists of L. M. Dennis, Cornell; E. K. Hall, Dartmouth; James A. Babbitt, Haverford; John C. Bell, University of Pennsylvania; Crawford Blagden, Harvard; Walter Camp, Yale; Paul J. Dashiell, Annapolis; W. L. Dudley, Vanderbilt; Parke H. Davis, Princeton; Lieut. H. H. Hackett, West Point; Dr. W. A. Lambeth, University of Virginia; C. W. Savage, Oberlin; A. A. Stagg, University of Chicago and H. L. Williams, University of Minnesota.

HE'S HERE.

The sun may shine,
Or it may rain.
What do we care?
He's home again,
Hurrah! Hurrah!
Start up the band.
His foot is on
His native land.

The bands they play,
The cannons roar
A welcome as
He steps ashore.
The people shout,
Rough riders yell,
And you can bet
That all is well.

He's home again
From foreign clime,
Where he has had
A corking time
In Africa.
And likewise Rome,
But still there is
No place like home.

And that is what
He said today,
Before he left
For Oyster Bay.
And he is glad
That he is here.
So are the folks.
That's why they cheer.

Hurrah! Hurrah!
And cheer and shout,
And turn the old
Town inside out,
While all hands sing
This glad refrain,
"Three cheers for Ted,
He's home again."
—Brooklyn Times.

THE LATE CHIEF JUSTICE.

Chief Justice Fuller was to the Supreme Court what the bubbles are to champagne. When Cleveland appointed, and a reluctant Senate finally confirmed him, twenty-two years ago, he brought into the court an element of liveliness, vigor and vivacity that was very stimulating and helpful to that learned body. While he will hardly be rated as a very great judge, he was throughout his whole term of service a very useful, able and acceptable one, excellent especially in the duties that belonged to his office of chief justice. Mr. Cleveland's judgment in appointing him was a good deal questioned at the time the appointment was made, but it did not take long to justify it, and in the end the country got a noble term of service from the Democratic President's appointee.

It is recorded that Judge Fuller was an intimate friend of Stephen A. Douglas. It must have been a friendship quickly formed, and it indicates an early development of conspicuous talent in Judge Fuller, for he went to Chicago from Maine in 1856, being then 23 years old, and could not have had more than five years' acquaintance then with Douglas. His thirty-two years of active practice in Chicago and twenty-two years of unbroken work in the office of chief justice show a remarkable continuance of active mental labor, the possession of excellent powers, and the wise husbanding of them through a long life.—Harper's Weekly.

Only Slightly Misquoted.

"So he said I was a polished gentleman, did he?"

"Well, yes; it was the same thing, I suppose."

"Ah, what were the exact words?"

"He said you were a slipper fellow."—Ideas.

walk in the footsteps of the Master. Christian Scientists believe in this sense that Christ Jesus gave his life for the life of the world. They do not believe in the transubstantiation or substitution of human blood as the saving power. Jesus himself said, "Follow me," "If ye love me keep my commandments," "Be ye perfect," etc. Paul said, "Work out your own salvation." Our critic seems to object to the interpretation of these plain words and says, "The Atonement then, according to the Bible, is something we receive, but according to Christian Science, it is something we work out." Our critic is correct in his assumption that Christian Scientists are trying to work out their own salvation, knowing that it is "God who worketh with them both to will and to do of His good pleasure." Some religions make Christianity a mere matter of belief, resting on the one verse in Scripture, "Only believe on the Lord Jesus Christ and ye shall be saved." Christian Science says true Christianity is the pearl of great price. We must do something more than believe; we must understand and demonstrate it. Christian Scientists believe that Jesus' command was perpetual, "Go ye into all the world, preach the gospel," "Heal the sick."

The term "once for all", so strongly emphasized by our critic, would indicate to Christian Scientists that Christ Jesus overcame sin, disease and death, and "once for all" established the proof of the dominion of good over evil. Christ Jesus was the Way and pointed out the way for all men. He said, "If any man will come after me, let him take up his cross and deny himself and follow me." I do not see how any Christian can avoid the conclusion from these words that salvation is something to be worked out and is not merely a matter of acceptance and belief. According to our views, Christian Science emphasizes and reiterates in faith and practice the great fundamentals of primitive Christianity.

H. COULSON FAIRCHILD.
Passaic, N. J., Aug. 16, 1910.

N. Y. AMUSEMENTS.

The Alhambra, the first of the Percy G. Williams theatres in Greater New York to make its debut for the season of 1910-11, throws open its doors Monday after a complete renovation with a gala program headed by "The Carnival of Roses," a spectacular pantomime in five scenes with a company of twenty headed by Mlle. La Gai. This elaborate offering with its wealthy scenery and electrical effects, its gorgeous costumes and pretty stage pictures is easily one of the pretentious of the pantomic acts, which have enjoyed such a vogue in vaudeville. Morton and Moore, late stars of "The Merry Whirl," whose act in eccentric singing and dancing has created a veritable furor, comprise another big feature. E. Frederick Hawley and company in the stirring dramatic playlet "The Bandit," loom up conspicuously among the headline attractions. Avery and Hart, the clever colored comedians; Charles and Fannie Van, in the hilarious sketch, "A Case of Emergency," the Four Melody Monarchs, a new musical act which has scored one of the hits of the early season; Clark and Bergmann, in a sprightly singing and dancing divertisement; Max Yorke's dogs; and the Woods and Woods Trio in a lively acrobatic specialty with the latest motion pictures by the vitagraph comprise the balance of the opening bill. The first Sunday concerts of the season will be given next Sunday.

MANY ATTEND CLAMBAKES.

Long Branch, N. J., Aug. 20.—Pleasure Bay, where the succulent clambake is served as nowhere else along the Jersey coast, was live with prominent men Thursday afternoon. No fewer than half a dozen clambakes were served between noon and 6 o'clock. Numbered among the guests were ex-Governor Stokes, Senator Kean and Congressman Howell.

The annual dinner given by the Monmouth County Grand Jury at the Port-au-Peck Hotel attracted a large number of politicians and men with booms. All of the county officials were present.

New Jersey Masons enjoyed their annual outing at Price's Hotel. Grand Master Alton H. Sherman, of Orange, had as his special guests Grand Secretary E. M. H. Ehlers, of New York, and Past Grand Master Day, of Delaware. Covers were spread for two hundred. Among the Masons present were Past Grand Masters J. Clarence Conover, of Freehold; William D. Wolfskeil, of Elizabeth; John D. Wilkins, of Newark, and Walter Chandler, of Elizabeth.

The Freehold Driving Club held it outing at Port-au-Peck, while New Jersey Central Railroad men from Allentown, Pa., and points in New Jersey feasted at Price's hotel. There were several smaller bakes served at Green Gables.

"A permanent Director of Posts is, to my mind, a step in the right direction. An enlargement of postal facilities, a 'parcel post,' and post saving bank will advance the welfare of the people and advance the cause of civilization.

"In conclusion I pledge myself if elected, to diligently attend to the duties of the responsible office of United States Senator without a thought of self interest."

and not in our faces.

"We spent our Christmas holidays in Egypt, and did considerable touring, making Cairo, our headquarters."

Mrs. Fisher landed in San Francisco about a month ago, and has been making her way overland by easy stages.

Although Mrs. Fisher did not say so, Mr. Brooks admitted that the trip would cost approximately $20,000, but if Mrs. Fisher was consulted she would probably say that the tour was worth all it cost.

HERE AND THERE.

"I was puzzled the other night by two lights which kept approaching me on the sidewalk," said a wayfarer. "I finally made out that they were on a baby carriage. It struck me as a pretty good idea, for the lights didn't seem to bother the baby at all and they certainly kept people from running into the carriage in the dark. The lanterns were made like small carriage lamps and were fastened in their sockets."

"'The heathen Chinese is not one-half so full of tricks as a woman who is dissatisfied with a ready-made suit,' said a tailor. 'One of the resourceful type brought in a suit that required but few alterations to make it fit. I told her so and named a price.

"'Oh, but I don't want it to fit,' she said. 'I want you to do something that will make it bunch out more on the shoulders, narrower across the chest and shorter waisted. I don't want to keep the suit. I have had so much trouble trying to get it to fit that I hate the very sight of it. As it looks now the store won't take it back. They have fooled with it until they have got it nearly right that they declare there is nothing the matter with it, but if it could be made to look so bad that even the man who made it would have to acknowledge it was a failure they would refund my money. Will you undertake the job?'

'I would not, but another tailor, apparently, would, because pretty soon she appeared in another new suit."

One of the most effective, as well as one of the quaintest ways to land a wary purchaser, is that adopted by a representative of a well known typewriter firm a few days ago. This is the way he tells it:

"Mr. Beeswax had been proof against the most untiring assaults of some of the best men in the business, his specialty being that he never allowed the salesman to tell his entire story but literally talked him down. I made up my mind I would land him and gave the matter considerable thought.

"Finally I walked in on him with a pocketful of shelled almonds, and as I said, 'Good day, Mr. Beeswax,' I laid a handful on his desk. He took one up and began to munch it. I started in with arguments for our machine. He was eating the third nut when he began to try to talk, but his throat was about as dry as if he had been eating soda crackers. He had to give it up and let me have my say out. Before I was half through I had convinced him of the merits of my machine and taken his order."

"When I saw my stenographer banishing the ink spots from her fingers with unlighted match ends I concluded that I didn't know all the possibilities of matches," said a business man. "As I was coming home tonight I saw them put to an even more curious use at the flower stand on the corner. A bunch of peculiar white roses attracted my attention, the petals being pure white, while the hearts were deep red.

"I maka dose," explained the owner proudly, and seizing a red rose he lighted a sulphur match beneath itfl whereupon the crimson faded to white. 'I maka white ones for you any time,' said the dealer, as he lighted another match."

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

There is a great demand for houses in the village since the Spicer Universal Joint Manufacturing Co. has moved it plant here. The twenty-five men who live in Plainfield and are transported by the company's automobile every day, would rather live near the plant than be exposed to the severe winter weather riding back and forth in an open truck. The property owners will raise the rents next spring which they should have done two years ago, when electricity was put through the village. The taxes have been raised for several years past and rents have not gone up accordingly.

Letters from Phil Smith report a delightful two months' vacation spent at "Sterling Forest," Greenwood Lake. The days were principally spent gunning and as the camp was situated near a hotel the boys had the privilege of the tennis courts and bowling alleys and in the evenings were invited to the hops and euchre parties, so you see they were not beyond the pale of civilization. They are now breaking camp and will return to their places of business with pleasant memories of two weeks spent in the woods of northern New Jersey.

Mr. Fuller is picking some of the finest peaches ever grown in this vicinity. They are very large and delicious in flavor.

Rev. J. J. Allen has returned from his vacation, and will be in his pulpit tomorrow both morning and evening.

Rev. J. A. Cubberley called upon friends in the village yesterday.

Mrs. Salotz is spending two weeks with her sister in Newark.

NO DANGER OF CHOLERA IN THIS COUNTRY.

Cholera which has been raging in various cities of Europe, claiming thousands of victims has reached Paris and London and threatens to spread to every port where there is commerce between the infected countries and the outside world.

In Russia up to yesterday there had been 112,500 cases more than forty per cent. of which have been fatal. Every precaution is being taken by Port Health Officer Doty, of New York, to prevent the arrival of the dread disease to this part of the country. Similar precautions are being taken in every port of the United States.

Dr. Doty said yesterday that there is no danger of the disease reaching this country if the proper precautions are taken and that the people need not worry.

By Committee on Collector's Accounts:

Your Committee on Collector's Accounts beg leave to report that it has examined his books, vouchers, coupons, warrants and receipts, bank and check books and find that the same are correct and agree in every particular.

We find that his receipts from January 1, 1910, to date amount to $1,182,403.25, and that his disbursements for the same period amount to $1,125,509.70, leaving a balance of $50,893.55, which is on deposit in the banks to the credit of the County Collector.

Respectfully submitted,
S. P. WILBUR,
W. H. RANDOLPH,
Committee.

On motion of Freeholder Darby received and placed on file.

The Auditor's report was received as follows:

Your Auditor respectfully reports:

I have examined the books and vouchers of the Surogate, Sheriff, Registrar and County Clerk, and find the same corect.

The net receipts are:

Surrogate	$1,130.93
Sheriff	777.50
Registrar	1,786.20
County Clerk	298.61

which amount has been turned over to the County Collector.

Yours respectfully,
BENJAMIN KING,
Auditor.

On motion of Freeholder Swain received and placed on file.

By Committee on Tuberculosis:

Your committee appointed at a meeting of the Board of Freeholders held on March 5, 1910, to investigate the cost of the erection of a suitable hospital, to examine into the cost of maintaining such institutions, to investigate such institutions of like character and to report to the board the result of their investigation, and make such recommendations as they may deem necessary, would respectfuly report:

That they have visited several institutions in and about the city of Boston, Mass., and have been in consultation with Dr. Carrington, expert on hospital construction, of the State of New York, who is also the assistant secretary of the National Society for the Prevention and Cure of Tuberculosis; that your committee has attended hearings given by mayors of the several municipalities in this county and that as a result of their investigation they find:

(1) That a tuberculosis hospital is necessary to check the ravages of the great white plague; and that the building of such an institution should be commenced forthwith, in order to safeguard the health and welfare of the citizens of this county, as your committee is informed, that in the city of Elizabeth, there are about three hundred cases of tuberculosis alone; and the physicians inform your committee that for every one case of advanced tuberculosis, two are usually contaminated with the disease; and that the advanced case should be removed to protect the other members of the family;

(2) That one administration building and four lean-tos be first erected to accomodate fifty patients; that the administration building accomodate physicians, nurses and attendants, ready to treat from one hundred to one hundred and fifty patients; that four lean-tos accomodate fifty patients, men and women, to answer immediate needs;

(3) That additional lean-tos be erected as the number of patients increases;

(4) That we find the cost of one administration building and four lean-tos, including a tract of land of fifty or more acres, does not exceed the sum of fifty thousand dollars; and that the cost of maintainance for each patient should not exceed the sum of ten dollars per week.

Your committee further reports that they make the above recommendations because they do not think it is advisable to erect buildings to accomodate more than fifty patients at this time.

Your committee further reports that it is now investigating sites on which to erect a tuberculosis hospital; that Dr. Carrington has volunteered to inspect the plans for the buildings when submitted to him by the architect selected by your committee.

Your committee would therefore recommend that the County Attorney be authorized and directed to draw up suitable resolutions for the issuance of bonds in the sum of fifty thousand dollars, for the purpose of purchasing land and the construction of buildings, as provided by law; that your committee be empowered to employ an architect for the purpose of drawing plans and specifications for the erection of said buildings, which said plans shall be submitted to this board for final approval and to the State Board of Health as provided by law.

That your committee be authorized to negotiate for the purchase of a suitable tract of land, whereon to erect said buildings, and report to this board the result of their negotiations for their approval.

Your committee feels that the citizens and taxpayers of this county are now thoroughly informed respecting this enterprise; that as a result of the various hearings your committee has been surprised to learn that the records of the State Tuberculosis Commission show that there are twelve thousand cases of tuberculosis in this State, six to seven hundred of which are in Union county; that the death rate from this disease is two hundred per annum.

Respectfully submitted,
J. H. DOANE,
H. KROUSE,
T. F. HAVILAND,
N. R. LEAVITT,
Committee.

Freeholder Smith moved the report be received and the recommendation adopted, which on roll call wos so ordered without dissent.

By Committee on Effingham Place:

Your Committee on Effingham Place Bridge, Westfield, would report having reeceived bids for the construction of said bridge, the lowest of which was for the sum of seven hundred and eighty-seven dollars ($787) from C. H. French and they have awarded the contract to him subject to the approval of this board.

The appropriation made for this work was seven hundred dollars ($700); and we therefore recommend that said appropriation be increased by eighty-seven dollars ($87) and the contract awarded as above to Charles H. French, Westfield, for the sum of seven hundred and eighty-seven dollars ($787).

JOSEPH PERRY,
JACOB MARTIN,
Committee.

Freeholder Randolph moved the report be received and the recommendation adopted, which on roll call was so ordered without dissent.

By Committee on Sumner Street Bridge:

Your committee appointed to examine the Summer street drawbridge over the Elizabeth River, Elizabeth, respectfully reports that it has met at the bridge and has made a careful examination of the same.

The present bridge has good foundations but the superstructure is of poor material and is weak and unfitted for the traffic at the place. The present steel work is not properly constructed, the floor beams being placed on the flanges, instead of across the floor girders. Parts of the steel work are in very bad order, being disintegrated and rotten.

Your committee would respectfully recommend the construction of a new steel drawbridge upon the present foundation at Summer street, and would ask that they be instructed to procure plans and the probable cost of bridge and report at a future meeting of the board.

C. JENSEN,
T. HAVILAND,
J. MARTIN,
H. KROUSE,
S. WILBUR.

Freeholder Smith moved the report be received and the recommendation adopted, which on roll call was so ordered by an unanimous vote.

SLICED LEMON FORKS.

Sliced lemon is served with so many dishes that a fork has been created for serving it. These forks are small and have two or three prongs.

For serving fruits there are all sorts of pretty little silver novelties. There is an orange peeler that has two blades to go round and round the orange, cutting it in a continuous string, and for strawberries is a silver huller, a tiny pair of pinchers to remove the green from the fruit.

To remove the eyes from pineapples are silver or gold clips that perform their work effectively and quickly, while grape scissors are pretty. For pitting peaches there is a silver knife, and a fork with which to spear the cherry that lurks in the bottom of the cocktail glass in rather new.

An Economical Move.

"Good morning!" said Mrs. Stinjay, "Pardon my calling so early, but I saw your advertisement for a cook——"

"But," interrupted Mrs. Hiram Often, "surely you are not after the place?"

"Oh! no; I need a cook myself, and I thought you might send to me all the applicants you reject."—The Catholic Standard and Times.

Virginia of the Air Lanes

A ROMANCE OF FLYING

...By...

Herbert Quick

Copyright, 1909, by the Bobbs-Merrill Company

Accepting the humane task, lower, lower, lower sank the aeronef, until its car appeared almost to touch the waves. The man in distress seemed to throw something like a lasso over the nacelle of the airship, and the great bird rose slightly, as if to be safe from the billows. The Stickleback again peeped above the waves, her manhole opened, and the castaway of the stove boat went down into the submarine.

It was absolutely beyond the power of any one looking on to guess what was taking place. Why had the man made the signals for help if the submarine was standing by? If the coming of the submarine to his rescue was unexpected, why had he not cast on the line from the aeronef? Why— And suddenly they all felt that something sinister, something devilish, was taking place. They heard a shout from Theodore, a scream from Virginia. The submarine had come awash again, and from her open manhole came the crack of a pistol—a pistol aimed at the airship. Then she sank again, and the airship was drawn downward by the line. Struggling toward land, hanging by the fatal thread, like a trapped bird, she strained at her tether, while the grim submarine, like a devilfish which had thrown a tentacle about a waterfowl, made seaward, out into the gulf, out into deep water, with a purpose as manifest as it was deadly.

CHAPTER XIII.

DEVILFISH VERSUS BIRD.

WHEN the aeronef was run out on her ways by the long shed in which she had been built there was a flutter of expectancy among those so deeply concerned in her flight.

"The first mate always sails with the ship, uncle," Virginia suggested.

"Would you really go on the trial trip?" he asked.

"Try me," said she. "I want to."

"You'd be worth a dozen of Captain Harrods," replied Carson. "He hasn't the faintest idea of the principles of the Virginia, while you could fly her in a week."

"I could now," asserted Virginia. "The Virginia is a simple, manageable little thing, like her namesake."

"If she shows all her namesake's sweet traits"— began Theodore.

"Then I'm to go?"

"Captain," cried Theodore, "here's a girl that wants to ship as first mate! Make sail, captain. We're going."

But Virginia seated herself beside Theodore, wearing a dress of soft white wool, a close fitting little cap on her head and carrying a jacket over her arm.

"Now, shall I keep the manometer readings? Oh, you haven't any! Well, then, the altimeter statoscope?" she suggested.

"It's self registering," said Theodore. "Really there's nothing to do except in emergencies, and"—

"And there'll be no emergencies!" she cried. "Throw in the clutch, admiral of the circumambient inane! You do the work, and I'll play lady! We're off!"

"Are you willing," said he, turning to her, "to forgive me for this and everything I may ever have done, whatever happens?"

"Whatever happens or doesn't happen, I forgive you!" she cried. "Throw in the clutch before the gyroscopes stop and the Virginia gets brain fag—or shall I"—

"Just for luck," said Theodore, "you throw it in."

She threw over the lever, and the wing sections started like 40,000 boys' "buzzes." The big bird rose perpendicularly from the ways and fanned the ground no more. Theodore turned on a little more speed, put the rudders aport to bring her head to the light seaward wind, and as she mounted higher and higher he tried her control. He pushed over the lever that determined the thrust of the driving blades, and she shot in over the dunes like a wild thing until he headed her back for the gulf. Well inside the bar, so that an overturn might not mean a drowning, he circled about in a wide curve, which he gradually narrowed by a more extreme use of the helm until she was spinning round and round—in an orbit, in which the tips of the inner wings were almost stationary and "treading" air like a pausing swimmer.

"That tests out the balancing device!" shouted Theodore. "How's that?"

"Aye, aye, sir!" said Virginia. "That do sure test out the balancing device. And if you let her chase her tail like this much longer I'm going to be indisposed." Please whirl her the other way awhile, unkie."

Virginia walked forward. They were flying higher now, and she could see the pine woods far inland, with their square patches of plowed fields, their white houses behind the great green globes of the china trees. Far over the northwest soared a great aeronat, silver white, as if covered with tin foil.

"I wonder if that isn't the Roc?" queried Virginia.

"If it is," said he, "and she comes about this place we'll show her what real aviation is."

Then they swept over and down the coast. They turned back and swirled out over the sea.

"Oh, look, look!" suddenly said Virginia. "There's some one in the water!"

Below floated the half collapsed and sinking go-devil of a submarine. Beside it lay a great blotch of darkness so symmetrical that Theodore was impressed with the sudden idea that it was a submarine rather than a patch of dark sand. A man on the derelict was struggling, shouting and waving a white cloth as if in distress. Theodore's eyes flashed. He reversed the thrust of the wing propellers, and in an instant they were fighting the air with all the power of the mighty engines. The passengers felt their bodies sway forward with the momentum as the Virginia slowed up, halted and moved astern, and as accurately as if he had had years of practice Carson brought her to over the struggling man and lowered her slowly, slowly, toward the swells which rose to meet her until the line thrown over by Carson dabbled in the water by the castaway's side.

"Can you climb up?" cried Theodore. "I don't dare come much lower."

"For God's sake," called the man, "bring her down a foot or so! I'm too weak to climb."

"Cheer up!" called Theodore. "It's risky, but I'll try."

If he was to be saved there was no time to be lost. So thought Carson as he depressed the Virginia more and more. Wizner set his teeth in a fierce determination to put both man and ship out of the field at once. He was the sole custodian of the secret of her construction save for Carson. If he could drown her and master the secret of the glass globe he could rebuild her, make his terms with Shayne, be the greatest in his line. And he seized the nacelle with fierce energy, threaded a steel chain through an opening in the structure and dropped back into the water, holding the chain in his hand. It ran around the aluminium beam with a sharp, rasping, startling rattle.

"He's fallen in!" cried Virginia.

Theodore looked over the side. A small double chain ran down from the airship, its ends moving about in a most mystifying manner in the sea. And as he looked in astonishment the dark blotch of sand rose to the surface and defined itself as the rounded top of the Stickleback, on the black hull of which sat Wizner blowing brine from his mouth, his head shining with water. The manhole opened, Wizner snapped the chain into a ring, slipped into the submarine and reappeared with something small and flat in his hand.

"I'll fix you, you d——d whelp!" he yelled. "Take that!"

He aimed at Carson, fired, and the bullet sang away into the sky. Theodore seized Virginia in his arms and drew her down into the bottom of the car, where they lay panting in each other's arms, panic stricken.

"I must put the ship out of range!" cried Carson, leaping to the lever.

She rose like a feather for just a moment, and then she swung about like a kite with its string fouled, anchored by some devilish contrivance. Carson stepped to the side again and looked over. The Virginia hung some thirty yards above the water, and straining backward and downward ran the steel chain looped through her works and fastened by both ends to the submarine. The harsh, raucous laugh of Wizner rose with horrid significance from the Stickleback's manhole, which was again above water and open.

"Don't be in a hurry!" he shouted. "Stick around with us awhile. We're going out where it's deep. Come in; the water's fine! Got your bathing suits? When she draws short telephone down. Don't yell, for there won't no one hear you. There won't no one hear either of you again in this world except just you two. By-by! See you in Davy Jones'—d—n you!"

And with this, as if pulled down from below, the man vanished into the dark interior, the manhole closed, and the chain, like a line taken by some titanic fish, started out to sea. The airship had been captured by the submarine! The mechanical devilfish was not running very deep; her round deck rose awash sometimes, but with the manholes closed, and with no sign save the erection of her periscope that she was more than an inert mass of steel she swam on.

Still seated where Theodore had placed her, Virginia looked at him in questioning terror. He was white and horrified. At this moment he was depressing her by her flight so as to get all possible slack in the chain, so that by a sudden upward rush he might break the tether. Once, twice, thrice he did this, but the chain held.

"What is it, Theodore? What is it?" said she.

"I don't know," said he, "but I think it's the end!"

Carson was not looking at her. He was looking toward, like a man seeking for some sort of inspiration. She stood looking out over the great desolate sea and back to the receding shore, on which she saw a group of forms—the forms of their friends. Nothing could seem more helpless. They were chained to their fate—a dark fiend of a machine that was taking them out to sea, to depths profound enough to drown them. It might be an hour; it might be the next moment.

Carson stood over her with a pistol in his hand.

"Virginia, can you shoot?" he asked.

She took the pistol and nodded affirmatively.

"I shall have to ask you to protect me," said he, "while I try to cut that chain. They can see with their periscope what I'm doing, and when it is necessary they will come up into the open and fire. By pulling out to sea I can get her at an angle that will force them into the open to shoot. When the manhole opens shoot into it. If you should hit one of them don't let it trouble you."

"I shall kill one of them if I can," said she. "Never mind that! Tell me the things to do!"

"I shall take the pliers and a file," said he. "I don't think the pliers will cut it. I may be too weak to climb back. I don't know that I can do it anyhow. You must take us back to land if I cut her free."

"Never fear. I know every lever."

"There's another thing," said he. "We came out with only a little gas. If we go much farther we haven't enough to get ashore with. I think I could soar her in with the aeroplane set of the blades. I think we had better fly low going back and not waste fuel. Keep her gliding about a hundred feet from the water, but if you want the aeroplane set this is the way to fix it."

With a swift movement he showed her the way to manage the mechanism. He lashed a pair of pliers about his neck with a lanyard, thrust a couple of files into his pockets, took off his boots, his coat and waistcoat and stepped to the side.

"You may get ashore," said he, "while I may not. If so goodby, and God bless you, dearest!"

She threw her arms about his neck and kissed him over and over again. He felt her warm tears on his lips.

"Don't cry!" said he. "Clear your eyes and shoot straight. Goodby!"

She stepped to the rail and looked fixedly at the black shadow like a gigantic fish that represented the submarine. Carson had disappeared over the side in a terrifying hand under hand descent until he reached the trusswork of the nacelle. The black shadow grew more distinct, the round deck broke water, and as the manhole opened Wizner appeared and aimed at Carson coolly as at a target. Too hastily Virginia fired. The bullet struck the edge of the deck with a vicious spat. Wizner's pistol spoke; his bullet, striking metal, flew singing away, and the girl replied with the third shot of this strange duel. She braced herself against the rail, aimed conscientiously at the middle of the mark presented by the villain below and fired—fired with the curious certitude the marksman feels when he is making a good shot. Wizner had just lifted his arm to fire again, but his hand fell as if struck down by a giant's blow. He dropped back into the darkness like a shot woodchuck, the manhole closed, and the submarine went on toward deep water as grimly as before.

"Good!" said Theodore. "But watch the manhole just the same. I shall have to file the chain. The pliers won't do."

Suddenly she heard Carson calling.

"They've hove to," said he. "I think they're going to try drowning us here. Don't lose control of yourself. Remember this is a fight, and we aren't whipped yet. Do you hear?"

"Yes," said she. "But it's so awful—so awful! If you were only up here where you could— Tell me what to do! Tell me what to do!"

"Do you see how the chain shortens?" asked Carson. "She's going down. If the water's deep enough she can drown us unless we can overcome her gravity. Turn the index so as to show a dead down thrust of the blades and then a full power on the last speed. It will take fuel, but it's the only way. Hurry!"

The airship sank, sank, nearer and nearer to the water. But without waiting to learn how the girl was carrying out his orders Carson again attacked the chain, and the shrill "screek" of the file greeted Virginia's ears as she turned the indicator and threw in the power. As they had never done before the great engines purred, the wing blades trod the air with a terrific roar, but with remorseless suction-like force the submarine drew her down closer, closer to the water, and she seemed lost. The sinking was slower now, but nevertheless more and more of the chain disappeared in the sea every moment. Virginia looked and despaired. The waves were so terrifyingly near, death in their cold depths seemed so unthinkably horrible, she bowed her face in her hands. The "screek, screek, screek," of the file kept on with the regularity of a machine. Carson was at work. He might be drowned. But when he went under he would go fighting. He was a man!

She stepped to the side and called to him.

"I think," said she, "that we are doomed. Is there anything I can do?"

"You might advance the spark," said he. "Not much, just the least trifle. Yes, I reckon they've got us."

She sprang to the machinery and did this last thing ordered by her commander—did it with unshaking hands, as a soldier might take up the weapon of his comrade killed at his post. By the faintest trifle she advanced the spark and went to the side to see the effect. They were lower now, and the trusswork in which Carson hung must be in or near the crest of the swells, but the "screek" of the file went on, not so strong perhaps, but steadily still, the paean of the unconquerable spirit of the man clinging to the trusswork beneath her. It was grand. It was immense. Her spirit rose to the occasion, rose to the prosaic "screek, screek" of a file in a hand that was dabbled in the waves at every lifting swell of the stolid ocean that rolled on just the same where its prey dangled within the lapping of its tongue, and out yonder where perhaps no man had been since creation's morn.

"Theodore!"

The file stopped for a minute.

"Keep her as she is," said he. "We've got the submarine stopped. I've got the chain about filed through, but I'm a little tired. Keep her as she is for just a little while!"

CHAPTER XIV.

LIFE OR DEATH?

AGAIN the file began its work. The immediate danger was over, but both the man below and the girl in the car knew that the terrific consumption of gas in the engines made the seconds too precious for use in conversation. A minute's supply of gas, ten seconds' supply, one second's supply, might save their lives in the home stretch, when the chain should be filed through and they should take their flight toward land, to make triumphant landing after this deadly peril or to sink in the waves from which they were now fighting to save themselves. The roar of the machinery filled the air with tempest; the wind from the wing blades driven down on the water set it boiling like a whirlpool; one moment the straining submarine drew them down by a link or two of the chain; the next the struggling airship lifted the submarine up an inch or so from her dark lair in the depths. At last, at the very height of the fierce struggle, the airship shot upward with the jingle of dropping chains, a worn file fell into the foam of a white capped wave, and the girl leaped to the levers in obedience to the voice of Carson, telling her to make haste, for God's sake, and set the wings for a forward flight, to cut the speed down one-third and to steer straight for shore.

She obeyed. They had risen to a height of perhaps 200 feet before her inexperienced hands could change the propellers, and Carson told her to keep the height. She asked if she might not use a little higher speed, but he said no—economy in gas was in the moderate speed. "Keep her as she is," said he.

"Can you come up?" she asked. "Have you the strength?"

She asked this two or three times and got no reply. Suddenly she screamed with the fear that he had fainted, and as if aroused from a stupor he asked her to advance the spark a little and when she had done so to retard it again.

"Are you in danger?" she asked. "Can you hang on?"

"I'm all right," said he, "only my hands. Can you see shore? Is it far?"

The shore was rising fast, she told him. It was not so very far now, but the gas was almost gone. Could she do anything? Was there nothing to be done to eke it out so as to bring them a little closer before they fell into the sea? Could he do anything if he were in the car?

"Keep her as she is," said he. "When we get close enough so she can glide in I'll lighten her."

"How lighten her?" she asked.

"It's easy," said he, "from down here. Keep her as she is!"

CHAPPED HANDS.

During the early spring months many women find it difficult to prevent hands and lips from chapping. And yet there is an excellent remedy at hand in cold cream.

It whitens the skin more than any other preparation. It has taken the place of the old-time glycerin.

It should be well rubbed into the skin and gloves—loose ones—slipped on. The palms of the gloves should be slit in several places and the finger-tips clipped off to admit the air and prevent cramp of the muscles.

Vaseline should never be allowed to touch the hands. It turns the skin yellow and leaves a stain on the nails that is hard to clear away.

Cold water should be used sparingly. Its action roughens the skin unpleasantly. Tepid water, with a few drops of ammonia and a good lather of castile or borax soap, is advisable. If the hands are inclined to redness, the trouble lies in the way of circulation, and slight gymnastics will relieve it.

ANNEXATION OF CANADA URGED.

Annexation of Canada to the United States was advocated yesterday in an address by Henri Bourassa, M. P., the Nationalist leader of Quebec, before the summer scholl of science of St. Francis Xavier College in Antigonish, Canada.

The speaker dwelt at length upon the four possible destinies of Canada, namely: Remaining in the position in which she is at present, which he regarded as very improbable; imperial federation, which would be an unwieldly and unworkable condition; annexation to the United States and independence.

"Imperial federation means an imperial council with a preponderant British influence," said Mr. Bourassa. "Conditions today in Canada make for annexation rather than for imperial federation. The penetrative influence of trade by rail and coastal lines, the mental propensity of the two peoples living under the same or similar conditions, industrial and social; the constant intercommunication of Canadians and Americans are all powerful factors making for annexation."

BASEBALL.

Perfect baseball weather!

The crowd at the Oval this afternoon ought to be a record breaker. Plainfielders are beginning to realize the speed and value of both of these teams. And that is the reason for their good support.

From all present indications, Dave Driscoll and his team of kickers will be back in New Brunswick uniforms next Sunday. Dave had a conference with the baseball authorities of the city on the Raritan and promised to return with his prodigal bunch. The attraction for next Sunday will be the St. Louis Americans, with Stanley Ketchell, the noted prize fighter, as the main show. Ketchell is almost sure to umpire, but if he is unable to come, the official will be Mike Donlin, the old star of the Giants' outfield.

The Scotch Plains team has an off-day today. No games are scheduled for it.

When Bound Brook meets Somerville today, the blood will certainly flow for keeps. You know the rivalry that exists between these two towns in baseball.

The Plainfield Y. M. C. A. team has cancelled its next game with Dunellen. The Association nine was scheduled to play the borough boys last Saturday, but received word from the Dunellen team that it would be unable to play. But what did Dunellen do then but schedule a game with Scotch Plains and play it. This of course was unsportsmanlike, and Charlie Line, manager of the Y. M. C. A. team, wrote to Dunellen saying that the Plainfield Association did not do business that way and cancelled the next game.

President Lynch of the National league has suspended oJhn McGraw the popular manager of the New York Giants, for an indefinite period. The reason for the suspension is umpire baiting the climax of which was reached in last Wednesday's game, when the crowd of fans were incited by McGraw against Umpires Emslie and Rigler to such an extent that the police had to be called in to protect these officials of the league. The suspension went into effect yesterday.

With Chase, Sweeny, Wolter and Vaughn back in the game again, the New York Yankees expect to do some things at the Hilltop during their long series of home games.

Another motto that should be rubber stamped—"Brooklyn outbats its opponents but loses game." And it happened again yesterday when the Dodgers laced out eleven clean hits as against five for the Cubs, but the World Beaters won 5-3.

The fellow that draws the Athletics in a baseball pool nowadays is almost a sure winner. In the last six games they have piled up a total of fifty-seven runs. Now that is an average of more than nine tallies a game and nine runs is almost a victory with any team in the American league.

The Dunellen boys are of the opinion that they are going to take home a Plainfield scalp this afternoon. Perhaps they will change their minds, and then again perhaps they will not.

But it will be worth seeing—that show at the Oval this afternoon.

So luck to both Plainfield teams!

AARON B. WILL NOT RACE TOKIO HERE ON LABOR DAY.

The report that Aaron B., the famous Plainfield trotter, owned by Adam Blair, will race against Tokio, the New Brunswick speeder at the Plainfield Driving Park on Labor Day for a purse of $1,000, is absolutely without foundation. Mr. Blair said this morning that Aaron B. was scheduled to appear in several classy races at the Dungan Hill track in Staten Island Labor Day, and that the race with Tokio at Plainfield had never been proposed.

Mr. Blair has entered his speedy trotter in the races at the Waverly track in Newark this afternoon. He will meet T. S. Miller's fast mare, Miss Syracuse, in a special match race. Aaron B. defeated this mare at Westfield some time ago and the race this afternoon will prove his superiority if the Plainfield horse should win. A special permission has been granted to Mr. Blair and Aaron B. will be allowed to wear hopples.

There are five races on the card for this afternoon at Waverly with a list of prominent judges.

SLAIN SIX TIMES FOR A SKINLESS CHICKEN

"The whole trouble started when Mrs. Annie Finkelstein of 28 Ludlow street left her home on last Friday to purchase one-fourth of one chicken for the Shabbis meal," says the New York Evening Sun. "Mrs. Finkelstein has appeared in the newspapers before. Her husband several months ago went into the cellar of a house next door and tried to dig a tunnel under Ludlow street to a jewelry store on the corner of Grand and Ludlow streets. He got caught in the tunnel one night and was dead when the Bureau of Highways dug him out.

"But, at all events, Mrs. Finkelstein started out to buy part of a chicken, and as she had always secured good weight at the shop of Mrs. Rachel Reider at 28 Ludlow street, she hied her there. Her attempt to get more than a quarter of a chicken was told before Magistrate Kernochan in Essex Market Police Court today."

"I went into Mrs. Reider's store" said Mrs. Finkelstein, "and she showed a couple of quarters to me. They were skinny, Judge, and that woman wanted that I should pay her 25 cents for skinny chickens. I said to her I ain't no greenhorn, and I find a couple of quarters for mineself. So I went over to the barrel, and picked them out. Then some one gave me a knock in the back of the head with a chicken.

"I wouldn't have cared, Judge, only that chicken didn't have his skin on. I fell dead to the floor, and then this woman began to kill me with her hands and feet. A lot of women in there killed me."

"How many times were you killed?" asked Magistrate Kernochan.

"Fully a half dozen or six times," said she.

"You've got as many lives as a cat," said the Magistrate. "What have you to say, Mrs. Reider, to this charge of homicide?"

"Believe me, Judge, may I never taste another gefilter if that woman ain't lying," protested the chicken merchant. "Ill get a fine business if it's for nothing that I hit my customers. I ain't killed her; not at all, I ain't done it. She killed me and my son.

"She came into my store and asked for two quarters of a chicken. I chopped one up and gave them to her; two fine quarters Judge, that you might get at the best hotels on Grand street. I even threw in the wings. Then she said she wanted one-half of a spring chicken, too. She went over to my son without paying me. Then she said she'd go across the street to buy it, and went out of the store without paying for the quarters. I hope I ain't born if she paid.

"So, then when she came out of the other store I looked in her bag and found six quarters. So then she killed me with the chicken, and her son came and killed me with his hands and feet. I didn't hit her once."

"Mrs. Reider," said Magistrate Kernochan, "I fine you $1 for killing Mrs. Finkelstein, and I fine Mrs. Finkelstein $1 for killing Mrs. Reider."

Both women paid.

SURRENDERS TO POLICE

James Keiderling, of Scotch Plains Returns to Tell Truth of Assault on Fred Skillman

WAS FORCED TO GO AWAY?

Tells Story of Trouble on Trolley Car on April 28 and Reasons for Keeping Out of Reach of Detectives.

A remarkable story of intrigue in which it is alleged that an innocent young man was practically forced to absent himself from the city in order that the guilty one might escape the consequence of his act, came before Chief of Police Kiely this morning in the statement made by Jas. Keiderling, of Scotch Plains, who returned from his forced exile in order to straighten out the alleged assault on Motorman Fred Skillman on the evening of April 28 last, on a trolley car going east.

According to the story told by Tony Giletto, a passenger on the car on the night in question, Keiderling caused a disturbance which was carreid to extremes by Charles Walpole, of Scotch Plains. Skillman was struck by a stone and at the time it was alleged that the missile was thrown by Keiderling, although this testimony was not corroborated. The result of the hearing in the local police court before Judge William N. Runyon, was the placing of Walpole under $1,000 bonds to await the action of the grand jury.

This morning Keiderling comes to the front with a story of just why he left the employ of the Rushmore Dynamo Works on the morning after the fracas on the car.

"I felt all the time that I was away that it would be better for me to come and tell the whole story because I thought if I didn't I'd get in bad all around. Walpole, who caused me to go away, saying that without my evidence the trouble would all blow over, wrote to me frequently telling me to stay where I was and not to come near the police.

"I managed to obtain work wherever I went and I traveled up and down through New York State always with the feeling that I was doing wrong in concealing what I know about the affair of April 28, so last night I made up my mind to give my self up and take what is coming to me if there is anything due."

It is known that Keiderling went away without securing the wages due to him up to the time he quit work, but this was done more as a measure of the police department to apprehend him in case of a return to collect his money, his testimony in the case to be considered by the grand jury will be of much material use in deciding the bringing of an indictment if one is found advisable. Keiderling's story seems to have impressed Chief Kiely as straightforward and reasonable and it is likely that when the matter is laid before Judge Runyon tomorrow some further action in the case will be taekn.

MISS ETHEL DEAN THE BRIDE OF FREDERICK SAUER.

Miss Ethel Dean, daughter of William Francis Dean, of 12 Beach street, Newark and Frederick Sauer, of this city, were married Saturday evening at the home of the groom's brother, 133 Liberty street, by Rev. Ora J. Shoop, pastor of Grace M. E. church. It was a small family affair, only the immediate relatives and a few friends being present.

Miss Charlotte Heintz, of Newark, was the bridesmaid, and Charles Sauer, a brother of the groom, was best man. A wedding supper was served after the ceremony, and congratulations offered. The couple will reside at 204 Berckman street. The groom is employed at the Rushmore Dynamo Works, as a metal spinner.

Horse Dropped Dead.

A horse belonging to James H. Martin's livery stables in Summit dropped dead on West Front street on Saturday evening, shortly before 7 o'clock, and was removed yesterday afternoon about 3 o'clock. It was said that the animal was seized with colic and died before assistance could be brought. The persons driving the animal disappeared before the police could ascertain their names.

Parents Don't Want Him.

John Konesky whom Judge Runyon sent to his home on Saturday in company with Detective Sergeant John Flynn in the hope of reconciling the parents and the boy, was brought back to police headquarters and lodged in a cell because the mission of Flynn failed of its purpose. There will be a further investigation into Konesky's case tomorrow.

THE ALPHA AND OMEGA

Rev. Mr. Stout Explains the Meaning of Christ's Reference to Himself.

AN INSTRUCTIVE DISCOURSE.

Three Times the Saviour Speaks of Himself Using the Same Figure of Speech.

Those who attended the morning service at the Trinity Reformed church yesterday listened to a strong sermon by the Rev. Royal A. Stout, the pastor of the Netherwood Reformed church. In the course of his remarks, Mr. Stout said in part:

"The alphabet is only 3,500 years old and before the advent of this wonderful system, the ancient people used to express themselves in ideagrams. The alphabet then came with its flexibility and continuity. And it is to these instances that Christ refers in the book of the Revelation of St. John, when He calls Himself the alpha and the omega, for Christ was the continuity of the whole of life.

"The first instance, where Christ refers to Himself in this way is found in the first chapter of Revelations, the eighth verse. Here Christ makes the revelation to the church that He is the alpha and the omega. That He is the alpha is shown by His confession to Peter and the omega stands for the destiny of the church. Christ is the complete expression of Christianity and the foundation of the church. If Christ is the main pillar of the church, why should anything else be brought into the church except Christ and Him crucified? Sociology, ethics, morals, and such great teachings, which are taking a foothold, are all right in themselves, and let them be preached, if in their doctrines, we can see the teachings of Christ. Like the leaning tower of Pisa, which has reached its limit of development because it is off of its true foundation, so will the Christian church stand when its principles wander from the true teachings of Christ, who is the foundation of the Church. Christ is the foundation and aim of the church.

"The second instance, in which Christ speaks of Himself as the Alpha and Omega, occurs in Revelation 21-6, where Christ reveals Himself as the fullest expression of the new life to the Christian. Christ is the beginning of that new life, for all moral attributes are futile unless founded on Him. And then Christ is the aim of every Christian life.

"The third instance is found in Revelation 22-13, in which Christ calls Himself the alpha and the omega of the eternal life. He lived without sin and is therefore the beginning of eternal life and we can have no such life hereafter unless we believe in Him. And then Christ is the ideal and not the end of our life eternal."

Mr. Stout was graduated from the New Brunswick Theological Seminary in May and was installed as pastor of the Netherwood Reformed church shortly afterwards. He is also a graduate of Rutgers College, class of 1907. He is well liked by the people of his own congregation and also by those of Trinity Reformed church.

MISS LOUISE E. WIERSERT BRIDE OF JAS. F. BILLETT

Miss Louise Elizabeth Wiesert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Wiesert, of Jamesburg, and James Fletcher Billett, of this city, were married at 8.30 o'clock yesterday morning at the home of the bride's parents, by Rev. Mr. Smith, pastor of the M. E. church, at Jamesburg. The ceremony was witnessed by a limited number of friends and the relatives of the bride and groom.

The bride was attended by the groom's sister, Miss Jessie L. Billett, of this city, while the best man was Jacob Wiesert, brother of the bride. A wedding breakfast was served after the wedding. Later the couple left for a trip to Niagara Falls and Lake Champlain. Upon their return they will reside in this city.

The groom, who has lived here for several years and is well known, is employed by the New Jersey Central as a special agent. The bride is a most estimable young woman and has a large circle of friends and acquaintances. She received a large collection of wedding gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Thompson, of West End avenue, have returned from their vacation spent at Essex Junction, Vermont. They were accompanied by Mrs. Thompson's father, who will visit here for a time.

DEFEATS NEWARK'S NINE

Plainfield Y. M. C. A. Downed the Newark Nine in Good Shape.

THE SCORE WAS FOUR TO TWO.

Frederickson Pitched in Fine Form—Winning Run Made in the Fifth Inning—The Box Score.

In a fast seven-inning game, the first one of the double header Saturday, the Plainfield Y. M. C. A. nine took the measure of the Newark association team by the score of 4-2. It was Frederickson's superb pitching and classy field work that won the game for the Y. M. C. A. boys. And, of course, some real opportune batting helped a lot toward the final result. The game was limited to seven innings because the out of town team was late in reaching this city but seven innings were enough to prove the superiority of the local boys.

The Newarkers only managed to get four scattered hits off Frederickson's delivery, and the clever young box artist had th P. O. N. at his mercy. He compelled eight men to fan the air in disgust and only allowed one free pass. Walsh, th Newark twirler, gave four bases on balls and struck out six batsmen.

Except for three errors by Ben Adams, the Plainfield boys worked together like a well-oiled piece of machinery and exhibited some brilliant plays at times. But hits when hits meant runs did the trick for the locals and added another victory to their long string of wonderous achievements.

URGES YOUNG MEN TO STAND FOR THE RIGHT

"Will you young men step aside, hiding your Christian characters and permit the powers of evil to dominate your lives or will you assert your manhood, square your shoulders and dare to face the enemy of righteousness?"

This question, flung out with dramatic intensity by Rev. Dr. Andrew S. Zimmerman at the end of his sermon at the union service in the First Presbyterian church last night, was a fitting climax to an intensely earnest plea to Chrisitians to stand firmly on the foundation of their God-given principles and work for the salvation of their country.

Dr. Zimmerman gave a vivid picture of the desertion of Christ's followers during the tragedy of the Cross, and likened the people of the present day to those who in the very last moments of the Saviour's life stood aloof, bewildered and incapable. "What a difference," he said, "between a triumphant entry into Jerusalem, when His path was strewn with palms and flowers, and three days later, when He hung upon the Cross. Is there anything more pathetic to the human mind than that picture? It was but expression of indecision, utter carelessness and fear, the very emotions we must fight to control today in the church of the living God.

"What is the church of the living God? It is composed of believers and those who serve Him in this world. You and I can do much to make the church a living monument and bulwark for righteousness and just so long as Satan prolongs his assaults upon us just so long must we fight, only just a little bit harder.

"The lesson is a simple one. Dare to do right. No matter where nor how you are assailed, your confidence in God ought to be and is the sustaining power in all the hours of peril and temptation, and again I ask you: Are we going to stand for righteousness in government and in private-life, and for the independence of the individual? This is much more the duty of the man in these days of political turmoil and uncertainty than ever before. Find out the right thing to do, then do it with concentrated energy and you will have the satisfaction that could never come to the rabble gathered at Golgotha when the dying thief entered paradise with Jesus."

One of the largest union congregations of the season heard Dr. Zimmerman. Announcement was made that no further services would be held in this church until the second Sunday in September. At this service will be celebrated the Lord's Supper, preparatory service for which will be held on the preceding Friday evening, Sept. 9.

PLANS FOR CONVENTION

There Will Be 210 Delegates at Congressional Meeting Here Sept. 16.

UNION COUNTY IS FOR RUNYON.

Even if Morris and Warren Should Be For Fowler, Plainfielder is Assured of a Victory.

The Republican Congressional convention for the Fifth district will be held in the Plainfield theatre, Friday morning, September 16, at 11:30 o'clock, as previously stated in this paper, notwithstanding the fact that some newspapers have announced the date as September 15. The convention will be held three days after the primaries.

Jacob Welsh, of Morristown, J. Walter Ingham, of Warren, and John I. Howe, of Roselle, have been appointed a committee to arrange the details for the convention. There remains just about one month for the organization and the Fowler men to prepare for the gathering in this city, which will be the most interesting of any held in the district in years.

It will probably be known the day following the primaries just what the chances are for the nomination of Judge Runyon or Congressman Fowler. Every organization and every Fowler delegate will be marked. Union will have 108 delegates; Warren, thirty-two, and Morris, seventy. Elizabeth will have half the total number of delegates which will represent the county at the Plainfield convention.

Republican organization leaders are optimistic of success for Judge Runyon. They feel confident that he will get the majority of the Union county delegates, which will be sufficient to give him the nomination even if the solid Warren delegation went over to Fowler. From statements made by prominent Warren county Republicans Warren will probably give most of its delegates to Fowler.

It will be remembered that Warren, always a Democratic stronghold, left Jim Martine in the lurch when he ran against Congressman Fowler a few years ago. It was the slump in the Democratic vote in Warren, from a usual majority of 1,200 and more, to a palty 700, that defeated the "farmer orator" for Congress.

PLAINFIELD WON GAME

In a Rattling Good Exhibition the Local Team Defeated Dunellen.

THE SCORE WAS TWO TO ONE.

Brilliant Contest of Pitchers is Seen—Many Fine Plays—The Game in Detail.

In as pretty a pitcher's battle as one could wish to see, the Plainfield team defeated the Dunellen nine in the second game of the double header at the oval Saturday afternoon by the score of 2-1. It was certainly a contest between box artists and two famous ones at that for Warry McLaughlin, the old stand-by of the Plainfield team was opposed to Smiling Jimmie Montross, the one time notorious twirler of the Hope chapel nine. Both teams were out for blood and also to settle the dispute which had arisen, concerning the respective merits of the two clubs.

Nor was it the fault of either pitcher that the game was won or lost, for both teams made an earned run, while the extra tally of the Plainfield representatives was more or less (probably less) the result of luck. Both of the box artists were in fine fettle, McLaughlin allowing three and Montross four hits respectively. Warry was accorded perfect support and the one error, charged to the local bunch, was made by the clever southpaw himself. And the game was incidentally filled with some hair-raising plays on both sides.

Plainfield made its first tally in

SALVATION ARMY AT BABY CAMP MEETING

Many friends from Plainfield and vicinity took advantage of the ideal weather yesterday afternoon to visit the King's Daughter's Camp and enjoy this beautiful spot upon the summit of Watchung Mountain, and to attend the service which had been arranged by George E. Hall, superintendent of the Park Avenue Baptist Sunday-school. Mr. Hall had charge of the meeting and introduced to the mothers and children at the camp their friends of last summer, Capt. Hewitt and his associates in the local corps of the Salvation Army.

Capt. Hewitt held the close attention of the children as he told them the story of Sampson and how he was given the necessary strength to slay the lion; he then applied the lesson to the children's lives by reminding them of the various lions that need to be slain in peoples lives in these days—such as cigarette smoking, disobedience, bad companions, bad language lying, dishonesty, selfishness and worldliness. He illustrated his remarks by means of a toy lion, which rendered the story all the more realistic to the children, and helped to hold their undivided attention.

Capt. Hewitt was assisted in the meeting by short, earnest testimonies from Mrs. J. W. Price and daughters, of Burlington, and Mrs. Apgar, of the local corps. The Misses Sadie and Julia Price sang as duets; "That Bright City," "I Believe the Bible," Fullness of Blessing," and "I'm as Poor as the Poorest."

Mr. Hall gave a short talk to the children, and the meeting closed with the singing of "America." The service was largely attended by Plainfield friends who manifested much interest in the work of the camp.

The closing meeting of the summer is to be held next Sunday afternoon, and will be in charge of Superintendent George E. Hall, assisted members of the Park Avenue Baptist Sunday-school. A musical program is being arranged, including several selections by their own orchestra and a chorus choir. This will be a meeting of special interest, and a cordial invitation is extended to the public to visit the camp and enjoy the closing service of the summer.

CONSTABLE PIERCE RESCUES GIRL AT ASBURY PARK

Constable Robert Pierce, of New Market, proved himself a hero at Asbury Park yesterday afternoon, when he made a daring rescue in the ocean. Miss Alice Gardner, eighteen years old, of New York city, who is spending the summer at Bradley Beach, was watching the sea from the fishing pier, when she became dizzy, lost her balance and fell headlong over the rail into the ocean, thirty feet below.

Mr. Pierce, who is sixty-five years old and a veteran of the Civil War, stood nearby and hastily throwing aside his hat and coat, plunged into the surf and brought Miss Gardner to the beach. She was unconscious and had been badly bruised by the fall. She soon recovered through the application of restoratives and was taken to her boarding house. Mr. Pierce was highly complimented for his bravery, but he accepted the kind words with his accustomed modesty, explaining that he had only performed his duty.

LONELY ROAD HOLD-UP

Frank Wade in Custody and Police Search for William Jeroloman.

THE ROBBERS GOT NOTHING.

Borough Police Summoned by One Who Heard an Intended Victim's Screams—An Exciting Experience.

William Jeroloman, of Prescott place, is being hunted down by the police in the swamp near New Market, and Frank Wade, of Philadelphia, is held in the borough jail, for an attempted highway robbery on Greenbrook road Saturday night. Both men were caught by the borough police, but Jeroloman escaped from their clutches by his speedy running. The would-be robber was hunted for all Saturday night and yesterday by the borough police force, but no traces could be found of him.

At about 8:30, Saturday night, Mr. and Mrs. William Winrow, of New York, who are boarding at the Jennings farm, Greenbrook road and Rock avenue, were returning home along Greenbrook road when they were suddenly accosted by two men, who stepped out from the bushes. One of the men was tall and thin, while the other was short and of a slim build. The tall man flourished a revolver and demanded all their money. Mrs. Winrow started to scream and her husband kept the men off by a clever bit of talk, saying in the meanwhile that neither of them had anything of value in their possession.

Mrs. Winrow's screams were heard by the men on A. J. Brunson's farm, and the North Plainfield police department was immediately notified. Meanwhile the farm hands started in search of the highwaymen, who had beat a retreat. Marshals Keller and Culver, of the borough force, arrived on the scene in record time and joined the hunt. By some clever detective work, Marshal Keller captured Wade and placed him under arrest as a suspicious looking character. He was taken to Councilman William Smalley's house and kept there while the search for the other man was going on.

In the meantime, Jeroloman met Marshal Keller on the road, informing the latter that he had been held up. The marshal regarded the man's story with suspicion and decided to place him under arrest. A search revealed a revolver and a box of cartridges in the prisoner's pockets. Marshals Keller and Culver started off with the prisoner for the borough police station.

The men had walked but a short distance, when Jeroloman sprang at Marshal Keller and pushed him over his bicycle, which he was leading. The quick move on the part of Jeroloman gave the marshal such a surprise that the prisoner had no trouble in getting away. Marshal Culver had his hands full in holding fast to Wade, and could give his fellow officer no assistance.

Jeroloman made a dash through a nearby cornfield and soon opened up a wide gap between himself and the officer. Culver drew his revolver and fired several shots at the fleeing highwayman's legs, but none took effect. Marshal Keller started in pursuit of Jeroloman through the cornfields, swamps and bushes.

The prisoner could run faster than the officer, and reached the West End avenue bridge and this city ahead of the latter. The officer blew his whistle, hoping to attract the city police, but none were within hearing distance. The swamp was carefully guarded that night, but no trace of Jeroloman could be found.

A report was sent in to the borough police yesterday afternoon that the man had been seen in the vicinity of the swamp near New Market during the morning. Chief Marshal George Weiss, of the North Plainfield force, hitched up his horse immediately and was on the scene in short order. He was followed by Councilman William Smalley of the borough police committee and Marshal Charles Keller. A through search was made in the vicinity of the swamp, but nothing was seen of the man. It is thought that he is hiding in the dark recesses of the swamp. It is almost impossible to enter this locality in the hope of finding anyone.

The description which Mr. Winrow gave of the two men tallies exactly with that given by Marshal Keller. The borough authorities are certain that the tall man is William Jeroloman, since he is well known to Marshal Keller.

Frank Wade is being held in the borough jail, the arrangements for the hearing having not as yet been

AMONG OUR NEIGHBORS

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

Some mischievous person or persons entered the garden on the property of William Shively, on Whittier avenue, Friday night and stripped it of all its luscious products. Mr. Shively is at a loss to know who the perpetrator of the crime was. It was certainly the act of a man skilled in the art of picking garden products for every plant and vine was robbed of its choicest fruits. Marshal Benson is working hard on the case but as yet has discovered no clue as to the identity of the hungry thief.

A large crowd of enthusiastic Dunellen rooters went to Crescent Oval Saturday afternoon and saw their team humbled before the speedy nine. But it was a good game and the borough boys certainly made their neighbors fight for every inch of ground. The local supporters of the team were a loyal bunch and cheered the Dunellenites until the last man out was made in the ninth inning.

The lower part of Washington avenue has been improved by the application of a few loads of crushed stone. The work was done under the supervision of C. Wesley Blaine.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

An enjoyable evening was spent by the members of All Saints' Episcopal church, and a large number of its friends at the entertainment and festival held Saturday night in the Fanwood fire house. An enjoyable musical program was rendered under the direction of J. C. Bushanek, of Westfield. Several recitations were given after which refreshments and dancing were enjoyed, music for which was furnished by Snyder's orchestra. The proceeds, which were encouraging were for the benefit of the church treasury.

Rev. Franklin R. Matthews and family have returned from their summer outing which was spent at Circhville, N. Y. Mr. Mathews occupied the pulpit again yesterday at the morning service. No evening preaching service being held.

Pianos & Player-Pianos

MATHUSHEK & SON PLAYER-PIANO is the most advanced instrument of its type on the market today, and in its capacity for individual musical expression and for the artistic rendition of music, whether popular or classic, it cannot be surpassed, for it places the control of tempo and phrasing entirely in the hands of the performer, enabling him to give expression to his moods and emotions quite as if he were playing the piano manually.

Our experts have spent a number of years in producing this instrument, and every detail has been carefully thought out and perfected so that it may, without exaggeration, be described as the most perfect Player-Piano Mechanism in the world.

AARON B. IS BEATEN BY MISS SYRACUSE

Before a crowd of more than 6,000 people, who had turned out to witness the race, Aaron B., the chestnut gelding owned by Adam C. Blair, of this city, was defeated in straight heats by Miss Syracuse, the fleet footed bay mare of Theodore T. Miller, who lives in Newark, at the Waverly track Saturday afternoon. This special match proved to be the drawing card of the afternoon's sport for the two speeders met to settle an old dispute as to their respective abilities.

Adam Blair drove his own horse in the races. In the first heat it was plainly visible that Mr. Blair was not letting his chestnut go his limit, and the bay mare won in the slow time of 2:23. Matters were different in the next two heats, and the time for the two was 2:20. Miss Syracuse was driven by Johnny Stearns, who is regarded as one of the best amateur drivers in the country.

In June the Plainfield horse defeated the Newark mare in straight heats on the Westfield track and now the rubber remains to be run off. The date has not been fixed upon as yet.

made. Wade was arrested in the borough Friday afternoon by Marshal Keller for panhandling. Recorder Dolliver suspended sentence upon him on the condition that he would leave the borough immediately. Wade tells a contradictory story at the present time concerning his part in the hold-up, and so he is being held until the true facts can be obtained by the police.

Miss Bullock in Hospital.

Miss Noel J. Bullock, principal of Franklin school, who has been spending the summer at Cape Cod, returned home Saturday, and has today undergone a severe operation at Muhlenberg hospital. Dr. Endicott hopes that his patient will recover in time to begin her twenty-sixth year as principal of the Franklin school, when it opens in September. Miss Bullock's brother, William Starr Bullock, of East Second street, who was operated on for appendicitis at Muhlenberg hospital, last month, is about town and is slowly regaining his strength.

Trolley Car Hits Cart.

Trolley car No. 107, of the Somerset street line, while passing under the Watchung avenue bridge, bound toward Front street, just after 1 o'clock today, came into collision with a dirt cart driven by Francis Mahon, an employe of William Uhrhahn, of 13 Regent street, North Plainfield, upsetting the cart and slightly injuring the horse. The impact was violent enough to break the harness on the horse and the animal fell. The blame for the accident will be placed after an investigation now in progress.

Fine Program at Tent Meeting.

The gospel meeting at the Salvation Army tent, last night, was one of the best of the season. Captain and Mrs. Hewitt were in charge and both gave stirring talks. A feature was the music, there being several vocal solos and duets by the Price sisters, of Burlington. Martin A. Korff played violin solos with Miss Sadie Price at the piano. During the service one man signified his desire to lead a Christian life. Martin A. Korff will lead the meeting tomorrow night.

A COMBINATION SALAD.

Cucumbers are served in various ways, made into boats, stuffed and in cream soups, but one of the most nutritious ways of serving them is in a salad with crisp lettuce, young onions and radishes.

In one family this salad is often the chief dish at luncheon. It is made in a large salad bowl, in which the crisp lettuce leaves are tossed with slices of ice-cold cucumber, young onions and radishes, and then mixed with a generous amount of dressing made of olive oil, lemon juice, pepper and salt, and a dash of sugar.

Use about a quarter as much lemon juice as olive oil. Thin slices of bread and butter, cocoa, and a plain cake, served with salad, make an excellent lunch for midday or afternoon refreshment.

Netherwood Camp Service.

One of the largest audiences of the summer attended the services at the Netherwood Fresh Air Camp yesterday afternoon. S. S. Swackhamer made the address, and besides the special musical attractions, the choir made up from the camp children was a feature.

David E. Titsworth, of this city, who has gone abroad on a pleasure trip, arrived safely in England, according to a cablegram received here a few days ago by members of his family.

NEW TOUCH IN JEWELRY.

Jewelry, at any rate, is our loose acceptance of the term, for no stones are visible in this pretty fancy. I have spoken of the gold lace pins crocheted with lace. Now far-seeing manufacturers have brought out wooden ornaments in all manner of sorts and shapes—collar pins, hat pins, belt buckles—all to be covered with this crocheted lace. One may have a whole set of them for an afternoon's work, and they make the daintiest of gifts for brides and "next Christmasers."

If crocheting is not in your line, fine lace can be darned around these wooden foundations, or dotted or figured net may be used instead. Whatever material is used, they are as quaint and pretty as the lace-covered gold pins, which is saying a great deal.

Too Much Fire Water.

Charles Hawkins, a negro laborer of South Second street, was arraigned in the borough court this morning on the charge of drunkenness Saturday night. He was arrested on Somerset street by Marshal Culver. Hawkins was penitent this morning, and with lots of good resolutions promised. Recorder Dolliver suspended sentence.

MUSICAL PROGRAM AT PARK AVE. SUNDAY-SCHOOL

The session of the Park Avenue Baptist Sunday school, yesterday, was of unusual interest, the program being arranged by Superintendent George E. Hall. This musical service was given: Selection, orchestra; hymns, "America"; "By Grace I Will"; first psalm in concert; prayer, Rev. F. St. John Fitch; sentence prayer, "Jesus, Thou Art the Sinner's Friend"; hymns, "Trust and Obey," "Love Divine," and "My Jesus, I Love Thee."

The lesson was taugh in the classes as usual, but the study period was shortened to allow time for the musical service, which included these hymns: "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name," "Rock of Ages," "Blest Be the Tie that Binds," "Abide with Me," "Shall We Gather at the River," and "Blessed Assurance." Accompanying each hymn was a short talk explaining the writing of the words and music.

Two musical programs printed on cards of pretty designs, were distributed as souvenirs of the occasion. A chorus of fifteen voices rendered several selections from the new book "Corporation Hymns," with which Mr. Hall had recently supplied the school. Miss Edith Bechtel sang as a solo, "Not Half Has ever Been Told." The Misses Arline and Marjorie Brown, violins; Elmer Wheeler, flute and Harry C. Runyon, piano, accompanied the singing throughout the session, which closed with a selection, "He Will Hold Me Fast," rendered on a Victor machine. The program was considered one of the best arranged by Mr. Hall, who gave so much time to this work.

BRITISH HONOR FAMOUS NURSE

London, August 22.—Florence Nightingale, "the Angel of the Crimea," who died August 18 at her London home, was buried Saturday afternoon beside the bodies of her father and mother in the church yard of the little Hampshire village of Fast Wellow. In accordance with her often expressed wishes for a simple private funeral, the ceremony was of the quietest nature, the only feature reminding one of her great services to the army and the nation being the presence of a squad of the Grenadier Guards, who acted as bearers. Outside of these, only members of the immediate family and a few retainers were present at the funeral.

Public tribute was paid at a memorial service at noon at St. Paul's Cathedral here, at which King George, Queen Mary, the Queen Mother Alexandra, the War Office and Admiralty and the greater part of the British public bodies and colonies were represented. The United States Ambassador, Whitelaw Reid, and Mrs. Reid were present.

The Cathedral was crowded with the official representatives and thousands of private persons who had come to do honor to the dead were unable to find places inside the church and stood outside during the ceremony.

Among the flowers sent for the funeral were a number of wreaths contributed by American associations, and many prominent members of the American colony in London attended the service.

W. V. BYARD RETURNS LOW SCORE OT PARK GOLF CLUB.

Although the weather was ideal for the game, there was a small field of golfers out at the Park Golf Club, on Saturday, largely due to the fact that a majority of the members are out of the city enjoying their vacations. There was the weekly competition for the President's and Golf Club trophies, and three excellent scores were returned, dividing the points for the day, as follows:

W. V. Byard, 100, 21-79; U. G. Tingley, 105, 25-80; Dr. H. K. Carroll, 98, 16-82.

VISITORS EXTINGUISH BLAZE ON E. SECOND ST.

When box 53 was rung in yesterday afternoon shortly before 2 o'clock, the local firefighters did not anticipate having the easy time they encountered when they arrived at the scene of the blaze, but it was out and to Bayonne goes the honors of having extinguished it.

A special trolley car on which were a party of Bayonne firemen and several of their friends, including members of the Democratic committee, of Bayonne, was passing 719 East Second street, near Berckman, when one of the members of the party, who was enjoying the breeze and the passing scenery, noticed smoke issuing from the front windows of Michael Pendalino's home, at 719, and with a shout to his comrades, stopped the car and jumped to the street and into Pendalino's house, closely followed by his companions.

The Bayonne contingent got to work briskly and soon had the fire under cntrol; meanwhile somebody had run to the corner and pulled the hook in box 53, and companies from Netherwood and headquarters were promptly on the job. They found nothing to do for their comrades from the shore city had quenched the flames with a few well directed pails of water and the damage was less than fifty dollars. It is believed that the fire started from a smoldering cigar butt.

Those who so materially aided the local department were William Clark, of Hook and Ladder Company No. 1; ex-Chief Mahoney, Thomas McGrath, Robert Milden, William Smalley, Joseph Gribbano and Judge Ward, a member of the Democratic committee of Bayonne.

D. H. ROWLAND WINS COMPETITION AT P.C.C.

There was a large field of golfers out at the Plainfield Country Club, Saturday, but few posted their scores. The event for the day was an 18-hole match play competition against par, which is 7, the players taking for their handicap three-quarters the difference between their regular handicap and par. The competition, which was for both Classes A and B, was won by D. H. Rowland, who is six down.

The social features at the clubhouse were enjoyed by a large number of members and friends, and Superintendent Hilton served a great many lunches throughout the day and dinners in the evening. The delightful weather was greatly enjoyed on the hilltop, and the clubhouse was thronged with people.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

Ocean City will have a baby show in the Hppidrome on September 2.

Ocean City's thirty-first annual camp-meeting opened Friday night with a rally in the auditorium, Rev. James E. Lake presiding.

The afternoon express from Atlantic City to New York over the Reading Railway killed an unidentified man one mile south of Lakewood Friday.

Second crop strawberries of good flavor and in fair quantity have been gathered in Hammonton during the past week, and Councilman James V. Baker is experimenting with a berry that promises to be a regular all-summer yielder.

A general strike of carpenters and other building trades mechanics threatens to tie up building operations in Atlantic City in the early fall. Members of the Master Builders' Association unanimously voted to refuse demands of the carpenters for a raise from $3.60 to 4$ per day.

Although he is blind in one eye and can hardly see out of the ither, the result of an accident several years ago, Isaiah Collins, a farmer of Morse and Mickle streets, Camden, succeeded in wounding a thief early Friday morning with a gun for invading his cornfields and carrying away truck.

Struck in the head by a piece of iron falling from an engine of the Reading Railroad, Antone Englimi, thirty-five years old, a Hamminton track foreman, sustained a fracture of the skull Friday and was taken to Cooper Hospital in Camden in an unconscious condition. Physicians have little hope for his recovery.

After filling the gasoline tank on his launch Thursday night, prior to taking a cruise Friday, Willard Pancoast, son of former Councilman William Pancoast, of Woodbury, thoughtlessly went into the cabin with a lighted lantern. He knew he had spilled considerable oil, but he forgot about it. A fire started at once, and the young man was terribly burned on the face and hands, but will recover.

As he was about to be taken to State prison from the Camden County jail Friday, Joseph Schley, a negro, convicted of second degree murder in causing the death of Peter Sykes, of Philadelphia, by stabbing, declared that he had not been given a square deal. "You ought to feel lucky to think that they didn't put you out of business in the electric chair," said the court. He said he thought he would get a new trial.

While running across Hamilton avenue, Trenton, Friday night, to turn a signal light, John W. Thompson, a conductor in the employ of the Trenton Street Railway Company, was struck by an automobile and injured. He was dragged about fifteen feet. His collar-bone was dislocated and he may be internally injured. The car that ran down the conductor was occupied by Dr. Mackenzie and Dr. Laylor, and the physicians took the patient to his home and attended to his injuries.

When counsel for the First Church of Christ, Scientist, asked that the assessment of $9,200 on the church property at 309 Cooper street, Camden, be taken off on the ground that the building is used solely for religious purposes and was exempt from taxation on that account, President Wells, of the Camden City Board of Assessment, Friday said the building was assessed because it was a question in the minds of the members of the board whether it was a church as provided by the exemption law.

Persons who mingle in crowds and associate with pickpockets are liable to arrest in New Jersey, even if it cannot be proved they were guilty of theft; under a decision of Supreme Court Justice Garrison, sustaining the conviction of Samuel Melnicove, nineteen years old, of Philadelphia. Melnicove was arrested while in the company of two other men with jail records in the crowds which watched the aviation events from the Boardwalk in Atlantic City in July. Detectives testified the young man had "acted suspiciously," and Melnicove was sent to the county jail for six months.

HITCHCOCK'S MISTAKE.

Representative Gilbert M. Hitchcock, who lives at the Connecticut apartment house when he is in Washington, received a letter one morning and read it with great surprise. It was a bill for 128 parasols. Mrs. Hitchcock also read it with surprise, not to say shock. On looking more closely Mr. Hitchcock made a discovery which led him to look at his wife with an air of triumph and say:

"This is easily explained, my dear. I have not been buying parasols by the hundred. I did not buy these. This bill is made out to Frank M. Hitchcock, the postmaster-general, who is a single man."

Then the Congressman sent the bill to the cabinet officer with this note:

"This was opened by mistake. The inclosure was read with amazement.
"GILBERT M. HITCHCOCK."

But the reason the postmaster-general had bought the bale of parasols was that he wanted to use them as favors at a cotillion at which he was host.—Popular Magazine.

Virginia of the Air Lanes

A ROMANCE OF FLYING

...By...

Herbert Quick

Copyright, 1909, by the Bobbs-Merrill Company

The dunes lifted white in the sun, shimmering in the heat, swelling as the Virginia darted nearer and nearer to shore. The horror stricken people on the beach saw her coming, like an albatross before a gale. The girl on the deck prayed fervently for the miraculous renewing of the little cruse of oil from which was made the gas that kept them up, and the man underneath hung on grimly, awaiting the cessation of stroke, which would prove that the mixture which was the breath of life of the great engines was exhausted at last. Once, twice, thrice, came the halting in the machinery that was the death rattle of the motors.

"Virginia!" said he.

"Yes," she replied.

"Fix the gliding mechanism. The gas is done."

"Yes, Theodore."

"Turn her nose down a little. With momentum enough she'll make it from here. And when she gets within those breakers, if she is less than twenty-five feet high, tilt her up again a little. Do you understand?"

"Yes. I'll do it. Anything more, Theodore?"

"No; only remember what you said about forgiving me if I'd let you come with me. Remember, turn her prow up a little when she nears shore. You'll make it, dear; you'll make it!"

Mrs. Graybill, standing on the shore, noted with the rest the new motion of the airship when the engines were stopped and wondered why it behaved so queerly.

And then Mrs. Graybill screamed. She had seen the man under the car deliberately let go his hold and drop into the water. The lightened car tilted slightly upward now as Virginia obeyed orders, soared slowly onward, rising a little as her momentum brought the great gliding surfaces against the air, and then, clearing the foam of the surf, she softly settled on the sand with her stern rudder, like the tail of a great dead bird, washed by the hungry waves which she had as by a miracle escaped. And rowing in from the offing where he had gone in his fishing boat in the wild and improbable belief that he might help his master came Captain Harrod with a white faced young man lying in the bottom of the boat whose fingers dripped blood from the remorseless work of the file.

* * * * * * *

"Allow me to suggest," observed Craighead as the gentlemen of the party at Harrod's camp sat in lounging attitude on various articles used as chairs, mostly jetsam and flotsam of the gulf, "that in perfecting the first really practicable flying machine we have set in motion social and economic reactions that will go on and on far beyond the ken of those who, unlike myself, have not made a specialty of them. As that submarine dragged the Virginia out to sea yesterday we all thought it was the last of Carson, M. A., didn't we?"

Mr. Carson picked at his bandaged fingers, embarrassed.

"I didn't see much hope of escape," said he.

Breakfast was served. Mr. Waddy was upon tenterhooks until the Virginia had been explained to him, so a trip was arranged for Waddy, Craighead and Carson. They would fly down to Fort Morgan, thence to Palmetto Beach, get their mail and be back for dinner.

Mr. Waddy shied from the sea, but once in air he became intoxicated with enthusiasm. If this machine, said he, was so good that the Aerostatic Power people thought it good business to hire wizner to drown it and its inventor—he could not otherwise explain the horrible affair of yesterday—it was good enough to be backed with all the Waddy money in all the eight banks.

The Virginia had alighted on the parade ground at Fort Morgan. The bamboo braces fell outward, and she lay on an even keel. The aeronats invariably halted at the mooring balloon and received passes, but Mr. Waddy's declaration of fealty was so absorbing and the speed of the Virginia so unwonted to her pilot that the fort had been spread beneath him like a map before he was aware of it. To alight might mean arrest, inquiry and discharge after explanations to the commandant, Colonel Krimnitz, of whose severity Carson felt no real fear. But if he tried to go away after running the guard he might be fired on as a spy making off with complete photographs. Altogether it was safest to alight, thought Carson, and he settled on the parade ground, greatly to the agitation of an awkward squad drilling under a sergeant, whose bellowed commands were cut short off by the whir of the reversal of the Virginia's wing blades. He turned and saw the huge dragon fly with its bow rudder pointed at him like a great mandible.

The drill sergeant's expression carried conviction to the sergeant of the guard, where his description of a devil of a bird thing that you couldn't see at all till it struck the ground might not have been credited. The guard turned out and moved on the parade ground. The guard encountered a great silver winged insect with a snug car amidships, her four braces sticking in the Bermuda grass like very short legs.

The guard halted at five paces, and the sergeant advanced, obtaining his first good look at Mr. Craighead, maintaining the attitude of military caricature with a steadiness perfectly statuesque. The sergeant, a little man with a red mustache turned up a la kaiser, looked at him for half a minute and uttered a mysterious exclamation.

Craighead remained motionless, his hand to his cap. The sergeant amazedly returned the salute. Craighead relaxed his tense muscles, dropped his hand to his side and winked with the utmost sobriety of expression.

"Podner," said he, "have yeh got any eatin' tobacker?"

"I'll trouble you gentlemen for your passes," returned the sergeant.

"Unfortunately," replied Mr. Craighead, "we omitted to obtain passes. Say no more, Mr. Sergeant. We are all soldiers. This is Gennie Theodo' Cahson, M. A., and this Mr. Waddy, who served in his youth in the typhoid uprising at Chickamauga in the Spanish-American war. Show your button, Mr. Waddy, as an S. A. W. V. You see, sergeant, that you are quite safe against our capturing Fort Morgan."

"Here's Captain Bolger now. Tell him about it."

Captain Bolger was a choleric gentleman with whiskers like General Sherman's, much thinned by the increase in the area of the face since the establishment of the foliage. He advanced rapidly, with a hippety-hopping gait, as if catching step with an imaginary companion very careless of the ——.

Cash Relief Our Only Salvation

Sale Opens WEDNESDAY August 24

The Cause of This Mighty Slaughter

The critical moment has arrived—that is the situation here now. The stringency in the money market has created a condition which has never occurred before. Circumstances have so shaped themselves that we are forced to slaughter our magnificent stock. We must raise the money at all hazards. With a gigantic stock on hand we have struggled against a backward season which now stares us in the face. But all in vain. Unable to bear the strain any longer we are forced to sacrifice our stock in order to save our good name, which is more than money to us. Our entire capital is tied up in merchandise. We, therefore, need relief. Heroic sacrifices are sometimes necessary. This is one of the times we meet the situation promptly and emphatically. The urgent demand for money brought this gigantic money saving sale on us, which we pass along to you. The enormity of our stock, the vital danger and burden it applies at this critical financial stagnation forces us to reduce stock by offering for cash at any cost, notwithstanding our reputation as givers of the best values. We now give an extra twist to the wheels of the trade by offering such astonishing values that competition is not attempted. It is not necessary to go into details relative to High-class Merchandise we carry for every man and child is well aware of the fact that anything bought from us was the best money could buy. COME AND SEE FOR YOURSELF AND BE CONVINCED.

Sale Opens Wednesday, August 24, 9 a. m.

Chalmers
MOTOR CARS

The Chalmers "Thirty" is the Only Medium Priced Car That Was Ever Awarded the Glidden Trophy

Never before has a car costing under $4,000 won the Glidden Trophy.

This year—the longest, the hardest, and most racking route ever undertaken—the Glidden Trophy was won by the Chalmers "Thirty" in competition with cars of more than twice its price, and rated power.

What more could you ask of any car, at any price?

With such a proof of its study and reliable quality, the demand for 1911 models is going to be even greater than last year, when the output was sold before the season was half over.

The increased demand will not effect the Chalmers policy of building cars of quality, not quantity, not how many cars, but how good, is our constant aim and effort, this is the principal reason for the fact that the Chalmers has never been defeated in any motoring event by any car of its price and power.

The 1911 Models are being delivered in order of purchase. Demonstration of new models by appointment.

the third inning. Schott started the ball a rolling by clouting out the first hit of the game which by the way was a two-sacker. Fritts, of Y. M. C. A. fame, then sent a slow one toward Giddes, who made a stab toward catching the Plainfield left fielder as he ran down the base line. Schott dodged and then a see-saw match occurred, in which the local boy was hit on the head by the leather spheroid and thus gained his base. Fritts gently reached second during this argument. But Schott must have had some attraction for the ball for it hit him again and made the first run for Plainfield. While he was dancing around third base, Brit Martin sent a long sacrifice fly out in left field, and when Schott started for the plate, the return throw was interrupted by his own personage so that Seery was unable to tag him out. One run.

The Dunellen boys tied matters up in the seventh inning, when Giles reached first on a lucky mix up. Miller then did the sacrifice act, sending Giles to second. Ramsberger singled and Giles reached the third station. Then Smiling Jimmie took the willow and sent a beautiful single on a trip to right field, scoring Giles. But Ramsberger was caught napping at second and Dunellen's chances for further damage ended here.

The winning run came in by the following route: With two gone Jack Martin reached first on a fielder's choice; "Big Six" Nelson then stepped up to the bat and sent one of Jimmie's low shoots out over Nonemaker's head for a clean double. Jack was not at all slow in traveling and scored on the swat.

While the Plainfield boys played a snappy game, those Dunellenites must be given credit for some classy fielding work. Ramsberger was the whole show on third base, accepting nine difficult chances without an error. Jimmie Montross was no slouch when it came to fielding his position either, and some of the stops, which he made, certainly had the big league brand on them.

Old Brit Martin made the crowd of spectators sit up and take notice in the second inning when he gracefully ran back of second base and pulled down with his bare hand what looked like a clean single from Ramsberger's bat. His brother also distinguished himself by a similar catch back of short, only this time it was Nonemaker that hit the ball. The work of Barnes on first was of the classy order, the tall first sacker taking thirteen chances without a mishap.

And so the good points of every player might be enlarged upon, but Mr., Mrs. or Miss Reader, you can get some idea of the work done by the individual members of the teams from the following:

The Newark associationites started off auspiciously and scored in the first inning. Furner got a free pass, going to second on Williams' single. The two runners then worked the double steal while Frederickson fanned Jewell. But Russell, the next man at bat, was equal to the occasion and lifted a beauty just over shortstop. Furner scored but Williams was caught at the plate.

Plainfield evened things up in the third round, when Coyle made first on a fielder's choice, taking second on Frederickson's single. Then Peacock clouted out his second hit of the game and Coyle romped home with the bacon.

But Newark again took the lead in the next inning when two successive errors by Ben Adams put Jewell on third and Russell on second. Jewell scored when Allison sent a screeching single through shortstop. This ended the visitors' tallies for the next men were retired in easy style.

The locals cinched the game in the fifth by some inside baseball work. Taylor began the trouble for Mr. Walsh by sending a single to right, but was caught napping off second base. Then Fritts got a life on a fielder's choice and was neatly sacrificed to second by Marsh. Charlton Smith then stepped up to the plate and like the true Casey that he is, clouted the horsehide into right field, bringing in the winning run. Walsh then made two wild pitches and these added to a muff by the third baseman allowed Smith to come across with the fourth tally.

There were certainly no flies on the playing of the local association boys and they showed the fans of Plainfield what a classy article of baseball they can put up. Taylor made a thrilling catch of Williams' long fly into right field that brought the gallery gods to their feet in all corners of the lot. Marsh's work on second base deserves a lot of credit for Hervey took six chances (and some of them were hard ones) without an error. Peacock's and Smith's batting were strong points in the aggressive work of the local team.

SOMERVILLE DEFEATS BOUND BROOK IN FAST GAME

The Somerville baseball team took the fifth game of the series from Bound Brook Saturday afternoon on the latter's grounds by the score of 4-2. Both Ortlieb and Clinton were effective, the Somerville pitcher being steadier and keeping his opponents' hits further apart than Ortlieb did.

The feature of the game was a long home run swat by Shaw in the fifth inning but as luck would have it, there was no one on base, or the result might have been different. Torpey, the Somerville catcher, was the whole show for his team, backing up Clinton in great style and clouting out four clean hits.

McDonald's work on first base was of the classy order. He accepted fourteen chances without an error. Bollinger had a busy day in the field for Bound Brook eating up four flies that were directed into the right garden.

The score:

DEMOCRATS ARE ACTIVE

Minority Party Talks of Putting an Independent Ticket in the Field.

ARE AFTER THE MAYORALTY.

A. E. Force and Theodore Shirley Mentioned, but Former Says He Would Not Run This Year.

A discussion of probable candidates, the advisability of placing a straight ticket in the field this fall, and other pertinent matters furnished lively topics for consideration at the meeting of the Plainfield Democratic club, in the club rooms at Park and North avenues, last night. LeRoy J. Ellis, president of the club, was in the chair and incidentally took part in the discussion. There were about thirty present.

Among those prominently mentioned for the mayoralty nomination were A. E. Force and Theodore J. Shirley, either one, it was claimed, would make a strong candidate. No definite action was taken, however, regarding the matter. It was learned today that Mr. Force would decline to accept the endorsement of the Democrats for the position if offered him. He said that his business would prevent him from entering the contest at this time.

The question of selecting candidates for ward councilmen was not settled, although it is probable that Robert C. Woodhouse, of East Seventh street, the Second ward, will be the party's nominee for Common Council. No decision was reached regarding the other wards, although several names were mentioned.

Some one suggested that it might be wise to change the name of the club to one that would more fully meet the approbation of the independents, as well as the Democrats. In this connection the plan of placing an independent ticket in the field. One prominent member of the club said today that he thought the wisest plan would be to run an independent ticket, for in this way it would attract Republican votes, as well as those of the Democrats.

The club accepted the invitation of the West End Democratic club to attend its outing at Wayside Park, Dunellen, on Thursday afternoon, when former Assemblyman S. S. Swackhamer and State Senator Geo. Silzer will be among the speakers.

The Democrats did not devote much thought to county or State affairs last night, but felt confident that the party faced an exceptional opportunity for success at the polls this fall and all were enthusiastic over the outlook.

Theodore J. Shirley, when questioned today regarding his candidacy for the mayoralty on the Democratic ticket, said: "I was waited upon yesterday by a committee from the club, but emphatically declined to allow my name to be used. I am too busy to accept such a nomination and will not enter any political contest. I do believe, however, if the party should place an independent ticekt in the field this fall, with A. E. Force for mayor, it would be successful."

MAY LOSE HAND AS RESULT OF ACCIDENT IN LAUNDRY.

Mrs. Blanche Marshall, of Somerset street, employed at the Ideal Steam Laundry, may lose her hand as the result of an accident at the laundry a few days ago, while she was operating a steam mangle there. Her hand was caught in the machine and was crushed to such an extent that it is doubtful whether the physicians can save the hand. About six weeks ago Mrs. Cody, of Bound Brook, also employed at the same laundry, had a similar accident.

While Mrs. Cody's hand was partially saved the physicians were obliged to adopt the skin-grafting process to do so, and even at that Mrs. Cody will have a poor substitute for a hand. It will be some time before either Mrs. Cody or Mrs. Marshall will have the use of their hands, provided the physicians are able to save them.

Four New Electric Lights.

The four electric lights ordered by the Common Council have been installed on West Front street, between Giraud and Grant avenues, and are appreciated by the residents and others who travel over that thoroughfare. The lighs were located under the direction of Street Commissioner A. J. Gavett.

Mrs. L. R. Howard, of Hope chapel, will sing at the Salvation Army tent tonight, and Martin A. Korff will give selections on the violin. An all-soul address will be given. Young men are especialy invited to attend.

MISS JULIA R. STELLE DIES AT BROTHER'S HOME

Miss Julia R. Stelle, daughter of the late Manning Stelle, died last evening after a brief illness at the home of her brother, Randolph M. Stelle, 963 Union street.

Miss Stelle was born in Plainfield in 1839 and always lived here. In childhood she united with the church of her father, First Baptist, where she has ever since maintained her membership. The family to which she belonged has been well known in this community as prosperous, generous and hospitable. The Stelle farm embraced about a hundred acres, extending from Plainfield avenue to Cedar Brook and from West Ninth street easterly to far beyond Randolph road. Their home was a delight to visit, and the old homestead is still standing, where past generations enjoyed many a happy hour.

Miss Stelle had survived all her immediate family—her mother died during infancy, her father some twenty years since; her brother Randolph M. Stelle in 1905, and her only sister, Mrs. Almira F. Randolph, about two years afterwards. Three boys, Randolph, Percy and Howard, sons of her brother, with their mother, Mrs. Clara A. Stelle, will receive the tender sympathy of a wide circle of friends and acquaintances.

Funeral services will be held from her late residence, Thursday evening, at 4 o'clock. Interment will be made in the family plot in Evergreen cemetery.

KICKS WHIFFLETREE; STARTED A RUNAWAY

"Pete," the big horse attached to one of S. Scheuer & Company's delivery wagons, kicked the whiffletree of the wagon with his hind legs while on East Second street yesterday afternoon and became frightened, as it were, at his own shadow. August Comoco, of North avenue, who was delivering a package in a house, climbed in the wagon just as Pete started on his mad chase.

The horse broke all speed records in his dash down the street, and also broke the whiffletree. When the horse turned into Richmond street he took the wagon, flying past trees, for a little joy-ride on the lawn of John Lewis' residence, and then went down the gutter with a crash. But this did not stop the frightened steed, and he made a break for Front street. He turned this corner in Barney Oldfield style and kept on his mad gallop, just missing collisions with several carriages and automobiles until he reached the driveway next to the residence of A. F. Farland, which leads to the Scheuer stable. He did not slacken his speed in the least while making the turn and so crashed into the swing which stood on Mr. Farland's lawn. The horse then ran to the stable and stopped, neighed, and started to eat some hay, which was lying on the floor.

The driver of the wagon was fortunate enough not to be thrown out, but he says that he does not see how he ever managed to hold fast. The swing on the Farland place was completely wrecked.

WOMAN LIVED IN CORNFIELD.

Jersey Farmer Finds Her and a Little Girl Asleep.

The case of a woman found with a 10-year-old girl living in a cornfield with no shelter but a blanket and raincoat is puzzling the Burlington police. Their hiding place was discovered by Edward Marter, who found the tracks of a woman's shoes on his farm and followed them until he came upon the pair, wrapped in the blanket and with suitcases for pillows.

Awakening to find their hiding place discovered, the woman aroused the girl and made for the highway. Not a word would she answer to Marter's questions.

Marter said the woman was of evident refinement and her clothing bespoke former wealth. Before Marter could summon his wife the strange pair had disappeared.

Twilight Social Club.

Social activities will begin in Garwood early in September as the Twilight Social Club of that town will hold its inaugural function on the evening of September 9. This will be a shirtwaist dance and will be held in Becker's hall, North avenue. The committee of arrangements consists of Frank Packer, William G. Wolf and Richard Watt.

Mrs. Anna A. Abbott, of Dunellen, is spending a month in the Pocono mountains.

REPORT ANOTHER THEFT

George Schlarrett Has Watch and Money Stolen While at Work.

EDWARD SEADER IS SUSPECTED.

Lad Disappeared Soon After Robbery and Has Not Come Back—Police Search For Him.

While at work on his own property on Chatham street yesterday afternoon, George Schlarrett, of West Second street, was the victim of a clever robbery. The theft was not discovered for some time after it had been committed and the perpetrator had plenty of time to get away.

Mr. Schlarrett, who owns a considerable amount of property in North Plainfield, including Peter Seader's livery stable, had gone to the latter place to do some repairing. Before starting to work he removed his coat and hung it on a hook in the barn. At 11:30 o'clock he stopped work and started for home. When he put no his coat he found that his fine gold watch and four dollars in cash were missing. He immediately reported the matter to the borough police, and Marshal Keller hurried to the scene.

The marshal learned that Edward Seader, the son of Peter Seader, had suddenly disappeared at 3 o'clock and had not put in an appearance since that time. A careful search for him was made in this city and in the borough but no clue as to his whereabouts could be ascertained. He did not return at night and the police say they are practically certain that he is the thief since there was no other person on the property at the time except Mr. Schlarrett.

Edward Seader who is eighteen years old, has been a mischievous lad all his life, according to the police. He had just been released from the Rahway Reformatory, where he had spent a long term. He has been in the hands of the police of both the borough and city many times during the past few years. These facts strengthen the suspicion held against him.

This makes the fourth robbery that has been committed in the borough during the past two weeks. At only two of them, however, were the thieves successful in obtaining anything of value.

WADE CONFESSES HIS PART IN HOLD-UP ON HIGHWAY

After a long application of the third degree, Frank Wade, of Philadelphia, who is being held in the borough jail under suspicion of being implicated in the hold up of Mr. and Mrs. John Whitwroth, on Saturday night, last, made a complete confession of his part in the affair to acting chief marshal, Charles Kellar, yesterday afternoon.

Wade says that he met Jeroloman on West Front street early Saturday evening and the two planned at that time to hold up someone on Greenbriok road that night. The lrst victims to present themselves who looked prosperous enough to appear to have money were Mr. and Mrs. Whitwroth. Their attempt to extort money was frustrated by the screams of the affrighted woman.

Wade declares that he knows nothing of the whereabouts of his pal and can in no way aid the borough police in their search for the escaped man.

This prisoner will be given a hearing this afternoon at 3 o'clock before Justice of the Peace Thomas H. Snape.

NEARLY KILLED FOR 15 CENTS.

Youths Quarreled Over Small Debt and One Wields a Knife.

With dozens of knife cuts all over his body and his throat cut almost from ear to ear, Robert Fitzgerald is dying in his home at Hopewell. The police are looking for John Smith, also of Hopewell, who, they say, did the cutting.

The police said that Fitzgerald taxed Smith with owing him 15 cents, and that Fitzgerald knocked him down. Smith, the police said, drew a knife and cut the other in the neck, throat, abdomen and back from neck to waist.

When Smith's fury subsided, the police said, he fled and has not been found since.

Miss Day, bookkeeper at Roth & Co.'s market, is enjoying her vacation at Atlantic City, and during her absence her place is filled by Miss Barry.

PROHIBITION LAW FAILS?

Hugh F. Fox's Report Shows Beer Sales Have Increased 25 Per Cent.

SALE OF SPIRITS LARGER.

National Anti-Saloon League Asserts, However, that 41,000,000 People Live in Prohibition Territory.

Despite the prohibition laws of many of the Southern States and the continued anti-liquor agitation the consumption of alcoholic beverages during the last ten years has increased 25 per cent. faster than the total population of the United States, according to reports received Saturday by local brewers. The reports come from the United Brewers' Association.

The statement, which is signed by Hugh F. Fox, of this city, secretary of the association, reads as follows:

'Both the beer sales and the census returns are exceeding the estimates. The preliminary estimate of the total population of the continental United States was 90,000,000, an increase of 18.4 per cent. From present indications it now seems possible that the total may prove to be 93,000,000, which would show show an increase of 22.6 per cent. in the population since the 1900 census was taken.

"The beer sales for the current fiscal year, which ended June 30, were 59,485,117 barrels of thirty-one gallons each, as compared with 39,330,848 in 1900. The beer consumption has therefore increased 51.2 per cent. since 1900, while the population has only increased 22.6 per cent.

"The production of distilled spirits has also increased in a similar manner. The distillers paid the revenue tax on 134,572,010 gallons of spirits during the fiscal year which ended June 30, 1910, as compared with 93,391,827 gallons in 1900, being an increase of 44.9 per cent.

"The large increase in the per capita consumption, both of beer and spirits is especially remarkable when it is recalled that the ten years under observation include the long period of industrial depression between 1907 and 1909, during which time the sales of beer and spirits fell off considerably, although the decrease was less than in most other industries. The beer sales for the past fiscal year, which ended June 30, 1910, show an in crease of 3,181,620 barrels over the previous year, being 5.65 per cent. This is the largest volume of business recorded in any one year in the history of the brewing trade in the United States.

"The general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League asserted in his recent annual report that 41,000,000 of the people in the United States are now living in prohibition territory. With the exception of Maine and Kansas, which have a population of two and a half millions, practically all the alleged prohibition territory has been gained during the last ten years. In this period the consumption of alcoholic beverages has increased about 2 per cent. faster than the total population.

"In the light of these facts it is pertinent to ask who, what and where does prohibition prohibit, and by what practical results can prohibition be justified.

"It is significant to note that in 1909 there were 189,089 retail liquor dealers who paid the special tax of $25 to the Federal government. In 1910 their number was 202,687, an increase of 13,598, or 7.2 per cent. Is this in spite or because of prohibition?"

BIDS FOR STREET WORK

Woodbridge Man Lowest Bidder for Macadamizing Thoroughfares.

THE ACTION IS POSTPONED.

Emerson Avenue Residents Want Sewer Installed at Their Own Expense—Request is Granted.

A special meeting of the Common Council was held last night to receive bids for doing the work, furnishing materials, etc., for macadamizing a dozen city streets. There were four bidders, one of which was the J. T. Shanley Company, of Newark. The other bidders were T. F. Dunigan, of Woodbridge; Mobus & Burke, of this city, and John McNab, of Bound Brook. T. F. Dunigan was the lowest bidder and will probably get the contract.

The streets included among those to be improved are Thornton avenue, West Fourth street, Johnston avenue Jackson avenue Essex street, Putnam avenue, Netherwood avenue, Stebbins Place, South Second street, Central avenue, Prescott place and Randolph road.

Bids were received on several kinds of patent material, including Bermudez road asphalt, which was put in the lowest bid; Pioneer road asphalt, Liquid asphalt, Indian Refining Company; Headley road binder, Standard and Tarvia.

The Newark firm's bid was the highest, Mobus & Burke were second, John McNab third and T. F. Dunigan the lowest. The council had some difficulty in getting a quorum, and it was finally necessary to send an automobile after Councilman W. W. Wilson to make up the required six. The postponement of the meeting would have meant a delay of more than a month in deciding on the road improvements.

A petition was received from residents of Emerson avenue, northwest of George street, asking for permission to install a sewer in that avenue at their own expense under the supervision of the street commission, and upon motion of Councilman Gloak the request was granted. It will involve the city in no expense.

HIS LIFE'S SAVINGS STOLEN.

Shoemaker was About to Sail for Italy when Burglars Came.

On the eve of his departure for Italy, Michael Mazza, a shoemaker, of 306 West Kinney street, Newark, awoke yesterday morning to find that he had been robbed of $1,168, his life's savings.

Mazza found that a rear window had been forced. On the sill was a large knife with the hilt pointing inward. The shoemaker, who is a Sicilian, told the police that the knife was left to inform him that if the money had not been found he would have been killed.

Mazza, who kept the money in a bag in the bottom of a trunk until Sunday, when he and his family attended an Italian feast day celebration and he put the money in his pocket. He told the police it was there when he retired.

SMASHED BIKE WHEEL; SETTLED FOR DAMAGES

While riding his wheel across West Front street at 5 o'clock last evening near the corner of Somerset, Stephen Van Horne, of Summit street, North Plainfield, was thrown from his bicycle by the front wheels of an automobile driven by G. M. Loring, of New York. The rear wheel of Mr. Van Horne's bicycle was smashed and the rider was somewhat shaken up.

In the automobile with Loring, who is a chauffeur for H. F. Alberts, of 615 West 158th street, New York, were Mrs. Alberts, Miss Alberts and W. W. Schoenmaker, the latter living at 56 West 123d street, Manhattan. Loring acknowledged that his machine was not actually under control at the time of the accident, as his attention had been drawn to the other side of the street by some exclamation of one of his passengers. He settled with Mr. Van Horne for the damages to the bicycle, and after giving the necessary information of himself to Patrolman Charles Flynn, was allowed to proceed on his way to New York. The car bore two license numbers 41877, N. J., and 43181, N. Y.

It was reported today that Mr. Van Horne was suffering more than was expected immediately after the accident yesterday. It is believed that his head was injured by the impact with the roadway when he was thrown from his wheel. Mr. Van Horne passed a very unquiet night, suffering much pain from the bruises occasioned by his fall. He was attended by Dr. John H Carman

SCHNEIDER DIDN'T FOOL LAWYER STUTSMAN

An alleged attempt to evade the order of the court was discovered yesterday afternoon, involving Isaac Schneider, of 109 Madison avenue. The discovery was made by Martin B. Stutsman, counsel for M. Becker & Son, and prompt action prevented the evasion.

On August 11 a judgment for $34.38 was given in the district court in favor of the Becker concern and on August 18, execution was issued against Schneider.

Yesterday afternoon, it is alleged Schneider attempted to remove his goods from the store occupied by him on Madison avenue to a new address on Somerset street, in the borough. Some time during the afternoon it was discovered that the debtor had locked his front door and was on the point of removing his goods from the rear door of his store in an endeavor to skip without paying the judgment. Mr. Stutsman said this morning that Schneider had offered last yesterday to settle the case for $31 in cash, but as this was not satisfactory to his client he refused to accept the tender of the money.

In order to prevent Schneider getting away with the scheme which was alleged to be to escape to another county, Mr. Stutsman took with him two padlocks with which he secured the doors of the building in which Schneider does business and besides established John Manley, the court constable, in charge of the visible effects of Schneider.

In the meantime unless Schneider comes forward with the necessary money to discharge his debt the official notice, which means the sale of the stock of the store to satisfy the creditors, will put in effect.

Promised to be Good.

After a talk had by City Judge William N. Runyon with the parents of John Konesky, the young fellow who was arrested for vagrancy on Friday night last, the young man will be received in his home instead of being allowed to become a tramp. Judge Runyon told the boy this morning that all that was needed to make matters satisfacory for all concerned was that he should secure employment and in future behave himself. This, Konesky promised to do and he was allowed to go.

Kiederling Goes Free.

James Kiederling, the youth who was implicated in the alleged assault on Motorman Fred Skillman on the night of April 28 last and who gave himself up to the police yesterday, was allowed to go on his own recognizance this morning by City Judge William N. Runyon.

RUNYON GETS OVATION

Popular Republican Candidate for Congressional Nomination at Dover.

DELIVERS THE CHIEF ADDRESS.

Judge W. N. Runyon a Guest of Honor at a Home Week Celebration Held in Morris County.

Beyond the fondest expectations of his personal and political friends who had made the trip to Dover with him, Judge William N. Runyon, who is making a brilliant campaign for the Republican congressional nomination, received an ovation at the Old Home Week celebration in that town, yesterday, that added interest to the battle. Accepting the invitation of the Dover Home Week committee, the popular judge was early on the ground and from then on until he was forced to keep other engagements, he was lionized by the people of Dover and surrounding country who had gathered for the occasion.

The chief advent in the morning was a civic parade and Mr. Runyon acted as one of the judges, the others being Mayor Mulligan, of Dover; Mayor Oram, of Wharton; Mayor Mitcheler, of Rockaway, and Mayor opp, of Boonton. At the dinner given early in the afternoon to the invited guests and he Dover officials, the judge spoke briefly. It was the judge's privilege to deliver the historical address at the exercises held at the fair grounds at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Then, as at the dinner, he naturally made no reference to politics, confining himself to an interesting narrative of Dover's history and its importance as a community. There were fully 4,000 people in the audience and the applause when the Plainfielder was introduced was both sincere and prolonged. When he had finished, the handshaking began and it was some time before he could get away to continue his campaign in Morris.

Several thousand people last night awaited the electrical display when a half mile of the main thoroughfare was suddenly transformed into daylight by thousands of lights stretched on arches and points across the street. A minute after the brilliancy was added to by the thousands of glaring lighs arranged artistically on the business houses. Each seemed to have rivalled with the other for the best effec.

The most elaborate display was shown by the Dover Electric Light Company, whose large plant was bedecked from foundation to the top of its 150 foot stack, which was a mass of elecric splendor and on the top of which was a searchlight with its rays directed upon an immense flag suspended over the building.

McAdoo proposes that the stairway already built in Grove street be thrown open on September 6, and that so long as the company charges only a five cent fare, the public be permitted to use this stairway, and if the company shall charge more than five cents at this station, the city shall have the right to close up the stairway.

My Corns Don't Hurt A Bit

Tired, Aching, Swollen, Smelly, Sweaty Feet, Corns, Callouses and Bunions, TIZ Cures Right Off.

Say good-bye to your corns the very first time you use T I Z. You will never know you have a corn, bunion or callous, or sweaty, tired, swollen, aching feet any more. It's just wonderful the way the pain vanishes. Rub the corn—hammer it with your fist if you wish—no more pain after T I Z than if there had never been a blemish on your feet. Doesn't that sound good to you? Doesn't it? Then read this.

"The corn on either of my toes were as large as the tablets you make to cure them. To-day there is no sign of corns on either foot and no soreness. It's an up-to-date Godsend.—Sam. A. Hoover, Press, N. C.

Just use T I Z. It's not like anything else for the purpose you ever heard of. It's the only foot remedy ever made which acts on the principle of drawing out all the poisonous exudations which cause sore feet. Powders and other remedies merely clog up the pores. T I Z cleans them out and keeps them clean. It works right off. You will feel better the very first time it's used. Use it a week and you can forget you ever had sore feet. There is nothing on earth that can compare with it. T I Z is for sale at all druggists, 25 cents per box, or direct, if you wish, from Walter Luther Dodge & Co., Chicago, Ill

Sunday afternoon, near Prospect street, two machines passed so close that the side fenders of both machines were knocked from them. None of the passengers was injured. The sharp turns and high bushes by the roadside make speeding on the road dangerous.

AMONG OUR NEIGHBORS

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

Many of the boroughites and also many of the residents of New Market were greatly alarmed Sunday afternoon when the report spread around that William Jeroloman, who had escaped from the officers when arrested for attempted highway robbery, in North Plainfield, was hiding in the swamp near New Market. Three members of the North Plainfield police force came to the swamp and made a thorough investigation of the ground in that vicinity but found no trace of their escaped prisoner. It is thought that Jeroloman waited until nightfall and then jumped a coal train on the Lehigh Valley Railroad and made good his escape. Jeroloman's pal in the affair, Frank Wade, of Philadelphia, is being held in the North Plainfield jail.

Two Dunellen teams played an exciting game on the Madison avenue grounds Sunday morning and the score at the end of the contest was 13-12 in favor of Pernell's nine. Throughout the nine innings the game was a hair-raiser, the climax being reached when Curl clouted out a home run. O'Brien's work with the stick and his speedy playing in the field were other features of the game. McFadden struck out seven batsmen and Miller compelled six to fan the air.

The teams lined up as follows: O'Brien's team: Miller, p.; O'Brien, c.; Mourie, 2b.; Hand, ss.; Pivquet, rf.; Deal, 1b.; Rushy, 3b.; Stites, lf.; Pernell's team: McFadden, p.; Pernell, c.; McGovern, 1b.; Gray, 2b.; O'Leary, ss.; Curl, 3b.; Haver, lf.; Hannon, cf.; Wyckoff, rf.

Harry Giddes, the crack shortstop of the borough baseball team, is taking his second week of his vacation this week. He is spending the time at the Hotel Arctic in Asbury Park.

Miss Pearl Dodwell, of North avenue, and Miss Eva Schneider, of Front street, have returned from their vacations in Asbury Park.

Benjamin A. Cole, Jr., of Washington avenue, started yesterday for a two weeks' vacation in Asbury Park.

Miss Eleanor Dodwell has gone to Little Falls for a week's visit. She will return to the borough on Saturday.

William Piddington, of New Market, left for Asbury Park yesterday, where he will spend his vacation.

Edgar Starker, of North avenue, went to Asbury Park yesterday for his two weeks' vacation.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Phil Smith, Robert Morrison and Henry Meeker, who have been camping at Sterling Forest, Greenwood lake, have returned and tell many amusing incidents of their two weeks' life in the woods. A few days before breaking camp, a few supplies were needed, and as their funds were getting low, it required a little financiering to get the most for their money. After a list had been made out, one of the party was dispatched to buy the necessary food. After the purchases had been made a brisk wind arose but nothing daunted, he started to face it. Scarcely had he gone two miles when the canoe capsized, and the provisions were flying in every direction. It was with difficulty that the canoe was righted and when nearing camp he became almost exhausted and was loathe to enter camp knowing what was in store for him, returning without something good to eat. But when the boys learned of his accident and saw his sorry plight, they said little, and started another out, who returned with better success.

More boats have been seen upon the lake this year than ever before, due to the many canoes one can hire at a moderate price. Some of the old town canoes hold as many as five persons.

Guion Fountain is building a house on Plainfield avenue for his uncle. He has a number of beautiful bungalow sites.

Mr. Lawrence was seen upon the lake yesterday sailing his trim little craft, the "Dorothy."

Miss Emma Manning entertained friends from Northern New Jersey over Sunday.

Mrs. W. E. Smith visited friends at Warrenville yesterday.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

James Carrona, who has been laid up for a week with a sore foot which threatened blood poisoning, returned yesterday to his position with the Aeloian Co., at Garwood.

Mrs. John Alberts, of Westfield avenue, has returned from a two weeks' visit with relatives and friends at Astoria, and Far Rockaway, L. I.

Thomas Sellers and Albert MacCauley have returned from a fishing trip to Passaic river. The day's sport netted eight fine bass.

Games Today.

Newark at Toronto.
Jersey City at Buffalo.
Baltimore at Rochester.
Providence at Montreal.

Well, double-headers are a success, all right.

And the biggest crowd of the season, too.

And two of the best games of the season, at that.

From the way things started off, it looked as though the Newark Y. M. C. A. team was going to cop that first game. But Frederickson was there before the Newarkers could do any damage.

Nelson showed that he can come back just like the old vets. That two-base slam of his in the eighth inning came just in the time of need and so Jack scored.

But you've still got to count on Old Brit on second base. The way he pulled that fly back of second base, which looked like a sure hit for Ramsberger, was caution in the least. And he did it with his bare paw, at that.

We fear that Jimmie's smile is wearing off. Perhaps the anxiety of this game prevented the pretty dimples from appearing.

"Cliff" Randolph, the old star pitcher of the Plainfield team, is certainly making good in league ball. A Rhode Island paper says that the Providence team of the Eastern league has given $1,500 to the Troy, New York State league, team for the former Plainfielder. Cliff was purchased by the Troy club from Binghamton early in the season.

The fans at Saturday's game were quick to realize the bit of heroic work which a lady performed in the grand-stand. She bravely caught a swiftly moving foul ball which was going in a straight line for the head of one of her children that were sitting beside her in the uncovered stand. A deafening round of applause followed her brave achievement.

And now the I. O. R. M. have caught the baseball fever. The Red Men say that they are going to play heap ball and then some.

In a little while we'll have a lodge league (pretty alliteration—is it not?) in this city.

What was the matter with Hervey Marsh's playing in that game Saturday? Well, you can't find it if there was any. The clever second baseman covered his territory in the greatest sort of style and gobbled up chances that looked surely good for hits.

Keep your optics pealed on that Nonemaker, the Dunellen left-fielder. The boy plays the game with lots of ginger and snap, and will get there at his present rate of speed. He made two classy catches in that game Saturday and did some good throwing.

"Red" Alberts, the manager of the Scotch Plains team appeared in the Bound Brook line-up Saturday afternoon. Red didn't get much of a show in the game, for only one chance came his way, and he accepted that one without any trouble at all. He helped matters along in the hitting department by clouting out a neat single.

To look at the strike-out record by Montross in the Plainfield game, you would not think that he had the local batters fooled at all, but look at the Plainfield hit column and see the four bingles only. Somehow or other Doerflinger's Cubs couldn't conect with the Montross shoots for any more than at hit to one of the infielders or something like that.

UGH! INJUN BRAVES TO PLAY HEAP BALL.

Miantonomo Tribe, No. 118, I. O. R. M., expects soon to issue challenges to all fraternal orders who have ball clubs. Manager V. W. Nashr, Jr., is out securing engagements and by the time the season closes he expects to have a number of pale face scalps to adorn their wigwam as trophies. Greater things are also expected from the degree team under the captainship of Peter Sheridan, who succeeds Charles L. Holstein, who resigned. The latter has been captain for twelve years and has worked hard to make it one of the best degree teams in the State. There will be a few changes made and when they resume their work on the first Wednesday in next month, there will be several pale faces who are to take the adoption degree, that will witness some grand work by the members of the team. There will be rehearsals tomorrow and Wednesday, Aug. 31.

POLITICAL TALK.

Former Governor E. C. Stokes, on Saturday filed with the Secretary of State, a petition which will result in his name being placed as a candidate for United States Senator upon eleven Republican primary tickets throughout the State. His petition was filed under a recent law, which permits the voters of a political party to express their preference for United States Senator. Governor Stokes' petition consists of 1,100 names. It is necessary for a petition to contain 1,000 names. Former Governor Franklin Murphy and Congressman Charles N. Fowler, both of whom have also indicated their intention to file similar petitions, have not yet done so. Next Wednesday is the last day for the filing of these petitions. The primary election will be held on September 13.

George M. LaMont, Jr., of Bound Brook, president of the LaMont Paper Company, of New York, has announced himself as a candidate for the Assembly from Somerset county on the Democratic ticket. His petition will be filed tomorrow.

While motoring through Morris county, a few days ago, former Judge William A. Coddington chanced to spy a crowd of Republicans enjoying a clambake at Hurdtown. As he slowed up his machine he was greeted by enthusiastic applause.

"Three cheers for Judge Runyon, our next Congressman," shouted a venerable gentleman, and three hearty rounds of cheers was given by those assembled. Then the former judge was surrounded and before he could make his identity known, every one in the crowd wanted to pledge his support to Judge Runyon.

In Clarion tones Mr. Coddington begged the indulgence of the crowd to inform them that it was a case of mistaken identity.

"I am not Judge Runyon, but it does my heart good to see how you men consider him. As the late David B. Hill once observed, 'I'm a Democrat.' The treat was on the crowd, and the former judge was given time before he was allowed to depart.

Frank Weed has been mentioned as a candidate for Common Council from the Fourth ward. This isn't a joke.

The Middlesex county Republicans have determined to put into the field a strong combination against against their opponents for the coming election to the assembly and petitions have been filed by the following men: R. P. F. Von Minden, of New Market; J. T. Ten Broek, of Highland Park. They claim an enthusiastic endorsement for Benjamin F. Howell, of Middlesex, for Congressman.

There is a hot fight in the Democratic, as well as the Republican, camp in Somerset county for the shievalty. The Republican candidates are Charles P. Sebring, of North Plainfield, who received the endorsement of the county committee and who seems to be the logical candidate; Robert Kay, of Bernards; Joseph Fitzga, of Somerville, and Bogart Conklin, also of Somerville. The Democratic candidates are Mobus, of North Plainfield; McNab, of Bound Brook, and Hamilton, of Franklin.

The North Plainfield Republicans will meet Thursday night this week to fix up their local slate. It is reported that L. B. Woolston and George T. Rogers will be renominated for council. George B. Brown has filed his petition as a candidate to succeed himself as collector. His Democratic opponent, it is said, will be Harry Cooke. B. R. Waldron is a candidate for the Republican nomination for freeholder.

MATCHES AT SEA GIRT

A Shooting Tourney at New Jersey's Fine Ranges is Arranged.

TO CONTEST FOR TROPHIES.

Crack Shots of Many States to Compete in the Contests to Take Place Next Month:

Military men are now anticipating with a great deal of interest the annual shooting contests that are to begin at Sea Girt on the State ranges on the morning of September 1 and continue until the evening of the 10th. The indications are that it will be one of the largest shoots that has ever been played out on the New Jersey ranges, for the entries are coming in at a lively rate, and there promises to be present about all the crack shots from the District of Columbia, Maryland, Delaware, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York, Connecticut and Massachusetts.

The trophies and cups, as well as the cash stakes, that are to be competed for this year are of sufficient attraction to draw many of the top-notchers in the shooting game in the regular army and navy, as well as the members of the national guard of all the States along the Atlantic seaboard.

General Bird W. Spencer, who is the executive officer of the fine ranges at Sea Girt, has practically finished all the arrangements for the ten days' shooting, and all that is needed to make the affair a conspicuous success is to have a fair proportion of the days sufficiently free from rain and high winds to give the marksmen a fair show when before the targets at the different distance marks. Nothing interferes so greatly with satisfactory work as high gales, and when these come over the ranges from the Atlantic high scores are well nigh impossible upon the part of the marksmen.

One of the matches that will be carried out this year is that for the Nevada trophy. This contest has been arranged for by the Association of American International Riflemen, in whose custody the valuable trophy is at this time. The contest is open for the members of the State militia of the States and Territories of the union, as well as the District of Columbia, and, also, to the men and officers of the army, navy and marine corps. The trophy is made of gold and silver, and was donated by the citizens of Nevada some years ago. The winner is not allowed to take the trophy from the clubhouse until he gives a bond of $500 for its safe return. There is always the greatest interest in the disposition of this trophy.

Another match which this year promises to call forth strenuous competition is that between the regimental teams of the different States, for the handsome Briggs trophy, donated by the junior Senator from this State. The regular army, navy and marine corps are also allowed to contest for this valuable prize.

Last season it was won by the team representing the First regiment of the national guard of the District of Columbia, and the gossip at Sea Girt is that the Washingtonians will make a great struggle to retain the Briggs trophy this year, also.

Possibly the premier events of the entire shoot is that for the Dryden trophy, and which is also open for all the branches of the regular service of the United States, as well as all the States in the national guard. This is shot for at the 200, 600 and 1,000-yard ranges, and is always attractive to a large gallery of spectators. The committee on schedule has listed this great contest for the next to the final day of the shoot, it occurring on Friday, the 9th.

The New Jersey team has been practicing very consistently to bring back the Dryden cup to this State, it having been lifted in 1907 by the United States cavalry from New Jersey, who captured it in 1906. In 1908 it was captured by the United States marine corps, while last year it was carried west by the team which represented the State of Ohio.

Other attractive matches which will be shot off during the ten days of the great contest will be the Columbia Trophy match, the Keystone Long Range match, the Swiss Trophy match, the Spencer match, the Governor's Cup match, the McAlpin match, the Pennsylvania match and the Thurston match.

Reservations are already being made at the Sea Girt hotels—the Beach house, the Tremont hotel and the Parker house—and the outlook is that there will be a large following of friends of the men and officers participating during the entire contest, for it has been noticeable in past years that the women of the regiments and the regular branches of the national service are always keenly interested in the fortunes of the men who are on the ranges.

The first arrivals are expected at Sea Girt early next week for the purpose of practice, and by the latter part of the week there will be much excitement, as the teams arrive and are assigned their quarters and draw their lots for position.

EAGLE CONVENTION TO SEE A HOT FIGHT

With the arrival yesterday of a majority of the delegates to the Grand Aerie of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, now in session at St. Louis, Mo., the political battle became strenuous. The Bell-Herring and the Grady factions drew lines and entered the contest with vim. The personal popularity of Vice-Presdient Thomas F. Grady, the New York Senator, according to gossip around the Plainters' Hotel headquarters, is so strong that an attempt to prevent his succession as grand worthy president will result in defeat, and the Bell-Herring forces are believed to be planning to make the fight for the vice-presidency should the attempt to change the clause of the constitution making the automatic succession to the presidency of the vice-president prove abortive. The test of strength will come today, when the graft charges are brought up by the report of the grievance and appeals committee and the supplementary report of President Frank E. Herring.

The Grady faction predict that the plan of the Bell-Herring faction is to change the constitution and then attempt to stampede the convention for Herring for re-election.

"My attitude toward any man in the convention depends entirely on his attitude toward the policies that this administration has worked so hard to bring into effect and also on his ability and capacity for the continuance of these policies," said Herring today.

John A. Cline, of Cincinnati, is the Grady faction candidate for the vice-presidency against John S. Parry, of San Francisco, political lieutenant of Theodore E. Bell also of San Francisco Democratic nominee for Governor of California, who arrived today, and who is the power behind the Herring faction.

Bell yesterday refused to discuss the political situation in the order.

Fully 25,000 visitors are said to be in St. Louis.

AFTER FORMER OFFICIALS.

The Middlesex Board of Freeholders yesterday afternoon at New Brunswick adopted a resolution to institute proceedings against former County Collector H. Raymond Groves and former County Engineer Morgan F. Larson, of Perth Amboy, for the recovery of money paid for telephne calls on phones in their offices; and also against Mr. Larson for an engineer's transit purchased by the county, which he retained when giving up the office. The men claim that they have a good defense to the action and will fight it.

The freeholders also appointed Director Peter H. Hendricks, Andrew J. Gebhardt and Andrew Ely a committee to receive bids for the erection of a new county office building.

STATE DETECTIVES NAMED.

Governor Fort yesterday appointed Jacob C. Dunn, of Hackensack; George A. Hoffman, Passaic; Rowland C. Bowne, Trenton, and John C. Smith, Camden, as State detectives. The appointments are made under the State laws and give the appointees full police power over the State. The men appointed are members of the State Detective Bureau whose headquarters are in Newark. As a rule all appointees as State detectives are men actually engaged in police business or are detectives of the various railroads.

HERE AND THERE.

The New York Sun on Sunday published an interesting article concerning the famous trotter, "Goldsmith Maid," and Manning Vermeule, one of the early residents of this city, showing how the latter played an interesting part in a horse trade with John B. Decker, of Deckertown. In this connection the writer recalls how Mr. Vermeule used to travel through Orange and Sussex counties in the early '50s, peddling odds and ends and always on the lookout for a chance to swap horses, one or more of which he invariably had in tow of his wagon.

According to the story, Mr. Vermeule drove over to John B. Decker's home near Deckertown, one day, with a colt, trying to make a deal. He told Mr. Decker that the colt was by Abdallah mare, out of which was born the horse known as Goldsmith Maid. It was bought by a man named Goldsmith, who gave the animal his name. After winning a fortune with her he sold her for $20,000. Then Hank Smith bough her for $40,000. After winning $350,000 and holding the record for twelve years she died, aged twenty-one years.

A boy with a toy trumpet upset the tranquility of Schoneberg, a suburb of Berlin the other day and at the same time committed an act of lese majeste which is occupying the serious attention of the police.

When the German Emperor or members of his family go about in automobiles they do not depend upon the honk-honk of the common motor horn to clear a passage for them through the streets. Instead a trumpeter is seated alongside the driver, and the sound of his bugle blast is familiar enough to bring traffic to an immediate halt to allow the royal car to pass, while the populace crowd the sidewalks to get a glimpse of the royal personage.

The boy in question was playing on a toy trumpet on a second floor balcony. The royal bugle blast had become familiar to him, and without considering the consequences he sounded it upon his trumpet with such fidelity that the street below was instantly in a state of commotion. The sidewalks were lined with loyal subjects anxious to salute the imperial automobile. A Lieutenant in full uniform who was crossing the street clicked his heels and sprang stiffy to attention in the middle of the road.

Three minutes passed but no car appeared. The boy then brought about his own undoing by repeating the blast, thus revealing the source of the signal.

After a moment of horrified astonishment at the boy's presumption, the officer hurried around the corner for a policeman. Returning with one, he indicated the house and in sharp tones of command ordered the policeman to do his duty. The policeman saluted, hastened up stairs and confiscated the trumpet. The boy's parents are now anxiously awaiting the legal consequences.

A new means of detecting forgery is promised by Dr. Lindsay Johnson, a London ophthalmic surgein and author of many scientific works, who has just elaborated a new theory with regard to individuality in writing.

He maintains that in certain diseases a person's pulse beats are individual, and that no one suffering from any such diseases can control even for a brief space of time the frequency or peculiar irregularities of his heart's action, as shown by a chart recording his pulsation. Such a chart is obtained for medical purposes by means of a sphygmograph, an instrument fitted to the patient's wrist and supplied with a needle which automatically records on a prepared sheet of paper the peculiar force and frequency of the pulsation.

Dr. Lindsay Johnson holds the opinion that the pen in the hand of a writer serves in a modified degree the same end as the sphygmograph, and that in a person's handwriting one can see by projecting the letters, greatly magnified one a screen the scarcely perceptible turns and quivers made in the lines by the spontaneous action of that person's peculiar pulsation.

To prove this the doctor carried out an experiment at Charing Cross Hospital. At his request a number of patients suffering from heart and kidney diseases wrote the Lord's Prayer in their ordinary handwriting. The different manuscripts were then taken and examined microscopically. By throwing them, highly magnified, on a screen, the jerks or involuntary motions due to the patient's peculiar pulsations were distinctly visible.

The handwriting of persons in normal health, says Dr. Lindsay Johnson, does not always show their pulse beats. What one can say, however, is that when a document, purporting to be written by a certain person contains traces of pulse beats and the normal handwriting of that person does not show them, then clearly the document is a forgery.

Regular church services, with the pastor, Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring, in charge, will be resumed at the First Presbyterian church, Sunday, September 11.

KITTERY POINT ELMS.

Each of the Giant Shade Trees Cost a Pint of Rum.

One of the most striking attractions of the old town of Kittery Point has long been her towering elms. They rise magnificently above trees of all other varieties, and in summer with their foliage encompass her quaint streets in delicious green coolness, transform the fine old place into a veritable seashore fairyland and last, but not least, enrapture the summer visitor.

For nearly two miles along the highway, which for the most part follows the shore of the harbor, these splendid specimens rear themselves at fairly regular intervals, though the ax has in times past brought some of the monarchs crashing to the earth.

The story of the circumstances attending the planting of the giants, as it has been handed down from father to son, runs as follows: "Major Thomas Cutts, one of the old town fathers, who conducted a fishing business, foreign commerce, a store and a tavern in the famous Pepperell mansion (built 1662), conceived the very commendable idea of beautifying his native town by setting out trees.

"Accordingly in 1791 he gave one Samuel Blake the contract. Samuel's remuneration was nothing more or less than a pint of rum, doubtless brought from the West Indies by one of the major's pinkies, for each tree planted. There were originally ninety of them, and they extended from the Seavey lot, near where the First Christian church now stands, to the 'top of the Point' or the shore of Spruce creek."—Kennebec Journal.

THE SPIDER'S THREAD.

Its Use by Astronomers In Their Study of the Stars.

The threads of the garden spider are fixed by astronomers in their telescopes for the purpose of giving fine lines to the field of view by which the relative positions of stars may be accurately measured.

For a century astronomers desired to make use of such lines of the greatest possible fineness and procured at first silver wire drawn out to the extreme limit of tenuity attainable with that metal. They also tried hairs one five-hundredth of an inch thick and threads of the silkworm's cocoon, which are split into two component threads, each only one two-thousandth of an inch thick. But in 1820 an English instrument maker named Troughton introduced the spider's line. This can be readily obtained a fourth of the thickness of the silkworm's thread and has also advantages in its strength and freedom from twist.

In order to obtain the thread the spider is carefully fixed on a miniature rack, and the thread, which at the moment of issue from the body is a viscid liquid, is made to adhere to a winder, by turning which the desired length of firm but elastic thread can be procured.—London Graphic.

Henley's Sufferings.

In fifty-four years of his life—he was born in 1849—W. E. Henley never knew what a day's perfect health meant. When little more than a boy he was attacked by a disease which necessitated the amputation of one foot. He was told later by the doctors that the sacrifice of the other leg was necessary were he to live. The fame of Dr. Lister had reached Henley, and, penniless and almost friendless, he determined to try Edinburgh infirmary. Thither he traveled third class in physical suffering such as few have known, and when he reached the infirmary his whole possessions amounted to a few shillings. His confidence in Lister was justified, and his leg was saved. He was and remained a cripple, but neither hopeless nor helpless. His astounding nimbleness under these conditions suggested to Robert Louis Stevenson the physical sketch of John Silver.

A Hard One.

"The self made man is splendid," said Andrew Carnegie at a dinner in Washington, "if he makes himself a mental and spiritual no less than a financial success. Too many self made men neglect the intellectual side. This sometimes—at commencements, for example—puts them at a disadvantage. I know a self made man who said at a commencement to his nephew:

"'Well, Tommy, my son, what do they teach you here?'

"'Latin and Greek,' the boy replied, 'and German and algebra.'

"'Dear me!' cried the self made man. 'And what's the algebra for turnip?'"—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The Difference.

"What do you regard as the chief difference between a theorist and a practical man?"

"A theorist," replied Senator Sorghum, "studies out how a thing ought to be done, and the other fellow makes up his mind how it can be done."—Washington Star.

Vacation Clearance

We emphasize this vacation clearance sale. Not that we are trying to rid our shelves of unseasonable goods, for now is the time to wear these; not because they are undesirable, for we never had any shoes but the right kind. However, it is nearing the end of the season, and in order to retain our position of always being able to offer you something new, we have put a price on our remaining stock to clear our shelves for new goods. If you will come in and look them over, you will find something to interest you, and prices that will appeal to you as much as the shoes.

SIRES AND SONS.

Perez y Galdos has been elected a Republican deputy to the cortes of Spain. The novelist has strong political convictions.

Dr. Edward J. Biedermann, organist of St. Mary's church in New York, celebrated his fiftieth anniversary as an organist and twenty-fifth as organist of that church.

Charles Dyer Norton, who was taken from his post as assistant secretary of the treasury to become President Taft's private secretary, comes of old New England stock, his mother being a descendant of Roger Williams, the founder of the Rhode Island colony.

Of the ninety-two United States senators but nine have mothers living. These fortunate senators are Flint of California, Beveridge of Indiana, Owen and Gore of Oklahoma, Nelson and Clapp of Minnesota, Kean of New Jersey, Dick of Ohio and Smith of Michigan.

Harvard's oldest three living graduates, according to the new university directory, are the Rev. James I. T. Coolidge of Cambridge, Mass.; the Rev. Edward A. Renouf of Keene, N. H., and Dr. James L. Welington of Swansea, Mass., all members of the class of 1832. The oldest of the three, Mr. Coolidge, is ninety-three and expects to see 100.

Lord Colebrooke is selling his estates of about 50,000 acres on the southern borders of Scotland. He now owns four villages—Abingdon, Crawfordjohn, Elvanfoot and Crawford. Therein are included Glengonnar House and Gilkerscleugh House, with appurtenant grouse moors. The Clyde intersects the estate, and there are fourteen miles of railroad through it.

Ocean Liners.

Steamship working hours are four on and eight off to the end of the voyage.

The Cunarders serve broken bits of butterscotch candy along with the afternoon tea aboard ship.

An 11,000 ton ship running fifteen miles an hour will consume 150 tons of coal per day. A 30,000 ton ship going thirty miles per hour will use up 1,100 tons.

Travelers at sea like to talk of the steadiness of ships—other than the one they are on board of—and to give remarkable examples of freedom from shake and sickness. One fact remains—when the sea kicks up, the voyagers on any craft, however large, soon learn that they are not navigating on a billiard table.—New York World.

The Royal Box.

Princess Juliana, heiress to the throne of Holland, is now well started on her second year of life with good health and a strong resemblance to her father.

The sultan of Zanzibar was educated at Harrow and Oxford. He is an adept at football, tennis and rackets and is a yachtsman, an enthusiastic motorist and an excellent shot.

One of the favorite nieces of his late majesty King Edward was the Princess Alexandra. She is the wife of King George's brother-in-law and is a most cultured woman, being very fond of literature and music.

Pen, Chisel and Brush.

It is related of Hall Caine, the novelist, that he once worked in the Laxey lead mines in the Manx mountains in place of a young man who was ill to keep the young fellow's position for him.

Miss Elizabeth Nourse, a Cincinnati artist, has sold her painting, "The Closed Shutters," to the Luxembourg gallery, and ten years after her death it will take its place among the canvases in the Louvre.

James Earle Fraser, the sculptor, whose studio is down in the artists' colony of MacDougal alley, New York, was a protege of Saint-Gaudens. He was born in Winona, Minn., in 1876, lived in the west for many years, and his work is reflective of the open prairie.

Rise of Stage Stars.

Billie Burke began as a chorus girl in London.

Elsie Ferguson made her bow as a chorus girl.

Maude Adams began as a child and for years played small parts, gradually working up to leads.

No man has yet discovered the means of giving successfully friendly advice to women.—Balzac.

Women see through and through each other, and often we most admire her whom they most scorn.—Buxton.

Women know by nature how to disguise their emotions far better than the most consummate male courtier can disguise his.—Thackeray.

Amending the Game Laws.

A wild stab of sound made the helpless airwaves shudder.

"Great guns, what's that!" cried the man across the way.

"That," replied his wife, "is our neighbor, Miss Screech, singing at the open window."

The man scowled darkly.

"There should be no open season for windows in the Screech family," he grimly declared.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The True Vision.

Peace, modest lady, 'tis too much
That in and out of season
You put my loving to the touch
And test of icy reason.
Why urge that much I see is due
To "auto necromancy;"
That only part of you is you,
The rest my foolish fancy?

Peace, gentle lady. Why protest
That love hath dulled my vision?
Can you believe that vision best
That boasts a cold precision?
Oh, rather bless my truer eye,
Whatever flaws it can't see,
That knows your sweet reality,
Yet holds you still my fancy!
—Catholic Standard and Times.

A Wise Precaution.

The day before she was to be married the old negro servant came to her mistress and intrusted her savings in her keeping. "Why should I keep it? I thought you were going to get married," said her mistress.

"So I is, missus, but do you s'pose I'd keep all dis money in the house wid that strange nigger?" — Success Magazine.

Another.

[With the conventional obeisances.]
She cannot sprint, she cannot spurt,
The woman with the hobble skirt,
A style concocted in a rage
By one who pied the fashion page,
A style that surely should be canned,
That spoils the fairest in the land;
A style that hath nor grace nor use,
Looks like the mischief and the deuce.
At crimes like that who'd be inert,
O woman with the hobble skirt?
—New York Mail.

The Right Size.

Customer—My wife told me to stop in and buy her a bathing suit. What are your prices and sizes?

Dealer—We have a very nice one here that I'm sure she will like. A fifty dollar bill will just cover it.

Customer—That is just about the size she wants. How much is it?—Judge.

Pyrotechnics.

Who rambles home at four a. m.
And tells his wife, "My dear,
I tried to see the comet, but
It failed, love, to appear."
If that she raps him o'er the head
Because he smells of bars

THE FORUM.

Editor The Daily Press:

A notice with regard to the meeting of the supporters of Congressman Fowler on Friday gives me an opportunity to ask you to publish a definite statement of the position taken by a number of Plainfield citizens with regard to the present Congressional campaign. The question at issue seems to us to be far removed from personal friendship for either of the two candidates. In fact, I believe that there are many people among Mr. Fowler's supporters who are personally more friendly to Mr. Runyon. But the issue to be determined by the choice of the voters at the Republican primary is not whether Mr. Fowler or Mr. Runyon is the more congenial companion but whether the welfare of the United States of America will be better served by the return of Mr. Fowler or Mr. Runyon. To determine that issue it is necessary to consider the fitness of each candidate and the platform upon which each solicits the support of Republican voters.

Without the slightest disparagement of Mr. Runyon's ability, it will be generally recognized that by his long membership in the House, Mr. Fowler is the more capable of representing his constituency in Congress from the point of view of training and experience. More than that, Mr. Fowler is known throughout the country particularly for his work along the line of a reform of our currency. No single feature of our Governmental activity is of more importance to the country at large than this question. It is accepted by all parties as a matter that must be determined in the near future. An effort in this direction was made during the last Congress, but the law then enacted is at most only a step in the line of reform and must be followed by a law of broader scope and of more positive character.

Two general ideas have been suggested for this reform, one,—to authorize a central bank for the issue of currency; the other,— that advocated by Mr. Fowler, to authorize a revision of our monetary system by which the control of the issue of currency shall be placed in the hands of the banks of the country at large, each bank being represented in a district organization and each district organization being represented in a Board of Control.

The "special interests" known throughout the country under the generic title of "Wall Street" support the programme of a central bank and earnestly desire the defeat of Mr. Fowler. Associations of both New York and country bankers, manufacturers, and merchants generally, throughout the United States, desire the adoption of the second programme and advocate the election of Mr. Fowler. The issue, then, is national, not local. It involves our public duty toward the nation as a whole, and not our private relations with two individuals. We are to determine whether we are called upon to vote for the personal friend or the man in charge of a great nation-wide campaign for the improvement of the most essential feature in commercial affairs.

It seems to us who now support Mr. Fowler that to state the problem indicates the only possible course of action,—we are required to subordinate our personal friendships to our public duty.

There are additional reasons, we believe, why Mr. Fowler should receive our support. He was one of the first advocates of the tariff commission and is an earest supporter of President Taft's ideas toward that end. He is an out and out opponent of Cannonism and all that is represented by that word. He has announced his refusal to vote for Mr. Cannon for Speaker and he made this announcement long before Cannon removed him from the Committee on Banking and Currency, so that his attitude cannot be truthfully described as one of revenge. He is an earnest believer in the conservation of our national resources and is unwilling that they should be exploited at public expense for private benefit. He is an advocate of a fair and just Employers' Liability Law which shall safeguard and protect the interests of the employe in every department of industry.

On all these points we have the best of proof as to Mr. Fowler's stand,—his votes on past measures. On none of them do we know Mr. Runyon's opinions or how he would vote on these measures.

HOWARD H. WILLIAMS.

The Half Holiday.

Editor The Daily Press,

Will you grant a reader of your paper, space for a few words of commendation for two enterprising mercantile firms in our city, viz., M. & A. Tepper, and A. E. Force & Co., whose advertisements read that their places of business are closed, the first for all day, and the latter for half a day on Thursday of each week during the month of August, in order that their employees may have some respite from their daily toil.

All honor to these gentlemen, may their pocket-books and shadows never grow less. They deserve the support and patronage of all classes for their courageous stand in this attempt to relieve their clerks from the daily grind exacted by our unthinking public.

Such treatment by employers of their employees speaks volumes for their employes speaks volumes for charity, and as a toiler denied this privilege, I know I voice the sentiments of their employes and a part of the thinking public who know "that even a machine must be given a complete rest sometimes in order to get the best results," when I say, they should have the thanks of the general public, and their example be followed by every man who employs that most delicate and intricate of all machines, a human being.

Thanking you for your courtesy,
George S. Dufford
675 W. Front street,
Plainfield.

NO CRIMINALITY FOUND.

Trenton, Aug. 23.—The board of managers of the State Home for Girls, in session at the institution, Saturday, took up in detail the charges of irregularities in the purchase of supplies contained in a recent report of State Auditor S. D. Drake.

The board concluded that the things complained of involved no criminality but at the same time decided that greater care should be exercised to prevent mistakes in the accounts of the home. It was also agreed that some changes should be made in the methods of administering the affairs of the institution, these being designed to bring about needed reforms.

It has been charged that former Senator Rue, a member of the board, had violated the law by permitting a company in which he is interested to supply fertilizers for the home farm. It was shown that Mr. Rue was not financially benefitted by the transaction, and after expressing their high esteem for Mr. Rue the trustees declared the incident closed.

Commissioner Wight, of the State Department of Charities and Corrections, was present as the representative of Governor Fort.

As a result of the investigation Commissioner Wight is preparing for introduction in the next Legislature a bill that will enable the managers of institutions to scrutinize all bids for supplies carefully and reject those about the regularity of which they have any doubts.

Under the law that now controls contracts for supplies for State institutions, the managers are obliged to make the award at the same meeting at which they open the bids. Commissioner Wight wants the managers to have power to reject any or all bids that may be submitted and to re-advertise if they deem such action necessary.

FINDS SON AFTER 42 YEARS.

Samuel Bisar, a prosperous Trenton merchant, is reunited to his mother today after a separation of forty-tyo years, and both declare they are the happiest persons in the world. Although three weeks ago Mrs. Bisar lived alone in a hut near St. Petersburg, Russia, she is today the mistress of a fine home, which in her estimation is a palace.

The couple were reunited at Ellis Island, where the mother was detained until the authorities became certain that she had relatives in this country to care for her. Bisar did not know his mother was alive until tyo months ago. The meeting was pathetic.

Some "Sundown Doctors."

Washington, Aug. 23.—"Sundown doctors" are an institution peculiar to the national capital. They are physicians who practice their profession only after sundown.

From 9 in the morning until half-past 4 o'clock in the afternoon they are holding down desks in various departments of the Federal Government. When their daily task for Uncle Sam is done they take up that pertaining to their profession.

There are many sundown doctors in the employ of the Government at Washington. In many cases medical students with little means secure clerkships in the departments in order that they may provide themselves with a living while they are finishing their medical courses. Their diplomas thus laboriously acquired, they enter tentatively upon the practice of medicine, holding on, however, to their Government jobs until they shall be firmly established professionally.

Nor are all sundown doctors mere clerks. Not a few of them hold chiefships of division, a circumstance which of course renders the act of resignation from the Government service a still more unlikely event than in the case of a simple clerk. No matter how earnestly a sundown doctor may tell himself that some day he will quit the departmental service to engage exclusively in the practice of his profession, he generally deceives himself.

Danish Lutheran services will be held tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in the Swedish Pilgrim church, Sixth and New streets, with preaching by Rev. Theodore Beck, of Brooklyn.

The vestibule of the First Baptist church has been re-decorated and otherwise made more attractive.

—John Gehle, of Newark, who received a fractured leg and other bruises in an automobile accident at Manning's corner, near Dunellen, is still at the hospital. His wounds have healed, but the break in the leg knits slowly.

VEGETABLES COME HIGH, WHEN AUTO EATS 'EM

The meeting between a modern automobile and an ancient farm wagon precipitated a bunch of newly harvested vegetables into the road near Roselle at a little after midnight last night, and incidentally disclosed one of the wildest joy-rides that has come to the notice of farmer Hoblitzel in many a day.

In the auto were four men and two women, the latter being relatives of the men, but their intimate relationship seemed not to prevent a wholesale slaughter of innocent vegetables, besides almost turning some of the finery of the women occupants of the car into rags.

According to Mr. Hoblitzel he was driving his team toward this city, bringing his vegetables to market, and as he was turning into the main road at Fanwood, just before he reached the bridge the auto tried to climb into the farm wagon. And here is where trouble began.

Farmer Hoblitzel objected to the invasion of the automobile and used some strenuous language in expressing his sentiments. The farmer's impudence (that's what the occupants of the automobile called it) riled Howard K Murphy, the reputed owner of the automobile, to the extent that he offered fight to Mr. Hoblitzel. The result was a general mixup in which Constable Smith made his presence felt by threatening to arrest the whole bunch.

After putting in a claim for his destroyed vegetables and receiving compensation for them, Mr. Hobnitzel is alleged to have threatened to sue the New Yorkers for other damage. The occupants of the car gave their names to Constable Smith as Howard K. Murphy, owner; Geo. Gillespie, Frank K. Williams, Misses Emma Frazee and Gertrude Murphy, all of whom claimed Newark as their residence.

Murphy paid Mr. Hobnitzel $20 and they called it quits.

WATCHUNG FIRE DEPT. INCREASES MEMBERSHIP

Several new members were added to the Watchung fire department at the regular meeting last night at Texier's Mills. These additions bring the total membership up to about forty. The meeting was devoted entirely to business affairs, including the formulation of the new by-laws and the making of a permanent organization.

The regular meeting night of the new fire company will be the first Monday in every month. It would seem from the interest displayed in the new company that the entire population of Watchung was thoroughly in accord with the movement to secure some protection against fire. Arrangements are being made to secure a site for a fire house, and it is xpected this will be secured before the next meeting night. Just as soon as the building site is secured the house will be erected and apparatus installed thus giving the dwellers at the mountains an innovation that will be one of their greatest advances toward local improvement made in years.

There was a lively practice yesterday afternoon at the oval. A big bunch of the Elk baseball artists made turf along the bases sizzle with the impact of their work. It looks tough for Camden on Thursday.

GOLF.

Wynant D. Vanderpool, secretary of the Metropolitan Golf Association, who has been on vacation at York Harbor, Me., returned yesterday to meet the committee and make the pairings for the organization's open championship at the Deal Golf and Country Club on Thursday and Friday. It is known that the entry includes the best professionals in the country, West and East, but with a light representation from the New England courses, where the experts are so busy garnering up shekels from the summer visitors that they do not care to risk a bird in the hand for a possible purse in the competition. Tom McNamara is an exception who is to come in the hope of again making a good showing as a home-bred among the crack golfers.

Amateurs are also eligible, but their greatest turnout will be in the four-ball competition arranged for tomorrow for pairs to consist of an amateur and a professional regularly entered in the championship. The entries do not close until the starting hour, and there will be no difficulty in the professionals securing partners, for there are more amateurs who wish to play than available professionals. A team match between Nassau and Westbrook is scheduled for Nassau tomorrow, a return match, but this will not jeopardize the success of the Metropolitan Golf Association meeting at Deal, although it may keep some amateurs whom the best professionals would like as partners away.

LOCAL GOLFERS WILL PLAY IN GOLF TOURNEY AT DEAL.

There is considerable local interest in the professional and amateur golf tournament to be held at the Deal Golf and Country Club, tomorrow, Thursday and Friday, as Plainfield golfers have been in the money in this tournament in years past. In 1905, "Marty" O'Loughlin was in the money, making a score of 303, the winner being Alex. Smith with a score of 300.

Winners of the chief cup in subsequent years included Robert Abbott, in 1907, who was then intercollegiate champion. This year, "Marty" O'Loughlin and S. D. Lounsbery will engage in the competition. The field this season will be one of the strongest in years. There will be thirty-six holes played on Thursday and the same on Friday. Amateurs are eligible and a dozen or more of them will cope with the golfers by trade. There are eight cash prizes and an amateur will receive the equivalent in place of anything he may win.

Wiltse Released by Syracuse.

"Lou" Wiltse, formerly of this city, and brother of George Wiltse, one of the best twirlers on the Giants' staff, himself a pitcher, has been let out by the Syracuse New York State league team. Wiltse pitched fairly good ball earlier in the season, but since that time has been going bad. Before he left Plainfield he had had trouble with his pitching arm, but he believed that with a moderate amount of work and warm weather it would come around all right. It failed to do so and he has been obliged to give up pitching.

Married by Rev. Dr. Schenck.

Miss Madeline Deble, of Dunellen, and Charles H. Milliken, of West Front street, were quietly married last night by the Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, pastor emeritus of the Trinity Reformer church, at his home on West Front street. Only a few friends and relatives of the couple witnessed the ceremony. After a short wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Milliken will take up their residence in this city.

Miss Caroline Jones, of Trenton, who has been visiting here, has returned home.

Mrs. William E. Terry and family of Dunellen, left on Thursday for the Pocono mountains.

Circumstances have so shaped themselves that we are forced to slaughter our magnificent stock. We must raise the money at all hazards. With a gigantic stock on hand we have struggled against a backward season which now stares us in the face. But all in vain. Unable to bear the strain any longer we are forced to sacrifice our stock in order to save our good name, which is more than money to us. Our entire capital is tied up in merchandise. We, therefore, need relief. Heroic sacrifices are sometimes necessary. This is one of the times we meet the situation promptly and emphatically. The urgent demand for money brought this gigantic money saving sale on us, which we pass along to you. The enormity of our stock, the vital danger and burden it applies at this critical financial stagnation forces us to reduce stock by offering for cash at any cost, notwithstanding our reputation as givers of the best values. A ROMANCE OF FLYING

...By...

Herbert Quick

Copyright, 1909, by the Bobbs-Merrill Company

"What's this, sergeant?" he sputtered. "This is quite irregular, sergeant—irregular. The parade ground! A d——d thing with wings and V type engines! And no passes? Some one will sweat for this. Highly irregular!"

"Pardon me," said Theodore. "My name is Carson. I miscalculated my speed. I know Colonel Krimnitz, and if"—

"Colonel Krimnitz, sir," said Captain Bolger, "is temporarily on leave. I am the officer of the day, sir. You will produce a pass for your confounded aeronef or I shall order you"—

"I feel sure," said Mr. Carson, "that Colonel Krimnitz"—

"Colonel Krimnitz be hanged!" retorted Captain Bolger. "You can't come the Krimnitz game, sir, while he is on leave. Sergeant!"

"Captain!" said the sergeant, saluting.

"See what that thing is in the fellow's hand," pointing to Mr. Waddy's camera. "Take it, and if it's a bomb explode it at sea. If it's a camera turn it over to me instantly and confine these men. My compliments to Major Flathers, and say to him that I have confined three men who ran the guard in an airship, with bombs or cameras, as the case may be; that I have the airship under guard and await his instructions at headquarters."

And Captain Bolger hippety-hopped to headquarters, followed by a soldier with a camera. The three interlopers went into the guardhouse, while Captain Bolger's message went to Major Flathers, commandant in the absence of Colonel Krimnitz.

"I won't stand it!" Mr. Waddy shouted. "I want to wire John H. Gunn! I want to wire Washington. I tell you—John H. Gunn, speaker of the house! He'll make somebody chew hay for this!"

Mr. Craighead began humming "It's Twenty Miles to Vassar," evidently a West Point ditty, paced the guardhouse, turning corners with military precision or stood accurately with certain fingers on certain seams of his trousers as precise as a tin soldier. The atmosphere had permeated his system, and when a corporal's guard called for them his stride might have been offered as a model.

Access to Major Flathers' desk was opened for them by orderlies described by Mr. Waddy as state's prison looking fellows, armed to the teeth. The major was thin, solemn, bilious looking, as if he had a bad liver from service in the tropics; haughty, as if the liver had overflowed his temper.

"Who are you?" said Major Flathers.

"Who are we?" cried Mr. Waddy. "Who are we? American citizens, sir! Citizens and taxpayers before you was ever born, sir! Wire John H. Gunn at Washington that Cyrus Waddy's shut up in jail, an' you'll find out! You'll"—

"It would seem an economy of time, Mr. Waddy," said the major, after quelling him with a yellow glower, "not to trouble Mr. Gunn or the president, who might find it inconvenient to attend for purposes of identification. What can you say, sir?"

This query was directed at Craighead.

"Most high and illustrious one," said he, "the world is wide, its population some sixteen hundred millions. Of this considerable force we are but three. You ask us, O serenity, to set ourselves apart from the others by brands and marks. How can the thing be proved? It is a hard saying, and yet didst ever see that serrated nose? Give me a pen, and let me mark it 'Exhibit A.'"

The major arose with pronounced absence of haste, adjusted a pair of rimless glasses to his precipitous beak by a clasp of special construction, examined Craighead's nose critically and impersonally, as if looking at a specimen in a case, slowly removed the glasses and deliberately reseated himself.

"I have observed such a nose in but one case," said he, "but its introduction in evidence does not establish its identity with the only snout of similar symmetry recorded. 'Exhibit A' will be considered for what it is worth—as evidence. Proceed."

"I will now render a song, which I beg this honorable body to receive as 'Exhibit B.'"

Though this declaration made a distinct sensation among the officers and orderlies, and though the sergeant, who was a shorthand reporter, broke three pencils in his agitation, Major Flathers never let down by even one degree the saturnine dignity of his presence. Craighead sang with a fine independence of tune, but with an air and style of tone emission which reminded all hearers of a basso profundo laboring in the trough of the heaviest vocal sea.

Oh, it's twenty miles to Vassar, and the Hudson for to cross!
There's regulations to be broke at both ends of the route.
But Belinda's eyes are like the sky, Belinda's hair is floss,
And Jim is black and plagued with love, and doesn't care a hoot.
Oh, it's twenty miles to Vassar,
But it's fifty smiles at Vassar,
And it's other lovey-dovey things in hosts beyond compare!
Oh, the love of dear Belinder burns his heart into a cinder,
And Jim will be at Vassar ere the morning!

A slight redness crept up under the tan of Major Flathers' cheek; a slight quiver of the thin nostril betrayed the fact that Craighead's song had touched some spot that thrilled. Mr. Craighead asked if it would be necessary to adduce more proof of his identity.

"Possibly," said the major, with unabated dignity. "I shall hear the case in private."

The major rose and passed out without a glance at the intruders. The squad took them to his quarters, where he received them in frozen stiffness and stood aside to let them into a library rather well furnished with books.

The major sat like a graven image until the receding footsteps were lost to the ear. Then he rushed at Craighead, shook him until his teeth chattered, laughing, slapping him on the back.

"Craig! Craig!" said he. "You confounded old scapegrace! I've an infernal good mind to throw you in for ten years! And that Belinda song you made up about me! And sober too! Introduce your friends!"

"With Mr. Waddy's name," said Craighead, "you are familiar. He is the billionaire owner of Speaker Gunn."

"Confoundedly sorry," said the major. "But if this reprobate," indicating Craighead, "had hinted that he was our West Point disgrace I should have issued passes and"—

"And this," said Craighead, "is the inventor and builder of our airship, Theodore Carson, M. A."

"Quite so," replied the major, shaking hands again. "But it was confoundedly irregular to run the guard, you know."

"We didn't intend"—

"Not a word!" said the major. "You must dine with me. Mrs. Flathers will waive ceremony. She isn't Belinder. Craig, you disreputable old dog, disguised as a sober man! Could be hanged as a spy! 'Twenty Miles to Vassar' in headquarters! Nobody but Craig— Let's write a letter to Bill Alexander—in Guam."

CRAIGHEAD CAUGHT THEODORE AS HE STAGGERED.

The major was as complaisant as he had been unyielding. The party was allowed to depart.

Mrs. Graybill met them when they alighted from the Virginia, with a letter in her hand for Mr. Carson and a troubled look on her face. Carson turned white as he tore it open and read:

I am going away with my aunt, who has kindly found me and told me of your deception in allowing me to live with you, thinking you my uncle. There are many things I might say, many I should like to say, but I might use expressions for which I should be sorry. As for the compromising of myself, of which my aunt has spoken, I care nothing. Other things count for so much more. I want our parting to be without bitterness, so, with the assurance that I shall watch over you and pray for your success and with thanks for the many, many good and kind things you have done for me, I bid you goodby forever. We can never forget each other, but we can never meet again.

VIRGINIA SUAREZ.

Craighead caught Theodore as he staggered.

"When did they go?" said he.

"About noon," replied Mrs. Graybill.

Carson groaned, thinking bitterly of the hours wasted at Fort Morgan, and asked for Mrs. Stott. She had gone home on the Roc.

"They went north, then," said Carson.

"So must we," rejoined Craighead.

"Yes," said Mr Waddy, who seemed to consider the Virginia incident closed. "I'll go home an' push the work in the west, you boys to New York to start the injunctions an' things."

"Mr. Carson," said Mrs. Graybill quietly, "don't give up. I kept the fragments of the letters she tore up. Put them together. They will cheer you up. What a woman wants to say and doesn't dare means much, much more than what she says."

CHINESE CUNNING.

An Official's Subtle Scheme For Securing His Prisoners.

One of the funniest stories about Chinatown is not really Chinese. It was told by a British consul at one of the treaty ports. He arrested nine delinquent Chinese, intending to turn them over to the tender mercies of the native magistrate next morning. Meanwhile he gave them into the custody of a Chinese policeman, telling him to lock them up, though there was no jail at the consulate. But the policeman was equal to the emergency. He solemnly saluted, saying, "I obey!" and marched his men off. Soon he returned and announced that they were safely caged.

The consul was curious to see how and where. He followed his policeman to the yard. There he saw the nine prisoners dancing round the consulate flagstaff, lugubriously chanting the Chinese equivalent of "ring around a rosy." Whenever the dance showed signs of flagging the policeman stirred them up with a long pole. They seemed at first sight to be holding each other's hands, but, looking closer, the consul saw that they were handcuffed together.

"Well," said the consul, "if they are chained in a ring around the flagstaff they can certainly not get away. But why do you make them dance?"

"Ah," answered the Chinese policeman, with infinite cunning, "so that they cannot climb up the pole and get away!"

The consul broke out into a loud British laugh and tried to explain to the Chinaman that the nine prisoners could certainly not all climb up the pole at once, but the Chinaman had his idea and held to it. So the dance went on.—Harper's Weekly.

AWED THE STUDENTS.

Jean Richepin's First Lesson as an Instructor in Literature.

At the age of twenty-two Jean Richepin, the French poet and dramatic author, accepted a place as instructor in literature in a school which prepared students for the military college of St. Cyr. His employers warned him that the future army officers took very little interest in belles-lettres and that their principal occupation in class was raising chaos.

Richepin's first lesson began amid a storm of whistling and catcalls. But the young instructor's voice boomed out above the uproar and imperiously commanded silence. "Gentlemen," he said, "I am not here because I like it. I am here for my living. Is any one of you going to stand in the way? If there is, I should be obliged if he will tell me so face to face on the Place du Pantheon, where I am ready to meet him at any time. And inasmuch as we are all of us about the same age, you understand, of course, that the interview will be with bare fists."

And, so saying, young Richepin brought his clinched hand down upon the desk, and the desk broke in two, and he and his pupils lived happily ever afterward. Thus runs the official legend.—Argonaut.

Crafty M. Blanc.

Blanc, the founder of the Monte Carlo gambling resort, was well aware of the desperate character of many of his customers. Knowing that they included the scum and riffraff of the world, he took precautions against them. He never carried any money, which fact he announced so frequently and publicly that it was known everywhere along the Riviera that the millionaire Blanc never had a penny on his person. But he carried in a pocketbook a draft on red paper for several hundred thousand francs, payable to the indorsee. He feared kidnaping as much as robbery, and in case of abduction he intended to ransom himself with this draft. But the instructions at his office were not to cash a red draft with his signature unless a telegram was received from him ordering it to be done.

A Painful Process.

I was quite surprised one day when upon telling my little five-year-old girl, who was of a saving disposition, that I would put her pennies in the bank to have her educated to find that she burst into violent weeping and shouted, "I won't be educated; it hurts."

"Hurts?" I queried. "What do you mean?"

"I know," she sobbed. "They take a knife and scrape your arm and it swells up. I won't take my money to be educated."—Delineator.

Friends In Need.

"I don't put much faith in proverbs," said Brown to Jones. "For instance, look at the oft quoted one, 'A friend in need is a friend indeed.' Now, most of my experience with friends in need has been that they wanted to borrow. Give me the friends that are not in need."

The Other Way.

"Then you don't want to leave footprints upon the sands of time?"

"Nix," answered the politician guardedly. "All I want is to cover up my tracks."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

The Noise Explained.

She (sternly)—I heard a noise very late. He (facetiously)—Was it the night falling? She—No, it wasn't. It was the day breaking.—Baltimore American.

The Glory of Life.

To be a strong hand to another in the time of need, to be a cup of strength to a human soul in a time of weakness, is to know the glory of life.

It is impossible to be just if one is not generous.—Roux.

Antiquity of Beer.

So long ago as 3000 B. C. the Egyptians made beer from barley and other grains. The historian Herodotus speaks of it.

Two Oceans Pass.

There is a spot in the Yellowstone National park where the same stream sends water to the Pacific and the Atlantic oceans at the same time. It is called Two Oceans pass. When the stream overflows, the water spreads over the continental divide, some going east and some west.

Executions In Russia.

During the last five years 6,258 persons have been sent to the gallows in Russia, most of them for offenses which would be freely forgiven by most magistrates.

Zinc.

Zinc expands up to the melting point.

Ancient Japanese Steel.

The Japanese are said to have had a curious method of making steel. They buried forged iron in marshy ground, and after eight or ten years, through some alchemy of nature, it came out steel.

Iodine Stains.

If iodine stains are upon wood, wet the wood with cornstarch and let stand a minute, then rub until the stains disappear.

A Great Reservoir.

The reservoir created by the Roosevelt dam on the Salt river, in Arizona, is the largest artificial body of water in the world. Its capacity is 61,000,000,000 cubic feet, and if its waters were spread over Delaware it would cover the entire surface of that state a foot in depth.

Old Glory.

The United States flag is twenty-four years older than Great Britain's, 100 years older than that of Germany or Italy and thirteen years older than the French tricolor.

Sickness and Death.

For every person who dies in a year there are two persons constantly ill.

The Coliseum.

We boast of stadiums which can seat 40,000 spectators of modern sports and forget how much more imposing and immense the Romans made their Coliseum, where 87,000 could sit and 15,000 more find standing room.

Midway East and West.

The geographical east and west center of the United States is near San Francisco. That city is about midway between the easternmost point in Maine and the westernmost point at the tip of the Aleutian islands, extending from Alaska out into the Pacific ocean.

Pure Water.

Water in a state of purity is 825 times heavier than the air.

Jay Gould's Tomb.

The late Jay Gould rests in a mausoleum on a circular plot, 170 feet in diameter, at Central and Observatory avenues in Woodlawn cemetery, New York. The mausoleum is of granite, 33 by 32 feet, with a height of twenty feet. The entrance door is of bronze, eight feet high, and weighs two tons. There are twenty catacombs within.

Clay Pipes.

The largest clay pipe factory in the world is in Appomattox county, Va. The clay found in that section is specially adapted to this use.

Density of Population.

The density of population in the German empire is 303 to the square mile. What that means may be grasped by considering that if the United States were as thickly populated as Germany it would have 900,000,000 people—ten times the present population.

Western Siberia.

Western Siberia is seven times as large as the German empire.

The Biggest Church.

St. Peter's, at Rome, reared centuries before the age of steam and electricity began, is still the biggest of churches, the most colossal of all places of worship.

Paul Revere.

Paul Revere probably was America's first engraver. He did much work for the provincial congress, including the engraving and printing of banknotes such as the issue of £100,000 of colony notes in 1775 and also various commitments for engraving on silver, copper, etc.

Ropemaking.

The United States makes 137,500,000 pounds of rope a year—enough if reduced to clothesline size to encircle the earth sixty-eight times.

Fruit Trees and Bushes.

It is estimated from statistics that fruit trees and bushes will bear for the following periods: Apple, twenty-five to forty years; blackberry, six to fourteen years; currant, twenty years; gooseberry, eight to twelve years; pear, fifty to seventy-five years; plum, twenty to twenty-five years; raspberry, six to fourteen years.

Madder and Indigo.

Chemical processes of making madder and indigo colors have changed the face of those industries. One-half of the entire consumption of indigo is now produced in German chemical plants

BLIND OBEDIENCE.

Did as the Judge Told Him and Was Well Paid For It.

A gentleman had a head gardener who never thought of having a holiday or missing a day from work and so somewhat surprised his employer by asking him if he could have "nixt Friday off."

His request was immediately granted, but on the Saturday he did not show up, and a week went past, and then a fortnight, and still no sign of Mike. The gentleman reluctantly employed another man in Mike's place.

About three months afterward he was surprised on going into the grounds to find Mike at work just as if nothing had happened.

"Where have you been, Michael?" he asked.

"Well, sorr, it's loike this: You remimber the day you let me off? I had to appear at the coort as a witness. When I gets there I sees the ould gint with the wig on 'is 'ead and 'is specs on the tip of 'is nose.

"'Michael Dooley,' sez 'e.

"'Yis, sorr,' sez I.

"'Go into that box,' says 'e.

"'Right, sorr,' sez I.

"'Swear,' sez 'e.

"I did as 'e told me, though I don't use bad language as a rule.

"'Three months for contimpt of coort,' sez 'e.

"And they've only just let me out, sorr."—Pearson's.

ACCUSED AS A WITCH.

Tried For "Conversing With the Devil In the Form of a Cat."

Jane Wenham was indicted at the Hertfordshire assizes on March 4, 1712, for "conversing with the devil in the form of a cat," under the provisions of the act of 1604, repealed in 1736. Her prosecutors wished to have her also indicted for practicing witchcraft to the harm of Ann Thorn, a servant girl sixteen years old, but this was not allowed, although evidence was produced at the trial to show what injury had been done the victim by means of crooked pins and by placing cakes and cats' hairs in Ann Thorn's pillow and how the prisoner had caused the death of some cattle simply by walking through a turnip field.

The jury brought her in "guilty," and Mr. Justice Powell passed sentence of death, but took steps to quash the verdict. Wenham's prosecutors published an account of the case, but their arguments were pulverized by scientific men. Jane Wenham herself was liberated and taken under the protection of Colonel Plummer, who gave her a cottage, and we are told by Dr. Hutchinson that in 1720 the whole country was fully convinced of her innocence.—London Spectator.

Do You Know This Flower?

Among the guests at a summer hotel in Vermont was a scientist from Boston, noted for his botanical researches, and a woman desirous of impressing him with her stores of general knowledge; also she affected a deep interest in all matters pertaining to botany.

"I suppose," said the woman one day, "that you find almost all the mountain flowers around here?"

"I find a great many," said the scientist.

"There's one species of flower," she continued, "of which I've read as always being on the hills, and I've always wanted to see it. Perhaps you can pick me some."

"And what is this flower, madam?"

"The 'purple gloaming,' you know. I should dearly love to possess some!"—Minneapolis Journal.

Watch Your Shoulders.

When standing before a looking glass notice if your shoulders are the same height. Generally the right is higher than the left. The reason for this unevenness lies in the way one sits. You get into a comfortable chair at your desk, and at once you rest your right elbow on the arm of your chair or your desk, thus throwing one shoulder higher than the other. This is especially the case where one writes a great deal. When you notice that one shoulder is higher than the other the thing to do is to change your way of sitting at your desk. Two simple exercises will be beneficial. The arm of the lower shoulder should be extended upward, the hand grasping a dumbbell. That of the higher shoulder should be lowered and made to support a heavy weight.

The Sleep of Seeds.

Oats, corn, fennel and some flower seeds were exposed during 118 days to a temperature of 40 degrees F. below zero. Afterward when placed in suitable surroundings nearly all of the fennel, oat and corn seeds and many of the others germinated. It is concluded that the protoplasm, or the principle of life, in a resting seed is in a state of inaction not comparable to that of a smoldering fire, but rather like that of a chemical mixture which is capable of forming a combination whenever the required conditions of temperature and illumination are present.

She Was Born Yesterday.

DAUGHTERS OF LIBERTY

Recommendation That Women's Fraternal Order Change Name.

BECAUSE MEN ARE MEMBERS.

The Thirty-Third Annual Convention of the National Council at Atlantic City This Week.

The thirty-third annual meeting of the national council, Daughters of Liberty, is being held at Atlantic City, for the first time since 1888. Delegates are present from all the New England and Middle Atlantic States, as well as from Ohio, Indiana and Illinois. The council numbers 126 officers and delegates, but a number of past State officers of New Jersey are present as visitors. Old Glory Council, of Plainfield, is represented at the session.

Officers will be elected at today's session and the convention will adjourn tonight. The report of the national councilor, consisting of a review of his official acts, showing among other things that during the official year councils had been instituted in territory under the immediate jurisdiction of the national body, as follows: Georgetown, Ky.; Brookhaven, Miss.; Pruden and Cardiff, Tenn.; and Bromley and Catlift, Ky.

Among the recommendations submitted are that members suspended for non-payment of dues may at any time apply for a dismissal card, the fee to be twenty-five cents; that members be permitted to resign from the order, provided hey were clear on the books of their council; that a member who owes four weeks' dues shall be non-beneficial and when three months in arrears shall be suspended. Heretofore, a member could be thirteen weeks in arrears and not suspended under seventeen weeks.

Another important recommendation made by the national councilor is that the name of the order be changed from "Daughters of Liberty" to "Sons and Daughters of Liberty." In support of his recommendation the executive says: "The fact that men belong to the order seems to be sufficient cause for changing the name and calling the order what it really is."

The report of National Secretary Edkins was an important document, indicating the progress made by the order during the year. It showed fifteen State councils and 721 subordinate branches, with a total membership of 76,837. Of these, 61,947 were women and 14,890 were men. The net increase for the year ending June 30 last was 2,543. The detail of the membership report is as follows: Members, June 30, 1909, 58,592 women and 13,503 men; total, 72,095. Initiated during year, 6,448 women and 2,025 men; total, 8,473. Admitted by cards, 234 women and 62 men; total, 296. Reinstated, 287 women and 116 men; total, 403. Errors in reports for former years, 135 women.

The losses were: Suspended, 4,271 women and 1,477 men; total, 5,748. Expelled, 20 women and 8 men; total, 28. Took withdrawal cards, 269 women and 76 men; total, 605. Errors, 176 men.

On June 30, 1909, all the councils were worth a total of $516,570. June 30 last they were worth $554,556.87, representing a net gain of $37,986.87.

The funeral benefit department of the order was organized in 1894. Up to June 30 last, this branch has paid 6,207 death claims, each amounting to $200 or less, the total payments being $1,024,280. During the year ending June 30 last, 497 claims were paid, amounting in all to $97,180. Of the entire membership of the order 65,986 belong to this department. This branch has a reserve fund of $35,071.16, a sinking fund of $550, and a cash balance of $17,296.64. It is proposed to take $10,000 of this cash balance and place it in the reserve fund.

At the session of 1909 a proposition was advanced to increase the funeral benefits from $200 to $250. As the matter was an important one it was decided to refer it to the councils holding membership in the department. A vote was taken at the meeting in December last, with the result: 289 councils voted; 163 were against the increase and 126 in favor of it.

Will Entertain the Vets.

The Women's Relief Corps will entertain the members of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., at the rooms, Central avenue and West Second street, Friday night. A watermelon will be cut and a general invitation is extended to the public.

JUDGESHIP CANDIDATE NAILS CAMPAIGN CANARD

Branded them as absolutely false and circulated for the purpose of injuring him as a candidate for the nomination, Francis J. Blatz today made it positive that he is in the fight to the finish and considers his chances excellent as the man to be named by the Republican voters for the city judgeship. Mr. Blatz had no word of censure for the candidate who he believes is responsible for the stories to the effect that he would shortly withdraw from the race but wants his supporters to understand that is not a quitter particularly as he believes that he will be the choice of the party at the primaries to be held on Sept. 13.

"On Monday next, the last day for filing petitions, you will find my petion at the city clerk's office," said Mr. Blatz today. "I am proud of the signatures on it and I wish you would state emphatically that I never have had, have not now, nor will I have any intention of withdrawing. I think I know the source of these reports, circulated for the purpose of hurting my chances and building up the chances of one of my opponents. One of my rival candidates, I believe, is responsible for them. I am not asking favors from any man, or any set of men; I am standing on my record and if the people consider that I am the proper man for the place I will be nominated.

GETS HEART BALM FOR A BREACH OF PROMISE

For having blighted the affections of Miss Naska Kossosko, a Polish young woman of reputed royal lineage, William Reinman, of North Plainfield, will have to pay a judgment of $400 within the next two weeks or he will have to stand committed until the amount is paid.

It was alleged by the counsel for the plaintiff that on June 30 last Reinman promised to marry the young woman, and on the following July 3 told her to be prepared for the nuptial ceremony on the morrow. Miss Kossosko was ready with all her wedding finery, but the groom did not put in an appearance, with the natural result a weeping and disappointed bride.

Judge Whittemore, sitting in the First Judical court at Somerville, yesterday awarded damages in the amount named above for the plaintiff, and on suggestion of counsel for the plaintiff allowed Reinman two weeks in which to produce the coin or take the consequences.

Robert Newton Crane presented the case for the plaintiff, acting for S. S. Swackhamer, Miss Kossosko's counsel of record. The amount claimed by Miss Kossosko was $500.

REV. MR. MAGUIRE ENDING A LONG LECTURE TRIP

Rev. Gabriel Reid Maguire, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church, who has been on an extended lecture tour through the west since June 29, is now concluding his trip and is expected home next week. Today he is at Red Oak, Iowa; tomorrow at King City, Missouri; Friday at Clinton, Ill.; Saturday at Shenandoah, Iowa, and his best lecture in the present series will be at Mediapolis, Iowa, on Tuesday, August 30, after which he will return to Plainfield. He plans to be in his pulpit on the first Sunday in September.

His lecture tour included thirty-six dates, taking Mr. Maguire over a large part of the western territory. All of the talks were given under the auspices of the Chautauqua Lecture Bureau. In a recent letter to a friend here, Mr. Maguire said that while he had enjoyed his trip, he was longing for the time to return home and again take up his pastoral work here. During the coming fall and winter, he plans an active gospel campaign at his church.

Thirteenth Unlucky for Him.

William F. Richards, of this city, is carrying his left arm in a sling, the result of an accident while playing a game of baseball at Readington, Hunterdon county a few days ago. He was filling the position of catcher, when a foul tip struck his arm, breaking one of the bones. Mr. Richards was on his vacation and he attributes the accident to the fact that he started on his outing on August 13, and he says that he will never select the 13th of the month again.

PRIMARY LAW IS PLAIN

Confusion in Translating of Statute Relating to Filing of Petitions Unnecessary.

ACT IS NOT AN AMENDMENT.

A Supplementary Procedure Which Applies Only to Municipal Candidates in This State.

So much confusion has arisen over the construction of the act passed by the Legislature attempting to change the time for filing petitions for the nomination of municipal officers at the primary election, that the following semi-official explanation of the law is given out at the State House:

"Under the primary law as it existed previous to this year, such petitions were to be filed at least ten days before the day of the primary, (See section 259 of the election law pamphlet issued by the Secretary of State). The last Legislature passed an act which is known as a supplement to the primary law. If this had been a simple amendment to the primary law, changing the words "ten days" to "fifteen days," no difficulty would have arisen, but the act provides 'That all petitions providing for the nomination of candidates for public office in a simple borough, ward or township, and all petitions endorsing the person or persons therein named for the position of delegate or delegates to the ensuing State Congressional convention (as the case may be) shall be filed with the municipal clerk not less than fifteen days prior to said primary election.'

"This act, as has been said, is not an amendment of the primary law, but only a supplement thereto, and therefore only repeals the provisions of the primary law in so far as it is inconsistent therewith.

"It will be noticed that, for instance, the supplement only applies to public officers in a single borough, ward or township, leaving out entirely the question of municipal candidates who are nominated at large in any muncipality, and also all municipal officers in any other kind of municipality except a single borough, ward or township. Therefore it would appear, for instance, that petitions of candidates for Mayor who run at large in a muncipality, can still be filed under the old act, not less than ten days before the primary. It would also appear that in municipalities other than a 'single borough, ward or township,' petitions nominating officers may also be filed not later than ten days, because, as stated above, the act of 1910 leaves these municipalities out of consideration.

"For instance, in such a muncipality as a town, concerning which the act of 1910 is entirely silent, the old law still governs."

CAPTAIN HAND'S WIFE PASSES AWAY SUDDENLY

Mrs. Fannie Hand, aged 73 years, wife of Captain William Hand, died about 1 o'clock this afternoon at her home at 215 Jackson avenue, this city. Although she had been in feeble health for some time, her condition was not considered critical and her death was unexpected.

Mrs. Hand was one of the oldest and best known resients of this city, and she had a host of friends. Her maiden name was Fanny Cushing, daughter of Milton F. Cushing, owner and editor of The Plainfield Union. Her brother, Foster M. Cushing, succeeded her father in the ownership of the newspaper. Mrs. Hand was a devout Christian. Her husband, Captain Hand, is a prominent Civil War veteran, and for many years was engaged in the storage and carting business. Besides a husband, Mrs. Hand is survived by a son, Fred Hand, and several nieces, nephews and grandchildren. The notice of funeral will be announced later.

Will Organize an Auxiliary.

John Hand Camp, No. 28, Sons of Veterans, will meet tonight for the purpose of organizing a women's auxiliary. A number of women, including wives and sisters of the members, have signified their intention of joining the new organization. After the meeting refreshments will be served. DE BRIGARD A BENEDICK

Married in Yonkers, N. Y., Last August.—Announcement Made Today.

REV. J. J. FULLAM OFFICIATED.

Groom a Son of Consul General of the United States of Colombia—Has Diplomatic Aspirations.

A romance which had its culmination in Yonkers a year ago has just come to light in this city and the bride and groom even now seem to be reluctant to have the particulars of their wedding made public. Miss May Titsworth Hallett, of New Market, is the young woman involved in the romantic spisode, Louis de Brigard, of this city, the man.

According to a statement given out by Louis de Brigard this morning, the wedding took place in Yonkers, N. Y., on August 19, 1909, and was performed by Rev. John J. Fullam, pastor of St. Mary's church, at the rectory. Two witnesses, Roger Flagg and his siter, Elsie Flagg, were present and signed the documents which are proudly exhibited by the groom.

When asked why he desired to keep the marriage secret, Mr. de Brigard declared that there was no especial reason excepting that it seemed best to not announce it at the time.

Mr. de Brigard, who conducts a photographic supply business on Park avenue, was recently appointed consular clerk for the United States of Columbia, at Liverpool, England, but this nomination has not yet been confirmed. His father, Arthur de Brigard, has occupied the post of consul general for that country in New York for several years and is highly regarded in diplomatic circles.

The young couple will go to housekeeping in this city shortly.

OAK TREE CARNIVAL OPENED LAST NIGHT

Oak Tree is now enjoying a real amateur carnival, which opened auspiciously last night, and will continue tonight on the grounds adjoining Marconnier chapel. It is being held for the benefit of the chapel and bids fair to be a great success. Among the numerous attractions there is a moving picture show, operated by Walter T. Palmer, of New York city. During the evening his daughter, Miss Florence Palmer sang several solos, receiving much applause.

Other attractions include a lemonade and grape juice well; a shooting gallery, where the marksmen tried to hit the bullseye; throwing the baseball and "get a good cigar"; a grab stand; hot sausage stand; candy and cake tables and a typical country store.

More than four hundred people enjoyed the affair last night, a majority being from the immediate vicinity, with a good representation of city folks, including automobile parties. The electrical effects were much admired and made the carnival an attractive place. Roland H. Leveridge, chairman of the executive committee, was in charge of the electrical illumination.

A real live pig, an electric iron and fan motor were extra attractions, and it was stipulated that if the pig should be awarded to a woman she was to carry it home. The following were in charge of the booths and tables:

Country store, Mrs. Roland Leveridge, Mrs. Bryant Randolph, Mrs. Fred Mellick and Mrs. E. L. Winters; lemonade well, Miss Mary Leveridge, Miss Frances Newell, Miss Alice Winters and Mrs. Melvin Campbell; candy table, Mrs. Edward Voorhees, Mrs. Mabel Filbert and Mrs. Charles H. Leveridge; hot sandwich stand, William and Bryant Randolph; grab stand, Miss Nellie G. Ross and Mrs. Nettie Stover; cake table, Mrs. William Randolph and Mrs. Eugene Van Court; shooting gallery, Arthur Randolph; ice cream, Edwin Voorhees and Fred Mellick.

The director-general of the carnival is Roland H. Leveridge and his chief assistant is Mrs. J. Tucker Lansdale. All were much pleased with the large attendance last night and liberal patronage accorded. The affair will be repeated tonight. The proceeds will be given to the chapel building fund.

Republicans Come to Debele's Hall!

All Republican voters in the borough of North Plainfield are urged to meet in Debele's hall tomorrow night to select candidates for the coming primaries. The meeting begins at eight o'clock.

FOWLER HAS AMBITIONS

He Would Be United States Senator as Well as Congressman.

HIS PETITION HAS BEEN FILED.

How the Elizabeth Man Can Seek Two Offices in Good Faith is Puzzling Some of His Friends.

Friends of Charles N. Fowler, of Elizabeth, were surprised and disappointed yesterday to learn that he had allowed himself to be made a candidate for the United States Senatorship, thus making him a candidate for both the Upper and the Lower House at Washington. How he can run for two high offices at the same time in good faith is what puzzles his friends, and it is predicted that as a result of his peculiar actions he will lose as many supporters as he did when he issued his notorious mud-slinging letter, besmirching the political reputations of some of the Republican leaders for whom he had nothing but kind words until they announced that they could not see their way clear to court the party's defeat by espousing his candidacy for a ninth term at Washington.

In the minds of some there is a question whether he can be a candidate for both offices if he is an honorable man and intends to keep faith with his constituents.

His friends realize that Congressman Fowler knows the primary law and the principles upon which it is based. The primary law provides for the printing of the names of the candidates for the various offices on the tickets at the public expense. For this reason only those candidates are entitled to this favor from the tax payers who are acting in good faith. Otherwise the primary ticket could be loaded up with the names of candidates who had not the least support and who might enter the race with no idea of making the contest, or accepting the office if elected. This would entail an unnecessary expense upon the public. Only those names, therefore, are allowed upon the primary tickets which are there in good faith.

As an evidence of good faith, the primary law requires: First, a sufficient amount of support to warrant the candidate in entering the contest, and that it is evidenced by the petitions; second, the acceptance by the candidate of the effort made in his behalf by his friends, for whatever the office may be. This acceptance involves his guarantee to serve if nominated and elected. Now, he cannot, in good faith, sign two acceptances and promise to fill two offices.

Congressman Fowler has filed his acceptance in connection with his Senatorial candidacy, and the men who are candidates for delegate for him for the Congressional nomination cannot, therefore, in good faith, sign their acceptances for the nomination of a man who has agreed to stand as a candidate for United States Senator and accept if elected. The Constitution prohibits him from holding two offices, and as Congressman Fowler has agreed in good faith to accept the Senatorship and as a man of honor will abide by his decision in this respect, and as the settlement of the Senatorial question may not be made before next February, Congressman Fowler, of course, takes himself out of the Congressional race.

BUCEPHALUS TOO SPEEDY FOR ORDINARY BOYS.

Lots of excitement was stirred up this morning just before 11 o'clock when a grocery wagon, driven by a couple of boys, neither one of whom was over 12 years old, dashed across Park avenue at breakneck speed narrowly missing passing automobiles, baby carriages and other vehicles.

Apparently the boys had lost control of the animal they were driving but they did not seem to care, as the elder of the two was laughing as though it was a joke. Scurrying maids and pedestrians would have testified differently had it been necessary to bring the case before the local police court. It was said that the rig belonged to M. Bernstein, who conducts a grocery store at the corner of New street and West Third.

MARTINE AMONG FIVE FILING THEIR PETITIONS

Besides former Governor Franklin Murphy, who filed his petition before noon, Representative Charles N. Fowler, of Elizabeth, backed by the Republican Progressives, and former Assemblyman Frank McDermott, of Newark, acting as an independent Democrat, filed with the Secretary of State at Trenton yesterday afternoon petitions nominating them as candidates for United States Senator to be voted on in the direct primaries September 13. These petitions, together with the one submitted last Saturday by former Governor E. C. Stokes, make four Senatorial aspirants who have formally taken advantage of the direct primary law.

The fifth candidate who came in under the operation of the direct primary act was James E. Martine, of Plainfield, whose petition was filed this afternoon with 1028 signatures.

Representative Fowler's petition was headed by former Assemblyman William P. Martin, Progressive candidate for the Republican Gubernatorial nomination. It contains 1,261 names, the largest percentage of the signers being voters in Essex county. There were a few names recorded from Elizabeth, Mr. Fowler's home town. Besides Mr. Martin, the most prominent "new idea" men to sign the Fowler petition were former Mayor Mark Fagan, of Jersey iCty, and Henry Marelli, of Passaic.

WAYWARD YOUTH SOLD HIS BORROWED BICYCLE

Edward Seader, who suddenly left the borough Monday afternoon and who is suspected by the police of having stolen a gold watch and four dollars from George Schlarrett, of West Second street, on that day, has become involved in another clever piece of "easy money getting." Young Seader borrowed a bicycle sometime ago from Jeremiah O'Connor, of Somerset street, and it is alleged by the police then sold the wheel.

The O'Connor boy reported to the borough police yesterday afternoon that Seader had sold the bicycle, which he had loaned him, to Charles Allen, of Chatham street. Marshal Keller took the wheel from the Allen boy and is holding it in the police court awaiting developments.

Allen showed a receipt for two dollars which Seader had given him in the purchase of the bicycle. It now looks as though Charles Allen would be minus two dollars and Seader would be in the same amount.

Despite the repeated efforts of his father, Peter Seader, who is a highly respected citizen of the borough, Edward Seader has proved to be an incorrigible youth. His father has done everything in his power to reform the lad, but all his efforts have proved futile.

FORMER PLAINFIELDER DIES AT GOSHEN, N. Y.

Albert Rutan, aged seventy years, who died at his home in Goshen, N. Y., a few days ago, was one of the best known of the early residents of this city. He was a son of Theodore Rutan, who was employed by the late John Brown, and afterward for J. P. Hyman. Mr. Rutan was an assistant chief of the local fire department in the days of the volunteer company.

Mr. Rutan was past grand of the lodge of Odd Fellows at Goshen, and at the request of that lodge, Plainfield Lodge, No. 44, I. O. O. F., of this city, will take charge of the remains upon the arrival in this city tomorrow morning at 11.30 o'clock. The burial will be in North Plainfield cemetery. Mr. Rutan is survived by two sisters who reside in this city.

Talked on Home Rule.

S. S. Swackhamer, of the borough, addressed a large and enthusiastic meeting of Democrats at the court house, Newton, Sussex county, last night on the topic, "The Majority Rule." In the course of his remarks, Mr. Swackhamer advocated the home rule principle in all matters pertaining to local, county or State government.

WADE PLEADS NOT GUILTY

Alleged Highwayman is Held by Justice T. H. Snape for Grand Jury.

HAD PREVIOUSLY CONFESSED.

Taken to Somerville Jail Today—Jeroloman, His Accomplice, Not Yet Caught by the Police.

Frank Wade, of Philadelphia, who was arrested on the charge of attempted highway robbery, Saturday night, was held to await the grand jury by Justice of the Peace Thomas H. Snape, in the borough court yesterday afternoon. When the prisoner was charged with the crime, he pleaded "not guilty," and so was held without bail. The Somerset County grand jury sits during October.

Mr. and Mrs. John Whitwroth, who were held up by William Jeroloman and Wade on Greenbrook road appeared in Justice Snape's court yesterday afternoon. As yet Jeroloman has not been found.

Wade seems to be diffident concerning his part in the crime and the police believe that he was merely the tool of Jeroloman, who had planned to rob him of whatever money he might obtain. The prisoner is a hard looking character but speaks and acts with a certain degree of refinement. He was taken to the Somerset county jail in Somerville this morning under the custody of Marshal Charles Kellar. Before departing, Wade shook hands all around with the court officials and walked briskly toward the train in the new pair of shoes, which was given him by Councilman William L. Smalley, Jr.

Despite the fact that Wade had made a complete confession of his guilt to the police, he pleaded not guilty before Justice Snape. It is supposed by the authorities that his object in this plea was that William Jeroloman, his accomplice in the crime, would be apprehended in the meantime and hence place part of the guilt upon him. Shortly after the hearing when placed in his cell, Wade started to amuse himself by singing many of the popular airs. The highwayman possesses considerable musical talent.

MISS EVA C. KELLY TO WED LESLIE R. STEWART.

Announcements have been sent out for the wedding of Miss Eva Corsa Kelly, daughter of Mrs. Lillian Kelly, of Putnam avenue, to Leslie Raynor Stewart, of this city. The wedding will take place at the home of the bride, 1340 Putnam avenue, Tuesday evening, September 6, at eight o'clock. Miss Kelly was graduated from the City High School in the class of 1908, and is the first member of that class to get married. She is popular among a large circle of friends in this city. Mr. Stewart holds a responsible position with a large New York firm.

Interesting Service at Army Tent.

Stirring gospel talks and excellent music combined to make the meeting at the Salvation Army tent, last night, an interesting one. Martin A. Korff was in charge of the music, and a feature was the singing of three solos by Mrs. L. R. Howard, which was appreciated by the audience. Mr. Korff also played a violin solo, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Howard. Mr. Korff made the address, taking for his subject, "This poor man cried and the Lord heard him, and saved him out of all his troubles."

Bitten By Vicious Dog.

While riding on his bicycle on Somerset street last night, Francis Valley, who lives near Watchung, was bitten on the leg by a vicious little dog, as he approached Fritts place. The canine has become a nuisance in the neighborhood, and the borough police are seeking the owner of the dog. The bite was not a severe one, but was enough to cause Mr. Valley considerable pain.

Mr. Fowler to Speak.

Charles N. Fowler, of Elizabeth, will address a mass meeting to be held at the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow night, at 8 o'clock, which he has engaged for the occasion. He will appeal to the local Republicans to support him in his candidacy for a ninth term in Congress.

To filter the blood is the kidney's duty.

When they fail to do this the kidneys are sick.

Backache and many kidney ills follow.

Diabetes.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure them all.

Plainfield people endorse our claim.

Mrs. O. C. Moore, 57 Manning avenue, Plainfield, N. J., says: "Though I have had no occasion to use Doan's Kidney Pills in the past few years, I value them as highly as ever. My kidneys were weak for years and I suffered severely from backache. I was unable to sleep well and when I arose in the morning, my limbs were so stiff and sore that I could hardly get out of bed. Every cold I caught settled in my kidneys and aggravated my suffering. I doctored but the medicines I used did me no good. At length I heard of Doan's Kidney Pills and procuring a supply at Randolph's pharmacy, I began taking them. They went directly to the seat of my trouble, disposing of the pains and making me feel like a different person."

Soundings are being taken in various parts of the town by parties who do not disclose the nature of their work. The machinery used is that commonly used in looking for subterranean water.

William Doud, who was injured in an automobile accident in Plainfield last week when the machine ran into an open trench, was brought home from the hospital, Monday.

Westfield bowlers are commencing to get ready for the fall and winter tournaments. A meeting will be held Wednesday evening at the Casino to reorganize the team.

DUNELLEN.

The borough marshal, James Benson, is hard at work trying to discover facts about the large number of robberies of carpenters' tools that have taken place in the borough recently. Last Monday and Tuesday nights, Alberne H. Burdick was the victim of these clever rascals. The tool house of Clarence Line was also robbed recently. The local carpenters are keeping a sharp lookout for the thief, who seems to be content with taking just plain carpenters' tools.

The Dunellen baseball team will cross bats with the strong nine from the Central Railroad of New Jersey on the Madison avenue grounds, Saturday afternoon. Manager Adams is confident that his team will play in good form and that each member will try his best to win, as this team defeated the borough nine in the earlier part of the season by the score of 3-0.

The local baseball team is scheduled to play the Bound Brook nine on the latter's grounds September 10. The game, which was arranged by Manager Charles Adams with the Marathon A. C. of Newark, for September 3, will be cancelled, as the local manager says that this team cannot be counted upon.

On account of the absence of Bill Piddington, the centrefielder of the borough team, who is spending his vacation in Asbury Park, the centre garden will be covered for the Dunellenites Saturday afternoon by Russell Garretson.

Benjamin Carpenter, who kept a plumbing shop on North avenue, has moved his place of business to the shop in the rear of his residence on Greenbrook road.

Miss Kate Dinneen, Miss Margaret Dinneen and Charles Dinneen, Jr., of Washington avenue, have gone to Scranton, Pa., for a ten days' visit.

GOVERNOR FORT'S PERIOD OF VACATION

Governor John Franklin Fort, accompanied by Mrs. Fort and Miss Fort, left Sea Girt Monday for an extended visit, which will be passed principally in New England. The executive has not had a vacation, with the exception of a few days' shooting in the Carolinas, during the past year. One year ago he took an auto trip through New York state, being the guest of Governor Charles Evans Hughes, at his lodge in the Adirondacks. Constant and conscientious application to every phase of work incident to his office has caused the governor to have the opinion that he has fairly won a period of rest.

The governor will make but one formal address while absent from the State. This will be on the afternoon of September 1, when at the Atlantic Deeper Waterways association gathering in Providence, R. I., he will speak on the theme, "New Jersey's Interest and Experiment on Inland Waterways.' As the executive has given much careful consideration to the matter and made personal inspection of the State to study the problem, his address will be one of the features of the convention.

Governor Fort will remain at the convention two days, participating in the discussions.

Leaving here Monday morning, the governor's family will spend several days touring Long Island and passing from there through New England, where the executive will make Cape Cod his headquarters. From there he will make runs to points of interest. That the executive of Jersey will call on the national executive at Beverly is altogether probable.

Governor Fort expects to be in his office at Trenton on Thursday, September 6.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

INDEBTED TO MARTINE.

James E. Martine, familiarly known throughout New Jersey as "The Farmer Orator" is a credit to the Democracy. With him the mere matter of winning has never been particularly important. He fights for principle and fights hard, and he is perfectly willing to be personally sacrificed, if the principle for which he gives battle is thereby advanced. He has thrown all his heart and energy just now into the United States Senatorial contest in order that the New Jersey Democracy shall not be put in the ridiculous position of having no candidate at the primaries.

The Democracy has for years been adopting platforms favoring the direct primary and the Democrats in the Legislature have been loudly shouting for just such a law. In view of these things it would indeed be sad to have the party go to the primaries without a candidate.

And, inasmuch as he was given the complimentary vote in the Legislature when Senator Briggs was chosen, and came within an ace of being named for Governor three years ago, perhaps Martine will surprise some of the political wiseacres at the primaries. He has the courage of his convictions, as is evidenced by his platform.

Governor Stokes in closing his appeal for Republican support the other day declared that every Jerseyman "has a right to expect his United States Senator to be a part of the public and civic life and to be able to speak for New Jersey in legislative hall and upon public occasion in any part of the land that her rights may be upheld and her merits proclaimed equally with those of her sister commonwealths." Is there any New Jersey Democrat that would excel Martine in these requirements?

The candidacy of Martine may produce others. It is to be hoped that it will. It may be that some of the others will out-distance him in the primary contest. But come what may, the party is indebted to "The Farmer Orator" for saving its face at this critical juncture. Trenton Times.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

Amy, five-year-old daughter of Harry Fenton, of Bayard street, Trenton, was seriously and perhaps fatally burned Monday when matches with which her seven-year-old brother Arthur was playing set fire to her inghtdress. Her mother was badly burned about the hands and body in extinguishing the flames.

Pending the disposition of an appeal from the decision of the Supreme Court, Joseph E. Metzger was given his freedom from Camden jail Monday by Supreme Court Justice Garrison upon furnishing $4,000 bail. He was sentenced to two years in State prison for obtaining $1,000 by false pretenses from Curt Werckmeister, of South Bethlehem, Pa.

The second annual plowing contest between students of the Baron De Hirsch Agricultural School, near Woodbury, will occur today, and much interest is centred in the event. The contestants will be members of the sophomore class of 1910 and the freshman class of 1911, demonstrating the practical value of their training in this branch of agriculture. In the evening at the school addresses will be made by Willitt M. Hays, of Washington, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture, and Dr. Thomas Edwin Eldridge, of Philadelphia.

In an effort to prevent his kite catching on a telegraph wire, Raymond Cross, ten years old, of 728 Division street, Camden, fell through the trestle work of the elevated railroad at Tenth and Mt. Vernon streets, Camden, a distance of about thirty feet, late Monday, and was killed almost instantly.

Mr. and Mrs. Amos B. Day, of Hamilton Square, yesterday began suit in the Supreme Court to recover $10,000 damages from J. Walter Gilmore, of Trenton, for injuries alleged to have been sustained in a collision between a carriage in which they were riding and an automobile operated at Gilmore. The Days claim that their carriage was on the right side of the road when it was struck. Both were thrown out and severely injured.

Yielding to the temptation to speed over the smooth, straight road across the meadows near Wildwood Sunday night, occupants of two automobiles got into a hot race. Reaching a narrow point a collision seemed inevitable when one of the cars was ditched and the other struck a carriage occupied by Lucius Harris and Harry Waite, both of whom were hurled twenty feet. Harris was badly bruised, but not otherwise injured, while Waite landed against a telegraph pole and suffered a deep gash in his head as well as several broken ribs and possible internal injuries.

Committed to jail without bail from the Camden Police Court Monday, to await his return to Philadelphia, where he is accused of being implicated in the mysterious disappearance of Katherine Corkill, fourteen years old, from her home at 90 Alberta street, Camden, Louis Mayer, nineteen years old, told the police that he cared for the girl through pity.

A big crowd of roysterers who had spent the day at a picnic in the woods boarded a trolley car of the Camden and Trenton line on its way to Trenton, near Bordentwn, late Sunday night and proceeded to make life miserable for the crew and the other passengers. As the car proceeded the hoodlums became more and more boisterous insulting and threatening passengers who protested. Ledger Smith, the conductor, was robbed and William Higgins, the motorman, forced off, while the gang rang up fares, broke windows and caused general terror.

A young man who gave his name as Philip Golden was locked up Monday in the Camden county jail, charged with having defrauded widows of Civil War veterans of money in amounts varying from $2 to $20. The arrest was made by Deputy United States Marshal Schmi Deputy United States Marshal Schmidt at Cape May Court House, following information laid before the United States district attorney by George F. Sideman, inspector of the pension bureau.

The explanation of George Barker, skating instructor, in a justice's court Monday, that pretty Marea Stock, seventeen years old, of Scranton, Pa., voluntarily gave him to wear two diamond rings he was charged with refusing to return availed him nothing when the repentant maid from Scranton in tears explained that she only intended that the skating instructor should wear the rings for a day or two. Magistrate Grove agreed with her that it was "horrid" of Barker to pawn the jewelry, and the skating master was required to produce a bondsman before he was released from a cell to await trial at fall court.

Because he made an effort to stop a team from being struck by a train at the Bulson street crossing of the Atlantic City Railroad in Camden, Monday afternoon, Harry Broadwater, a flagman, was so badly beaten over the head with a whip in the hands of the driver of the team that he was compelled to go to the Homeopathic Hospital for repairs. He is suffering from deep lacerations of the face. The teamster, who is being sought by the police, had a narrow escape from death, as he harried across the tracks in front of the rapidly moving train.

Striking a match while she was cleaning a pair of kid gloves with gasoline in Camden, Monday afternoono, Mrs. Amelia Hyde, of 426 Mickle street, was burned about both hands. Mrs. Hyde was wearing one of the gloves at the time of the accident, and it was nearly burned to the fingers' edges.

Two-Word Pledge Taken.

The shortest temperance pledge on record was administered yesterday by Recorder Mara to Thomas Collins, of Bayonne, who was arrested for being drunk. Collins said he was ready to swear off. The recorder said: "Hold up your right hand and repeat after me, 'Never again.'" Collins raised his hand and in a deep voice said, "Never again." He was then discharged.

Registered at the Poland Spring House, Poland Spring, Maine, are Edward R. Finch and Henry L. Finch, of Park avenue. They gave two cups for the tennis tournament of mixed doubles played for on Monday at Poland Spring.

Pianos and Player-Pianos

MATHUSHEK & SON PLAYER-PIANO is the most advanced instrument of its type on the market today, and in its capacity for individual musical expression and for the artistic rendition of music, whether popular or classic, it cannot be surpassed, for it places the control of tempo and phrasing entirely in the hands of the performer, enabling him to give expression to his moods and emotions quite as if he were playing the piano manually.

Our experts have spent a number of years in producing this instrument, and every detail has been carefully thought out and perfected so that it may, without exaggeration, be described as the most perfect Player-Piano Mechanism in the world.

Jack Martin is certainly putting up the classy article of ball these days. His playing on the Plainfield team can't be beat and his work for the Patersons in the game with the Yankees last Sunday was the big show.

That Netherwood team is just about a combination of the Terry family in different positions. These boys fill the positions of pitcher, catcher, first base and third base on this peculiar team. But they can play some ball.

Eddie Terry will probably do the twirling for the Plainfield High School baseball team next year. The lad was certainly there as a box artist for the city High School boys this past year and he will undoubtedly occupy the slab again.

Torpey is one of the mainstays of that Somerville team. He was the whole cheese in the game with Bound Brook Saturday, both in the field and with the stick. He wielded the willow for four clean safeties out of as many times at bat.

Taylor made a catch of a fly in that game Saturday afternoon from one of the Newarkers' bats that was really a thriller. The ball was compelled to catch the ball while running at top speed and just when he had the slippery sphere fast in his mit, he stumbled—but he held on to the important object of his chase.

Plainfield, N. J., August 24, 1910.

POLITICAL TALK.

In some of the districts in the upper wards Congressman Charles N. Fowler is out working "on his own hook." He is taking an even more active interest in the campaign than some of his lieutenants who are doing ward work. The fight in the districts of the Tenth, Eleventh and Twelfth wards promises to be very keen. A house-to-house canvass is being made by Fowler and organization workers in the effort to elect their respective delegates to the Congressional convention to be held in Plainfield, September 16.

George Kirch, of the borough, has announced himself a candidate for freeholder from North Plainfield, in opposition to B. R. Waldron, the Republican, who wants to succeed the present incumbent, Andrew Lutkins. Mr. Kirch has been a resident of the borough for many years and is well known throughout Somerset county.

Walter C. Linbarger, of North Plainfield, a member of the Somerset County Democratic Committee, filed the petition of Frank Mobus, of the borough, for the shrievalty nomination, with the county clerk at Somerville, yesterday. Although the petition requires one hundred names, Mr. Mobus had between two and three hundred signatures to the paper.

The Democrats of the borough have leased the store at 83 Somerset street, as headquarters for the coming campaign and the place will be opened some day next week. Plans are being discussed for holding meetings throughout the campaign to be addressed by prominent members of the party. The headquarters will be opened every evening until after election.

Charles N. Fowler has filed a petition as a candidate for the United States Senatorship and is a candidate for Congressman. His characteristic modesty probably compelled him not to add the Governorship to the string.

The Mercer county Republicans will stand by Vivian M. Lewis, of Passaic, for Governor; Edwin C. Stokes for United States Senator; Ira W. Wood for re-election to Congress; Harry D. Leavit for another term in the State Senate, and Charles H. Mather, George W. Adams and David Kurtz for the House of Assembly.

City Clerk James T. MacMurray and Howard C. Tracy, the latter formerly chairman of the New Idea Central committee and now the Fowler man in their ranks, were closeted last night at Mr. MacMurray's office. They discussed the situation. This morning announcement was made that Fowler's friends would have the Congressman speak here tomorrow night.

Charles N. Fowler has become a member of an aero club. Probably he sees the necessity of getting in shape for going up in the air on September 13.

Louis V. Hoagland, of Elizabeth, who was appointed census supervisor at the request of Congressman Charles N. Fowler, and who returned the kindness by turning in for Fowler for a renomination for Congress, is now after another job. Today Hoagland announced his candidacy for an Assembly nomination. He He has no show of landing the nomination.

Assemblyman Augustus W. Schwartz, of Elizabeth, today filed his petition with County Clerk Calvert as a candidate for renomination.

PASTOR NOT WIFE DESERTER.

The Rev. Nicholas Babaressa, pastor of a Methodist church at New Castle, Penn., had an unpleasant experience at Montclair because he happened to bear a striking resemblance to a wife deserter.

The police were on the lookout for a man of the name of Da Conti, who had deserted his wife and gone to Long Island. When the Pennsylvania minister arrived in Montclair he was seen by Policeman George Cousins, who trailed him to a house in Bloomfield avenue. The policeman told the clergyman the object of the visit. The preacher was indignant over the proceedings, but succeeded in convincing the policeman that he was not a wife deserter.

Later the Rev. Mr. Sabaressa went to police headquarters for an explanation of the affair. Chief of Police Gallagher told him of the circumstances that led to the mistake and the preacher departed considerably mollified.

SEEKS BUSINESS MEN'S DUES.

Upon application of Correll Doughty, of Ocean City, Vice-Chancellor Walker yesterday at Trenton appointed William M. Clavenger receiver of the Atlantic City Business League. The league is composed of leading men of Atlantic City. Its principal assets consist of membership dues, which have not been paid, and which the receiver will be called upon to collect.

Doughty obtained a judgment against the organization for $1,273 as damages for the loss of a barn set on fire by sky-rockets discharged under the auspices of the league during the "Safe and Sane" celebration on July 4, 1909. Doughty has been unable to collect, and seeks to hold the membership of the league liable for the amount of dues each owes.

HERE AND THERE.

"Your political reporters cannot be believed any more," said a friend to James Kerney, editor of the Trenton Times and a member of the Civil Service Commission, in the State House the other day.

"Why?" asked Kerney rather briskly.

"Well, one day last week I read an item in your paper purporting to describe a visit of James E. Martine to the State House and in the article appeared this sentence: 'Mr. Martine refused to talk politics.' How do you expect people to believe such stuff as that?"

"I don't," replied the editor.

The royal commission appointed by the Italian government to inquire into the causes and practicable edies for juvenile crime in Italy has recommended the adoption of legislation similar to that recently passed in Great Britain for the suppression of smoking among children.

It is proposed to forbid boys and girls under 16 to smoke or carry smoking materials, while persons supplying young people with tobacco would be liable to a fine of $100. Parents and guardians permitting smoking among their charges would also be liable to prosecution.

The commission further urges that teachers, employers, the police and government inspectors should be empowered to confiscate smoking materials found on children under age in schools, workshops and public places. The success of the new legislation in England is apparent, smoking in public by children having been effectually suppressed.

The authorities of the village of Josketa in Saxony, with 215 inhabitants, recently installed electric light in the streets. The light is cut off at 11 p. m., when it is supposed everybody is in bed.

The authorities, however, discovered a number of clubmen, who were "afraid to go home in the dark" and who kicked about having the lights extinguished at 11. To meet their demands the authorities have attached penny in the slot devices to the light poles.

A tired clubman going home in the dark after 11 can now fumble his way to an electric light pole, drop a penny in the slot and light his way home. If he lives far from his club two successive pennies will do the trick.

The pessimistic reports of widespread damage to the vineyards of most of the wine-producing districts of France have already had their effects in Paris. Proprietors of restaurants have promptly raised the price of their wines, and not content with that have increased the prices of the plates on their bills of fare.

They have some justification, for the cold and rainy weather which has damaged the vineyards has also made vegetables and fruit scarce and dear. Their patrons, however, do not like the increased prices, and Paris, like all other capitals of the world, is wailing over the high cost of living.

The French for once do not put the blame upon the American tourists who spend their gold so lavishly in Paris and other French towns during three months each year. They politely realize that the Americans could have had nothing to do with producing the weather that has afflicted France since spring.

Another attempt at practical socialism has come to grief, this time in Poland.

Two or three years ago, owing to pressure from the socialists, workingmen began to run factories and mills on their own account. Better pay, shorter hours and a fair share of profits were to result from the new scheme.

One by one these enterprises failed. Not only did they suffer from insufficient capital but quite as much from quarrels among the men, who would not submit to orders from those of their own class. The latest example is that of a small glass manufactory in Czentochowa.

About eighty men were employed, but after a while it was found impossible to give customers the credit they demanded. A general meeting was called, but only a few rubles were added to the capital. What money could be borrowed was soon swallowed up, and the most recent creditor has now put the factory up for sale by auction.

These failures have done much to discredit the socialists among the working classes, as the agitators promised them the profits from all the larger factories and mills as soon as co-operation became general.

Rev. John Y. Broek, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, who accompanied by his brother, Rev. Albertus Broek, of Newark, has been enjoying his vacation at the home of his mother in Grand Rapids, Mich., has the pleasure of being there this week, when "Old Home Week" is being celebrated on an elaborate scale. Monday was reunion day, yesterday was old settlers' day, today, civic day, tomorrow will be fraternal and Grand Rapids day, and Friday, historical, allegorical and phantasmagorical day. In advertising the big affair, the committee in charge adopted novel methods. It scattered broadcast among former residents and friends of the city, miniature "keys to the city"; also cards with a bar of music and bearing the words: "Don't forget to come back home—August 22-27, Grand Rapids, Mich.," and buttons, bearing the words: "Beat it to Grand Rapids, Mich., Aug. 22-27, 1910." Literature setting forth the many attractions of Grand Rapids also accompanied the souvenirs. William H. Olmsted, of 331 Watchung avenue, was among those who received a program of the affair together with the souvenirs.

MOORE OPENS WAR ON ALL OPPONENTS

"Any Democratic office holder who opposes my nomination may consider himself down and out. I'll pursue to the grave the Democratic official who bucks me in this fight."

This is the warlike declaration of Councilman Charles H. Moore, candidate for the Democratic Mayoralty nomination in Elizabeth against President of Council Alfred A. Stein. Mr. Moore himself served notice, in practically the foregoing language, on at least one city officer, that his scalp would be the price if he supported Stein.

To put out of office the city officials not friendly to them the Moore faction would have to get control of Elizabeth council. They will apparently make the attempt. Among the Elizabeth officials marked for destruction if Moore and Collins win are City Clerk John F. Kenah, City Attorney James C. Connelly, City Treasurer John J. McGrath, City Comptroller John S. Sauer, City Surveyor William H. Luster, Building Inspector Edward Brennan. Most of these have already signed the Stein nomination petition.

The city clerkship, held by Kenah, is the most important office to become vacant this year. To get all the others the Collins-Moore faction would have to keep control of Council for two years.

BARBER WANTS TO BE CONGRESSIONAL NOMINEE

Former Senator Isaac Barber, of Warren county, is a candiadte for the Democratic nomination for Congressman in the Fifth District. He was Congressman Fowler's opponent two years ago and the people of his home county want him to be the standard bearer again this year.

Senator Barber two years ago made a remarkable run, polling almost 2,000 ahead of his ticket and losing the district by 7,463, while the plurality of Taft for President over Bryan was 9,318.

In Congressman Fowler's home district Barber ran 1,080 ahead of Taft, in Warren county 684 and in Morris county 265. Phillipsburg, where Senator Barber resides, gave him a majority of 1,082 over Fowler, the largest majority ever given a candidate and almost double the majority given to William J. Bryan.

Imperial Yacht Band at Proctor's.

"Wilhelmi and the Imperial Yacht Band," a foremost attraction in vaudeville, will be the headliner at Proctor's theatre on Monday. Instead of being a straight and ordinary musical entertainment, it has the distinction of combining melody wth originality and novelty. Wilhelmi in quick succession portrays Rossini, Verdi, Liszt, Strauss, Gounod, Sousa Mascagni and numerous other famous composers, while directing the band, which plays the best known compositions of these composers. The musicians assisting Wilhelmi are concert-masters and soloists of high rank. In the opening of the act four herald trumpets arei ntroduced; also two kettledrums. The band, comprising twelve members, recently came to this ocuntry from Berlin, and will be one of the biggest attractions at Proctor's in many months.

BOGUS COIN PLANT FOUND, POLICE SAY

Thomas Williams, of 27 East First street, Bayonne, arrested on suspicion of larceny last Thursday, was taken before Recorder Mara Saturday and held in $5,000 bail. Detective Sergeant Edward M. Griffin said he found a complete counterfeiting outfit in the Williams home, besides several specimens of "queer" coin, and Acting Detective John Rigney and United States Secret Service men were at once called into the case. The arrest of Williams followed that of Thomas Sternberg, who boarded with Williams. Sternberg is charged with the theft of a bicycle, a rowboat and a small power boat.

Chief Flynn, of the secret service, was in Bayonne to investigate the alleged counterfeiting end of the case. Mrs. Nettie Williams, who says she is the wife of Williams, was locked up as a suspicious person.

Complaints made to the police by persons living in the neighborhood of Lord avenue and East First street, who lost clothing from their clothes lines, baby carriages and go-carts and anything that was not nailed down, led Detective Sergeant Griffin to seek Sternberg in the Williams home, where Griffin previously had made an arrest in a like case. After Sternberg had been locked up Griffin decided to search the house, and he took another detective with him. Nettie Williams met the detectives in the doorway, and, they say, flourished a small revolver. Griffin quickly disarmed the woman and sent her to a cell.

It did not take Griffin long to unearth an abundance of clothing and stuff that he afterward asserted was stolen goods. Griffin got a surprise when he stumbled across the counterfeiting outfit. When Sternberg was questioned about the "queer" coin, the sleuths say, he asserted he often got new money from Williams and spent it, but did not know it was bogus money. Sternberg was remanded by Recorder Mara to await the result of the counterfeiting investigation.

NEWARK IS SECOND IN STEEL BUILDINGS

The United States government report on building operations in 1909 shows that Newark, New Jersey, was second to New York city in the construction of "miscellaneous fire-resisting buildings," which class includes steel skeleton structures.

Newark's preference for the steel skeleton style of construction is due partly to the proximity of the supply of fireproofing materials. As in New York city, most of the large steel buildings have their frames protected by the hollow terra cotta blocks of New Jersey clay, with floors and partitions of the same substance. The clay deposits and the kilns being nearby, at Perth Amboy, the cost of transportation is very low.

It is shown in the Government report that great progress is being made in fireproofing construction throughout the country. Of the total amount expended for new buildings in 128 large cities, in 1909, 73.24 per cent. went into the kind classified as "fire-resisting." The lesson learned from the conflagrations at Baltimore and San Francisco has led to the prevalence of the steel-and hollow-tile type, in the smaller as well as the larger cities.

LITERARY

The Metropolitan Magazine makes its September issue a fiction number, which, as the magazine appears in mid-August, is a sensible departure. Gouverneur Morris leads the fiction list with "The Wise Miss Carrington," a daringly original story of Newport life. An unusually good adventure story called "The Money-Maker" is contributed by a new writer. Henry Edward Rood's "Johnny Staples and the Suffragists" is a laughable take-off. On the same order is "Marriage as a Fine Art," in which Eugene Wood is at his best. Beverly, the nation's summer capital, is one of the society colonies seasonably described in "A Society Pilgrimage."

The Red Book Magazine, which may always be relied upon to appear each month with as admirable a collection of short fiction as it is possible to secure, seems to outdo even its own record in the September issue, just at hand. The leading story, "Jacques Bernard," by Nevil G. Henshaw, is one of the most powerful narratives of what a human being can withstand and still live, that we recall ever having read. A story that wives might well read aloud to their husbands is Pearl Wilkin's "A Tonic for Tired Women."

The new gas company has laid its mains through Maurice River Township, Cumberland County, and will begin to furnish gas in the near future.

Lower Californian Fish.

Baracouda, rock cod, halibut, white sea bass, rock bass, mackerel, whitefish and other varieties are said to abounded in the waters of Lower California.

The Poisonous Poppy.

In Turkey if a man falls asleep in the neighborhood of a poppy field and the wind flows from the field toward him he becomes narcotized and would die if the country people, who are well acquainted with the circumstances, did not bring him to a well or stream and empty pitcher after pitcher of water on his face and body.

Wooden Heels.

The so called "French" heels for women's shoes are made by hand of birch wood that has been seasoned at least two years.

Missouri's Lead Mines.

The lead mines of Missouri, which have yielded tens of millions of dollars and are not yet half worked out, were orginally discovered by a boy and a dog. The dog was chasing a rabbit and fell into a hole, and it was in getting him out that the boy found a piece of ore and took it home to show his father.

Safest Place on a Train.

The safest place to ride in a railroad train is in the middle of the middle car on the right hand side. Thus the danger of being injured in fore or aft collisions or side swipes is minimized. This is old, but will bear repeating.

Camel Caravans.

Nearly 90,000 camels are used in the vilayet of Bagdad as beasts of burden, and with donkeys they form the only means of carrying goods to inland points. Camel caravans go in "strings," seven camels to the string, with two men in charge. For a camel 450 pounds is a good load, the pack being divided into halves.

"S 5 S."

The American wireless signal of distress, "S 5 S," was adopted because easily made and quickly recognized, three dots, three dashes and three dots.

Light of the Sun.

The sun gives 600,000 times as much light as the full moon, 7,000,000,000 times as much as the brightest star in the sky and 36,000,000 times as much as all the combined stars of the heavens.

How Greeley Learned to Read.

By a singular adaptation to the changes of motion on his mother's part while spinning Horace Greeley when a youngster acquired the unwonted quality of reading with the book in almost any position, sidewise or upside down, as reddily as in the usual fashion without at that time thinking it anything unusual.

Metals.

Within the last two centuries about fifty metals have been discovered by chemist explorers, but use has been found for only a few of them.

Freaks of Lightning.

Lightning has struck, plucked feathers from and insides out of chickens and, better than some cooks, roasted them to a proper turn for the table. It has roasted apples on the tree and corn on the stalk and has struck goober and potato vines and cooked the goobers and tubers in the very ground.

Porto Rico Windbreaks.

For raising oranges or grapefruit in Porto Rico windbreaks are absolutely necessary if the grove is exposed to the trade winds, which blow continuously for nine months and which cripple unprotected trees.

Pyramid of Cheops.

Vast as modern skyscrapers are, not one has yet equaled the weight and massiveness of the pile of great stones which the swarming human ants of the Nile valley laboriously dragged together thousands of years ago until they had built the pyramid of Cheops. It would make a solid block 500 feet square and 330 feet high.

Liquid Air.

If liquid air be frozen to the consistency of slush a strong magnet suspended over it will withdraw the solid oxygen, leaving the nitrogen, a jelly-like mass, in a vessel.

The Alexandrian Library.

The library at Alexandria suffered plunderings on various occasions, but it remained practically intact until A. D. 650, when it was destroyed by the Saracens under orders of the Caliph Omar. Thus disappeared a noble collection that had endured some 930 years.

The Adirondack Plateau.

The average height of the Adirondack plateau is about 2,000 feet, although there are many peaks that are over a mile high.

A Costly Prayer Book.

Queen Elizabeth used to carry about with her suspended by a chain of pure gold a book called "The Golden Manual of Prayer," a dainty volume of 300 pages bound in "hammered virgin gold." One side of this costly volume gave a representation of the judgment of Solomon, the other the brazen serpent on the cross in the desert.

Galileo's Telescope.

Galileo's telescope, by which he discovered the satellites of Jupiter in January, 1610, is carefully preserved in the Museum of Physics and Natural History in Florence. Galileo's was the first practical telescope made.

Virginia of the Air Lanes

A ROMANCE OF FLYING

... By ...

Herbert Quick

Copyright, 1909, by the Bobbs-Merrill Company

CHAPTER XV.

A RETREAT FROM BABYLON.

THE date when the Virginia left the dunes of the Alabama coast for her first long voyage is now historic. It placed man as a flying animal on an equality with the birds and bats and insects. The gas bag of the aerostat and the aeronefs of the first decade of the century went the way of the tentative and imperfect with the steam engine of Hero and the war gins of Archimedes, Callimachus and Demetrius. The new era is one of great flying engines, beside which the Virginia was as a humming bird to a hawk, but which are, every one, built on the Virginia's principles—the direct thrust of the blades and the balancing by the automatic distribution of power by means of light gyroscopes. The new hero was the miserable young man who looked like one with his death wound and maneuvered the new machine like a veteran—Theodore Carson. Every schoolboy knows these things.

But every one does not know of her difficulty in getting off. At least three times did Carson turn back to allow Craighead to converse in farewell with Mrs. Graybill and Mr. Waddy. Finally Craighead consented to be separated from the alluring Mrs. Graybill, and, passing over the bay with a wide westerly detour, the Virginia came in over Spring hill and alighted softly at the aeronef landing at Mobile. From a hundred sally ports—streets, alleys and wharfs—poured a throng of people attracted by the strange craft that had made port.

"Howdy, folks?" said Craighead. "Take a good look, for even when ye wist not we vanish. Out of the great deep we come, into the great deep we go. The elementals who send us are the pow'fulest spirits what there is. But a brief space have we to warn Mobile. Repent! Repent! Yet a few mo' days an' Mobile shall be done destroyed!"

"Dan Thomas," said Carson to an old negro with a whip in his hand, "come here!"

"Yes, Mistah Cahson," responded the negro.

"Fetch me at once one No. 2 can of A quality methanose, and get me a list of the aeronat clearings for the last two days."

"Yes, suh."

Thomas darted away.

"Pardon me," said a man who had a withered arm drawn up to his side in such a way as to give one the impression that he was holding his breath, "but are you going far so short handed?"

"Not far—in time," replied Theodore.

"Only to Alaska," added Craighead. "We meet a Russian admiral in St. Michael at 3. If that nigger doesn't hurry we shall be late, general, and what will Admiral Phlaskovodka say then?"

The man lifted his sailor hat, bowed politely and stepped back, unveiling a face behind him which Carson knew—the foxy, suspicious face of Wizner, the inventor of the lost helicopter. Carson stooped as if for some casual purpose and laid hold on a spanner.

With the spanner in his hand he rose, and with an angry leap he stood in the midst of the crowd. Wizner had fled, but through the thinned crowd Theodore saw his wiry figure, with the arm that Virginia's bullet had reached hanging in a sling. Carson gave chase. Some one cried, "Stop him!" and an officer, seeing in Carson the only fugitive in sight, stopped him.

"Let me go!" cried Carson, struggling. "Come with me and arrest a man for attempt to murder."

A boy in a messenger cap interrupted the colloquy by calling "Mr. Cahson, Mr. Cahson!" as if "raging" a man in a hotel.

"I'm Carson," said Theodore. "What do you want?"

"Somebody on the wire for you at the telephone booth in the hotel," replied the messenger.

Wondering who in Mobile might desire speech with him, Carson said, "Who's this?" into the transmitter.

"Your old friend Wizner," said the receiver. "Crazy as ever. Never mind where I am. I'll tell that after I've talked if you want me to, you pup!"

Carson glared fiercely into the receiver.

"I didn't get that," said Carson.

"You can have me pinched, but I can prove an alibi. And while I'm proving things I'll fix you fellows for smuggling and put Harrod where the dogs won't bite him and you too!"

"I don't know anything about smuggling," protested Theodore.

"Well," went on Wizner, "if you dig into the big sand hill with the steel buoy on it, you will. You'll find what'll put you in a better trade than putting me in prison for a frolic with your aeronef. Oh, don't talk so innocent! How did you finance your airship except by free trade?"

Carson had nothing to say. He remembered Captain Harrod's expression when Wizner had called him an old smuggling fool. He remembered a thousand mysterious things now made plain by the hypothesis of Harrod's having yielded to the coastwise temptation of smuggling. Wizner uttered into the instrument a sly, sinister, exasperating chuckle.

"Lose your tongue?" he taunted. "Well, arrest me. Any one can tell you where I am. But will the girl leave Silberberg to come and testify? The courtship's just getting good now. Too bad to disturb them!"

Carson hurled the receiver away and strode back to the Virginia. He found Thomas, the negro, with two men, hoisting the can of methanose aboard.

Thomas gave him the list of aeronat clearings.

The sailings were not many—the Tern for Memphis, the Long Tom for St. Andrews Bay, and, yes, the Roc departing the morning before "for northern points."

"We can overhaul the Tern," said Craighead, with a judicial air, "at, say, Jackson, and take on our friends for Alaska. I do hope the president can join us at Omaha. Gentlemen," addressing the crowd, "here you see a new aeronef invented by me. By reaching Alaska before nightfall we win a million dollars. This is a sure thing, as the sun will not set there for three months. The bet is with a Brazilian who forgot about the days coming quarterly at Nome. But we shall be honorable and pay him the million on the nail if we fail to make it before sunset in Rio, the real locus. Tomorrow we shall win five hundred thousand from Rothschild by leaving Greenwich observatory at sunrise going west and returning at sunrise next day from the east, circling the world in twenty-four hours of continued sunrise. Wish us well, gentlemen! Good-by, honest peasantry, your country's pride, good-by!"

The majestic rise of the Virginia, with no preliminary run, drew a round of applause. Craighead waved his cap, but Carson, paying no attention, laid the Virginia dead for New York. They flew high, and the constant picking up and dropping of railway trains and steamers and the swift succession of villages and towns spoke of the fierceness with which the Virginia was hurled against the leagues between Mobile and New York. They left Montgomery to port and Atlanta to starboard. Carson had assigned himself and Craighead their duties, and both were busy. Craighead at the tiller, with his eye on the compass, Carson looking at every working part, oiling, feeling for hot bearings, watching for the slightest quiver or jar, greedy of every mile. Finally they were speeding along over the great national Appalachian forest when he relieved Craighead.

In the little locker were found the elements from which Craighead prepared the luncheon of bacon, eggs and coffee, cooked on the methanose stove.

"We shall get into the upper Atlantic regions," said Carson, "just in time to hit the area of local storms tonight."

He looked from the tiller to the compass and hesitated about leaving it to eat. He had never tried letting the Virginia follow her nose with the tiller lashed.

"Of course," said he, "she'll fall off. But if she turns I can put her back on her course. I believe I'll try her."

Whereupon Craighead recited a poem:

"I go away this blessed day
To sail across the state, Matilda.
My airship starts for various parts
At twenty after eight, Matilda.
I do not know where we may go
Or whether near or far, Matilda,
For Captain Carson don't make a parson
Of any foremost tar, Matilda.
That mystic man beneath my ban
Shall suffer, coute qu'il coute, Matilda.
What right has he to keep from me
The fairy, scary route, Matilda?
Although, in sooth, I am a youth
Of common sailor lot, Matilda,
Am I a man on human plan
Designed, or am I not, Matilda?

"An echo, if there were any place to echo from, would answer, 'Not Matilda!' Have some of the milk while the Virginia chases her tail above Mr. Pinchot's forest."

"She doesn't chase her tail much," replied Carson, "so far, at least."

She did not. The gyroscopes held her on an even keel, and the altimeter statoscope delivered the verdict that the Virginia was following a course as level as a battleship's. Carson ate, watched the triumphant test and forgot to frown, and he little knew toward what danger he was hurling himself.

Peak after peak, village after village and occasionally a big smokeless town about the national power plants of the Leighton reservoirs came hurrying toward them, passed beneath like visions and fell behind.

"See that big stratus cloud?" asked Carson. "Shall we go over or under it?"

"Personally," replied Craighead, "I've been under a cloud long enough."

The stratus was an immense vapor sheet half a mile above the earth. Underneath were the gloom and dullness of cloudy weather, but above it the sun shone with a brightness augmented by the brilliancy reflected from the upper surface of the cloud as from a great glittering plain of snow. The sun was past the meridian and shining warm, but on the wing over that great expanse of pearl the air felt, not cold, but "caller," and they put on their topcoats. The shadow of the Virginia ran with her across the cloud like a black bat haloed in the unspeakable glory of a triple rainbow which ringed the scudding shadow about in concentric circles, so bright, so resplendent in dye, so glorious in their minglings lines, that the voyagers, glancing from radiance to radiance, lowered their voices to the thrill of a beauty too intense for speech.

The immense engines were moving more regularly than clockwork, keeping the pledge of their makers that if supplied with fuel and oil they would run without a single stop until worn out—the perfection of the internal combustion engine, once so untrustworthy.

"I want to see where we are," finally said Carson. "This is like an open ocean. I want to compare the map with the landscape."

Obedient to the tilted rudders, the Virginia pointed her prow downward. Her propeller blades hurled her swiftly forward and toward the earth, and she plunged into the cold stream of the stratus cloud into mist and white scarfs of lacy fog and the snowy obscurity of an aerial blizzard. Craighead gasped at the chill and the blindness.

"Ring for a guide," said he. "I'm lost."

He was not lost for long, for the Virginia clove the fleecy hoodwink and emerged through its lower levels into the clear shadows of the nether air. They could feel the warmth radiated from the ground, balmy with earthy scents. Far to the northeast lay a shining river, widening at the limit of vision into a broad estuary, and just within sight could be discerned the clustered spires and towers of a city. Carson looked the landscape over and studied his map.

"Craighead," cried Carson, "we've made Richmond three hours quicker than I thought it possible. A stork or a Canada goose couldn't have covered the distance, and both sometimes go 200 miles an hour! Why"—

"Let us exult over yon insufferable plutes!" cried Craighead. "Let's fly rings around 'em! Let's sail circles around the snobs!"

Craighead, scanning the southeast with his fieldglasses, had discovered at a distance of six or seven miles a huge silver aeronat steering northward. Theodore threw over the tiller and made for the airship. Craighead looked at him in wonder.

"That ship looks," said Carson, advancing the spark and crowding the engines, "like the Roc."

After a few moments on a straight course to intersect that of the aeronat Carson threw the Virginia up into the cloud. Soon they emerged on the shining upper levels of the cloud, which hid their approach to the other craft. One below the curtain and one above it, the airship of the future and the airship of the past flew on converging courses. They dropped below the cloud into the thinner vapor. They looked about—and saw nothing. And yet, above the purring of the machinery, came to their ears the tremor from powerful engines. Could the Condor have ascended into the cloud as they descended from it? Voices came closer and closer.

"My God, Carson!" shouted Craighead. "You're going foul of her. Look down!"

Just in time Carson looked. From the depths of air below the great bubble of silver rose, swelling in her swift approach. A collision meant ruin. The propelling blades of the aeronef would cut the envelope of the gas holder like paper, and the two ships in a huge mass of tangled wreckage would fall to the earth in death and ruin, or the escaping gas from the aeronet, ignited from the exhaust of the Virginia's engines, might explode, hurling the fragments of both vessels far and wide. And Carson saw in the ruin the fair form of Virginia Suarez hurled to earth from the Roc and crushed to formlessness below.

Quick as lightning Carson threw on full speed forward. The Virginia obeyed her machinery, and as she swooped to the aeronat's starboard the latter rose swiftly. The Virginia's stern rudder grazed the gas bag and was all but carried away; a cord of the suspension system of the airship snapped with a detonation that set the huge fabric in a tremble. There rose a cry from the deck of the hitherto unconscious monster as her people realized the fearful fact that here in these dizzy heights they were in collision with something. A man came running out of the cabin with a gun in his hand, as if with some wild notion of giving battle to the destroyer.

The Virginia was half a mile from the airship before the crew of the latter had time to assure themselves of her safety. The Virginia went astern as well as athwart the course of the other craft, and as she sheered to starboard the aeronef and the aeronat sped from each other at the sum of their two speeds, perhaps four miles a minute. The people on the latter must have thought the other gone forever when an astounding thing happened. The aeronef wheeled about and gave chase—nay, she gave chase so swiftly that she swelled visibly in her swift overhauling of the aeronat. In a time so short that it seemed like a breath the Virginia, on a level now with the other's deck, came in close astern, then sheered off and deliberately ran around the big Condor as she stood on her course at full speed. As she crossed the bows a cry went out from the great ship's engine room—a cry of mingled fear and astonishment. Why did this new craft so course about them? It was some new engine of aviation—that was sure. And with such incredible speed and such unheard of mobility!

So as Carson came up on his second circumnavigation of the Condor there stood at the rail of the big airship two or three men with guns, who made threatening gestures and shouted to him to stand off or they would shoot.

"What ship is that?" cried Carson.

"None of your business! You stand off or we'll shoot!"

FARMER IN FEAR OF GHOSTS.

Blaming a ghost for setting the house on fire and slashing clothing, the family of George Dunlap appealed to the sheriff, and as a result one of the family has been arrested at Dover. The sheriff believes the "ghost" is a demented person or one who has a grudge against the family.

Many neighbors in Dover say they have heard strange noises in the house and are afraid to pass the farm after dark. Each night it is said four sharp raps are heard on the house. Two fires have been started, clothing slashed, frogs have been found in the beds, and books torn.

The under sheriff arrested Mrs. Jennie Kellogg, a daughter of Dunlap, but she denied she was responsible.

Mr. and Mrs. John S. Johnson, of Westervelt avenue, are spending their vacation at Camden, Maine.

Mrs. Garret M. Conover and daughter, Jessamine, of Asbury Park, are visiting relatives in this city.

24 YEARS SAME STAND

GOLF.

Scores in the amateur championship two weeks hence at Brookline may be lower than the 76 to 79 regarded as about the best to be expected on the enlarged course. The turf is said to be sadly in need of rain and plenty of it. The ball now gets a run equal to that on a dry western course, which should be good news to the players to appear from beyond the Alleghanies, who are adepts at scoring under these conditions. The scores to make the local committee pray for a deluge have been 74 by Tully, a hitherto unknown Massachusetts amateur, and 67 by Aleck Campbell, brother of the "Nipper."

Play in the New York Golf Club tournament at Van Cortlandt Park, on September 1, 2 and 3, is open only to amateurs resident at this time in the city of New York. The first prize is "The Herald" cup, which after having been in play for many years as a perpetual trophy was changed in 1907 so that it will become the property of the player with two victories. William Wallace and Theodore Cassabeer have since been winners. There are medals, of gold and silver, respectively, for the winner and runner-up, also the gift of "The Herald," and those who are defeated in the second round, the beaten eight, are eligible for a consolation cup given by John P. O'Connell, of the New York Golf Club.

Play will begin with a qualifying round of eighteen holes, and the best thirty-two will keep on, at the match play for the title, the opening matches being the same afternoon. All entries must be sent to Francis J. Kelly, secretary of the New York Golf Club, No. 463 West street, not later than August 27.

BASEBALL.

Now when does the Y. M. C. A. team cross bats with the Plainfield bunch? And a game between the two teams would be a good one for those association boys are playing classy ball and don't forget that for a minute.

SILVER BAY SUNDAY SCHOOL CONTRIBUTES

A subscription of $6.12 was sent into The Daily Press Baby Camp fund by the Sunday school of the Silver Bay Conference Association, Lake George, N. Y., through William D. Murray, of this city, who is the president of the organization. The subscription was accompanied by the following letter:

"At our Sunday school here, made up of about thirty children whose fathers are helping in our summer institute, we take an offering for children less favored than ourselves. So we send you this money to be used for the support of the Baby Camp. We have already sent our money to the work at Netherwood. There are over five hundred of us here enjoying the beauties of this spot and studying and teaching at the same time."

MONTCLAIR HAS "GHOST CAT."

With Flaming Eyes and Plumed Tail, It Appears Only to Fade Away.

A phantom cat, black in color, with blazing eyes and a waving, plume like tail, is exciting residents of Princeton place, Montclair. The police and health departments of Montclair, were both notified about the cat yesterday by residents of Princeton place.

A policeman learned that the cat had caused much alarm among the children of the neighborhood. The cat appears suddenly and mysteriously in the street, and when confronted by any person its eyes seem to give forth a peculiar light and its tail swings back and forth above its back with an uncanny motion. Those who have seen the cat say that while gazing at the tail the animal seems to vanish into thin air.

POPE REBUKES THE WOMEN.

Orders Bishops to Condemn the "Scandalous Attire."

London, Aug. 24.—A despatch from Rome received here yesterday by a news agency states that Pope Pius X has requested all bishops to publish pastoral letters disapproving the prevailing feminine fashions.

Several Italian bishops, says the despatch, have already done so at Milan, Turin and Venice. At these places the priests are denouncing in the churches the "scandalous attire" in which women have been appearing in public.

BOTTLE OR BALLOT RULE

Question Propounded by Former Assemblyman S. S. Swackhamer.

WHICH IS THE BIGGER TYRANT?

Hailed as Next Governor of the State By Grangers—Some Terse Arguments in His Speech.

That mighty and ever consistent champion of local option, S. S. Swackhamer addressed a large assembly of Democrats at Flemington last night, on his favorite topic. Frequent outbursts of applauding approval marked Mr. Swackhamer's utterances, especially at the end of his speech, when he declared that a sad experience teaches the people to dare to do their duty regardless of consequences. The speech in part follows:

A big question mark like a ham hook stands up in the path of the Democratic party on its way to Trenton on the 15th of September.

The question is this:

Is the bottle better than the ballot?

This question has been put to the Republican party and that party has answered that question in the affirmative, in solemn, deliberate, legislative terms. That party is therefore committed to a denial of the right of the elective franchise on the license question.

Thirty-six months ago, while the Republican Legislature was repudiating this right to vote, the English Parliament was passing, by an overwhelming majority, the following resolution:

"Resolved, That this House notes with satisfaction the successful working of the local option laws in the colonies, and approves the principle on which these laws are based, namely: that the people ought to posess the power through a vote of the local electors to protect themselves against the admitted evils of the liquor traffic."

Which then is the bigger tyrant, the King of England or the Republican boss?

Which could sing with sweeter accents and better grace, "My Country 'Tis of Thee, Sweet Land of Liberty?" Which is the "land of the free and the home of the brave," the land whose symbol is the Union Jack, or the land whose symbol is the Stars and Stripes?

It is the conviction of Democrats that, with mallet and chisel, Vox Populi; Vox Dei, should be chipped from the face of our capitol and be cut into the front of the British House of Parliament.

It's a pretty bold, insolent and defiant political combination that refuses to let the taxpayers vote on a question so vital and important to their interests and that puts the will and wishes of the few above the will and wishes of the many.

In Montclair some time ago, it was threatened that an additional license would be granted there, and that two licenses would be renewed, in spite of the claim that the places were conducted in open violation of the law.

A petition was secured, signed by 1,250 citizens protesting against the granting of any additional license.

A day for a hearing before the Council was set, and a hall rented. The people presented their petition and arguments. The liquor dealers presented a petition signed by 100 citizens.

The Council took the matter under advisement and the next morning the people found that the new license had been granted and the other two had been renewed.

That is what the Republican machine calls government of the people, by the people and for the people, and that is what it calls protection to the home-maker and justice to the taxpayer, made bow-legged by the crushing weight of his taxes, piled up by the same political monster.

It is the conviction of Democrats that the people and not the Council should grant or deny a liquor license, and that the will and wishes of 1,250 citizens should prevail as against the will and wishes of 100 citizens, and not the will and wishes of 100 as against the will and wishes of 1,250.

Do you think there is a disinterested Democrat or Republican in New Jersey who will gainsay the proposition that a citizen of New Jersey should have the right to vote?

In 43 States of the American Union, a political party has marched to certain victory by opening the ballot box which had been locked by a political boss, and now the people in 43 States, are allowed to vote on the license question; that is, they are free; but in three States of the

GWYER FOUND GUILTY; SENTENCE SUSPENDED

In the city court this morning Judge Runyon rendered his decision in the case of the city against LeRoy Gwyer on a charge of disorderly conduct and assault upon Conductor John Kiely on Saturday night, August 6. The judge found Gwyer guilty as charged in the complaint, but suspended sentence.

In rendering his decision Judge Runyon said that the preponderance of evidence seemed to carry out the allegations of the conductor and motorman of the car and he could not but find the defendant guilty of the offence.

Mr. Gwyer was represented in court by S. S. Swackhamer and the Public Service Corporation by its regular counsel, Judge Clarence L. Case. The corporation's counsel was not present this morning when the judge's verdict was given.

MRS. J. R. SERRELL DIES AFTER A LONG ILLNESS

After a lingering illness, Mrs. John A. Serrell, of Myrtle avenue, died at her home this morning at 4 o'clock. Mrs. Serrell had been an invalid since last February but it was expected that she was on the road to recovery until two weeks ago when a turn for the worse occurred.

Mrs. Serrell had been a resident of the borough for over five years and had made a host of friends in both North Plainfield and this city. She was a member of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, and of the Daughters of the Cross, City Union of King's Daughters. Mrs. Serrell was actively engaged in the social affairs at the Park Club until she was taken sick in February. She was loved and admired by a large circle of friends.

Mrs. Serrell is survived by her husband, John A. Serrell, one son, Jack Serrell and daughter, Miss Grace Serrell, all living in the borough. Six brothers and two sisters Mrs. Craig Ketcham, of Chicago, and Mrs. John Eadie, of Bayonne, also survive the dead woman.

GUBERNATORIAL ASPIRANT VISITS PLAINFIELD TODAY.

Vivian M. Lewis, State Banking and Insurance Commissioner, who now leads in the race for the Gubernatorial nomination on the Republican ticket, stopped in Plainfield for a short time today on his way to his home in Passaic from Red Bank, where he attended the anniversary celebration of Father Reynolds, of the Catholic church at that place.

Mr. Lewis was accompanied by Charles Graydon and E. S. Moore, of Paterson. The trip was being made by automobile. The visit of Mr. Lewis here had no political significance. He stopped to talk with Geo. J. Tobin and a few other friends here.

Wagon Damaged by Auto.

A wagon owned by Dominick Juropinno, of Westfield, was damaged last evening on Watchung avenue while in collision with Dr. Ellis Hedge's automobile. A wheel was taken off the wagon and neither the doctor nor Juropino was injured.

TOBIAS W. NOLAN WEDS MISS MARY W. M'CARTHY

Miss Mary A. McCarthy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin McCarthy, of Manson place, and Tobias W. Nolan, of 634 East Third street, were married at St. Mary's church at 12 o'clock today in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends of the couple. Rev. Father Hogan, assistant pastor of the church, performed the ceremony.

The bride was attended by Miss Blanche Skinner, of this city, as bridesmaid, while Joseph McCarthy, a brother of the bride, was best man. Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where a wedding luncheon was served. The bride, who is well known here, is popular in a large circle of friends and acquaintances.

The groom is a popular member of the city police force, having held the position of patrolman for several years. After the reception this afternoon the bride and groom left on a wedding trip which will include Niagara Fall and points of interest in Canada. The bride was the recipient of a large collection of wedding gifts.

NEWS OF NIECE'S DEATH FATAL TO MRS. HAND

The death of Mrs. Fanny Hand, wife of Captain Hand, which occurred yesterday afternoon, was a shock to a large circle of her friends. Mrs. Hand's sudden passing away was due to the news received just a few hours before telling of the death by drowning, of her niece, Miss Jennie Shoemaker, of Philadelphia, which occurred at Beach Haven on Tuesday. Miss Shoemaker was a favorite niece of Mrs. Hand, and in her weakened condition, caused by feeble health, was unable to withstand the shock.

As stated in The Daily Press of yesterday, Mrs. Hand was Fanny M. Cushing, daughter of Milton Cushing, who was owner and editor of The Plainfield Union, one of the early publications here. She was born here July 4, 1837, and lived here all her life. She was married to Captain Hand in 1854 at Rahway, Rev. William Rollinson, pastor of the First Baptist church, Westfield, performing the ceremony.

The couple celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at Truell Hall, May 11, 1907, it being a notable event, owing to the presence of many prominent persons from this city as well as all parts of the State. The members of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., and the Women's Relief Corps, with which organizations the couple were actively identified, attended in a body. Mrs. Hand was a sincere and devout Christian, being a member of the Congregational church, where she was a regular attendant.

Mrs. Hand, as well as her many relatives, was identified with the early growth of the city, and during her later years was fond of recalling interesting incidents of those days, especially at the time of the outbreak of the Civil War, when her husband left her to go to war. John Hand, a brother of Captain Hand, who also enlisted, was the first Plainfielder killed in the war. He was buried at Scotch Plains, and the local camp of Sons of Veterans was named for him.

Besides a husband, Mrs. Hand leaves two sons, Fred Hand, of this city, and Milton C. Hand, of Jersey City; two sisters, Mrs. Jennie Shoemaker and Miss Mary Ella Cushing, of Philadelphia; also eight grandchildren, a nephew residing in Philadelphia, and two nieces, one in Philadelphia, and the other in Brooklyn. Among the grandchildren are Stephen B. Cushing and Mrs. Louis Eaton, of New York. The funeral will be held from the late home, Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Burial of Albert Rutan.

The remains of Albert Rutan, who died a few days ago at Goshen, N. Y., arrived here at 11.30 o'clock this morning and were met by a large delegation of members from Plainfield Lodge, No. 44, I. O. O. F., at the request of the Goshen lodge. The burial was in North Plainfield cemetery, Rev. Ora J. Shoop, pastor of Grace M. E. church, officiating and conducting the services.

Welcome Home Meeting.

The meeting at the Salvation Army tent tonight will be in the nature of a welcome home to Adjutant Mrs. Jackson and Captain Gallagher, of the Industrial department, who have returned from their vacation. A profitable time is assured and a cordial invitation is extended to all.

CAMDEN VISITS THE OVAL

Bring Threatening Clouds and Heavy Bats But Chances for Local Victory Bright.

LOOK AT TODAY'S LINE-UP.

Grand Stand Filled With Feminine Fans and a Special Policeman Engaged to Look After Fouls.

Play ball! ! !

That's what! Who? The Elks? Well, I guess yes! ! !

The scene of the conflict at the Oval this afternoon presents a most spectaular appearance. The grand stand is filled with charming members of the fair sex and every one of them is a fan rooting for the success of the home team.

The line-up has the same confident appearance that they had at Camden a week ago, with the single exception that that greedy devourer of grounders at third was not present. We refer to "Doc" Cadmus Craig will take the Doc's place at third because the ambulance will probably not be needed at any stage of the game.

Aanyhow, with Warry McLoughlin on the mound and Torpey at the receiving end and everybody trying to split the empyrean with their yells Camden will have something to do to prevent an avalanche of runs.

It is certain that no matter where the foul lines are marked out the local 885 men will be there with the big mitt and prevent mistakes by the judge of the play.

Owing to the fact that the wireless apparatus broke down just after the sun tried to break a hole through a cloud, apparently brought with malice aforethought by the Camden contingent.

STOKES PETITION FILED IN UNION COUNTY ALSO

A copy of the petition of former Governor Edward C. Stokes, Republican candidate for United States Senator by popular vote at the primaries, was received yesterday by County Clerk James C. Calvert, in accordance with the provisions of Chapter 281, of the Laws of 1907. Accompanying the petition, which contained a stack of affidavits but which was minus the eleven hundred and some odd signatures attached to the original, was the following letter from Secretary of State Dickinson:

"James C. Calvert, County Clerk,
Elizabeth N. J.:

"Dear Sir—In pursuance with the provisions of chapter 281, of the Laws of 1907, we are enclosing you herewith the petition of nomination of Edward C. Stokes, Republican candidate for United States Senator, certified to in accordance with an opinion of the Attorney-General recently filed in this office in connection with certifications made in pursuance with the provisions of said act.

"We will forward certified copies of the petitions of any candidate as rapidly as the petitions may be filed and you will please regard this as your authority for accepting such certification.

"Very truly yours,
"S. D. DICKINSON,
"Secretary of State."

Preparing for Stock Shows.

Owing to the fact that all of the time is required to prepare for the opening of the new stock company on September 5, "The Smart Set", booked to appear here on September 3, will open elsewhere. Already several carloads of scenery for the use of stock productions have been received at the Plainfield theatre, and everything is being gotten ready for the initial performance on Labor Day. The name of the production will be announced soon.

Cahill-Zimmerman.

Miss Agnes Cahill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Cahill, of 682 West Front street, and Walter J. Zimmerman, of South Bound Brook, were married at Grace M. E. church parsonage, on Park place, last night, by the pastor, Rev. Ora J. Shoop. The couple was accompanied by Mrs. Azro Hebard, of 329 Watchung avenue, who was a witness. The groom is employed at the Pond Machine Tool Works.

ONLY TWO BIG PARTIES CAN HAVE CHALLENGERS

Charles N. Fowler will have no challengers at the primaries, as it has been decided only members of district boards of election have the right to challenge voters. The members of the election board were chosen by the Republican organization and no recognition was given the Fowler forces. This also cuts off the Progressives, where they have candidates, and the representatives of the minor parties.

The act approved April 15, 1909, provides that the members of the District Board of Elections, divided into two sections according to party connectons, shall conduct the primary elections of such party and shall have sole charge of the ballot-boxes of said party and shall have the sole right to challenge voters offering to vote the ticket of such party as in the act provided.

It further provides that all members of said district board of registration and elections shall conduct the primary elections in any other political party, the two leadng political parties holding the primary elections under this act.

NEW CANCELLING DEVICE FOR LOCAL POSTOFFICE

Postmaster Elias H. Bird was notified today by the postal authorities at Washington that his request for a new cancelling machine had been granted and that it would be shipped to him by express from New York at once. The new machine, which is called the "Flyer", and is said to be the fastest of its kind in the world, is capable of stamping from 35,000 to 85,000 pieces of mail an hour.

The machine is so constructed that the man who operates it is only required to fill the "hoppen", start it going, and it requires no further attention. Only one impression is placed upon a letter and that in the upper right-hand corner, where the stamp is supposed to be affixed. No matter how long the letter, it will only receive one impression. Another notable imprvement is that every piece of mail going through the machne is counted up to 10,000,000, when the register has to be reset.

The machine is the invention of Hey & Dolphin, and is handled by the International Postal Supply Co., of 150 Nassau street, New York, from which place the machine for this office will come. Postmaster Bird is congratulating himself on securing this machine, for this will be one of the few offices of its size to have one. Newark has two and Jersey City and Trenton each have one.

HERTZ'S LACE STORE IN FINANCIAL TROUBLE.

As counsel for Marcus Silbert, Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., this morning, had the Hertz lace store on East Front street closed by the foreclosure of a chattel mortgage, given by the proprietor, Martin Hertz, to Mr. Silbert. The mortgage was originally for $2,700 and represented Mr. Silbert's one-half interest in the concern at the time of his retirement one year ago. There is a balance of $700 unpaid and in arrears on the mortgage. Mr. Silbert also has a preferred claim of $900 rent unpaid. There are a number of other creditors.

The foreclosure sale will take place on Tuesday, September 5. The papers were served this morning by Constable John Manley.

Local Golfers' Good Score.

Lounsbery, of the Plainfield Country Club, returned a card of 42, 39 for a total of 81, in the best ball competition, the preliminary to the annual open championship of the Metropolitan Golf Association, over the links of the Deal Golf and County Club, yesterday. Alex. Smith, national and metropolitan open title holder, and T. V. Bermingham won the event yesterday. The championship play started this morning.

BOARDMAN TO PRESIDE AT FOWLER'S MEETING

Richard M. Boardman, of Putnam avenue, will preside at the meeting to be held by Charles N. Fowler at the New Plainfield theatre, which he has engaged for the purpose tonight. As there will be no vice presidents not until the meeting is called to order will the "regulars" learn who in Plainfield oppose their fellow townsman, Judge Runyon, for the Congressional nomination. Music will be furnished and women are invited. The meeting will be opened at 8 o'clock.

It is reported that Mr. Fowler will talk for about two hours on "the issues of the campaign," and many are curious to know whether he will let loose again the Fowler mud-batteries on some of the Fifth district leaders.

Mr. Boardman, the presiding officer, is a Newark lawyer.

CANDIDATES' PETITIONS FILED WITH CO. CLERK

In addition to the filing of the petitions of Augustus W. Schwartz, of Elizabeth; Lloyd Thompson, of Westfield, and Peter Meisel, of Springfield, for the Assembly nominations on the Republican ticket, those of the Democratic candidates, Calvin B. Broadhead, of this city; Abram Morse, of Springfield, and Hugh McLoughlin, of Elizabeth, were filed with County Clerk James C. Calvert, yesterday. The petitions of Dr. J. L. Weil, of Cranford, the Republican candidate, and Dr. A. W. Lamy, of Elizabeth, the Democratic candidate for coroner, were also filed, and Charles A. Chidsey, Republican candidate for mayor of Elizabeth, filed his papers yesterday morning.

After due deliberation, the Fowler forces decided to put two Assembly candidates in the field, they being Census Supervisor Louis V. Hoagland and Lester E. Wurfel, of Elizabeth. Petitions for these two candidates were filed yesterday.

Copies of the petitions of James E. Martine and Frank McDermott, who seek a seat in the United States Senate to succeed John Kean, were filed with Clerk Cavert, this morning, while a copy of Congressman Fowler's petition was filed yesterday, which is according to law.

NOTICES OF ELECTION SOON TO BE PUBLISHED

Some few changes were in the district boards by reason of resignations at the meeting of the Union County Board of Elections at its rooms at the court house in Elizabeth this morning. It was found that the published reports had asserted that the Cranford Chronicle had been named as one of the papers for official publication of election notices whereas the Republicans had recommended the Cranford Citizen and notices has already been sent the Citizen of its selection.

The primary and general election notices as approved by the board were sent out by Clerk Peter Tillman today to the six official papers, The Daily Press, Plainfield; the Daily Journal and the Evening Times, Elizabeth; the Cranford Citizen; the Summit Record and the Rahway News-Herald.

The board will meet again next Tuesday.

CLASSIC LABOR DAY PROGRAM AT WESTFIELD.

Lovers of horse flesh will see some classy racing at Westfield on Labor Day. The feature of the day will be an attempt by Miss Syracuse, the mare owned by T. S. Miller, of Newark, to lower the track record. Miss Syracuse, who has a mark of 2:10½, recently defeated Aaron B., the local speedster, in a special match race at Newark.

The program for Labor Day includes a free-for-all trot ($300); a 2:20 trot and pace ($300); a 2:30 trot and pace ($300); a 2:50 trot and pace for club-members only; a one-mile running race ($125); a quick hitch race; and a mule race.

Base Drum Frightened Horse.

Frightened by the thump of the big base drum played in the band which was advertising a barbecue shortly after 12 o'clock today a horse attached to a wagon belonging to G. F. Schiblein bolted and nearly wrecked a buggy standing in front of the office of Kaine's plumbing establishment on North avenue. Nobody was hurt.

WRECKED HIS GARDEN

Romeo's Tomato Plants Pulled Up and His Apartments Flooded.

ALLEGED VICTIM OF SPITE.

Mrs. Catharine Becker Fined $10 For Alleged Malicious Acts—Repetition Means Jail Sentence.

"No, sir, I am not a relation of that man! How could I be? I am a Jew and he's an Italian."

Gertrude Kleinman, a witness in the case brought against Mrs. Catharine Becker in the city court, this morning, showed her disinterestedness in the case by propounding the question above to Counsellor J. Henry Crane, when he, representing Tony Romeo, the Italian complainant, tried to discover whether there was any collusion between witnesses.

The complaint made against Mrs. Becker by Romeo, who, by the way, appeared without Juliet, was that Mrs. Becker had torn up and destroyed tomato and other plants in the back yard of the residence at 236 East Fourth street on the morning of Saturday, August 13, besides drenching his apartments with water and destroying mail matter delivered on that day. Romeo is Mrs. Becker's tenant.

Miss Kleinman declared that she had seen the woman at work in the garden pulling up the tomato vines and had also seen her throw the contents of a pail over the floor of Romeo's apartments three times. Miss Kleinman's testimony was of that positive nature which convinces, and after hearing Mrs. Becker in her own behalf Judge Runyon fined her $10. The judge added the information for the benefit of Mrs. Becker that another similar offense would entail a jail sentence without fine.

Mrs. Becker said on the stand that she had pulled up some of the Italian's vegetables and that she did it to get square for something that had happened before. She declared that Romeo had been in the habit of selling beer at the house where they both live and that in so doing he had brought the opprobrium of the neighbors on her house. Romeo said that the only beer he ever had in the house was that bought for his own consumption, and that it was his opinion that Mrs. Becker was either crazy or drunk when she made such serious assertions against him. The court evidently agreed with the hero of Shakespeare's comedy and imposed the sentence above noted. Mrs. Becker was represented by Francis J. Blatz.

MUST KEEP AWAY FROM CEMENT COMPANY'S PLANT.

Five Boys were arraigned before Judge William N. Runyon, this morning, on charges of malicious mischief. It was claimed by J. F. Shepherd, superintendent of the Plainfield Cement Stone Co.'s plant, that the boys had made a practice of running through the yards of the company during the night at hours when it is impossible to see their faces, and that they had broken cement forms and tracked tar over some of the product of the company, involving considerable money loss.

Judge Runyon told the boys that their parents would have to pay heavy fines for a repetition of the offense, and suspended sentence in this particular case. The youngsters promised to keep away from the plant in future and tell the other offenders who failed to appear in court this morning of the fate which awaits them.

Carnival was a Success.

The carnival conducted by the members of the Marconnier chapel at Oak Tree, for the beefit of the building fund, came to a close last night. It was a great success. Roland H. Leveridge, the director-general, was pleased with the financial returns. The attendance last night far exceeded that of the opening night. Walter Palmer and his daughter, Miss Florence Palmer, of New York, entertained the crowd with moving pictures and songs, Miss Palmer's work being a feature.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

Wesley Huff and John Moxensick, two borough lads, had a narrow escape from serious injury while playing on North avenue at the corner of Prospect yesterday afternoon, when a local automobile turned the corner and just missed running over the two boys. Huff and Moxensick were wrestling by the side of the road and were so entirely absorbed in their sport that they paid no attention to their position in the roadway. They had gradually moved into the center of the road, and one of the boys was just about to throw the other, when the automobile made the turn. The boys were entirely hidden from the view of the driver of the auto. Fortunately the machine was going at a slow rate of speed and the driver of the car had the presence of mind to avoid hitting the boys by a quick turn to the left. But the boys were certainly scared and have ceased their wrestling contests in the public highways for a while.

While Miss Della Fedderman was walking toward her home on Washington avenue yesterday, leading her own dog beside her, she was bitten on the hand by a large Newfoundland dog, which is owned by one of the neighbors. The wound, while not serious, caused Miss Fedderman considerable pain. Doctor Platt cauterized the laceration to prevent any possibility or rabies. It is thought by those who witnessed the affair that the Newfoundland dog was not at all vicious in his actions but that he ran out after the dog, which Miss Fedderman had with her, and in so doing happened to bite the lady's hand instead of the dog's foot.

Russell Runyon and Clarence T. Voorhees, who have been spending a few days in Atlantic City, returned to the borough last night. They reported that they had had the time of their lives and that Atlantic City is the place for a good time.

The machinery at the plant of the Dunellen Lumber and Stone Company is undergoing repairs by skilled workmen. The regular work of the crusher will be resumed within a few days in order to supply some new orders for crushed stone.

A fire hydrant for Whittier avenue is bing considered by the borough council. The need of a hydrant at this place was clearly shown by the fire at the Higgins property a week ago Sunday.

Miss Emma Voorhees, of Jackson avenue, has returned home after a two weeks' vacation in Pluckemin.

Francis Tealing has been spending a short time in Coney Island.

Klaw & Erlanger will star Nat Goodwin in a comedy by George Broadhurst called "The Captain." Its scenes are laid in Manila. Mr. Goodwin's role is that of a financial soldier of fortune.

Klaw & Erlanger will inaugurate the fall season at the New Amsterdam theatre in New York with "Madame Sherry," with Lina Abarbanell and Ralph Herz heading the cast. This musical farce ran all spring and summer in Chicago.

Thomas W. Ryley is holding rehearsals of "The Storm," by Langdon McCormick. He has engaged Robert T. Haines and Conway Tearle to play the leading roles. The play opens in Washington in September.

Fuller Mellish, who is now appearing as the amusing professor in "The Brass Bottle," has the distinction of being the only living American player that has appeared with each of the great triumvirate of actors—Booth, Irving and Mansfield. Although he has played with each from five to ten years, he says it is impossible for him to decide even now, which he would consider the greatest, so accomplished was each in his particular style of acting.

A. E. Matthews, the English comedian, whose acting last week in "Love Among the Lions" caused him to be hailed as a second Charles Hawtrey, has entered into an agreement with Charles Frohman whereby he will act in this country for five years. This announcement was a great surprise to his English friends, as they had looked upon this engagement—his first—in Winchell Smith's new comedy as an opportunity to visit this country.

GOLF.

According to a well known student of golf, the first and most important essential of practice is that the player should have acquired something like a settled style. This style, moreover, must be the result of close and patient application, for before the educational advantages of practice can be realized with any permanent value, all the technique of the golfers' system if play must be in effect consolidated.

One of the chief drawbacks to success with a majority of amateurs who devote a great deal of time to practice throughout the year is the tendency to engage in the disturbing process of taking to pieces and building up afresh many of the essentials of such a style as they may have formerly acquired. By so doing their style is always undergoing a process of change, with a result that practice roonds undertaken with the object of perfecting the delicate difficulties of the golfing art are found to be of little relative educational value to the permanent progress of the player. If the object of sustained and frequent practice is to make the player more proficient as a golfer, it is obvious that some settled policy of striking the ball should have been previously adopted.

The swing may be either a full one round the body or a shorter one round the shoulders, but in either case the essential of productive practice is that it must be based upon one or the other style, or, at any rate, that the player should have mastered the first elements of knowing how to grasp the club and to address his body to the ball. It must be the height of folly on the part of any golfer in the course of his practice, either in primate matches or in the course of a solitary round, who is always engaged in picking to pieces the methods in which he already plays many shots satisfactorily, in order to substitute what he wrongly conceives to be a better method of playing these shots.

Practice carried out on such principles as these must obviously become deleterious. In the first place, the player had formerly acquired the art of playing shots in a certain manner, which was in all respects suited to his peculiarity of swing and physical attainments. With the object of embodying in his style the more showy way of playing a shot by another player, or by some professional, the player who is anxious to add this shot to his equipment forgets that the art has been acquired by a different system of practice, that it is due largely to instinctive imitation, and that it is one of those inseparable pieces of golfing characters which are constantly revealed by good as well as bad players.

Another element of practice not less essential than that of building it upon some sort of settled style is that it should be carried out with the whole-hearted object of mastering the difficulty. There are many golfers today who are quite conscious of their inability to play certain shots with any fair amount of success. They are not only conscious of their own weakness, but they do not take any particular pains to conceal from opponents that the best way in which to overcome certain difficulties of life are quite beyond their skill.

Take, for example, one of the most frequently recurring difficulties wherein practice is rarely made a settled policy on the part of a majority of players. It is the art of getting a ball out of a deep sand trap with one shot. The new class of bunker which is being laid down with so much profusion is without doubt a more fearsome hazard to the majority of present-day golfers than many of the renowned habards which have hitherto played a poetical and terrorizing part in the tales of our golfing literature.

These new traps are not only being made deep, but they are for the most part built up with a high perpendicular face on the side approaching the hole. If one cares to spend a few minutes here and there o one of those green watching the general character of the play out of this new class of trap he will be surprised to see the small percentage of players who get the ball out in one stroke. Rather he will be struck by the fact that the majority of those who find their ball bunkered in this way are content to play three vicious shots without raising the ball above the face, and then he will notice these unsuccessful players, breathless with the exertion of digging, and out of temper at having to give up the hole almost without a struggle, making their way to the next tee full of complaints against the unfairness of the new hazard.

This is a case where a little study and practice would well repay the special labor of acquiring the banker art. Yet there are a few golfers in all the varying grades of proficiency who will devote themselves to an hour's systematic drudgery to learn defty how to play a ball, lying in sand, over a high face.

Everybidy adapts the proud theory that, from the relative shortness of his play or the straightness with which all of his balls are hit, the chances of getting into a bunker are fairly remote. But the last bunker at the end of a brilliant scoring round, or when the match would be safe in the player's pocket except for this awkward accident at the inopportune moment, may easily enough prove to be the undoing of him who steadily refuses to practice the bunker art.

Another instance in which there is failure to tighten up the loose joints of a game is the short approach shot, especially when there are one or two little sand pits to be crossed in order to get near the hole.

Vacation Clearance

We emphasize this vacation clearance sale. Not that we are trying to rid our shelves of unseasonable goods, for now is the time to wear these; not because they are undesirable, for we never had any shoes but the right kind. However, it is nearing the end of the season, and in order to retain our position of always being able to offer you something new, we have put a price on our remaining stock to clear our shelves for new goods. If you will come in and look them over, you will find something to interest you, and prices that will appeal to you as much as the shoes.

A Chapter in Stelle History

By O. B. LEONARD

Readers of The Daily Press and others may be interested in a brief outline of the branch of the Stelle family to which the late Julia R. Stelle belonged. The projenitor of the original line in this country was Poncet Stelle, a refugee Hugenot from France about 1675-80. He had seven sons and one daughter, Benjamin, Gabriel, Ambrose, Isaac, John, Eugene, James and Madelaine. Only of the first and oldest born will this sketch make mention.

Benjamin Stelle (son of Poncet, sometimes known as Pontius) was born 1683 in New York. About the time he became of age Middlesex county, N. J., had attraction for him. A few years later he settled down in Piscataway township near the Raritan river, and married in 1708-9, Mercy Drake, his first wife by whom all his children were born. In 1752 he married Lydia Shotwell, who survived him at his death in 1759, the year his last will was proved.

He became associated, 1730, with the Piscataway Baptist church, at which time or two years thereafter he assisted the aged pastor, Rev. John Drake. This patriarch preacher had passed the three score years and ten and was growing infirm, though he survived till 1741, the date of his demise. It was about 1732 Mr. Stelle was called to preach among them and was approved and set apart by solemn ordination. This data was given by himself in 1746 when he prepared the sketch for the Philadelphia Baptist Association minutes.

The children of Rev. Benjamin Stelle and wife, Mercy, were six: three daughters and three sons, Susannah, Betsey and Rachel, Deacon Benjamin, Captain John and Rev. Isaac Stelle. This oldest daughter born 1710, married 1730 Joseph Hull and had ten children. The youngest girl born 1720 married 1744 Ephraim Fitz Randolph (of Joseph and Rebecca) and had six children. Through the three sons of Pastor Benjamin descended all the Stelles in this part of New Jersey.

Deacon Benjamin Stelle was born 1713, married first Hannah Dunn, and at second marriage Ruth Sharp. By first wife were born two sons and four daughters; by the last wife, one son, who married Mary, became the wife of Andrew Manning. Mercy married Ephraim Pyatt, Elizabeth was the wife of Joseph Stelle, her cousin, Rachel married two brothers, Ephraim and Samuel Fitz Randolph (of Joseph and Esther). They all had large families.

The descendants of the two sons of Deacon Benjamin Stelle are the following: Asher Stelle, born, February 6, 1746, married 1772, Mary Drake and had Anne married Samuel Carlyle, Rachel married Lewis Ford, Phebe married David Runyon, Hannah married Justus Runyon, Daniel married Elizabeth Dunham, parents of Julia, Sarah and Jeremiah Stelle, Drake married Elsey Runyon, had Rev. Bergen, Rev. Lewis F., Julia, Rachel D. Furman married Rachel Blackford, whose son Rev. Bergen Stelle, who married Florence C. Searle, and is now settled in West Virginia; Susan married Isaac M. Runyon, parents of Howard J. Runyon.

Isaac Stelle (son of Deacon Benjamin), was born 1764 died 1802. He married 1788, Margaret Manning (of John and Zeruiah F. R.) and had the following five sons: John, born 1790 married Rachel F. Randolph, parents of Margaret, married Insley Boice, Jane married Ephraim J. Runyon, Maria married Augustus Stelle. Benjamin, born 1793 married Elizabeth Fitz Randolph, parents of Margaret married John Drake, Daniel married Mary Cory, Mary married A. Dunham Titsworth, Alexander married Fanny Surdam, and Sarah married Walter Dodge. Randolph M., born 1795 married Zeruiah Manning, parents of Eliza, married Elston Marsh. Samuel married Mary Shotwell, Samuel, born 1797 married Eliza Meeker, parents of Isaac M. married Eliza Smalley. Phebe married William Sprague had Stella, married Frederick W. Butler, Manning, born 1801, married Rachel Runyon, first wife had Almira, married William F. Randolph and Julia R., born 1839, died 1910. By second marriage to Jane Molleson, one son was born, Randolph M. Stelle married Clara A. Mathie, parents of Randolph, Percy and Howard.

In another chapter will be recorded the descendants of Capt. John Stelle and Rev. Isaac Stelle the other two sons of Rev. Benjamin Stelle.

P. S.—Deacon Benjamin Stelle by second wife, Ruth Sharp, had one son, who married viz: Samuel, born 1767, married 1790 Elizabeth Bishop. Their seven children were Daniel, born 1792, married Polly Carlyle, had a family of five: Benjamin born 1794, married Mary Freeman, had seven children, John V., 1795 married Rachel Snyder, had five, Jacob, born 1797, married and had Jacob, Jr., Hannah, born 1800 married Ephraim F. Randolph, had three, James, born, 1803 married Naomi Davis, had five, and Cornelia, born, 1806, married Simeon F. Randolph, had six children.

FOWLER A CANDIDATE FOR TWO JOBS, HE SAYS

Congressman Charles N. Fowler, of the Fifth District, is, contrary to the present general opinion, in the Congressional race. These were his own words when he was seen yesterday in his New York office.

Mr. Fowler evidently does not think that by filing a petition making him a candidate for United States Senator has anything to do with his seeking re-election to Congress.

"Will your petition for candidacy for United States Senatorship interfere in any way with your running for Congress?" was asked Mr. Fowler.

"Not at all," was the answer.

"You may say for me," Mr. Fowler continued "that I am a candidate for Congress from the Fifth District of New Jersey, and that I have also filed a petition for candidacy to the Senatorship. I will make a formal statement later, and in it will be all the public may desire to know."

In repy to the contention that he should not be a candidate for two offices Mr. Fowler says that a number of Congressmen have been elected from the House to the Senate, and that their candidacy for Senatorship did not interfere at all with their running for Congress a few months before.

"If I am elected to Congress," said Mr. Fowler, "I wil undoubtedly accept the office. If I am elected to the Senate, too, I have to choose one or the other and my chice will be the Senate. Those alleged primary law rules are all baby talk."

BOTTLE OR BALLOT RULE

American Union, and New Jersey is one, the saloon, backed by the political boss and ring set the people at defiance and deny the right to vote.

In 1871, Bill Tweed answered the indignation of the outraged people of New York with the cool, terse, tantalizing question; "As long as I count the votes, what are you going to do about it, see?" It was thought by Samuel J. Tilden that that question should be answered and it was answered.

To defy the people illegally or legally is in bad political taste.

In Pennsylvania, Judges Umbel and Van Sweringen, one a Democrat and the other a Republican, recently held the Fayette county license court.

Two booze politicians applied for a license in the beautiful village of Perryopolis, where no license had existed for thirty years.

The case was heard by the court and the license was granted.

If the fair local option bill had been made a law the people of Perryopolis could have protected themselves against such a monstrous outrage.

In Pennsylvania, one of the three slave States, the people have at last rebelled, and have said to the criminally corrupt Republican machine and to the criminally corrupt Democratic machine "You have both betrayed us and have gone over to the enemies of free government, and we will commit our political rights to an independent party," and the Keystone party is a concrete illustration of the fact that there is a political point beyond which forbearance ceases to be a virtue."

If the Democratic party in Pennsylvania had done its duty and declared for the right of home rule on the liquor question, it would have drawn to its standard all the Republican voters who will now vote with the Keystone party, but it resisted the right and the people projected a new party into the political arena.

The assessor draws on the taxpayer and the collector calls on the taxpayer for the money to build the poorhouse, the asylum and the prison, and the saloon promptly fills them with its victims; then the assessor draws on the taxpayer and the collector calls on the taxpayer for the money to feed and clothe these victims; yet when the people object and claim the right to vote whether the victim-maker shall continue to impose this charge on the taxpayer or stop his victim-making trade, the Republican boss steps into the Republican legislature and the victim making trade goes on.

It is the conviction of Democrats that this is injustice; that this is despotism.

I would not slight or slur a single right of the people. As Democrats, we should stand for, and boldly demand the restoration of all popular rights. But, I put black letter emphasis on the right of majority rule on the license question, because there are mercenary men in this State who would pass it by with averted look, and because you have given that principle political immorality in a glorious and memorable victory with your distinguished son and Senator, William G. Gebhardt, as the conquering captain of your cause.

That victory was an inspiration to the Democratic party of New Jersey, from Sussex to Cape May, and demonstrated the political power of a principle of justice and right in an appeal to the patriotism and conscience of the people.

Three years ago Hon. John Franklin Fort declared from the stump that he would rather go down in defeat upholding a principle of right than to win by the sacrifice of such a principle; and he told the voters not to vote for him unless they wanted the enforcement of the Bishops' law, for if he were elected Governor of New Jersey, that law would be enforced. With that significant challenge ringing in its political ears, and plied on every hand by the questionings of the pulpit and the press as to its purpose, touching the preservation of the American Sabbath, the Democratic party stood mute and non-committal till the last half of the eleventh hour, and that silence brought its defeat.

Let experience teach us that we must dare to do our duty if we would win.

At the conclusion of his speech Mr. Swackhamer was hailed as the reform candidate for Governor by the four thousand people present. Mr. Swackhamer declared that he had never met with a more enthusiastic endorsement of his views on the local option question.

The president of the meeting stated that he had never heard a more powerful and courageous declaration of the great principles of democracy, and that with Mr. Swackhamer as candidate for Governor he believed the people's great fight for the right of majority rule would be won. The suggestion was received with long continued cheering.

ASBURY PARK CARNIVAL BEGINS NEXT TUESDAY

Asbury Park is the mecca toward which thousands upon thousands of happy summer visitors are thronging in anticipation of the annual carnival, which begins on Tuesday, August 30, with the coronation day exercises, when Titania will again become Queen of the fairies, and ends on Friday, September 2, with the Baby parade, in which hundreds of sturdy American youngsters will appear on review. Naturally, much interest is accordingly attached to the one grand prize to be awarded, a prize that outclasses any previously offered.

It is the $1,200 handsome Buick automobile, with the Klaxonet warning signal attached, to be presented by the Borden Condensed Milk Company to the child in the baby parade securing the greatest approval from the thousands of pleasure seekers who will witness the festival. The winner is to be decided by them and them alone, and for this reason if no other the interest in the award is brought home to each visitor as a personal matter.

Alone, the Buick car would be a valuable prize, but with the Klaxonet warning signal attached its value is enhanced to an appreciable degree, and the rivalry for its possession is already growing intense, despite the fact that the carnival and day of voting are some time off. Friends of the youngsters are pushing each individual campaign and promises are being held as valid surety of future support. Politicians are developing over night.

Although there is no hint at unfair intentions on the part of the regularly appointed judges of the baby parade, the donors have gone just a step further in their plans for the award and the result of this, decided upon at numerous conferences with the Carnival Association, has been that the prize winner will be made known by popular approval. Every person witnessing the events of the week will have an opportunity to express his or her desire as to who the future possessor of the handsome car shall be.

It has been arranged that every ticket for the events scheduled as well as the twelve performances of the Ben Greet players preceding the actual carnival, shall have attached a coupon entitling the holder to one vote in the Buick automobile contest, and in this way the Borden Condensed Milk Company feels assured general satisfaction with the result will be counted in public by its representatives.

It is a stupendous task, but everything to facilitate its quick consummation will be arranged in advance. It is the one big event of the annual carnival, and the interest manifested, while great is not considered unusual. If, by chance, anyone should desire to know more of the facts the Borden man, who comes to the doors of thousands of homes every day, would be glad to give them. Ask him.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The carnival at Oak Tree for the benefit of Marconnier chapel, on the chapel grounds, proved a great success. Electric lights were strung in every direction, making a canopy over all the tables and booths. The tickets, which were twenty-five cents, admitted you to the grounds and to the moving pictures, which were in the chapel, and were of a very fine character, some of them illustrated by songs. Mrs. William E. Smith chaperoned a strawride to the carnival of about fifteen young people, among them the Rev. J. J. Allen, who entered into the sport as much as any of the others. After visiting all the booths, and enjoying the delicious cream and cake, the party drove away in high spirits, singing "Good-night, Ladies, I'm Going to Leave you Now."

The noise from the Spicer forge can be heard all over the village—and with the shrill whistles of the engines we have quite a noisy village.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

Jan Van Herwerden, cashier of the Williamstown National Bank, is seriously ill.

Joseph S. Swaim, of Bordentown, will be a candidate for the Republican nomination for auditor of Burlington county, to succeed Robert Peacock.

Thomas, the small son of Thomas Crowley, Sr., of Landis township, pulled a kettle of boiling water from the stove yesterday and was scalded in a terrible manner.

Suffering from an infected finger due to an injury received in a fall, Lillian Tucker, thirteen years old, of 215 Locust street, Camden, called at the Homeopathic Hospital for treatment Tuesday.

Professor David L. Hower, of Media, Pa., has notified the Millville Board of Education of his acceptance of the position of superintendent of the public schools, to which he was elected.

The dead body of Piobr Zhmilwski, of 2381 Duncan street, Frankford, Philadelphia, was found lying along the railroad tracks at Lawrence Station Tuesday. The man was forty-five years of age. The man's spine was broken, and it is thought he was hit by a locomotive.

Going to his corn crib Tuesday, Pearl Zelley, a farmer living on the Stanwick road, Moorestown, was horrified to find the body of one of his laborers, known as "Pete," lying on the floor. Coroner Grobler gave a verdict of heart disease.

While crossing the West Jersey and Seashore Railroad at New York and Walnut avenues, Anglesea, a team belonging to the Marine Freezing Company was struck by an engine and tender, cutting the wagon in two. The driver, Hugh Gordon, escaped death by jumping, but, being hit by wreckage, received a number of cuts, bruises and perhaps internal injuries.

Hearing cries for help as he was passing Bethel Lake Tuesday afternoon, Edgar Wrigley, Jr., of Pitman, secured a boat and rescued John Hunter, Jr., of Glassboro, from drowning. Hunter was swimming when he was seized with cramps.

In a letter from New York Tuesday, Prosecutor Scovel, of Camden, learned that William J. Brown is sort of a pugilist, as well as a forger and jail-breaker. District Attorney Whitman declares that, while he was being identified, Brown struck a colored youth such a blow in the face that the boy was nearly rendered unconscious. Camden officials are now satisfied that Brown will not be returned to Camden for trial.

While at work at the Trenton iron plant shortly before midnight Tuesday night, Paul Kershon, twenty-one years old, had his right leg caught in a wire block and the member was severed near the ankle. Kershon, who is a wiredrawer lives at 153 Jefferson street.

At the age of seventy-seven years, John Smith walked from his home in South Camden to Moorestown, a distance of nearly twelve miles, Tuesday and visited his cousin, Mrs. Sallie Smith, of East Main street.

In Trenton Gilbert Franklin captured Tuesday a carrier pigeon marked "U. S. 29,320 J.," in a church in Willow street. It refused to leave the church.

After she had been run down and seriously injured by an automobile in front of her home Tuesday, Anna Young, four years old, of 7 North Stockton street, Trenton, was left lying in the street. The driver of the machine escaped. The little girl, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Young, may be fatally hurt.

LITERARY

"My earliest impressions of the city of my adoption, New York, when I came there as a young bride some years after the war," says Mrs. Burton Harrison in the Woman's Home Companion for September, "was that in many respects it possessed attractions likely to be lost in the rush of improvements which were to make of it the present great metropolis. This has proved to be so, and I make haste to add that I am far from including in them certain physical aspects of the town, the paving of its streets, the long rows of dreary brownstone houses, the telegraph-poles, omnibuses and horse-cars now happily swept away.

Lippincott's for September is a characteristic and delightful number, maintaining all the excellencies of old-time reputation. The complete novel of "The Mischief of Time," a beguiling story of English social life, by Dorothea Deakin, author of "Georgie," "Color of Roses," etc. The leading character is a plucky young girl who prides herself on the fact that whatever she has set her heart on a thing, she has always gotten it. She finally embarks on a bigger undertaking than she has ever before attempetd, with a result that it is not quite what she anticipated; yet she did not lose, nor can it be truthfully said that she was entirely successful. The reader must decide that for himself. The story sparks with the witty diologue and the amusing situations which have made this writer so popular in former fiction.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Aug. 28, 1910.

Topic.—The progress of Christ's kingdom this year in Asia.—Matt. xiii, 31-33. Edited by Rev. Sherman H. Doyle, D. D.

The two parables of Christ before us are most appropriate to the subject of the advancement of the gospel in Asia in the past year. In these parables the kingdom of heaven is likened to the smallest of seeds, the mustard seed, which gradually grew until it became a great and useful tree. In the second parable the kingdom is likened unto a lump of leaven, which, put into three measures of meal (a little more than a pint), leavened the entire lump. This has been the history of the gospel in Asia from the earliest times. It began in the day of small things and has spread abroad throughout the entire great continent.

The earliest ages of Christianity were spent in Asia. Christ was born there, and from Antioch, in Syria, His kingdom spread to the gentiles beyond Asia. Christ himself was never outside the continent of Asia. He was born in Bethlehem of Judea, lived the most of His life of thirty-three years in Palestine, a part of Asia, and only once, according to the record, was He beyond the borders of Palestine. This was the occasion of His visit to Tyre and Sidon, Asiatic strips of land bordering on the Great, or Mediterranean, sea.

The apostles' work was also in the same land. John was at Ephesus. Philip carried the gospel to Arabia and is also supposed to have gone as far east as India.

In the modern great efforts to evangelize the world Asia has been the scene of great efforts. From earliest times many Christians remained, some attached to the Greek church and thousands of Armenians, who are now constantly attacked and slaughtered by the Mohammedans, especially the Kurds, a very low and fanatical class of Turks. Where once pure and undefiled Christian religion prevailed at the present time there is much opposition by the Turks, who feel a bitter hatred against Christianity, although the principles of the Turks are based upon and largely received from the Old Testament teachings.

To attempt even a brief review of one year's work in Asia is impossible. The only thing that can possibly be done is to report "progress." In China, Japan, India and even in Korea, with its political troubles, and especially in Persia and Turkey, great progress is being made. Direct Christian work is successfully being prosecuted. The principles of Christian nations are being introduced. Persia has a constitutional government as well as Turkey, where victory has been won by the Young Turks. China has introduced the English language into the public schools, and the young Chinese under the name of "Nationalists" are demanding a constitutional government. Russia, darker than Africa in many senses, has its duma, which is constantly gaining in power. Christian colleges are advancing. Revivals are leading to thousands of conversions. Medical missions are performing a great work everywhere. Native workers are increasing in large numbers, which is of tremendous importance. Literature is being scattered everywhere and deeply studied. The day dawns; the darkness disappears. Soon the land in which the Christ Child was born and the angels heralded His coming will once more be flooded with the "light of the day." Let us give, labor and pray that these results may soon be accomplished.

In a Famous Church.

A fine new Christian Endeavor society, with a charter membership of forty, has been established in one of the world's most notable churches, the First Congregational church of Columbus, O., whose pastor is the famous clergyman, author and publicist, Rev. Washington Gladden, D. D., LL. D. Dr. Gladden has always been friendly to Christian Endeavor, has spoken at national, state and city Christian Endeavor conventions and has thrown his church open for Christian Endeavor rallies, but heretofore the church has had no Christian Endeavor society.

A Pledge Song.

[Tune: "Abide With Me."]

Trusting in Thee, O Christ, for strength divine,
Humbly I make these promises of mine:
Whate'er Thou wilt I'll daily strive to do.
Thy willing servant make me, faithful, true.

Each day to Thee I'll dedicate with prayer
And in Thy word will seek my treasure fair,
While in Thy church's sacred courts I'll prove
By aid and presence an untiring love.

Wisdom divine, oh, grant me that I may Yield to Thy sweet transforming day by day;
That Christ may rise in me, come toil or strife,
And strengthen me to live a Christian life.

Active in love's dear service I will be,
Ready to do my part for Thine and Thee,
Nor silent stand where Thine own children meet,
But with them lay my offering at Thy feet.

Then to the crowning place of peace and power,
The joyous, blessed consecration hour,
Gladly I'll come or send a love thought true
And there my covenant with Thee renew.

Lord, keep and bless our dear Endeavor band
And give us visions of a cleansed land.
All youthful zeal, all faith and hope unite,
That we may stand for God and truth and right.

Virginia of the Air Lanes

A ROMANCE OF FLYING

. . . By . . .

Herbert Quick

Copyright, 1909, by the Bobbs-Merrill Company

"Shoot if you dare!" cried Carson. "Don't you see that I can go above

"YOU'RE GOING FOUL OF HER. LOOK DOWN!"

where you can shoot and rip your gas bag in perfect safety? Come, now, answer my question."

"This is the Daedalus of Spokane," was the reply. "What devilish thing is that?"

"The Virginia of—of Carson's Landing, in Alabama," replied Theodore.

"Whose aeronef is that?" asked the man who seemed in command.

"It's mine," said Theodore. "I built her."

"Well," said the man on the other deck, "you've got the world by the tail, and if you need money apply to Calvin J. Fry of Spokane. Hold on, please"—

But the Virginia, gently increasing her speed, left the hustling Calvin J. Fry gesticulating far out of hearing.

"That, to originate a locution," said Craighead, "ought to hold them for a brief period. Looks as if they were back pedaling."

"I will find them," said Carson, evidently meaning something else, "if they have hidden her in the farthest cave of that thundercloud."

CHAPTER XVI.

A RACE WITH THE ELEMENTS.

PAST Richmond, they left the domed capitol at Washington far to port, passed between Baltimore and Dover and directly over Philadelphia, where Carson made a wide circle above the vast aerial harbor, scanning the berths for a huge silver aerohat of the Condor type, but finding none. It was growing dusk, and the west and northwest were ramparted with towering thunder heads, quivering with lightning, toward which Carson hurled the Virginia like a bullet. The town studded suburban region of New Jersey swept under them as if drawn by swift mechanism, and the harbor of New York lay beneath, alive with shipping. The lights were already burning, and the far spread Babylon of the modern world hung like a fairy dream from the foreground to the farther rim of the concave cup of the earth. Carson was amazed and stunned. He had never seen New York, and his ideas were all inadequate to the actualities before him. The streets flashed into sight as the Virginia passed into positions permitting a view of the bottom of one metropolitan canyon after another. The boy was afraid. The huge city roaring up at them like a ravening beast struck him with terror.

"Why dost circle about like a sand hill crane?" said Craighead. "Why don't you 'light?"

"Like the sand hill crane," replied Carson, "I'm afraid. Where can we alight?"

"Gad," said Craighead, "I never thought of that! New York has always reached out for me so lovingly that the idea of there being any difficulty in getting into her embrace never entered my brain. We are a little shy of knowledge of how to get in from above, aren't we?"

"What are the harbor rules?" asked Carson.

"Hanged if I know," replied Craighead.

It was quite dark now, save for the moon, which, nearly full, was climbing the eastern sky, still clear. To the northwest towered the pearly clouds palpitant with lightning. Craighead expected Theodore to turn the Virginia to some far New Jersey village and was astonished when he entered upon a swift flight up the Hudson, which lay shining in the moonlight, laced with the wakes of boats. Far ahead, on both sides, quivered the lightning of the storm, and from afar came the rumbling of thunder. Carson seemed to be seeking night in the heart of a thunderstorm. Craighead seized his arm and tried to glean something of his mood from a scrutiny of his face.

"I'm going to the Catskills," said Theodore. "Before I sleep I'm going to find Shayne's Hold!"

Carson crossed the Hudson in a slow drizzle at Kingston and stood northwest toward heavy dense masses of towering clouds screening the high peaks of the Catskills—and Shayne's Hold.

"Why not hurdle the tempest, caitiff?" cried Craighead.

"Those highest towers," replied Carson, pointing to the thunder heads now again snowy in the moonlight, "are thirty, forty, fifty thousand feet high."

"Well, what do we care?" protested Craighead.

"There's an opening yonder in the rain," said Carson. "If it doesn't close up we may slip through to the back of the storm again."

As if the wings of the advancing army had extended its lines until they pulled apart in the center, the rain opened.

"We must go lower," said Carson, "and pass under. The rain is closing in, but I reckon we can slip through pretty dry."

The oncoming black arch, lighted to whiteness when the lightning blazed, swelled fearfully as they approached, its rainless gap narrowing momently. It was a race with the elements. The penalty if they lost was, to be sure, nothing more than a drenching, but it was none the less exciting for that. The curtains of water, drawn aside as if to let the travelers through, swung together as they approached.

"Whoop!" cried Craighead. "The Virginia wins!"

As he spoke they passed under the rain cloud.

Carson was thinking of Shayne's Hold and conjecturing as to its whereabouts. If he read his chart correctly the lights seen afar to the northeast indicated that they had left the Kaaterskill behind and were nearing Blank Head mountains, though he confessed to himself that the crags revealed by the lightning might be the Hunter peaks or even the summits of Slide mountain. All he really knew was that he was above the Catskills and that unless he could outmaneuver the elements they faced an encounter with rain, wind and great possibilities in the way of lightning. The domes of thundercloud a few miles to their right seemed almost low enough to be overpassed, so he set the levers for an ascent, and the Virginia rose like an osprey chased by an eagle.

"I'm trying your suggestion," said Carson. "I'm scaling the front of that shower."

Even Craighead's voice was hushed in awe. Like the fairy domes of some city of oriental fable rose the cloud castles, their summits white in the moonlight, their folds dark like a dove's wing. Suddenly the lightning blazed out in the heart of the black base on which the city of enchantment was reared, and instantly the whole vast fabric grew white and palpitant and terrible, while the blue sky beyond and above it turned black velvet by contrast. The lightning ceased, and there hung the billowy cloud, silver white and drab on a base of darkness, as before. The air had grown chill as with frost, and still the clouds were far above them. The bite of the propellers on the air seemed to fail, for the cloud masses no longer appeared to fall as when the aeronef was rising.

"We can't make it," said Carson.

"Don't try!" exclaimed Craighead. "It's effrontery!"

Changing a lever or so, Carson drove straight toward the bosom of the cloud.

Carson sat with his hand on his levers, pale as if dead; Craighead clutched a hand rail, his eyes turned aloft as if in invocation. A more remote flash and darkness returned, but not so densely. The space before them grew softly light, and in a moment they swam into the moonlight. Through an immeasurable chamber of cloud darted the aeronef into a second smother of rain and mist and out on a lower level into the calm space behind the storm. From this region of shadow they emerged into the moonlight again and began their search for signs of human habitation. Finally, just as Theodore was at the point of retreat, both at once saw what neither doubted was Shayne's Hold.

The hold was on the triple peak of one of the ruggedest and highest masses of the Catskills, rising steep as a wall, hundreds of feet in the air, to three summits, in the midst of which stood the mansion. The huge buildings had been built, the animals had been introduced, the last luxury had been supplied, and Shayne's Hold had been sealed up. Down from the mountain flowed three streams, up which had run the precipitous roads to the top, and when the time came for closing the hold to those who had no way of navigating the air Mr. Shayne had built across them immense dams, using materials blasted from the mountain sides at such places as to render them quite unscalable. The steepened precipices thus carried across the ravines in masonry made a lofty wall entirely around the mountain.

Every effect that could be produced by lights, white and colored, the electrician-artists had worked out for the illumination of this enchanted palace hung on cliffs. Overlooking the region, as its owner overlorded his fellows, the hold was a place of mystery, holding no neighborship with the people below. It was a real Laputa, an island in the air, and those only could reach it who could fly.

About the peak ran a labyrinth of bridle paths and carriage roads, all outlined from above by winding lines of lights, like the route of an army of bewildered glowworms. Hidden by a spur of cliff was the immense airship garage.

The lightning had disabled its lighting system for the most part, and the hold had gone dark. Carson had made two or three reconnoissances over the very spot, but had not suspected its presence, for the sky was clouded and the luster of the pools too feeble to reach his eyes, so that the sudden outflash of the myriad lights when the currents were restored came to both men with astonishing unexpectedness.

The hold had blossomed suddenly in fire. The lakes edged with lights glimmered like mirrors; the clustered arc lights delimited the high mesa like a map; the winding labyrinth of incandescents netted the peaks like glowing Lilliputian threads about the recumbent Gulliver, and in the midst stood a great roomy columned mansion, its wings in shade, its central court agleam, the radiant heart of an elaborate splendor. Carson drew in his breath sharply.

"My God!" said he. "Who could ever think of such a thing?"

Craighead was silent.

But he must see Virginia. Utterly estranged as they were, this night voyage had a reason—the hope of seeing her, of asking her forgiveness, of bringing her to see that when she dropped from the sky to his feet he had loved her; that when she had come to live with that uncle of whom she had heard so little and had found the last Carson in him the temptation was so masked in duty that it was too strong for him. And had he ever once in that delicious, perilous time of acting Uncle Theodore inexcusably presumed on the relationship or failed in goodness? True, he had let her stay as his niece, but had not his father always thought himself of the same blood? Virginia must allow some weight to this tradition. She must see that, while too remotely related to be objectionable in a nearer, dearer way, he was too probably of kin to have turned her away. And he would land in Shayne's Hold if it were the last act of his life.

With the ancient instinct of the surreptitious lover he made for the angle between two dark wings of the great house. Glimmers of light from two windows were their sole sign of occupancy, the center of human concourse being about that core of light in the court. The wings seemed like low adjuncts for conservatories or billiard rooms, and the angle between, with its light mottlings, looked like a flower sprinkled lawn on which Carson felt confident of placing the Virginia gently and with no disturbance. With a slow soaring motion the aeronef came into the angle like a steamer into her slip—and found, instead of a lawn, a graveled roof cluttered with tables and chairs as if for the serving of refreshments. Among these the Virginia nosed in, dumped some chairs into the court and settled down amid crackling furniture and crashing pottery.

The Roc had reached Shayne's Hold just in time to escape the storm, and the wearied Virginia had retired, sick of the harping of her aunt upon the disgrace of her sojourn with "Uncle Theodore," weary of telling how innocent it had been. With a book close to the light she was composing her mind to sleep, when into the dreamy quietude came a purring that was so unmistakably the voice of the aeronef that Virginia rose, with her hand to her heart, in an amazement not all unpleasant, wondering where her namesake might alight and what Shayne's hired constabulary might do with Theodore, when from the roof came a scraping, chairs and tables went over the parapet with a crash, and the voices of Craighead and Carson came in at the window, low, hurried and agitated.

Virginia turned out the dim light.

"Well," said she, in answer to her maid's tap, "what is it, Fanny?"

"I 'eard an awful noise," said Fanny. "It seemed to come from 'ere, miss."

"Some things fell into the court," replied Virginia. "Please tell the servants and say that things must not be piled upon the parapet. That's all, Fanny."

Virginia walked to the window. There lay the dear little airship that she and Theodore had planned campaigns for and conquered the world with. Theodore was passing the other way now, peering into every bearing and gearing for signs of damage.

"It's a miracle," said Theodore at last, "but she's all right and ready to rise at a touch."

"Thank God!" said Virginia.

"Did you find a way down?" asked Carson of Craighead, all unconscious of the nearness of what he sought.

"Only the old way by which I came off the back stoop of the emporium," replied Craighead, who had been skirting along the edge of the parapet. "It's a matter of specific gravity. As to getting back, unless you brought your specific levity with you I really don't see, old chap, how it's going to be managed."

"Once down I can force my way up," said Theodore, raising his voice in his intensity. "Do you think I'll go back without seeing her? No! You stay here, and"—

"Mr. Craighead!"

The voice came from the darkness of the house, cool and calm.

"Present!" answered Craighead. "But don't shoot! I'm a starving man, in charge of a maniac"—

"Please come here," said the voice.

"Virginia!" cried Carson.

"Please tell your friend," said the voice, "that if he presumes to address any person except yourself this window will be closed!"

BASEBALL.

Can the Plainfield Elks come back this afternoon? You know they beat the antlered ones from Camden the last time. But they say that the visitors are coming with a team materially strengthened by some new players.

And the merchants are on the job again this afternoon. But, alas! the game will not be played in this city, but in Wayside Park. Upon the result of this game depends the entire outcome of the Merchants' league—if East Front street wins, there will have to be another game on account of the tie, but if the West Fronters take the game, the series and championship will be theirs.

Bargain day at the Oval again Saturday afternoon. The first game of the double-header will be between the local Y. M. C. A. team and the fast-travelling Scotch Plains nine. The second contest will bring the Plainfield team and the McNulty Brothers on the diamond once more.

If those McNulty Brothers are going to make our boys play a sixteen inning tie again, the first game had better be called for eleven o'clock.

"Red" Alberts, who has been changing around trying every team in this section, will hold down third base for Flemington on Saturday. He will be back with his old nine, Scotch Plains, when that team plays on September 3.

Dunellen and Scotch Plains are scheduled to play at Dunellen on the afternoon of September 3. The game will be an exciting one and both teams are working hard for a victory. The last time that these teams met, the Dunellenites were victorious in a hard fought game by the score of 4-0.

Fritts, the old Y. M. C. A. captain, who has taken the job as guardian of right field on the Plainfield team, says that he is just about due for a hit in Saturday's game. Well, good luck to you, John, anyway.

Ting-a-ling-a-ling-ling!

There is a rumor spreading that the Plainfield team is to play a series of games with Somerville during September and October. Let us hope such a series materializes, for if there ever were rival towns in baseball it is Plainfield and Somerville.

Taylor is one of the most consistent players on the Y. M. C. A. team. His fielding in any position is fast and his batting is regular. That running catch of his last Saturday was a sample of his speedy playing.

"Big Six" Nelson, the Plainfield catcher, has somewhat of a reputation as a catcher. Three years ago he did the receiving and back-stop work for the 'Varsity nine of Rutgers College. And he played some ball there, too. Nelson is a civil engineer by profession, having been graduated from Rutgers in the class of 1907.

Chauncey Morphey, one of the players on the Y. M. C. A. nine during the early part of the season, is succeeding nobly as a leader of Indian Scouts. Chauncey is in charge of the Plainfield boys at Ernest Thompson Seton's experiment camp, and he says that the boys are minding him and obeying his orders in great shape.

The Dunellen team will be minus the services of Bill Piddington, the crack center fielder, in the game Saturday. Piddington, who is enjoying a visit in Asbury Park, will be replaced by Russell Garrettson.

"Marty" O'Loughlin, the local professional, and J. J. McDermott played Tom Anderson, Jr., and Geo. Sergant, ex-open golf champion, at Deal yesterday, and the Plainfielder and his partner defeated their opponents by 5 up and 4 to play. They had a best ball of 68 for the Deal course, and a 71 won the match, which is going some.

POLITICAL TALK.

The Republican voters of the borough of Dunellen will hold a meeting tomorrow night at 8 o'clock, for the purpose of naming candidates to be elected at the primaries on September 13. It is expected that the party will decide upon a complete ticket.

Charles P. Sebring, of the borough, Republican candidate for the shrievalty of Somerset county, accompanied by Councilman W. L. Smalley, Jr., went to Somerville yesterday and filed his petition with the county clerk. It contained the names of all the borough officials and in addition several hundred names of other citizens throughout the county. While in Somerville Mr. Sebring met many of his friends and made a number of new acquaintances, who promised him their support. Joseph Fitzga, Bogart Conklin and Robert Kay, also candidates for the shrievalty on the Republican ticket, filed their petitions yesterday.

Westfield politicians are beginning to hustle to get the petitions of their respective candidates signed before August 29. Councilman E. D. Floyd will probably be the Republican candidate for Mayor and Henry G. Mooney, a former councilman, has consented to become the Democratic candidate. As yet the Republicans have not named anyone to oppose A. H. Clark and J. M. C. Marsh, collector and assessor respectively. Both of these are Democrats and have held the offices for years despite the fact that the Republicans have put up good men aaginst them. For freeholder, Joseph Perry will be the Republican candidate to succeed himself. John G. Ten Eyck will be the Democratic candidate.

The West End Democratic Club holds its annual outing this afternoon and tonight at Wayside Park, near Dunellen. State Senator Geo. Silzer and James E. Martine will be among the political notables.

After Mayor Victor Mravlag had refused to be the candidate, and after entreating Robert B. Cissell to allow himself to be put in the field, the Elizabeth Republicans last night took Robert L. Patterson, a real estate dealer, and gave him their endorsement for the Republican candidacy for the Mayoralty nomination.

STOKES IN HOT CAMPAIGN.

Former Governor and Martine to Stump the State.

The announcement that former Governor Edward C. Stokes and "Farmer Orator" James E. Martine, respectively Republican and Democratic candidates for the nomination for United States Senator under the direct primary plan, will begin at once an active campaign of the State to enlist votes in their behalf insures a lively campaign before the primary election on September 13.

Former Governor Stokes said that while he has not definitely planned his campaign he would make his strongest fight in the South Jersey counties in an effort to overcome the opposition of David Baird, who declined to submit his Senatorial candidacy to the vote of the people at the primaries.

Mr. Martine also expects to make a number of speeches in the southern part of the State.

Mrs. C. O. Dersheimer, of Tunkhannock, Pa., who with her two children, has been spending several months in Europe, returned today on the Mauretania, and is visiting Mrs. Roderick Donley on West Sixth street.

DOUBLE HEADER ON THE OVAL FOR SATURDAY

Plainfield fans will have another bargain day at the oval, Saturday, for the Plainfield and Y. M. C. A. teams are scheduled to run off a double-header in the afternoon for the price of one game. The McNulty Brothers are to be the opponents of the Plainfield nine while the Y. M. C. A. lines up against the speedy Scotch Plains team. The first game will start at 2.15 sharp and the second one at 4 o'clock. From all indications it will be one of the biggest baseball days, which this city has seen this season.

The McNulty Brothers are always a good drawing card in Plainfield and they certainly put up a classy article of baseball. They will be here with their regular line-up and that includes Pfeiffer at shortstop, who has always proved to be a favorite with the local fans.

"Warry" McLaughlin will do the twirling for the Plainfield team and he is always a puzzle to the McNulty batsmen. In the last game he struck out fourteen of the New Yorkers without any trouble at all. Nelson will do the back stop work and Fritts is slated to cover right field.

Frederickson will do the twirling for the association boys with Hand on the other end. The two Adams boys will be back in the game, Platt playing second and Ben, holding down the initial sack. Taylor will be back at third with Fritts at shortstop.

Slocum, the old Y. M. C. A. pitcher, will twirl for the Scotch Plains aggregation. Tom Mullin will do the catching.

The teams in the first game will line up as follows: Y. M. C. A., Peacock, lf.; Hand, c.; Taylor, 3b.; Fritts, ss.; Coyle, rf.; Smith, cf.; Platt Adams, 2b.; Ben Adams, 1b.; Frederickson, p. Scotch Plains, Baldwin, 2b.; Ayers, lf.; T. Mullin, c.; Miller, 3b.; W. Mullin, ss.; Jacot, 1b.; Allen, cf.; Perry, rf.; Slocum, p.

The McNulty team will be made up as follows: Pfeiffer, ss.; Dowling, lf.; Reeves, cf.; Derosier, rf.; Callahan, 2b.; McGrath, 1b.; Damrau, 3b.; Seaman, c.; Wolfe, p. The Plainfield line up will be: Brit Martin, 2b.; Boyd, cf.; Emery, 3b.; J. Martin, ss.; Nelson, c.; Barnes, 1b.; McLaughlin, p.; Schott, lf.; Fritts, rf.

BOY SHOWS HIS PLUNDER.

Trenton Lad Leads Detectives to Rich Booty.

Confessing to numerous petty thefts from Trenton storekeepers and householders during the last few months, Reginald Hasbrouck, fourteen years old, yesterday led a detective to a sand bar in the middle of the Delaware river, there, where plunder worth several hundred dollars was buried in the sand.

Hasbrouck headed a band of boys trained by him. He was paroled from the Rahway reformatory some months ago. He was caught stealing a revolver from a show case in a local store. The members of his band informed on him and then he confessed.

HANDCUFFS.

Various Devices That Have Been Used in Fettering Prisoners.

In Vergil is to be found the first recorded instance of the use of handcuffs, for the poet tells us that Proteus was thus fettered and rendered powerless by Aristaeus, who apparently knew that even the gods themselves were not proof against this form of persuasion.

In the fourth century B. C. an army of victorious Greeks found several chariots full of handcuffs among the baggage of the defeated Carthaginians, and it is highly probable that the ancient Egyptians had some contrivance of the kind. The word is derived from the Anglo-Saxon "handcop," whence comes evidently the slang term "copper."

In earliest Saxon days "handcops" were used for nobles and "foot cops" for kings, but in the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries the word is supplanted by the terms "shack bolt" and "swivel manacle," and the instruments were as cumbersome as the names by which they were known.

Up to the middle of the last century there were two kinds of handcuff in general use. One, known as the "flexible," was very like that which is still used; the other kind, called the "figure eight," was used to restrain violent prisoners. It was so fashioned that the captive could not move his hands and was universally dreaded, for the pain caused by a limb immovably confined is almost unbearable.

A simple but powerful device for securing prisoners was the "twister," now abolished owing to the injuries it inflicted. It consisted of a chain with handles at each end. The chain was put around the wrists, and the handles were brought together and twisted until a firm grip was obtained. The least struggle on the part of the captive and the chains bit deep into his wrists. Of the same nature, but made of wire, is "la ligote," while in an emergency whipcord has proved perfectly satisfactory.

The handcuff used in some parts of eastern Europe is most primitive. It consists of a V shaped piece of metal, in which the wrists are inserted, the open ends being then drawn together by means of a cross hook, which must be kept taut the whole time. The most handy form of cuff, which is in general use at present, comes from America. It is lighter and much less clumsy than the old "flexible."

It is no easy matter to clap the "bracelets" on a person who is struggling violently. Inventors should turn their attention to the subject, for much remains to be done before the fighting prisoner can be quickly and strongly secured without harm to himself or his captor.—London Globe.

The Tuaregs.

In his book "Across the Sahara" Hans Vischer writes: "On a spot recently uncovered by the wind I picked up blunt arrowheads and knives, Carthaginian coins, money lost by Romans and Arabs, and fragments of beautifully colored marble slabs which probably once adorned some Roman villa on the hills."

Strange peoples were met in that long march across the Sahara—the Tuaregs, for instance, who need not a suffragist attack to bring them to their senses, for "among the Tuaregs it is the man, the brute, who by all the laws of the country has to obey the woman. Descent is traced through the mother. Woman shows her proud face to all the world, while the man goes veiled."

The Artist and His Work.

The great artists, like the great heroes, have always done whatever came to hand. Michelangelo grumbled and said he was a sculptor when Julius II. set him to paint, but he painted the roof of the Sistine chapel. Shakespeare chafed at the popularity of the fool in the drama of his time and then produced the fool in "Lear." If either of them had waited for perfect conditions and an inspiration untrammeled by circumstances he would have done nothing. They produced masterpieces because they made the best of things as they were. And this is the business of the artist in life.—London Times.

His Pockets Were Empty.

Damoreau, an actor, fought a duel in 1834 with an orator named Manuel. The orator proved the better swordsman and would have run Damoreau through the body had not his sword struck a five franc piece which happened to be in the actor's pocket. This drew from a notoriously impecunious journalist the exclamation, "Alas, if I had been in Damoreau's place it would have been all over with me!"—New York Post.

Domestic Joys.

Wife—I came across a bundle of your old love letters today. Husband—Did you read them over? Wife—Yes. Husband—And what was the effect of that perusal? Wife—I wondered which was the bigger fool—you for writing them or I for marrying you after receiving them.

The Test.

"They seem to be in love."

"Yes; I really believe those two think as much of each other as they do of themselves."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

NELSON RAMSEY'S STORY

High School Boy Tells How He Got a Free Trip to England.

TELLS OF HIS IMPRESSIONS.

Enlisted on the St. Louis and Spent His Time Abroad Viewing Many Historic and Picturesque Spots.

Nelson Ramsey editor of the Plainfield high school "Oracle" and high school correspondent for The Daily Press, who has just returned from a free trip to England, gives his impressions of his trip in an interesting way in the following story:

In the early life of every American boy, with few exceptions, comes the longing to go to sea and experience the pleasures of visiting foreign ports and mingling with strange people. In time some of the boys outgrow this, but a great many always retain this desire until opportunity offers itself, and although the chance may be very limited, they have the pleasure of seeing a little of the outside world. After having my application in for nearly six months with the American Line, I was at last sent for, and, after spending the best part of a day in the company's dock office signing on and going through various forms of red-tape, I was at last enrolled as an Engineer Cadet on the S. S. "St. Louis," bound for Southampton, with intermediate stops at Plymouth and Cherbourg.

We left New York on Saturday morning, and one minute before sailing I was given my duties which I had to carry out, seasick or not, throughout the whole voyage. The six cadets were stationed at different parts of the immense engine that drives the steel "greyhound" across the ocean. It fell to my lot to be stationed in the refrigerating department, where my duties were to oil the machinery at different intervals and keep a close watch on the gauges, to keep the temperature in the cold storage below fourteen degrees. I worked six hours on and six hours off; in other words, twelve hours a day. My hours were two to eight. The cadets who were stationed in the engine room proper had shorter hours, their time being four hours on and eight off. I often considered myself lucky to be stationed in such a cool place when the cadets in the engine room had to stand 125 degrees of heat.

Upon being relieved of his watch, each cadet immediately went above, and after washing up had his dinner or supper or whatever meal the time of day called for. The six of us ate in the engineer's mess room and were served with second cabin food, which was as wholesome and good as the average first-class restaurant in this country provides. After eating, we usually retired to our room, which was situated in the stern of the vessel on the third cabin deck. There were tiers of bunks in this room providing places for six cadets to sleep. As soon as we reached our room, we turned into the bunks and slept until the next watch.

To relate the daily routine of the cadets would be very tiring to the reader, as it was for the cadets to carry it out. With an occasional stolen hour on the top deck and the pleasure of hearing the ship's concert, the time did not drag quite so heavily as it might have, but every cadet was glad when land came in sight.

After spending an hour in Plymouth and Cherbourg harbors to let off a few passengers and the mails, we made for Southampton, and docked there at noon on Sunday. A party of three of us spent the afternoon touring Southampton on top of a tram car and saw many interesting sights. At six o'clock in the evening we took a train for London and after a hard ride in the measly English train arrived in the large city about ten. We spent the next morning in going through Westminster Abbey. On entering it the immense proportions of the place and the solemn statues and tombs of the crown-heads of England struck us with an intense feeling of insignificance. After wandering through the Abbey and Edward the Confessor's Chapel, we wound up at the Poet's Corner, to me the most enjoyable part of the place. Here we saw the tombs of such men as Garrick, Irving, Samuel Johnson and Ben Johnson. We were filled with pride to see the bust of Longfellow occupy a prominent corner there.

In the afternoon we took a boat up the Thames and went through the Tower of London. Here we saw all the armor and crown-jewels. It would take a book to relate the different impressions and pleasures we

DEATH OF MR. OTTO ARENS

Prominent Plainfielder Dies in New York Hospital Following Operation.

RETURNED FROM CARLSBAD.

Highly Respected Citizen Had Lived Here Thirty Years and Owned Considerable Local Property.

Otto Arens, aged about sixty years, who has been a prominent resident of this city for the past thirty years died at 1 o'clock this morning at Roosevelt Hospital, New York, following an operation performed there several days ago. Mr. Arens was abroad in Carlsbad, Germany, taking the baths, when the seriousness of the trouble with which he was afflicted was discovered. Upon the advice of physicians he returned home as soon as possible to undergo an operation. Complications developed, causing his death.

Mr. Arens was a native of Germany. For many years he was successfully engaged in business in New York as a cotton broker, being a member of the well known firm of Gruener & Arens. Later he removed from New York to this city, residing on Park avenue. About fifteen years ago his eldest daughter died and this almost prostrated him. Soon afterward he retired from active business, selling out his interest to his partner. He never engaged in active business again.

During his residence here, Mr. Arens acquired considerable property, including the Benton and William S. Darling tracts, and later the George Beaton property, which adjoins his tract on Rahway road, where he erected a fine dwelling for his own occupancy. Mr. Arens' home occupies a prominent site on the hillside off of Rahway road and has always been greatly admired by residents and visitors to the city. The spacious grounds have always been made attractive with drives, shrubbery and flowers.

Mr. Arens married a Miss Joyce, a native of the South, who was a niece of the late Don Alonzo Cushman, of G. Hagedorn, and one son, Siegfried Chelsea, New York. Mrs. Arens, together with one daughter, Mrs. A. Arens, both of this city, survive.

The remains were brought to the late home at noon today and the announcement of the funeral will be made later.

PLAINFIELD DEMOCRATS TO HAVE COMPLETE TICKET

The Democrats have not yet named a complete city ticket to be presented at the coming primaries, but George M. Christian has been decided upon as the party's nominee from the First ward for member of the Common Council. In the Fourth ward, the friends of Patrick J. Reville are urging him to again stand for the councilmanic nomination from that ward, but he has not yet given his decision. All petitions must be filed by August 29. The party has not yet picked a candidate for the Mayoralty nomination, and just now it cannot be learned who will be chosen to stand for the nomination.

The delegates for State and Congressional conventions have been chosen and are as follows:

First ward—First district, John F. Owens, State; Jeremiah Callahan, Congressional; second district, Walter L. Hetfield, State; Peter Flynn, Congressional; Second ward, First district, James E. Martine, State; J. E. Prindle, Congressional; second district, George W. Ord, State; D. F. Dugan, Congressional; third district, Calvin E. Brodhead, State; J. B. Guttridge, Congressional; Third ward—first district, Le Roy J. Ellis, State; Howard E. Fleming, Congressional; second district, Frank J. Shattle, State; Edward Fluck, Congressional; Fourth ward, first district, John Caulfield, State; John F. Casey, Congressional; second district, Patrick J. Reville, State; Clarence Walden, Congressional; third district, J. O. Stevens, State; Frank Cullen, Congressional.

Funeral of Mrs. William Hand.

The funeral services of Mrs. William Hand will be held from the late home on Jackson avenue, tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. Franklin K. Mathiews, of the Scotch Plains Baptist church, will be in charge in the absence of Mrs. Hand's pastor, Rev. C. L. Goodrich, who is on his vacation. The burial will be in North Plainfield cemetery.

MERCHANTS' BALL GAME

East End Shopkeepers Defeat West Front Street Men at Wayside Park, 14-6.

LINKE HAS TWO BAD INNINGS.

Corriell Invincable and Holds Opponents Safe—Game Played for Benefit of Democratic Outing.

With Louis Corriel in the box and the support of a regular league team, the East Front street merchants defeated the West Front streeters in a hard fought nine-inning battle at Wayside Park yesterday afternoon. The score of the contest was 14-6, but there was a whole lot of spirit through the entire nine innigs for the outcome of the summer series of merchants' games depended on this one battle. Both teams were out for blood, and despite the roughness of the diamond there was some classy baseball played by the two teams.

The East Enders practically won the game in the sixth and seventh innings when Otto Linke went up in the air and the boys from the sunny side of Front street scored all of their runs. Coriell was steady throughout the entire game, and although the West Enders touched him up several times he kept their hits scattered and his team out of danger.

Fuchs did some great receiving work for the East End merchants and he coached the erratic Corriell in great style. George Linke worked behind the bat for the other team. He caught his brother with the ease of a leaguer but that didn't make up for those two bad innings.

After Linke took his trip skyward, Morris Wilson, who has been pitching steady ball for the West End merchants during the season, went into the box and held the opposing team for the remainder of the game, without a hit. Lohrman didn't try his hand at mound work this time, but stayed out in left field like the candy kid that he is. The Luthman boys held down the positions of first and third base with ability and speed, while Vail, on the initial sack for the West Enders, was right up to scratch and scratching hard. Dodge went into left field for the East Front street butchers, bakers, etc., while Lohrman retired to the soft drink counter. Meaney on short stop was there with the disposition on everything that came his way.

Everything that is said about the East Front street players can be said in regard to the West End boys, except that they didn't win the game. But one team had to have that honor and as long as the defeated nine had already had it twice this month and the visitors had only indulged in the same joy once before it is no more than fair and satisfying that the East Front street team should be the honored ones this time.

This is the way that the two teams lined up in marching order. East Front street: Snell, 2b; E. Luthman, 1b.; N. Luthman, 3b.; Meaney, ss.; Ayer, cf.; Lohrman and Dodge, lf.; McAfee, rf.; Fuchs, c.; Corriell, p. West Front street: Vail, 1b.; M. Wilson, ss.; O. Linke, p.; G. Linke, c.; J. IMPRESSIVE SERVICES HELD FOR MISS JULIA R. STELLE.

The funeral service of Miss Julia R. Stelle was held from the late home on Union street, at 4 o'clock, yesterday afternoon, and was largely attended by relatives and friends. There were many floral tributes, showing the high regard in which Miss Stelle was held by all who knew her, which completely covered the bier.

Rev. Franklin K. Mathiews, pastor of the Scotch Plains Baptist church, conducted a short, impressive service, reading appropriate Scripture selections and offering prayer.

The burial was in Evergreen cemetery in Plainfield avenue, and the bearers were L. V. F. Randolph, Charles W. McCutchen, John Joseph Randolph, F. W. Butler and Oliver B. Leonard, of this city, and Frederick Morse, of Brooklyn.

Mitchell Agents Receive Watches.

The Mitchell-Lewis Motor Company, of Racine, Wisconsin, has presented each of its agents with a handsome gold watch. Frank L. C. Martin, of this city, the agent for the Mitchell cars in this vicinity, received his timepiece this morning. The monogram of the owner is engraved on the back of the watch, and the word "Mitchell" is written across the dial.

BIG BLAZE AT OAK TREE

Barn, Saw Mill and Outbuildings of John V. Ten Eyck Destroyed by Fire.

TOTAL LOSS ABOUT $25,000.

Fire is Believed to be the Work of an Incendiary—Several Cows All That was Rescued From Conflagration.

The large barn, a saw mill, and all the outbuildings, together with contents, located about one mile below Oak Tree on the road to Woodbridge, and owned by John V. TenEyck, were destroyed by fire between 3 and 4 o'clock this morning, aggregating a loss of between $20,000 and $25,000. The fire is believed to be of incendiary origin, and owing to the fact that there is no adequate water supply in the vicinity, it was impossible to save anything but a few cows which were kept in an extreme end of the barn, far from where the blaze started. It is not known whether the buildings and contents were covered by insurance.

The blaze was first discovered by Mr. TenEyck's son, Tice TenEyck, who lives a short distance from his father, and he gave the alarm and fought hopelessly to save the contents of the building. The blaze illuminated the sky and could be seen for many miles around.

The loss outside that to the buildings included four valuable horses, a large automobile, all the wagons, a two-horse load of produce all ready for market, together with machinery, farming implements, forty tons of hay and a great quantity of straw, harness and numerous other things usually found about a farm. As stated, the cows, which were kept in one end of the barn, were the only things rescued. The saw mill, a large one, and equipped with all the latest improvements, was a total loss.

As soon as the TenEyck family was aroused, the neighbors were summoned in the hope that something might be saved, but all worked to no purpose. It was discovered that the fire started in one end of the barn, which is one of the largest in this part of the State, and had spread rapidly to the hay loft before the family was aware of the catastrophe. Mr. TenEyck feels sure that the fire was the work of an incendiary, although he has not the slightest clue. When the barn was closed last night everything was left all right. Mr. TenEyck is frequently hiring and discharging men, and it is the opinion of some that perhaps one of the discharged men had something to do with the conflagration.

IMPROVEMENTS MADE AT PLAINFIELD THEATRE

Preparatory to the opening of the local theatrical season at the Plainfield theatre Messrs. Proctor & Sanderson are making numerous changes at the West Second street house which they believe will receive the approbation of their patrons. In the first place the playhouse is being entirely renovated and cleaned and will be re-decorated in attractive colors, making it more inviting than ever.

Perhaps one of the most important changes is that of removing the box office from the right to the left of the entrance, where it will be located in the store formerly occupied by T. A. Kurzhals, the barber. This will afford more room and light, something much desired. The box office for those desiring tickets for the gallery will also be located in this part of the building, facing the alley where the entrance to the gallery has always been situated.

The whole front entrance will be brightened through the use of paint, and the foyer will be redecorated. A large force of men are now engaged in making the changes, the plan being to get everything in readiness for the opening on Labor Day, September 5, with a production by the new Plainfield theatre stock company.

WON IN TENTH SESSION

Camden Makes Game Up-Hill Fight and Takes the Ball Home.

McLAUGHLIN FANS SIXTEEN.

Lead of Four Runs in Opening Inning Fades Away at Finish—Local Elks Crippled.

With all his sixteen strikeouts Warry McLaughlin couldn't win his game yesterday. But it was not Warry's fault. He pitched a game that would have been a winner nine times in ten, but at critical points his support wabbled. Six errors tell the story of the sorry fielding and a win must be credited to Camden.

It was pretty tough, too, when everything is taken into account. McNaughton at first was suffering from "charley horse," Woolston was lame and McLaughlin was in poor running shape due to a slight attack of rheumatism. And there you are!

The game went ten innings. With a lead of four runs in the first inning 885 seemed to be a safe bet. But after the third session it was practically one, two, three for the local boys. Another game is coming though and perhaps by next Thursday all hands will be in better physical condition and a different and more enjoyable story may be told.

"Judge" Westcott held the locals well in hand after the first period and he was ably supported throughout the entire game. Woolston replaced Moynihan after the first inning owing to the latter's illness and in the ninth De Meza took Woolston's place in right garden.

After Craig had been thrown out, McIntosh to Jefferson, in the first, McNaughton singled, Hoyt made a duplicate of McNaughton's hit, and Torpey came along with a two bagger which with Smith's single scored the four runs which looked like a big lead.

Camden came up to the scratch with determination and vigor in the second session and kept up a consistent pounding of the ball until the tenth when they put two runs over the pan and won the game. A detailed account of the game would require at least four columns of solid type and even then there would be a lot left to say. Let it suffice that the locals put up a good game under the circumstances and they will render a better account of themselves later on.

DEMOCRATS ON OUTING

Big Crowd Enjoys Sports and Speechmaking at Wayside Park.

"JIM" MARTINE WAS THERE.

Calvin E. Brodhead Among the Others Who Made Speeches—Affair Was a Huge Success.

The West End Democratic Club had a great day at Wayside Park, Dunellen, yesterday when a big crowd gathered to join in the fun and to listen to the speeches. The entertainment began in the early part of the afternoon when a baseball game took place between the East and West Front street merchants of this city and the jolly time continued until 2 o'clock this morning. A dancing floor was built in a shady nook in the grove of trees and the young people had a fine time there. The music was furnished by an orchestra from Bound Brook. Japanese lanterns and American flags were tastefully hung about the grove, in which tables and chairs were placed and ice cream and soft drinks served.

During the evening the music was stopped at intervals for some Democratic spellbinders to speak. Among the orators were: H. W. Lord, of New York city; Calvin E. Broadhead, of this city, a candidate for the Assembly; W. H. Beardslee, Jas. E. Martine, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator, and W. E. Tuttle, of Westfield, a candidate for Congress.

All the speakers dwelt upon what they considered the exceptional opportunities for the party's success in the impending campaign. They pointed out that when at the polls perfect organization and harmony in the ranks were the essentials. The Republican party was denounced for breach of trust and in the opinion of all the speakers it was time for the people "to turn the rascals out."

Mr. Brodhead, a most worthy candidate for the Assembly, received a great ovation, as did James E. Martine, a perennial candidate for office. Mr. Martine paid a tribute to the Star Spangled Banner, the American Eagle, the Declaration of Independence, and the Constitution. Report has it that he predicted victory for the Democratic party.

The committee in charge of the affair consisted of: Harry Fuchs, James Prendall, Frank Shattell, P. J. Reville and James McCarthy.

BOROUGH REPUBLICANS TO AGREE ON A TICKET

About thirty-five Republican voters were on hand last night at the meeting in Debele's auditorium, for the purpose of forming an organization of the Republican party for the fall campaign and to select the candidates for the primaries in September. Mayor Newton B. Smalley called the meeting to order and was selected to act as the chairman.

After a discussion of the situation it was decided that a committee be appointed to plan for a strong campaign and to prepare the petitions of the several candidates. The chairman appointed these a committee for that purpose: Alexander Milne and Charles A. Lee, First district; Dr. J. H. Cooley and L. B. Woolston, Second district; W. L. Smalley, Jr., and William J. Hudson, Third district; and the three members of the executive committee from the three districts as follows: Mayor Newton B. Smalley, E. P. T. Smith and B. R. Waldron. The committee will meet tonight in James Arnold's grocery store on Somerset street and will report to the voters at a meeting some time before Monday night, August 29, the last day for he filing of petitions.

During the discussion last night, Dr. H. K. Carroll made a stirring speech, in which he told of the need of a strong organization this fall. L. B. Woolston also addressed the audience along the same line of thought.

MR. FOWLER SPEAKS HERE

Tells Local Voters Republican Party Follows Him, Not He the Party.

BITTERLY ATTACKS LEADERS.

Makes Great Claims for Himself as to His Record in Congress—Tracy in Charge of Meeting.

In his customary eloquent fashion, Charles N. Fowler, candidate for the Republican Congressional nomination in this district, denounced the regular Republican leaders in the nation, State, county and city for somewhat over an hour last night at the Plainfield theatre. An audience that did not fill half the house listened attentively to him. Howard C. Tracy, formerly chairman of the New Idea central committee, acted as master of ceremonies while Richard M. Boardman, another New Idea man, occupied the stage as chairman of the meeting.

The representative men of the city were conspicuous by their absence. There was no mayor or other official there to introduce him. Neither was there that representative body of men, lawyers, clergymen and business and professional men generally sitting on the stage as vice presidents of the meeting as there had been in times past when he spoke here.

Republicans and Democrats, some of them from North Plainfield, others avowed supporters of Mr. Fowler's opponent, Judge Runyon, made up the audience which now and then gave cheers.

After Mr. Boardman had taken fifteen minutes to introduce the speaker, Mr. Fowler took the floor. He brought all the powers at his command, and he is one of the ablest stump speakers in this State, to stir up some enthusiasm but the crowd appeared to be more curious than demonstrative. He had a grievance against County Chairman Frank H. Smith and he aired it. Mr. Smith's recent declaration that Mr. Fowler is a "self-centered man" seemed to hurt him for after referring to it, he launched into the county chairman. Incidently he wanted to know how many of those in the audience Smith carried in his pocket. Equally bitter was his denunciation of the Morris county leader, State Treasurer Daniel S. Voorhees, a former personal and political friend who had rallied to the support of Judge Runyon.

Mr. Fowler also hammered the speaker of the House, Joseph Cannon, and United States Senator Aldrich and let the audience into the secret that long ago he made a vow that he would pursue those two men until he had driven them both out of office. He explained why he wanted revenge on them. The candidate claimed the credit of being one of the first three men in Congress to come out for the gold standard and of being years ahead of his party in principles it now espouses. That he had not been following his party during the sixteen years that he has been at Washington but that the Republican party had been following him was one of his rather amusing declarations. He was glad to see that within the last few weeks, according to him, President Taft had endorsed a tariff revision scheme that he had been advocating for years.

"Twelve hundred years ago, in the time of Honest King John, the world in travail gave birth to liberty. It was a significant thing, as history has proved, but how many of you enjoy that liberty today? You may think that you are best serving your country by holding aloof from some party, thus falling into the error which brings not only chagrin to yourself but defeat to plans for future success. And that is one reason why parties are necessary. For thirteen years I have been working with the Republican party for a downward revision of the tariff and while there have been some changes made are you satisfied that they meet with the approval of your countrymen or yourselves?

"My experience with the legislators, who are supposed to represent you and who ought to carry out your purposes in both the House and the Senate, is that with few exceptions the Republican party is dominated by Cannon and Aldrich. These two men hold the people in the palms of their hands and control the entire operations of the two houses. The House of Representatives today is the greatest scheme for diabolically stealing in the history of the world. Cannon has made a charnel house of character out of this great body of men.

"My great desire is to live long enough and to have strength enough to drive both Cannon and Aldrich

EIGHT KILLED IN CRASH OF PASSENGER TRAINS

Flint, Mich., Aug. 26.—In a rear-end collision between passenger trains Nos. 4 and 14, both eastbound, on the Grand Trunk Railway two miles east of Durand lat Thursday night, eight persons are known to have been killed, three were probably fatally injured and five were seriously hurt. It is reported that four passengers are missing.

Train No. 14 stopped to repair a defective brake when No. 4 crashed into the sleeper on the standing train. The engine of No. 4 plowed half way through the sleeper, crushing to death some of the sleeping passengers. The wreckage of the sleeper caught fire and others of the passengers were burned or scalded. It is said that there were eighteen passengers on the ill-fated car.

When the forward train stopped a brakeman was sent back to signal the train following, but the explosion of the torpedo which was placed on the track as a warning was heard too late by the engineer of No. 4 to stop his train.

As fast as they were recovered from the ruins of the burned sleeper the bodies of the dead were taken to Durand. Some of the injured were also taken to the village and others were brought to the hospital in this city.

The dead bodies recovered during the night are two unidentified women, one about 50 years old and the other about 60, and six persons whose bodies were so badly scalded and burned as to render identification impossible.

The probably fatally injured are Clinton A. Davis, 27, of Montreal, scalded and cut about the head and body; George Nelson, of Battle Creek, fireman on train No. 4, scalded and cut, and Bert Mitchell, of Port Huron, engineer on train No. 14, who was injured about the head.

The body of one of the two dead women may be that of Mrs. Davis, mother of Clinton Davis, of Montral, who was injured. One of the bodies corresponds to Mrs. Davis' description as to size. Mrs. Davis was an invalid, traveling with her son and a nurse. The other woman's body that was recovered is said to be too large to fit the description of the nurse.

HANDS STUCK TOGETHER WITH TARVIA

Because his hands were so tightly fastened together with tarvia that two men could not pull them apart, James Vacirello, of 17 William street, Montclair, tried to burn the sticky mass off Tuesday afternoon. Vaciello was stopped in his attempt by fellow workmen. He finally succeeded in releasing himself by dipping his hands in oil. Vacirello is one of a gang of workmen resurfacing Bloomfield avenue with cracked stones and tarvia binder. A barrel of the tarvia, which resembles asphalt, had been dumped at the roadside. Striking on its head it burst. Vacirello sprang to upend it so as to save as much of the contents as possible. In doing so his hands and arms were coated with the tarvia to the elbows. He tried to wipe from one hand with the other and they stuck together. Close to the spot a fire for boiling the tarvia was maintained. Vacirello walked to the fire and was about to thrust in his hands when seized by the foreman, Alfonso Intrepiro, and prevented.

STEAL WAGON LOAD OF GOODS.

Burglars Make Thorough Job of It at Woodbridge Store.

The police of Woodbridge and the neighboring municipalities are endeavoring to find the thieves who, before daybreak yesterday morning succeeded in carrying off $1,000 worth of stock from Christiansen Brothers' clothing store in Main street. A side window was forced and the burglars had to remove considerable stock from the shelves so as to gain entrance, and when inside the rear door was thrown open.

Stock trunks packed with clothing and goods from nearly all the shelves and tables were taken, and it is the general belief that the robbers used either an automobile truck or a wagon to carry away the goods.

AMONG OUR NEIGHBORS

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

While George Block, Louis Kopp and Benjamin Block were fishing in Green brook the other day near the sewer beds, they saw a school of carp, composed of about twenty of the fishes. The average length of them was a foot and a half. The boys immediately took out their fishing tackle and tried their luck but the carp wouldn't bite.

Dunellenites had an opportunity to witness a good game of baseball yesterday afternoon on the Wayside Park grounds between the East Front and West Front street merchants, of Plainfield. The game was an exciting one and was won by the East enders by the score of 14-6. This leaves the two teams tied in the series of summer games.

The local team will play the crack baseball team of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, at Dunellen, Saturday. On June 16th last, the Centrals defeated the locals, who were minus the services of Nonamaker and Piddington, by the score of 3 to 0. A game that will equal last Saturday's game with Plainfield is looked for.

Many of the borough people attended the outing of the Plainfield Democratic Club at Wayside Park yesterday afternoon and evening. The grove was tastefully decorated with Japanese lanterns and an orchestra of five pieces furnished the music for the dancing, which continued until early morning.

John Rinehart, of North avenue, fell in the brook the other day with all his clothes on. He was sailing a small boat accompanied by several of his friends and in a "general rough-house" John went overboard. Except for a good soaking, the boy was not harmed in the least.

Clarence Voorhees and Russell Runyon are nursing some sore arms from sunburn, which they received at their visit to Atlantic City this week. Russell lost two pounds of avoirdupois but Clarence says that he can't lose weight.

And don't forget that game tomorrow between the locals and the crack team of the C. R. R. of N. J. The contest is due to be played on the Madison avenue grounds and Jimmie Montross will be on the slab for the Dunellenites.

The Republicans of the borough meet tonight at 8 o'clock to name their candidates for the primaries on September 13. It is expected that a complete ticket will be decided upon.

George Vogel, who keeps a restaurant at the Dewey Park car barns, has purchased the bread rout which was owned by Nelson Giles, of the borough.

Grace Wheeler, of Front street, who was hit by Andrew McCardell's automobile, last week, is able to be about again. Her injuries were not serious.

The Dunellen Chiefs are scheduled to play the Boroni team of New Market, Saturday afternoon. The game will take place in New Market.

Edward Hannon, of Dunellen avenue, leaves tomorrow night for Easton, Pa., where he will make a visit until after Labor Day.

Sylvester Rinehart, of North avenue, has started to work as a peach clerk on the Central Railroad of New Jersey.

Miss Helen Shively, of Whittier avenue, is spending a week in Newark.

SOMERVILLE.

Miss Alice Ross Gould, who has been spending some time with her uncle, Sheriff Frank T. Ross, returned to her home in Jersey City today.

D. W. Pinkerton is spending two weeks visiting Delaware Water Gap, Stroudsburg, Buffalo and Niagara Falls.

A. H. Laughton and daughters, the Misses Anna and Mary, are enjoying two weeks at Pocono Summit.

Colonel N. Y. Dungan is spending his vacation at his country home near Belle Meade.

Mrs. Myers M. Hodge and daughter, Hazel, are spending the week at Point Pleasant.

Miss Edith Messler left yesterday for a two weeks' visit to relatives at Blairstown.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The success made of the lawn dance, held Wednesday night by the members of St. Mary's church, Stony Hill, has led the committee to arrange for several others before the out-door season comes, the next being scheduled for the early part of the coming month.

The baseball team is without a game for tomorrow afternoon. The home fans, however, will witness a good game at Crescent oval when Manager Dorflinger's team meets the McNulty Bros.' team, of New York.

The Italian residents are preparing to hold a big celebration Labor Day afternoon and night. There will be a parade and band concert in the afternoon and at night a band concert and grand display of fireworks.

The Township Committee meets tonight in the town rooms. Bills to be paid at the meeting should be presented to Township Clerk Edward L. Hand before 8 o'clock.

Misses Rose and Kate Greene, of Second street, Plainfield, have been visiting their sister, Mrs. Frank Corrona, of Prospect avenue.

Miss Louise Meyer, of Front street, is sojourning for a time at Asbury Park and Ocean Grove.

Mrs. Emma Cox, of Park avenue, has returned from a visit with friends in New York.

FIGHT FIRE; HIS BABY DYING.

While Assistant Fire Chief Walter S. Gibson, of Passaic, was directing the department in fighting a fire in a tenement house in Monroe street Wednesday night and early yesterday morning, in that city, his only child, a son seven weeks old, was dying of infantile paralysis.

The blaze was a stubborn one, and three alarms were sounded. Chief Gibson had two narrow escapes, the first when a trunk thrown from an upper window brushed his clothes, and the second when he was hit by a pikepole and had a gash cut in his forehead.

Returning home, just before daylight, he found his child near death. He took the baby from its mother, who had been up all night, and a few minutes later it expired in his arms.

Lieut. James J. Cunningham, who was left in charge at the fire after it was under control, was seriously injured by the explosion of a chemical extinguisher. He is recovering in St. Mary's Hospital.

TROUBLESOME GHOST GONE.

Since Mrs. Jennie Kellogg, daughter of George Dunlap, who lives near the Potter stock farm on Allamuchy Road, near Newton, left the Dunlap household of a week ago, the "ghosts" which had the family and neighbors terrified have disappeared. The first night after the departure of Mrs. Kellogg passed without incident, no windows and doors were shaken, no frogs thrown into the faces of sleeping innocence, no clothes and books were slashed, no doors were mysteriously opened and shut, and since then no fires of mysterious origin have threatened the little farmhouse.

The general belief now prevails among the country folk that some flesh and blood being was the vandal that caused the destruction of so much property and shattered the nerves of so many people. Much of the furniture and belongings of the Dunlap family which had been removed to the barn for fear of their being burned have been put back into the house.

Miss M. C. Trenbath, of the Babcock building, returned home last night from a delightful vacation trip spent in Europe.

BURGLARS GET $10,000.

Gems Stolen from an Atlantic City Jewelry Store.

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 26.—Thieves effected an entrance into the Boardwalk store of Errico Brothers early Wednesday morning and made away with $10,000 worth of diamonds and other jewels. The thieves were assisted in their work by a custom of the proprietors, who pull down the shades in the front of the store at night. This enabled the thieves to work unseen and unmolested in the rear of the store.

Entrance was made by jimmying a back window. The work was evidently done by professionals, as they went through the place systematically and took only first-class articles. No attempt was made to open the safe.

Mrs. John Johnson, of Duer street, who for the past three months has been visiting relatives at Dingle, Sweden, is expected home Sunday on the White Star liner Baltic.

The Practical Instinct.

"Why do so many children dislike mental arithmetic?" said one school teacher.

"I suppose," replied the other, "it's because a boy resents figuring on how many imaginary apples a mythical John has instead of getting out after real ones of his own."—Washington Star.

GOLF.

The members of the Park Golf Club are rapidly returning from their vacations and by Labor Day it is expected that a majority of them will be on the course. The stay-at-homes have been making a good showing in the weekly competition.

The Labor Day events at the Park Golf Club will include play for the Holiday cup, members handicap competition, thirty-six holes, medal play; an approaching and putting contest, mixed couples; open to members and their guests, to start at 5 o'clock; suitable prizes for the winning couple; also a driving contest, open to members, to start at 4.30 o'clock; suitable prizes for the winner.

Labor Day will also mark the resumption of golf activities at the Plainfield Country Club, when the weekly competition for the fall handicap cups, Classes A and B, will be started and continued until early winter. In addition there will be special events on Labor Day that should attract a large field.

All during the summer, the social features at the Plainfield Country Club have been enjoyed by the stay-at-homes, and Superintendent John Hilton has been busy catering to the wants of the members and their friends.

Shattle and son, Edwin Shattle, of this city, and the whole party will be registered at the New Rodney, Pleasantville, which is but a short distance from Atlantic City.

THE BUTTON-ONS.

It is remarkable what changes can be run in a slender wardrobe by a judicious use of the button-ons, or, in other words, of the exchangeable trimmings and accessories that can be hooked or buttoned on a garment.

There is the petticoat idea; the girl who adopts it owns just two petticoat tops, one of black sateen and one of white lining material. On these she buttons any number and variety of deep ruffles, the dark on the black and the light on the white. There are silk ruffles to match every gown, sateen or seersucker ones for rainy days, white lace and lawn ones for lingerie gowns. The money she saves in material and making is considerable indeed, and she rejoices daily in her buttonholed ruffles and the row of black or white buttons on her underskirt foundation.

Then there are hat trimmings. How many sailors boast hooked-on bows no one but the owners will ever know; and they are certain of a trimming to agree in material and color with every stitch of clothing they own. Ribbon, velvet, straw, leather, maline, net—the varieties are endless—and the gamut of shades is limited not even by the rainbow. Other hat trimmings, too, may be hooked on for the occasion—feathers, flowers and buckles—and one good substantial straw may be the concealed foundation of every type of hat from the tailor-made to the lingerie.

Flat pockets buttoned or hooked on to petticoats and inside blouses are another invention of the button-on girl, and she finds them vastly more convenient than the easily lost handbag. They are made large enough never to bulge, and thus they are unnoticeable.

All the pretty frills every one is wearing are easily buttoned on with pearl or crocheted buttons; and thus one blouse may boast half a dozen of these dainty accessories. A bright idea is to use gold baby studs, with buttonholes in both blouse and frill.

The button-on girl takes no chances with safety pins. Her waists and skirts are hooked together. There are five hooks on every one of her skirts, and five eyes in the same places on every one of her shirtwaists. In the more delicate materials, the eyes are sewed to a tape band that runs around the waist.

The same principle is extended to the petticoat and corset cover. No ugly drops and creases where a few flat buttons on large hooks and eyes save the day. And here again the tape band is in evidence. Only a few moments' extra sewing, but many hours gained in the wear and tear.

Moreover, the button-on girl makes one dress do the work of two. When she buys or has made an evening dress, she provides also a separate yoke and long sleeves; and for semidress occasions her decollete gown, with perhaps a net tunic or a draped bodice, appears with lace sleeves and yoke in quite different guise.

Wonderful are the changes that can be wrought in one blouse by the use of button-on trimmings. A band of applique, ruffled sleeves, an overblouse of embroidered net, and the quite plain little waist becomes fit for occasions the most varied and the most trying.

Certainly the button-on idea is worth attempting.

out of public life. Aldrich, who knows nothing of principle, but who is a first-class merchant, as merchants of a certain kind go, is the enemy of the country. I prefer to represent and will stand for the commercial interests of the country against the monetary interests—the trusts.

"When any good man is nominated or proposed for an office, unless Mr. Cannon approves of him, the order goes forth from this political assassin saying 'defeat him'—and he is defeated. How long do you propose to stand for such tyranny?"

Mr. Fowler paid his respects to County Registrar Frank H. Smith by saying that the weight of his (Mr. Smith's) comment on the Fowler letter may be measured by the source of his inspiration. This source was left to the conjecture of the speaker's hearers. He referred caustically to Daniel Voorhees as swimming in a cesspool (money); referred to existing conditions in Washington, introduced a story of feudalism, as practiced in Europe and finally fell back for eloquence and general approval upon Lincoln's Gettysburg speech.

But Mr. Fowler was not content with the few dips into history. He appeared to grow bolder as his story went on and finally announced that Theodore Roosevelt is the greatest insurgent of them all.

Of course, Mr. Fowler was sincere when he declared that President Taft was just beginning to follow the Fowler principle. He said so himself, and when the speech was concluded the applause was not deafening.

received in visiting St. Paul's Cathedral, the National Art Gallery, Buckingham Palace, Hyde Park and Drury Lane theatre. Many times we stopped to rest by the lions at Trafalgar Square and muse about the wonderful happenings that had taken place in the surrounding city. The English people as a whole made a small impression on us, except for their odd clothes and quaint talk. Our hearts would leap with joy when we saw an American coming down the street, and for a minute we could feast our eyes on clothes that were decently cut and large enough for a human being.

The last two days we had in England we spent in going to Windsor and the surrounding country. There we went all through the famous castle where Queen Victoria spent the better part of her life. We had the good fortune of being there on a day when all the royal apartments were open, and I spent the most enjoyable day of my stay in England in seeing the magnificent furnishings and tapestries and paintings in these apartments. On being shown the room where Victoria received Napoleon, we could almost picture the gracious queen sitting in the gem-set chair with the French ruler before her. Windsor itself is a quaint little town, and the walks and gardens surrounding the castle are magnificent.

Near Windsor is the little station of Slough, from which we took a motor bus to the church at Stoke Pogis, made immortal by Thomas Gray's "Elegy in a County Churchyard." The church is very quaint and dates back to the early fifteenth century. An old grave-digger in the churchyard, for a penny, pointed out the yew-tree under which Gray sat when he wrote. The graves around the church are very old and many inscriptions are too worn to be read.

Tired out, but happy, we reached the ship the night before it left, and once on the ocean our thoughts turned towards home. The passage back was pretty rough, and although I escaped seasickness, I witnessed much suffering around me. It seemed a funny thing that some of the crew who have been on the boat a long time were sick. The last two days before we reached home, the time began to drag heavily and there were never happier boys in the world than we when the Statue of Liberty loomed up in view.

Thus ends my trip to England in three weeks, also my once-strong desire to see the world before I could afford to pay my own passage across. The next time I go I will have a first-class ticket in my pocket and want to be surrounded by friends. Even then I will bear in mind how the poor men are working below to make the passage possible.

SOMERSET REPUBLICAN CALL FORMALLY ISSUED

Frelinghuysen, has issued a call to the Republican voters of the county to elect eighteen delegates to attend ne Republican State convention and thirty-six delegates to attend the Congressional convention, which must be done at the primaries to be held on September 13. POLITICAL TALK.

Rep H. C. Loudenslager, of New Jersey, secretary of the Republican Congressional Committee, spent two hours Tuesday morning with President Taft and afterward accompanied him on board the Mayflower, where the President officiated at the presentation of cups to the winners of the conder class races with the Spaniards. Mr. Loudenslager was to have accompanied Mr. Sherman companied Vice President Sherman to Beverly last Wednesday, but was delayed in New York by illness. He declared that his visit was solely for the purpose of talking over the plans for the congressional campaign, and both Mr. Loudenslager and the officers of the executive offices were anxious to have it understood that the call had nothing whatever to do with the New York situation. Mr. Loudenslager is an intimate friend both of Vice President Sherman and of Speaker Cannon.

Congressman Fowler said at his meeting last night that a few years ago he made a vow to stay in public life until he saw the downfall of Speaker Cannon and Senator Aldrich. In pursuance of that vow he is now asking the voters of the Fifth district to re-elect him to Congress in order to assist him in carrying out his personal wishes for vengeance. We were under the impression that a Representative in Congress was chosen to represent a certain district in Congress and not to carry out merely personal ideas of revenge.

Egotist—One addicted to egotism; one who speaks too much of himself or magnifies his own achievements or affairs.—Webster's Dictionary.

Congressman Victor Murdock, the Kansas insurgent, will speak at the Plainfield theatre on Friday night for Congressman Charles N. Fowler.

From a Daily Press reader, comes this letter: "I see in your paper that you state that Mr. Charles Sebring seems to be the logical candidate for sheriff.' Allow me to correct that statement by saying that he is the logical candidate." We thank you, madam!

Yes, Constant Reader, it would be only the right thing to do for the Democratic Campaign managers to send Howard C. Tracy their check for $150 to defray the expenses of the Fowler meeting held at the Plainfield theatre last night. No better Democratic political thunder has been heard in these parts for many years.

An unsuccessful effort was made at a meeting of Republican voters at Hackettstown, Wednesday night to have a resolution adopted instructing the Congressional delegates to indorse for nomination Congressman Fowler or some other Progressive Republican. After a warm debate it was decided that such a resolution was not timely.

Throwing mud at one's adversaries is not the sore of political argument that appeals to the American people. If Mr. Fowler would only arrange to hold the same sort of meetings he engineered last night, every night next week, Judge Runyon could take a vacation until primary day. Come to think of it, he might as well take life easy anyway.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

A day or two ago, a farmer living in this vicinity brought a colored boy before Judge Smith on a serious charge. The boy, who is fifteen years old, fled but was soon found and brought before the judge. He admitted his guilt, it is said, and also, it is said, admitted that he was involved in a similar case about a year ago in Westfield. The judge thought it about time he was taken in hand, and after a severe reprimand, he was sent to New Brunswick to await the decision of the Grand Jury. He no doubt will be sent to the Rahway Reformatory.

LITERARY

Few people know that one American woman, Mrs. Margaret W. Young, is President of the United States pro tem. many times a year. She holds a unique position in the government employ which ecquires her a affix the signature of the President to important papers (land patents) that frequently represent great money value. She is authorized by Congress to do this and has done it now for three years. She signed "Theodore Roosevelt" to over 90,000 land patents, placing under that name her own, thus "per Margaret W. Young." She has signed even a larger number with the name "Wm. H. Taft." Her haidwriting is distinctly feminine.—The Christian Herald.

The Red Book Magazine, which may always be relied upon to appear each month with as admirable a collection of short fiction as it is possible to secure, seems to outdo even its own record in the Septmber issue, just at hand. The leading story, "Jacques Bernard," by Nevil G. Henshaw, is one of the most powerful narratives of what a human being can withstand and still live, that we recall ever having read. A story that wives might well read aloud to their husbands is Pearl Wilkins' "A Tonic for Tired Women" Arnold Bennett, author of the widely-read novel, "The Old Wives' Tale," contributes to the same issue "Why th Clock Stopped."

The September Everybody's magazine is noteworthy beyond even its own standard of excellence, in that it contains the initial installment of a new series of articles by Lincoln Steffens. Indeed, in many ways the series may be fairly characterized as the most important that Mr. Steffens himself has ever undertaken, and for the author of "The Shame of the Cities" and "The Struggle for Self-Government," this is saying a good deal. The series carries the novel title "It—An Exposition of the Sovereign Political Power of Organized Business." It is a study of Wall Street along the broadest lines, and promises to be of national significance. "Lassoing Wild Animals in Africa," by Guy H. Scull, is the first detailed account, lavishly illustrated, of Buffalo Jones' unique hunting expedition after lions and rhinoceroses. "Bringing in the Fleece," by G. W. Ogden, is the story of sheep on the commercial side of that extensive western industry.

A happy childhood is an imperative preparation for a happy maturity. The disposition, the acst of mind, the whole life tendencies are fixed in childhood, says Orison Swett Marden, in "Success Magazine." An early habit of cheerfulness—the fun-loving habit—has a powerful influenec over the mature man and his career. A happy childhood is the best possible protection against ill-health, unhappiness and failure; the best possible protection against the developement of handicapping peculiarities, idiosyncrasies and even insanity. A large percentage of the people in the insane asylum did not have a happy childhood.

From "Hippo Hunting on Lake Nyassa" to "Sport in British Columbia" the September Wide World Magazine covers a tremendous amount of territory in its articles and stories. Charles F. Saunders relates his two weeks' experience among the Navajo Indians; Douglas Carruthers continues his "Adventures in Uuknown Arabia," while a second article on "The Ruined Cities of Yucatan" increases one's interest in that mysterious part of the wrold. Henry Hale tells the romantic story of how an American boy became a King. "A Hungerian Village Wedding" contains much to charm the lover of romance and is, moreover, very attractively illustrated.

Many years ago, before the Klondike craze, an unknown young man sent to Scribner's Magazine an article which was immediately accepted and published, giving an account of his experiences on a journey through the White Pass to the Youkon. The article was accepted because of its striking quality of adventurous narrative; its author is the now celebrated General Frederick Funston. Scribner's will begin in September a series of papers by General Funston, giving those experiences of his career which were associated with General Gomez, whose chief of artillery he became. The narrative is a unique record of adventure, written with humor and power of grophic delineation.

The difficulteis of teaching astronomy even in its most elementary form, are, perhaps, only known to those who have attempted it. A London assistant schoolmistress stated some time ago that she was now fully convinced "of the inutility of attempting to instel into the minds of nine-year-old girls a knowledge of the more recondite branches of astronomy." She says that, according to instructions, she explained to her class the uses and purposes of the zodiac. Some days afterwards she resumed the astronomy lesson, and in order to test the recollection of the pupils, she asked, "What is the zodiac?" "There aren't none now, ma'am," replied the little girl; "it's bust up." "What's burst up??" asked the teacher, in great surprise. "The sody 'urk," answered the girl, "where they made the soda-water; and father's been thrown out of work." Investigation showed that a soda-water manufactory in the neighborhood where the girl lived had been closed through the bursting of a steam pipe, and the pupil had seen in this catastrophe the collapse of the zodiac.—From "The Sailor's Bible" in the September Strand.

N. Y. AMUSEMENTS.

At Wallack's' theatre, after two months well-earned rest, H. B. Warner in "Alias Jimmy Valentine," once more applies his sensitive fingers to the task of reopening the great bank vault that figures so conspicuously in the last act of Paul Armstrong's successful drama. "Alias Jimmy Valentine" was first produced at Wallack's early last January, and was still playing to crowded houses when its managers, Liebler & Company, put a temporary stop to its run in June. Mr. Armstrong's play had no difficulty in resuming its old-time popularity at once after the commencement of its second New York year, and Mr. Warner and his company are housed at Wallack's for some months to come. The original company remains practically unchanged. In order that the players might once more strike their gait, the company had a week's engagement at Atlantic City prior to the Wallack's re-opening.

CURRENCY ASSOCIATIONS.

Peculiar Position Puts the Chicago Banks in Quandry.

Washington, Aug. 26.—At the present time only Washington, New York, Philadelphia and Boston have completely organized "nation currency associations" among their banks, while Atlanta possesses a "near organization" and some twenty other communities have signified their intention to organize at an early date.

Organization in Chicago has been held up by a peculiar condition which may interest other communities contemplating organization. The local clearing house association consists of seventeen State and six national banks. As ten national banks are necessary to the formation of a currency association and as State banks are not eligible to membership, an awkward situation is presented. The twenty-nine non-member banks of Chicago include only five national banks, thus giving thirty-five State banks out of the forty-six banks of both classes in the city. It would be legal for the five non-member banks to unite with the six other national banks which clear through the Chicago clearing house to form a currency association, and the Treasury Department hopes they will do this. The banks have hesitated to take this action, however, because of doubt whether in time of emergency currency of the national banks would be accepted by the State banks, instead of the clearing house certificates which the State banks, of course, would be compelled to use.

Don't Let "Poor Combustion" Pick Your Pocket

Poor combustion is a common fault of common furnaces and a common reason for large fuel bills and cold houses—a BOYNTON "square-pot" furnace compels the fuel fed to it to yield its full toll of heat and comfort and deliver it upstairs as well as down.

The BOYNTON "Square-pot" is the greatest of furnace improvements — one which every builder of heaters has long aimed for. It makes perfect and economical combustion possible.

The BOYNTON line of steam and hot water heaters for residence heating are all fitted with the economical square fire pot and square grate. If you have heating troubles, a BOYNTON will cure them.

CHILEAN STEVEDORES.

A Ferocious Class of Men With the Manners of Savages.

At Caronel, the principal coaling port on the west coast of South America, it is customary for cargo boats to ship twenty or thirty Chilean stevedores, in addition to the regular crew, to break out the cargo when it is consigned to various ports farther up the coast. A worse looking lot of cutthroats than these seagoing longshoremen it would be hard to find even among the bandits of southern Europe or the old time pirates of the West Indies. Swarthy, undersized, dirty and clothed in nondescript rags, they are about the bottom notch in the scale of humanity.

What they lack in intelligence they make up in ferocity and animal cunning. Even a crew of Kanakas will refuse to berth or mess with them. Every man of them carries a knife, and they are commanded by an overseer who is addressed as "captain" and exerts a certain degree of authority. They do their own cooking while aboard ship, each man serving as cook for a week, at the end of which time he resigns in favor of the next in line. Of course the "captain" never descends to menial labor, not even to work the cargo. He stands by with a cigarette between his fingers and directs his men. The table manners of these semisavages are the manners of the stone age. Neither knives, forks nor spoons are used, but every man grabs for himself and crams as much as he can into his mouth at once, greedily tearing the meat apart with his fingers and cleaning up the grease with a piece of bread, which also does duty as a napkin before it is swallowed. A number of sheep generally are taken out on these tramp steamers and killed when fresh meat is needed. When the Chileans learn a sheep is going to be killed they crowd around with tin cups or basins to catch the warm blood, which they drink eagerly. They also bring chunks of bread and sop up every drop that falls.—New York Press.

THE FIRST PHOTOGRAPHS.

Head Tongs, Long Exposures and the Ordeal of Looking Pleasant.

An event was the taking of the first photograph in the olden days, when photography was still hampered by pitchforks and long exposures. There are few good baby pictures of our fathers. The fond mother and father sit bolt upright, frozen or petrified, while between them is a very starchy little dress surmounted by a very blurry little spot which represents a composite of several partial likenesses of the hopeful.

But it was with the child of ten or twelve years that the old time photographer succeeded best, the child that has reached the age capable of feeling the tremendous responsibility of having a picture taken. Every old album, such as used to grace the center table in the front room, parades before you a long array of these conscientious young people undergoing the terrible ordeal of "sitting." Loving mothers spent hours combing those smoothly plastered locks tightly back and binding them uncompromisingly behind with irreproachable ribbon bows. At the last moment, after the operator has screwed the iron fork tight up behind the trembling head and has pushed the huge camera here and there, ducking in and out under the black cloth in a most awe inspiring manner, mother has slipped into range and given just one more pat to the starchy skirts and one more tug at the big sleeves. Then there came the awful command, "Look pleasant," which the victim did by a remarkable effort of will, usually attaining somewhat the expression which comes over the face of a strangling cat. Five minutes later the "artist" announces that "that will do," and the family feels the same relief that comes to friends with the announcement that the "patient has survived the operation and is resting comfortably."—Detroit News-Tribune.

Pain and Sudden Death.

In angina pectoris, agony spasm of the heart, there are two chief features—pain and sudden death. The pain is coming and going, intense, peculiar, strange, awful, usually in the chest around the heart and spreading into the shoulders and abdomen. Death, which comes in a higher percentage than in any other known disease, for few ever get over it, is usually sudden, often, as the poet says, "life struck sharp on death." There are indeed in this disease many mysteries remaining to be cleared up. A father and his four children have died of angina pectoris.—New York Press.

At Sea.

A man was discovered one evening by a friend leaning disconsolately over the rail of a transatlantic steamer.

"Are you waiting for the moon to rise?" asked the friend facetiously.

"No," was the savage reply. "I have not swallowed the moon."—Los Angeles Times.

A Fine Distinction.

A small boy in the village school when writing a composition on "Quakers" wound up by saying, "Quakers never quarrel, never get into a fight, never claw and never scratch." Then he added, "Paw is a Quaker, but I really don't think maw is."—Delineator.

A DANGEROUS FISH.

The Peril That Comes With Catching an Electric Ray.

Trouble lurks in the least suspected spots. One would think a smooth, shallow cove a safe place in which to float in a good craft, yet Charles Frederick Holder met with an adventure in just such a spot, which he relates in "Big Game at Sea." The author was visiting a friend on the New England coast, who was given to the study of natural history.

One day the author accompanied his friend on a collecting trip, and here is the story of the result as he told it:

Opposite his house was a little bay with a clean sandy bottom. Over this we slowly drifted. I sat in the stern, enjoying the day and examining the curious things my friend drew out of the water. Suddenly he gave an ejaculation, and I saw him cling, seemingly helpless, to his pole. His face was ashy pale, with a white appearance like one stricken with a fatal disease.

I sprang forward just in time to catch him as he fell back into the boat and lowered him to the seat. At first he could only motion toward the water. He was almost rigid. Finally he recovered enough to say "Torpedo!" I saw the harpoon he was holding dancing about, evidently forced into a large fish. Grasping it, I soon discovered the trouble, for I received an electric shock strong enough to almost knock me over. I dropped the pole.

By this time my friend had recovered enough to tell me to let the fish remain where it was. With difficulty, I rowed to shore. When the boat was grounded I picked up an old glass bottle, took a turn over it with the line and, with the help of this homemade insulator, pulled the fish on shore.

It proved to be one of the largest torpedoes, or electric rays, I have ever seen. Under certain conditions it would have been capable of killing a man. When touched the fish would roll its eyes dismally and give a low croak.

I have never known a man to be killed by one, but many have been injured, and, as for my friend, he did not recover in a week.

AN OLD TIME DINNER.

British Table Manners In the Seventeenth Century.

An account of hospitality in England in 1629 gives a good idea of the manner in which a country gentleman of the period lived. Dinner and supper were brought in by the servants with their hats on, a custom which is corroborated by Fynes Moryson, who says that, being at a knight's house who had many servants to attend him, they brought in the meats with their heads covered with blue caps.

After washing their hands in a basin they sat down to dinner, and Sir James Pringle said grace. The viands seemed to have been plentiful and excellent—"big pottage, long kale, bowe of white kale," which is cabbage; "brach soppe," powdered beef, roast and boiled mutton, a venison pie in form of an egg and goose. Then they had cheese, cut and uncut, and apples. But the close of the feast was the most curious thing about it.

The tablecloth was removed, and on the table were put a "towel the whole breadth of the table and half the length of it, a basin and ewer to wash, then a green carpet laid on, then one cup of beer set on the carpet, then a little lawn serviter plaited over the corner of the table and a glass of hot water set down also on the table; then be there three boys to say grace, the first the thanksgiving, the second the Pater Noster, the third prayer for a blessing of God's church. The good man of the house, his parents, kinfolk and the whole company then do drink hot waters, so at supper, then to bed."—Exchange.

Mixing Religions.

The bright six-year-old daughter of an upper west side physician happened into his reception room the other day, and a waiting woman patient engaged her in conversation.

"I suppose you go to church and Sunday school?" she asked.

"Oh, yes, ma'am," she replied.

"And what denomination do your parents belong to?"

"Why," said the little one, "mamma's a Presbyterian and papa's a brain specialist."—New York Globe.

Their Fate.

The late Dr. Talmage once called on his lawyer and found two of his parishioners there on legal business of a private nature.

"Ah, doctor," called the lawyer in greeting, "good morning! Here are two of your flock. May I ask without impertinence if you regard them as black sheep or white?"

"I don't know as yet," replied Talmage dryly, "whether they're black or white, but I'm certain that if they remain here long they'll be fleeced."

Charged For Curiosity.

Mr. Bach—What is the reason you charge twice as much for my cuffs as you did formerly?

Laundress—Because you have begun making pencil notes on them.

"What difference does that make?"

"The girls waste so much time in trying to make them out."—London Spare Moments.

Indisputable Proof.

"You say they contested the will of the deceased?"

"Yes, and the court held that he was suffering from hallucinations."

"On what grounds?"

"It appears that he left three-fourths of his property to his mother-in-law."—London Opinion.

BARKER LEADS FIELD IN OPEN GOLF TOURNEY

With two fine rounds of 74 and 76, H. H. Barker, the Garden City professional, led the field at the end of the first thirty-six holes of the annual championship tournament of the Metropolitan Golf Association on the links of the Deal Golf and Country Club, yesterday. His total of 150 was three strokes better than that of J. J. McDermott, the Merchantville home-bred.

"Marty" O'Loughlin, the professional at the Plainfield County Club, finished with a card of 82 and 84, for a total of 166 not so bad when one considers the classy field engaging in the tournament. The Scotch and English professionals got the fright of their lives during the early hours. Their uneasiness was caused by the brilliancy of McDermott, the Irish-American lad, who in the first round broke the course record with a 71. This showed the way by a margin of three shots, Barker being second with a 74. An awful lapse in putting on McDermott's part completely changed the aspect in the afternoon, and it was this weak short game that explains his 82 in the second round. The play will be continued today.

Randolph Showed Up Well.

"Cliff" Randolph, who recently signed with the Providence Eastern league club, was given his first trial with the Grays yesterday, relieving arbereichB, who was hit hard in the third inning. Only two runs were scored on him, and he fanned five batsmen. He made a favorable impression with the Providence fans.

A Noisy Poker Crowd.

Henry Ludker, Elmer Rudd, Albert Abeles and Earl Sanderson, all of New York city, were a little bit too noisy in a game of poker last night at 142 West Front street and disturbed the tenants of the building. Patrolman McDonald went to the scene and arrested four men. In the city court this morning the men said that they were canvassers for a New York firm and that the game of poker was merely a friendly affair and that they were a little too boisterous. Judge Runyon warned the men about such disturbances and suspended sentence.

Rev. Dr. and Mrs. W. E. Honeyman, of Lincoln place, have returned from Morris county, where they spent the summer.

BOROUGH DEMOCRATS AGREE ON CANDIDATES

The Democrats of North Plainfield have completed their ticket to be voted upon at the primaries on September 13, and they plan to wage an aggressive and vigorous campaign in the borough from now until after election. They feel confident that their ticket will be successful at the polls, not only for the borough offices, but the county as well and they claim to have received assurances that a big vote will be polled for the ticket in all districts. The complete ticket follows:

Councilmen, John M. Lewin and David Mills; tax collector, Harry M. Cooke; assessor, Manning F. Gano; freeholder, George Kirch; county committeemen, renominations, first district, John B. Case; second district, George Kirch; third district, Walter C. Linbarger.

COLORED BARBER THOUGHT HE WOULD BE ROBBED.

William Burns, colored, who keeps a barber shop on Watchung avenue, called up the police yesterday in great excitement saying that he was expecting to be robbed. He declared that John T. Porter, another colored man, who is a barber in his shop, had walked out of the place, taking a razor and a dollar with him. Burns alleged that he feared that Porter would return to the shop and rob him. Detective Sergeant Flynn spotted Porter on Watchung avenue as he was returning to the shop and arrested him.

In the city court this morning, Porter said that he felt sick yesterday afternoon and went out for a walk to get the fresh air. He took the money, he declared, in case of necessity, and the razor he took to shave himself. The judge listened to his plea and suspended sentence.

Ashby Carter.

Ashby Carter, the two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Carter, colored, of West Third street, died last night after a short illness. Funeral services will be held tonight from his late home, and the interment will be made in a Virginia cemetery.

POLITICAL AFFAIRS IN NORTH PLAINFIELD TWP.

The Republicans of North Plainfield township met at Maul's hotel, last night to select their ticket for the coming primaries, to discuss the subject of organization, and to start the petitions for the candidates. C. C. Wheeler was elected as chairman of the meting and F. N. Anderson as secretary.

Charles P. Sebring, a Republican candidate for sheriff in Somerset county, entered the meeting and received a hearty ovation. Three cheers were given for him with a will. A resolution was made by the assembled citizens, endorsing his candidacy.

The appropriations for road work and the poor fund were agreed upon at the meeting. Fifteen hundred dollars is to be decided upon for the road committee's work and six hundred dollars for the poor fund.

The following list of candidates for the party primaries were agreed upon: Executive committeeman, C. C. Wheeler; delegate to the congressional convention, Dr. Richard Moldenke; delegate to the State convention, C. C. Wheeler; township committeeman, W. deLar Anderson; overseer of the poor, John Mobus; Justices of the peaec, George T. Hughes and E. F. Feickert; surveyors of the highway, E. P. Voorhees and Hippolyte Texier; pound keeper, W. L. Clements.

Mr. Anderson said that he would run on the one condition that he could be independent as he did not believe in party politics in local affairs. Messrs. Mobus, Hughes and Feickert were also endorsed on the Democratic ticket.

Someone Saw Kelly.

Thomas Kelly, who gave hs residence as Philadelphia, was arraigned in the borough court this morning on the charge of panhandling, drunk and disorderly, and suspicion. Chief Weiss arrested Kelly on Race street yesterday afternoon after a merry chase for him about the borough. Recorder Dolliver thought that the man needed some time in which to sober up, and so he gave him twenty days in the Somerset county jail. The prisoner was taken to Somerville this afternoon by Chief Marshal Weiss.

PLAIN MAN OF THE PEOPLE.

Woodrow Wilson Well Fitted For the Governorship.

HE IS A TYPICAL JERSEYMAN.

Grandfather Was a Country Editor and His Father a Country Clergyman—He Demands Equal Opportunity In Education and In Life—His Human Sympathies and Aspirations.

What sort of man is Woodrow Wilson anyhow?

Is he a paragon of austere virtues who never made a mistake and who never will, or is he a mere man who simply averages up well?

We all know that Washington on occasion used a quiet "cuss" word and that Lincoln at a war council pulled off his boot and scratched his heel.

Both Washington and Lincoln had so much love and regard for their fellow men that they adopted largely the habits and demeanor of their fellow men. Their natures forbade their doing anything else. They loved to live the lives of the common people because they loved the common people, and, while in intellect and ideals they were far superior to the average man, yet they were humble, so humble that they affected no outward show of superiority, because each felt that he himself was but one of the people.

Some of those who have tried to tell about Woodrow Wilson now that he is before the people of New Jersey as a probable governor make a picture of him that doesn't give any fair notion of the plain man, with habits of life and sympathies in common with others, uncommon only in his breadth of vision and height of ideal. Such a picture fails to include the human side of the man, and this failure is responsible for many of the false notions that have led some to condemn him when they ought in fact to be his most earnest supporters.

Woodrow Wilson is, first of all, a thoroughgoing Jerseyman. He has been a Jerseyman for twenty years. He has been connected with New Jersey's most famous institution for twenty years. He married a woman whose forefathers had been New Jersey people in Mercer and Monmouth counties since the Revolution.

Woodrow Wilson, his life and character and sympathies, belong to New Jersey as certainly as does Princeton university, as certainly as Trenton or Newark or Camden or Jersey City does or as its smiling seacoast or productive fields or wooded mountains or cranberry marshes belong to New Jersey. He is a part of that infinitely complex, infinitely varied, and tremendously progressive community which makes this one of the Union's most unique commonwealths.

Abraham Lincoln is Wilson's ideal American. In one of his books he speaks of Lincoln as "the supreme American of our history" and declares that "Lincoln never ceased to be a common man; that was the source of his strength."

And all along through Wilson's busy life, in all his books, in his work at Princeton, in his daily associations with his neighbors, great and small, in his lectures and in his daily conversation he has shown himself to be in sympathy with the common people. And, like Lincoln and Washington and other great but humble men, he proves it by living a life of simplicity, by living and loving just such a life as the millions of his fellow men are compelled to live.

The common welfare—that is his chief concern, and from his first speeches and writings to his last that theme, that desire, runs like a golden thread through all his utterances.

Here is one of the admirable traits that make him lovable to most men—he sympathizes naturally with the under dog. It is a trait that proves him to be a man with a heart. And the heart goes with him into all his undertakings, is disclosed in all his books and is a large part of his life.

He hates the political mastiffs that grow fat on special privileges while the masses of the little fellows, the common fellows, are going hungry because deprived of their natural rights.

Woodrow Wilson is a firm and consistent believer in the rights of labor. His sympathies are with the workingmen, and this statement is made in the face of the recent resolutions in which the state body of organized labor of New Jersey condemned him as unfriendly.

Woodrow Wilson believes that the men who labor in shops and factories have a right to band themselves together to resist the aggressions of organized capital, and it is safe to say that in every contest between capital and labor he instinctively and impulsively takes the side of the under dog.

It is a strange thing that organized labor of New Jersey should condemn such a man. It is a strange thing that organized labor should pass resolutions against such a man without making a single direct effort to ascertain his views on labor questions.

It is still a stranger thing that organized labor should base such action on one or two mere disconnected scraps from his lectures when his whole life and character constitute a perfect pledge that his innate sympathies are with the men and women who toil, with the men and women who struggle against hardships and courageously strive toward success and progress in spite of burdens and in spite of adversities and discouragements.

Woodrow Wilson NOT a friend of the men who labor?

Read this incident, absolutely truthful in every detail:

A stonemason who had been working on one of the university buildings at Princeton appeared early one morning at the door of the Wilson residence and asked to see "Mr. Wilson." He was at once shown into Wilson's private room and was greeted as cordially as if he had been an honest millionaire come to make a great gift to the university.

The stonemason had a story to tell, and he found no difficulty in telling it to Wilson. It was about a student who had been boarding at the house where he was staying and whom he had been observing for some time. The student was a western boy who was striving to make his way through college. He had to work to support himself while keeping up his studies, and he underwent many hardships and deprived himself of many of the bare necessaries of life in order to support himself in school. Thus he studied under a heavy handicap, and when the examinations came he failed.

The stonemason who had witnessed his struggles and his failure was so touched that as he told his story to Wilson the tears rolled down his cheeks.

"Tell him to come up and see me; I want to talk to him," said Wilson.

The sequel came to light months afterward. Wilson laid the student's case before the faculty in such a way that the boy got another chance. The president of the university helped him in his preparations for another try at the examinations, and the youth, his courage and hope renewed, plunged into his studies with determination and a few weeks later passed the examinations with credit.

Similar stories could be told by scores of poor young men who have gone to Princeton. They constitute but a meager illustration of the man's sympathy and kindly regard for the men who struggle against adversity.

Woodrow Wilson is of Scotch-Irish descent.

His grandfather was a country newspaper editor in early Ohio days, who made a success of his business—made his newspaper so influential that President Jackson offered him a good political job. But Grandfather Wilson was independent as well as influential. He liked his independence better than a soft political snap, and he turned down President Jackson's offer.

Woodrow Wilson's father was a country clergyman in western Pennsylvania and later in Virginia. The recognition of his abilities took him from the parsonage to a chair in a theological seminary.

Woodrow Wilson himself was born in Virginia fifty-three years ago. His boyhood was much like the boyhood of other men. He played his pranks and cut his pesky capers just like other boys. He fought his share of fights, received his share of bloody noses and was spanked and spoiled and scolded and loved just like other boys.

In due time Wilson's father sent him to Princeton. It was written of him years ago that in his student days "he knew every kind of man and every kind of man knew him and liked him." It was also written of him that "he early showed an intolerance of mere book knowledge. He wanted to understand the workings of man in a mass and individually."

He has these same traits today, just the same as thirty years ago.

Young Wilson became manager of the Princeton football team and editor of the Princetonian.

Well, he was graduated from Princeton, took two or three degrees from other institutions, earned a bit of reputation as a college orator, became an enthusiast in the study of politics, fell in love with a girl and married her, then settled down and wrote a book on "Congressional Government," all before he had reached the age of thirty.

Then he wrote other books, held two or three professorships, one of three years in Bryn Mawr; went to Princeton twenty years ago, gaining steadily in appreciation until eight years ago, when he became president of the university. He has helped to make Princeton one of the most famous institutions in the world, and he still moves on.

Virginia of the Air Lanes

A ROMANCE OF FLYING

...By...

Herbert Quick

Copyright, 1909, by the Bobbs-Merrill Company

Craighead approached the glimmer of white drapery, and Virginia gave him her hand, which he gallantly kissed.

"You may tell your friend," said Miss Suarez, "that his coming here is a foolhardy thing and quite uncalled for. No one here either can see him or would if she could."

"You hear, old man?" queried Craighead. "The imprisoned damosel saith it's all a mistake. She don't want no knight. This balcony business lacks appeal, being hackneyed and overworked. It's no go, colonel—except for you."

"You may tell him," went on Virginia, "that his movements have been reported and the Aerostatic Power company is about taking legal steps—I don't know what—to contest with him—I don't know what!"

"That's in my department," replied Craighead. "And tell your friend that we shall be with him in the courts."

A murmur of voices arose from the court, and lights flashed out, illuminating the roof.

"I can't go," said Carson. "I must speak. I was wrong not to tell you of your mistake, but I loved you from the moment I picked you up from the sand and carried you into the cabin.

HE MADE FOR THE ANGLE BETWEEN TWO DARK WINGS OF THE GREAT HOUSE.

I couldn't say you had no place to go. I wanted you, and I didn't think of anything that—that could remind me of—of—of your reputation"—

"Mr. Craighead, tell your friend," went on Virginia, and her voice now faltered, "that I shall consider what he says and that I shall cease to be angry by ceasing to remember him. And now go!"

"We are here for no bad purpose," said Theodore firmly, "and we shall not fly"—

"Foolish boy!" cried Virginia. "They will confine you at their pleasure through officers that can act legally and study the airship and steal your creation. Go, I beg of you—go!"

There were a knocking at the door and loud voices demanding admission. Virginia extended her hands imploringly as she spoke, and Theodore seized them.

"I will go," said he, "when you tell me when I may seek you and make my explanations. I have the right, Virginia!"

"Oh, oh!" she cried. "You are cruel! You are putting the blame of your ruin on me! Go, go!"

"When may I see you again?"

"When you have won your fight for the Virginia," answered she, "when the fruits of your genius are saved to you—if you will go at once—or when you are completely ruined, maybe!"

"Hurry, old man!" cried Craighead. "They're putting up ladders."

Shayne's voice was heard outside the door, giving orders that it be broken in, and some person hurled himself against it unavailingly. A flat cap appeared above the roof, and as the man under it mounted the ladder, carrying a pistol, Craighead seized an overturned chair and, screwing its legs into the breast and face of the scaler as he fired a shot, dumped him neatly into the arms of three or four servants in the court, after which he examined the chair leg, shouting, "No meat on it; I shall starve!" and threw the chair down after the man. Leaping into the car, he shouted to Carson to come or he would have to walk.

The discharge of the pistol admonished Theodore of the seriousness of his situation and emphasized Virginia's pleading. He clasped her in his arms. She feebly pushed him off, but yielded to overpowering force.

"I shall come again—for your love," said he.

"I promise nothing," she whispered.

"OH, THEODORE, GO, GO!"

"except to consid— Oh, Theodore, go, go! Please, for my sake, go!"

Her face was upturned in pleading, and he kissed her mouth, once, twice, and as her door crashed in he gently released her, leaped into the car with Craighead and threw on the clutches. The aeronef, rising, soared above the great house and sped off into the night amid the whizzing of bullets and the crackling of firearms.

CHAPTER XVII.

A BATTLE FOR THE AIR.

"WHAT is the business, Mr. Craighead, of the Universal Nitrates and Air Products company?"

Mr. Craighead, looking down into Broadway from the window of his office, turned to the group of reporters.

"Gentlemen," said he, "you are crass Roman soldiery. I am Archimedes making calculations, and instead of allowing him to equate his equations you javelin him with questions. Tell the journalistic Marcelli who sent you that Ark won't be disturbed!"

"But about the Universal Nitrates and Air Products company," said a fat man with perpetually poised pencil, "and its connection with the aeronef company?"

"Merely fortuitous," replied Craighead. "The aeronef company is an ephemeral agency for profit—and I scorn it!"

"But you are a director?"

"Oh, yes! Oh, yes!" replied Craighead. "But the greater things had not occurred to me when I went into it. I was ill. I was under a claim. I was chemicalizing in that reaction which results in the product known as tungstate of alcoholism or magalo-conversation. A natural monopolist, General Theodo' Cahson, M. A., took advantage of my weakness and got me into it. Honor rooted in dishonor stands, and faith unfaithful keeps me falsely true, and I stay with him in his fight with Aerostatic Power. Then I shall give my whole attention to the Universal Nitrates and Air Products company, which is to the Carson-Craighead aeronef as the rings of Saturn to those of a faro bank. And, to originate a phrase, that's going some!"

"You're really good, Mr. Craighead," said a girl reporter, "and if the tungstate of your alcoholic days was worse than this you ought to have taken something for it."

"I tried to," confessed Craighead, "but Dr. Witherspoon expelled me!"

"But here's the situation as we get it. If we're wrong, we'll stay wrong unless you set us right."

"'Oh, cursed spite!'" recited Craighead.

"No more tungstate, if you please," said the young woman. "The Air Products company was a wildcat looking West Virginia formation to"—here she read from a clipping—"'to extract free nitrogen from the air by the Craighead method or otherwise, for the purpose of obtaining fertilizers to thereby increase the capacity of the earth for supporting population'"—

"Is that," cried he frantically, "in our articles? Then all is lost! Let me take it!"

With shaking hand Craighead took down the telephone and asked for Mr. Filley.

"This you, Filley?" he queried. "Here's something that ruins us. A split infinitive in the articles. Won't hurt anything? Won't have to be done over? And we call ourselves civilized!"

Craighead handed the paper back.

"You have shocked me," said he. "But never mind, dearie! I know not whether to rejoice for the Air Products company or weep for institutions that allow such a solecism to be legal as 'to thereby increase.'"

"Well," said the reporter, "it goes on to say 'and for securing all rights in the atmosphere necessary for its complete reduction to possession for the production of nitrates, ozones and all other atmospheric derivatives and for the securing of exclusive rights in the air over lands for all purposes whatsoever.' Now, that," said she, "'for all purposes whatsoever,' isn't that pretty broad?"

"A broad intellect composed it."

"These rights happen—merely happen—to gridiron every state in squares marked by grants and leases to the Air Products company?"

"My child," said Craighead, "do you understand the Craighead method of extracting nitrates from the atmosphere by spontaneous discharges of statical electricity from electrodes suspended over the earth's surface?"

"No," she said. "Do you?"

"It is one of my specialties," said he. "If I might have you all to myself for an evening I would explain, but for the nonce by-by!"

Mr. Craighead took much pleasure in his position as press representative of the Carson-Craighead Aeronef company. The Virginia, her builder and the contest with Aerostatic Power were matters on which the great dailies had men at work night and day. This visit to the neighborhood of Shayne's Hold was a tantalizing mystery. The mountain inn where the Virginia had been laid up for repairs had been visited by reporters and the impossibility of surface communication between it and Shayne's Hold pointed out. The mysterious Craighead had leased for the Aeronef corporation the vacant aerodrome on the roof of this very building, gone back to the inn, whence the Virginia had sailed to their leased roof within an hour, and not by Shayne's Hold, after which Craighead was the news center from which emanated the most astounding medley of scientific, psychologic, mystical and mystifying news ever heard.

Then some one discovered that on the day the Carson-Craighead company had been formed the Universal Nitrates and Air Products company was born, with directors and stockholders identical with those of the Aeronef company, and that they had spent a great campaign fund in getting leases and grants for the extraction from the atmosphere of nitrates and the like in lines like those of Scotch plaid all over the continent. The air over almost every highway had been granted away by the owners of the fee—the very streets of New York being covered so far as to cut the city into nearly a hundred irregular blocks. The other great cities were similarly gridironed. The space over the smaller rivers and streams was mostly sold to the Air Products company. The mystery in this so stimulated curiosity that it caused more excitement than the Virginia herself, for these seemingly worthless rights over farms, streams, roads and streets were like a huge spider's web spun as a net over the world—Europe and Asia as well as America. Some one with great resources was up to something big. Something was to be caught in the net—but what?

Craighead and Carson dined with Mr. Filley, Mr. Waddy's personal representative, a little man with a great, scantily thatched head and no body who ate lobster and green turtle soup and drank port and grew paler every day.

"When shall we know?" asked Theodore.

"Soon," replied Filley. "We'll cover the whole country with injunctions this afternoon and get a hearing here in a few days. In a very few weeks we shall win the greatest legal triumph of recent times or—snuffed out!"

That night began the series of sensations that made so memorable the war for the use of the air. In the courts of every federal district and the state courts of West Virginia Mr. Filley filed his injunction suits against the owner of every known airship and by the clause used in labor disputes bound all persons, whether named or not, who might with the defendants or independently design trespass against the plaintiff's rights.

The bill in New York recited that the plaintiff was the owner of all rights of navigation in the air in certain described belts or bands surrounding the city of New York, dividing it into portions, and gridironing the continent; that the defendants had in the past habitually trespassed on these by flying over them in airships; that the passage to or from the city of New York over the sea, the river or other route was impossible save by such trespass, and therefore injunction was asked prohibiting the defendants, their servants and all other persons from departing from or coming to the said city of New York through the air owned by the plaintiff or from navigating any aerial craft across, over or through the real property of the plaintiff wheresoever situated.

Finley Shayne's name led the list of defendants, followed by that of the Aerostatic Power company and page after page of names of people owning aerial craft, and airships everywhere were hemmed in by the "real property" of the plaintiff, like whalers frozen in the ice. The "real property" was that wonderful spider's net of grants, and the plaintiff was the Universal Nitrates and Air Products company. Craighead's opium dream was explained. The relation between the twin companies was disclosed. Two perfectly well known legal principles were here united in an audacious attempt to monopolize the air, the rights attaching to ownership of land and that of injunction to prevent trespass or nuisance.

Public and press were struck with amazement. The unthinking laughed at the unheard of and preposterous claim to private control of the atmosphere. Lawyers began poring over cases dealing with rights in and over land, with growing dublety as to the outcome of the case of the "Universal Nitrates and Air Products company versus Shayne et al."

When the case came on to be heard the laugh had disappeared, the very army of lawyers appearing for the defendant rendering it a serious matter. Craighead sat in court with Filley, his hair rumpled, his crooked nose high, in a suit of legal black, drawing more attention than did Carson, whose face, bleached of the gulf beach tan, had assumed the pallor of the scholar, while vast responsibilities had been imparting to him an atmosphere of distinction. He sat scanning the people of the defense—Shayne, Silberberg and other great financial figures.

While the pleadings and affidavits were read Craighead sketched the bailiffs, shuffled his feet and drummed on the table until the court tapped for silence.

"We will hear from the plaintiff," said Justice McFadden, "and as the facts seem practically undisputed"—

"But, your honor," protested the counsel for the defendants, "we certainly do not admit"—

"For present purposes," replied the justice, "the showing seems ample that plaintiff owns certain rights in lands so distributed that the defendants must pass over them in going from place to place; that the defendants have habitually done so and that the situation constitutes a threat that this will be repeated. The defendants by claiming the right to pass these lines confess this for present purposes. We will therefore hear from plaintiff's counsel on the law."

Mr. Filley gathered up his papers; but, with a professional sounding "May it please the court" that dumfounded Filley and drew from the justice a request for the gentleman's name, Craighead rose.

"Craighead," said he in response to the court's query. "I will offer a few remarks on the law and then yield to my learned colleague, who will lay before your honors the feeble attempts of the courts to crystallize it in precedents. The law is fully as plain as the nose on the face of the most Roman of your honors. As to its righteousness, it is as moral as landownership. That it has not heretofore been applied has been owing to the stupidity of the legal profession, to the asininity of landowners and to the fact that the law is so plain, for that which is all around ever remains undetected, like the pressure of the atmosphere or the picture with trees and clouds representing faces or animals. And as when once the cat in the landscape is seen the landscape fades, and one can see nothing but the cat, so in this case when the law is once made plain your honors will be able to see nothing else. We are taking the liberty of unsealing the blind eyes of the courts."

Mr. Filley was outraged at the effrontery of this unlicensed actor in thus taking the scene, but to make a disturbance now would be worse than to let him go on, and Mr. Filley sat down frowning and hoping that Craighead's offense might escape discovery.

"'Cujus ad solum, ejus est usque ad coelum,'" went on Craighead, "is the maxim on which we stand, the meaning of which has been decided in hundreds of cases and, strange to say, is still clear—'He who owns land owns to the sky.' He has as much moral right to the sky as to the surface. The man with a deed to a square mile of the surface of this planet under this law owns a great pyramid, apexing at the earth's center and extending out into space in diverging lines infinitely, so that if he can show that these lines of boundary fake in Mars and her canals he would have a perfect case against the Martians for rent of fields and tolls over waterways if he could get service and bring the defendants into court.

"Land! Land! The mystic word that rules the world! The woman who ejaculates 'Good land!' conjures by a thing more potent than all the gods of Olympus.

"The air above our land is a part of it. You know it. Why else have you recognized Reimer's appeal, 100 Pennsylvania state, as good law? What was that case? A bay window many feet above the sidewalk was declared a nuisance because it jutted out into the air that was a part of the street. And see also Bybee versus the state, 94 Indiana. You hang your cornice or string a wire in my air and I will hale you into court. Don't presume to fly a kite over my land except by my consent; you have no right. And remember that the city of Cleveland was mulcted in the sum of $50,000 for swinging a bridge a few times a day a hundred feet above an inch strip of land.

"How much more am I damnified by the airship, which may drop a monkey wrench, a spanner, a gob of ballast or a casual remark into my privacy? Aeronefs will fall into the rural silo, drag ropes will rip up barbed wire, and Pyramus and Thisbe in their Arcadian wooing may be smothered under falling gas bags or torn asunder by dragging anchors inserted in their fluttering hearts! I shudder, your honors, at what may happen when the air is populous with flying jiggers, popping about, raining ballast and wine bottles and bacon rinds and stale bananas and hot coffee and soft boiled eggs and lobster a la Newburg on a lost and undone republic, and when I shudder persons of ordinary sensitiveness fly into fragments with the shivers, for I am no light and habitual shudderer.

CRACK CYCLERS AT RACES

Entries Being Received from Best Riders of the Country for Labor Day Event.

ALL WHEELMEN INTERESTED.

A Special Match Race Between E. S. Bird and Jack Todd on the Program—A Ten-Mile Handicap Tomorrow Morning.

The proposed Labor Day bicycle races of the Plainfield Cycling Club are stirring up considerable interest among the wheelmen of this city as well as those of the State generally. Entries for the different events are pouring into the hands of Jack Horner at a great rate and it is expected that before next Saturday all of the contestants will have been enrolled.

The younger element of cyclers in this city has been aroused on account of the event, which is to be held for boys under sixteen years of age. Four of the young wheelmen have organized themselves into a club, to be known as the Rambler Bicycle Club of Plainfield. It is expected that a large number of boys in this city will be enrolled in the new organization as races, trips and general good times have been planned for by the founders of the club. The charter members of the new group of wheelmen are: Harold Blackford, Irving Bush, William Simon and William Hand. Applications for membership should be handed to anyone of these boys.

A feature of the program on Labor Day will be a special match race between E. S. Bird, of this city, and Jack Todd, of Hoboken. A controversy has arisen between these two riders as a result of a little "bad blood" in the regular Sunday morning race of the local cycling club and they have agreed to settle the dispute by the result of the best two out of three heats on a one-mile course.

F. S. Sheppard, a member of the local club, will make his debut as a racer in the City and County Championship one mile events. Sheppard has always been a cycling enthusiast but has never before appeared in a race.

Some of the classiest speed artists among the eastern wheelmen will be entered in the free for all events. The prizes for these races are handsome ones and are sure to make the contestants go their limit in order to get the valuable booty. Among the noted ones, who are sure to compete in the program are: Carl Erickson, amateur champion and winner of the time prize in the diamond handicap, and also the first man across the finish in the twenty-five mile handicap at Rahway; Jerome Steinert, a champion one miler; Joseph Orlando, who is considered to be the Italian champion; John Becht, the winner of the ten-mile handicap in Scotch Plains, July 4; Jessie R. Pike, from the Central Racing Club of America, who won the Decoration Day twenty-five mile race. There are also many entrants from the Empire City Wheelmen, the Washington Bicycle Club and the Crescent Bicycle Club, Carroll Cyclers, and Racycle Club, of Baltimore.

The regular Sunday morning race of the local cycling organization will be held tomorrow morning on the Mountain avenue course. The distance of the handicap event has been changed from five miles to ten. The remainder of the season's races will be over a ten-mile course.

Edison's Wonderful Invention.

Thomas A. Edison gave an audience to not more than a dozen men last night, exhibiting for the first time his latest invention talking pictures, the product of the new Edison kinetophone, which combines in one machine the wizardy of the phonograph with that of the kinetoscope. The brief glimpse offered in the laboratory in West Orange was enough to show that Mr. Edison has achieved what he and a host of other inventors have long striven for—the perfect synchronization of sound and action for the moving picture screen.

J. E. Dunn for Council.

John E Dunn, of West Front street, has come out as a Republican candidate for the Councilmanic nomination at the primaries to succeed Frank W. Randolph, who, after many years' service, declined a renomination. It is said he will receive the support of the regulars. All the candidates for city offices and delegateships will file their petitions next Monday, the last day.

Mrs. Soper was the widow of Thos. W. Soper, who died in 1891. The couple were married at Newburgh, N. Y., in 1852, Mrs. Soper's maiden name being Martha G. Moore. She was a daughter of the late Robert Moore, of Newburgh. Surviving her are three sons: Frederick L. Soper, of this city, with whom she resided; Charles E. Soper, of Worcester, Mass., and Tunis T. CANDIDATES SELECTED BY BORO REPUBLICANS

The committee appointed by the North Plainfield Republicans on Thursday night met last night in Jas. Arnold's grocery store on Somerest street and planned for the organization for the fall campaign and prepared the petitions of the candidates for local offices for filing. It was decided to call the Republican voters of the borough together in Debele's auditorium on Tuesday night, when the plans of organization will be submitted before them and officers of the club will be elected.

The petitions of the following candidates were prepared for filing: executive committeemen, Newton B. Smalley, E. P. T. Smith, B. R. Waldron; councilman from the second district, L. B. Woolston; councilman from the first district, Geo. T. Rogers; delegates to the State convention, Dr. H. K. Carroll, William Hudson, Newton B. Smalley; alternates to the State convention, Morris C. Van Arsdale, Amos Giddes, John Y. Barrett; delegates to the Congressional convention, Robert Clark, Jr., Alexander Milne, Edward Rushmore, James E. Church, Isaac P. Runyon; alternates to the Congressional convention, W. L. Smalley, Jr., L. B. Woolston, B. R. Waldron, Dr. J. H. Cooley, E. P. T. Smith; assessor, Dr. J. H. Cooley; Tax collector, George F. Brown; justice of the peace, Thomas H. Snape.

George T. Rogers is out of town and in case he refuses to serve as the candidate for councilman from the first district, Charles A. Lee was agreed upon by the committee as the candidate. All of the members of the committee were present last night except Charles A. Lee and Alexander Milne, who were out of town on business.

DUNELLEN REPUBLICANS AGREE ON THEIR SLATE

A caucus of Dunellen Republicans was held in the town hall at that place last night. About twenty-five were present and the petitions of the candidates were prepared for filing. Wilson S. Fredericks presided and Arthur J. Hamley acted as secretary. General plans of organization were discussed and the Republicans banded themselves together for a hard campaign in the fall. The meeting, however, was a quiet one, there being no contests or disputes of any sort.

It was decided that each delegate to the conventions should be allowed to name his own alternate and should turn his petition over to him in case the principal was unable to serve. A committee on vacancies, consisting of A. S. Randolph and F. R. Wynkoop, was appointed to have charge of this matter.

The petitions of the following candidates were prepared for filing: delegate to the State convention, Wilson S. Frederick; delegate to the Congressional convention, Henry S. Garretson, borough postmaster, and Arthur J. Hamley; councilmen for three years, Firman H. Gise and Augustus F. Todd; constable for three years, C. Wesley Blaine; member of the Middlesex County Republican executive committee, Wilson S. Frederick.

Mrs. William Crowell, of Boston, who was reecntly married, is visiting her mother, Mrs. William Walsh, of East Second street.

GOLDEN EAGLES TO MEET

Twenty-seventh Annual Session of State Castle at Trenton.

H. J. MARTIN WILL PRESIDE.

Plainfielder at Head of Order Will Have New Honors Thrust Upon Him—Some Interesting Reports.

The twenty-seventh annual session of the Grand Castle of New Jersey, Knights of the Golden Eagle, will convene in K. G. E. Hall, Trenton, Monday morning, September 5, at 11 o'clock. Grand Chief Horace J. Martin, of this city, will preside, and indications are that it will be a two-days' session. Since the fire last winter, which burned out the hall of Mercer Castle, No. 22, in which the Grand Castle will meet, it has been beautifully rebuilt, and is now said to be one of the finest possessed by any castle of the order in the country.

The annual session of the Grand Castle promises to be of greater interest than any that has been held for a number of years past, by reason of keen contests for several desirable offices.

The customary five years' occupancy of the chairs of grand high priest and grand keeper of exchequer expires this year, and there are numerous applicants for these posts. The position of grand high priest is vacant at present, because of the recent death of Adam Q. Bloom, of this city, who died while rounding out his fifth year. The retiring grand keeper of exchequer is Halstead Wainright, of Farmingdale, a veteran of the order. Five years' service in these chairs entitles the occupants to the honors of past grand chief and membership in the supreme castle, which makes them eagerly sought.

There will, as usual, be no opposition in the promotion of the present "line officers." Grand Chief Martin will become Junior Past Grand Chief and will be elected as New Jersey's official representative to the annual session of the Supreme Castle of the United States. Grand Vice Chief Martin L. Ferris, of Asbury Park, will be advanced to the post of Grand Chief and Grand Sir Herald Peter L. Alberse, of Paterson, to the post of Grand Vice Chief.

For the succession to Mr. Alberse as Grand Sir Herald, which is regarded as the first of the promotive offices, there will also be several candidates. South Jersey claims it should come that way this year, but Princeton and the other castles in the central and upper parts of the State are said to have formidable candidates.

A. L. Clark, of Trenton, the efficient Grand Master of Records, will doubtless be re-elected unanimously. The jurisdiction claims that no Grand Castle in the United States has his superior in the secretary's office. Mr. Clark is the designer of the official degree robes and some other paraphernalia of the order and the rank of Past Supreme Chief has been conferred upon him by the Supreme Castle for his great services to the order.

The new Supreme Master of Records of the order, John B. Treibler, af Baltimore, who succeeds the lamented Albert C. Lyttle, of Philadelphia, has promised to be in attendance at the session and it is probable that he will come commissioned by the Supreme Chief, Dr. E. F. Lake, of Denver, Col., to install the new officers of the Grand Castle.

Statistics compiled by Grand Master of Records Clark for the year ending June 30, last, show that there are seventy castles of Knights of the Golden Eagle in New Jersey, with a total membership of 7,671, which is a gain of just seven sir knights over the preceding year. There were 514 candidates initiated during the year, 35 received on withdrawal cards and 63 reinstated, a total of 612, but this gain was nearly offset by the suspensions, 494; deaths, 71, and the withdrawals.

Receipts—From initiations, cards, etc., $1,997.60; from dues and fines, $58,184.38; from investments, etc., $21,355.75; total, $81,537.73.

Expenditures—Sick benefits, $21,299.92; death benefits, 5$,839.31; donations, 6$01,35; total relief, $28,740.58. In addition to this $33,890.02 was paid out for sundry other purposes and $16,183.43 invested, making a total expenditure for the year of $78,814.03.

The castle's total fund June 30

PIONEER MERCHANT DEAD

James M. Dunn, a Well-known Retired Groceryman, Has Passed Away.

PASSED FOUR SCORE YEARS.

Engaged in Business in Early '70s on Park Avenue, near North—He is Survived by Two Daughters.

James M. Dunn one of the pioneer merchants of the city, died at 11 o'clock this morning at his home on East Fifth street. He had been in feeble health for some time, but his death was not expected. He was about 80 years old.

Mr. Dunn lived here practically all of his life, being one of the first to engage in the grocery business in the early '70s. His store was on Park avenue, where Mrs. L. J. Denton now conducts a florist business. When Mr. Dunn decided to retire from active business he sold his grocery to Gardiner & Vail, who continued there until the property was sold to make room for the erection of the Stirling building.

Mr. Dunn was a member of the First Baptist church for more than forty years and was always a regular attendant at the services. He never held public office and never took any active part in politics. He was highly esteemed by all who knew him and was a devout Christian. His wife died several years ago.

Mr. Dunn is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Suydam, widow of the late Judge Suydam a prominent lawyer in his day; and Mrs. Peter Buckalew; also one granddaughter, Miss Charlotte Suydam. The announcement of the funeral will be made later.

PATIENCE OF SALVATION ARMY CAPT. EXHAUSTED

The troubles of the Salvation Army have been augmented during the past week and in fact during the entire summer by the boys of the neighborhood where the army people have their tent on Watchung avenue, but the final and compelling instance of maliciousness occurred on Thursday night when several boys were caught enjoying with ghoulish glee the most abominable trick yet perpetrated. Solomon Weintrob, aboy of thirteen, was fined $5 this morning and sentence was suspended by Judge Runyon. Weintrob will have to report to Probation Officer Hamilton for the next few weeks.

Captain Hewitt reluctantly told the judge this morning of the offence of which young Weintrob was accused. He said that in their work it was not uncommon to meet with remonstrance from outsiders, but that forbearance being the rule with the Army complaints were seldom made. However, the Captain deemed this latest outrage more than beyond the limit and asked the court for the protection which the Army thought was their due and while his sympathy was with the previous offenders he did not care to allow the latest malicious act to go unpunished.

It is believed that the action of Captain Hewitt in having young Weintrob brought before Judge Runyon will have a deterrent effect on future pranks of the youngsters. According to the story of the Captain the acts of the young offender were of a character which may not be printed, but which the judge characterized as being the worst ever brought to his notice

SPEAK-EASY CULPRITS PAY TO SOMERSET $100

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Bruno of Race street, the borough, were each fined $100 by Judge Clarence L. The borough couple were caught in a general round-up of "speak-easies" in all parts of the county and fines aggregating $1,100 were imposed by the court, yesterday.

The raids made throughout the county were under the direction of Prosecutor Frederick Pope, following a collection of evidence obtained by his office. County Detective George Totten and his assistants made the raids. The one at the Bruno home was made six weeks ago.

TRIBUTE TO MR. ARENS

New York Consolidated Exchange Resolutions Eulogizing Late Plainfielder.

THE SERVICES TOMORROW.

To Take Place at Grace Episcopal Church—The Interment Private at Hillside Cemetery.

The funeral services of Otto Arens, who died at Roosevelt Hospital, yesterday morning, following an operation, will be held at Grace Episcopal church, tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock, and the interment will be private. Mr. Arens was a communicant of Grace church, and a regular attendant at the services there.

Mr. Arens was a member of the New York Consolidated Exchange, and yesterday a committee, comprising C. H. Badeau, William O. Worth, D. K. Young, George M. Kirkner, E. R. Betts, E. R. Grant, G. W. Hoagland and H Plummer, was appointed by the Exchange to attend the funeral services; also to adopt suitable resolutions. This preamble and resolution was presented and adopted at yesterday's meeting:

"It is with feelings of the deepest regret that we learn of the death of our late associate, Otto Arens, for twenty-seven years a member of this Exchange.

"During most of these years Mr. Arens served the Exchange as one of the trustees of the gratuity fund, and we desire here to record our appreciation of the signal ability displayed by him in such capacity. Mr. Arens, during his membership, had the respect and esteem of all who knew him. While not actively engaged in business on this Exchange, he at all times took a most ardent interest in its welfare. His co-operation and advice were always at the service of the Exchange and were ever appreciated on account of his sound judgment."

"Resolved, That, on behalf of the members of the Consolidated Exchange of New York, this committee tender to the bereaved family its heartfelt sympathy in the great loss they have sustained, and record here its recognition, with affection and gratitude, of Mr. Arens' long and earnest services to the Exchange, and the secretary be, and is hereby requested, to spread in full upon the records of our Exchange this testimonial and forward a copy of the same to Mr. Arens' family."

Mr. Arens was abroad this summer in company with Mrs. Arens and their niece, the trip being taken that he might consult European specialists regarding treatment for a tumor. Upon their advice, Mr. Arens returned to New York, where he planned to undergo an operation at Roosevelt Hospital.

Last Service at the Camp.

The City Union, King's Daughters, will hold its last service for the season at the baby camp on the mountains, tomorrow afternoon, at 4 o'clock, and it will be in charge of George E. Hall, superintendent of the Park Avenue Baptist Sundayschool. An orchestra of ten pieces will play, and a chorus choir from the Park Avenue Baptist church will sing popular numbers from "Coronation Hyms." The program will also include soprano solos by Mrs. Thomas MacDonald. This will be the last opportunity Plainfielders will have to visit the camp before it closes for the summer, and an unusually large attendance is anticipated.

Fought Fire While Child was Dying.

While Assistant Chief Walter S. Gibson, of Passaic, was directing the department in fighting a fire in a tenement house in Passaic Thursday morning, his only child, a son seven weeks old, was dying of infantile paralysis. Returning home after the fire, Mr. Gibson found his child near death, and a few minutes later the boy expired in his arms. Mr. Gibson formerly lived here, and is well known among Plainfielders. He had several narrow escapes at the fire.

Last Union Service Tomorrow.

Rev. Dr. G. W. Nicholson, of Bridgeport, Conn., will preach both morning and evening at the First Baptist church tomorrow. In the evening the union service of the First M. E., Trinity Reformed and First Presbyterian churches will be held at this church. This will be the last of the series of union services held during July and August.

SAYS CUSTOMER TRIED TO CARVE HIM WITH RAZOR

Alleging a threat to kill and believing that his life was in danger, Antonio Campanetti caused the arrest of Salvatore Scalora yesterday, and the latter was arraigned before City Judge William N. Runyon this morning and remanded for a further hearing on Monday.

According to the story told in court by Campanetti Scalora has owed him a bill for bread amounting to $5 for the past three years, and in successive attempts to collect he had met with indifferent success. Campanetti said this morning that yesterday he tried to collect the account again and that Scalora drew a razor and attempted to cut him with it. His attemp was frustrated by the sudden and judicious application of a whip.

Judge Runyon was unable to satisfy himself from the testimony of the principals as to the merits of the complaint, and, furthermore, wanted to have the services of a competent interpreter.

POLITICAL POT BOILING NOW IN SCOTCH PLAINS

Although election day is two months off, the political kettle is beginning to boil at Scotch Plains, where the leaders are busy preparing the petitions of the various candidates for filling the local offices. The principal offices to be filled at the 'Plains are freeholder, one town committeeman, to succeed Henry C. Meyer; constable and a member of the county committee.

From present indications the Republican ticket will bear the name of Berham Hall, of the borough, for freeholder. He is well qualified for the position and will receive the solid support of the party in the borough and the 'Plains. The Democratic ticket will probably carry the name of either Charles French or Theodore Bruchman. Both are well-known and it is believed will be able to hold the party vote.

Frank Weldon is being urged to announce himself as a candidate for township committeeman to succeed Mr. Meyer, who has declined a nomination on account of business pressure. Mr. Weldon is a man well qualified for the position on account of his experience with road work, having been engaged with his father in the contracting and stone business for a number of years.

The Democratic candidate, it is said, has not as yet been selected. However, the party has some good material and a strong man will no doubt be selected. Robert Walpole, the veteran court constable, will be a candidate to succeed himself. Geo. H. Johnston will no doubt be selected again by the Republicans as the representative on the county committee. J. E. Ruth and William R. Buckley are being boomed as delegates to the Congressional convention which will be held at The Plainfield theatre, Friday, September 16.

JAMES L. ANTHONY DEAD; AGED SIXTY-SEVEN YEARS

James L. Anthony, aged sixty-seven years, a former well known resident of this city, died on Thursday at his home in Montclair, following a long illness. Mr. Anthony was among the early residents, having resided here about ten years. He occupied the Reinharty property on Belvidere avenue, and later removd to the Poillon property at Kensington and Putnam avenues, which he purchased. Mr. Anthony at one time owned one of the finest kennels of dogs in this part of the country.

For many years Mr. Anthony was engaged in business in New York dealing in railroad bonds and other corporate securities. He amassed a large fortune. His first wife died several years ago and he married again. He was the father of James L. Anthony, Jr., who was well known in Plainfield and New York society. Mr. Anthony was a communicant of St. Stephen's church and liberal contributor to the work there.

The funeral services will be held Monday morning at 10 o'clock from Christ church, Glen Ridge.

Dissolve Partnership.

The partnership lately existing between Percy Allen and Arthur Jacot, of this city, under the name of and trading as Jacot and Allen, was dissolved by mutial consent on August 23.

HE LOOKED PROSPEROUS

But William Lally's Wealth was Only Imaginary and His Victims were Easy.

CAUGHT MR. SILBERT FOR $42.

Clever Check Manipulator Won Confidence of Woman Clerk, And "Thereby Hangs a Tale" Which is Here Told.

By instructions from the Washington, D. C., Police Chief Sylvester, William Lally, a temporary visitor to Plainfield two months ago, was apprehended in New York yesterday and was taken to the Capitol to stand trial for issuing fraudulent checks.

It has been alleged that Lally while here formed the acquaintance of a young woman bookkeeper in the employ of one of the leading markets and she has paid dearly for her experience. The story from Washington would indicate that Lally was one of the most finished artists in his particular line of crime and managed his schemes so successfully that even the most astute people in the country became his victims. While here he managed to get something like $165 from the young woman in question, but not in the regular way. His method was to first ingratiate himself in the affections of his victims and finally recoup his bank account at their expense.

After the disclosures made this morning it is not at all strange that those who were interested in the advent of Lally were disinclined to discuss the matter. The story is short and simple—over-confidence and a belief in the impossible led two of Plainfield's citizens to endorse checks for the suave Mr. Lally and incidentally the checks have been made good to the bank and now somebody feels that she has been badly treated.

The exact date of Mr. Lally's appearance in this city is not ascertainable now, but it is believed to have been about two months ago. He was, according to police information, one of those "nice" fellows and had no trouble in making acquaintances. Naturally, those who felt that Mr. Lally was O. K. fell for his assumed opulence. Among the friends he made was a Miss Trembly, who believed his story of having money. When he drew a check for $125 she had no hesitancy in endorsing the paper and Mr. Lally, similarly had little difficulty in getting the coin.

There was a check signed by this "get-rich-quick" artist and tendered to Carl Siebert, a jeweler of West Front street, which was accepted at its face value, namely, $42. This check was tendered in payment for goods purchased and involved the return of some change by Mr. Silbert. According to Mr. Silbert this transaction was concluded on July 7. But it appears that these were not the only offences committed in this city. Two hotels were vicimized and Chief Sylvester believes there are some places still to be heard from.

Lally is said to be about eighteen years old and a wire tells the story of his confinement to a juvenile institution at Washington until attaining his majority. When released from the Federal institution Lally will be forced to meet his Plainfield victims and will in all probability find an indictment for forgery awaiting him.

A Birthday Party.

It was her tenth birthday anniversary, and she was the recipient of a number of presents. Games were played, after which a collation was served. There were ten present.

SHOT WELLS FORTY YEARS.

Butler, Pa., Aug. 27.—Frederick Emerson Hinman, aged eightytwo, an oil well shooter for forty years, who boasted of relationship to Ralph Waldo Emerson, died at Petrola Thursday. Mr. Hinman was a native of Venango County and began well-shooting in 1865. He operated in the Titusville and Boullion fields in the early '70s and then located at Petrolla. In forty years he shot 5,500 wells, with shots ranging from two to 333 quarts, and he manufactured and handled over 2,500,000 pounds of nitro glycerin. In early days of the oil industry he was leader of the "moonlighters," so-called because they were compelled to shoot wells at night. The Roberts Company held a monopoly on nitroglycerin well-shooting for years.

Hinman was chased by Roberts' spies many times. His daughter, Eanchion, for years helped him to shoot wells.

Mr. and Mrs. John Gernert, Sr., have returned home from Atlantic City.

WESTFIELD.

In an effort to raise Charles Lance, the town dog catcher, to the position of janitor of the town buildings, Mayor A. L. Alpers and Councilman Casey have had a falling out. Mr. Casey, who is chairman of the Buildings Committee refused to present the name of Lance, who is an Italian, and taking the matter into his own hands, the Mayor appointed Lance and deposed Mr. Casey as chairman of the committee. The balance of the disagreement will be carried out in the Fourth Ward, where Casey threatens to get after the Mayor's friends.

Two small boys in a home-made canoe tried to navigate the Park Lake on Broad street Thursday afternoon, with disastrous results. One of the boys got his foot through the bottom of the craft. While the water in the lake is only three feet deep, they were in a fair way of drowning until Walter Stark, of Garwood, waded in and carried them to the shore.

The night force at the Hall Signal Company's works, at Garwood, has been laid off for the balance of the season. Many of the night force have been given day jobs.

Dr. J. J. Savitz, principal of the public schools, with his family returned home yesterday, closing their summer vacation in Pennsylvania.

—Gideon Fountain, of West Seventh street, is building a fine bungalow on Plainfield avenue, adjoining the Joel Manning property, for investment purposes.

RYAN AND HIS SONS MAY TAKE UP BANKING.

New York, Aug. 27.—Wall street takes seriously the report, given currency for the first Thursday, that Thomas Fortune Ryan and his two sons, Allan and Clenden J., are planning to enter the field of private banking. They will compete with such houses as Speyler & Co., and Kuhn, Loeb & Co., and perhaps, in the course of time, with J. P. Morgan & Co.

The name of the new firm is to be Thomas F. Ryan & Sons, it is said. The elder Ryan will aid in the foundation of it and in the enlisting of outside support, but will not take the helm of return permanently to active business life. His sole idea, it is believed, is to establish a big financial house which his sons will manage, yet which at the same time will perpetuate h's name.

With his enormous fortune, his huge income from the American Tobacco monopoly and other trusts he practically owns, and his large interests in the Bank of Commerce, it is believed Ryan could lay the foundation for a house that would be second to none but that of J. P. Morgan & Co., the head of the Money Trust.

One of the principal objects of Ryan's recent trip to Europe, it was said yesterday, was to perfect arrangements for the European connections which such an enterprise requires.

As a private banker, handling bond issues, Ryan, with his large holdings in the stock of the Bank of Commerce, would be in a particularly favorable position, to say nothing of his connection with United States Senator Aldrich, as demonstrated in Intercontinental Rubber, and through him the Rockefellers, who are not deeply in love with J. P. Morgan, the Speyers or Kuhn, Loeb & Co.

ASKS $2,000 DAMAGES.

Trenton, Aug. 27.—Charging that Harrison Mandeville, of Montville, township, Morris county, has violated an agreement under which Mrs. Eliza Mandeville was to be permitted to keep fifty chickens on his farm and he was to haul her coal and wood, pay her $510 in cash and perform various other acts, Mrs. Mandeville has instituted a suit in the Supreme Court for $2,000 damages.

The plaintiff alleges that the defendant agreed with her to submit to arbitration her claim for a right of dower in the estate of Christian Mandeville. This was in 1894 and the arbitrators, who were Walter D. Jacobus, Marden Jacobus and Walter Youngs, awarded Mrs. Mandeville, $510 in cash and certain rights on the farm.

These rights included pasture for two cows, privileges for the fifty chickens, Mandeville to haul all the coal and wood she required, "three barrels of medium sized potatoes each year," hay for two cows and what fruit she wanted. She says Mandeville has failed to abide by the finding though having agreed in writing to do so.

NO SENATORIAL PLEDGES BY ASSEMBLY ASPIRANTS.

Trenton, Aug. 27.—The secretary of State's office has not thus far been notified of a single candidate for either the nomination of State Senator or member of the House of the Assembly who has availed himself of the section of the direct primary act which permits legislative aspirants to officially pledge themselves to respect the popular vote on the question of electing a United States Senator.

Under the primary law, legislative candidates can declare themselves on the United States Senatorship in one of two ways The first provision is a pledge whereby the candidate agrees to vote for the candidate for United States Senator who receives the largest number of votes in his party in the county where the legislative candidate is running. The other provision is in the form of a pledge to abide by the popular vote on the Senatorial question as it is affected by the result in the State.

It was the duty of county clerks to submit the form of these pledges to the legislative aspirants when their petitions were filed last Wednesday afternoon, but in some counties this duty may not have been fully complied with because of the fact that the clerks did not receive official notification of the United States Senatorial candidacies until after the legislative petitions had been received. Where such has been the case the law requires the county clerks to communicate with the county candidates immediately upon being notified by the secretary of State.

It is optional with the legislative candidates whether they will sign one of the two pledges, and no time limit is set for the filing of such a pledge.

While it is likely that some candidates for the State Senate and the Assembly will sign the pledge, it is the opinion of those who follow State political affairs closely that the great majority of aspirants will not do so. The general inclination among the leaders of both parties is to rest content with taking advantage of the primary law without insisting on official pledges from the legislative candidates.

Mr. and Mrs. John Fowler Pound have returned from an extensive trip through Canada and the Adirondacks, and are spending a few days at the old homestead on West Front street before returning to treir home in Philadelphia.

With the double-header of last Saturday as a starter, there ought to be a record-breaking crowd at the Oval this afternoon. The games that are on the card are sure to be fast and exciting.

There is some doubt in the minds of the Plainfield team managers that Warry McLoughlin will be on the slab this afternoon. "The old war horse" has a strained back and is suffering from rheumatism. It will be a shame if he doesn't appear in the battle today, for Warry is always effective against that McNulty bunch.

And we wonder as we go cantering to press if that Plainfield-McNulty game will last for sixteen innings. But it is sure to be a battle for blood.

There will be some changes in the Y. M. C. A. line-up tomorrow afternoon. Word has been received from the Adam boys at the last minute that they will be unable to play and likewise Hervey Marsh. Hand will not be seen behind the bat and Carlton Smith is slated to take his place. Fritts says that he will be there to hold down third base, but the guardian of the second station has not been announced as yet.

Cliff Randolph, the old pitcher for the Plainfield team, is certainly making good there at Providence. The local boy made a favorable impression with the fans and the manager of the Grays—and that counts for a whole lot, too.

Frederickson will be on the mound today for the Y. M. C. A., anyway. So there is bound to be some good twirling for the fans to cast their ptics upon.

Many of the local gallery gods will be interested in the comparative work of Slocum, the Scotch Plains pitcher, and Fredericksin, who is twirling for the Association nine. Many controversies as to the respective merits of these two youthful box artists have arisen and now is the chance to see them in action, side by side.

The two merchants' teams are now tied for honors in the summer championship series. The East Front streeters evened matters up Thursday afternoon by taking that game at Wayside Park by the score of 14-6. A rubber match (no, you can't strike that kind) will be played between the rival shopkeepers in the near future.

Well, it wasn't "Tinker to Evers to Chance" that broke up yesterday's game between the Giants and the Cubs, but it was Joe Tinker himself. The clever little shortstop started the ball a-rolling with a homer and then Schulte followed with two more of the same variety of hits. Who can stop "them Cubs?"

There was some color display at the Oval Thursday afternoon when the local Elks with their purple and cream uniforms were contrasted with the deep blue and white suits of their Camden brothers.

And there will be some strike-outs in the two games this afternoon, for all the pitchers that are slated to occupy the different slabs are especially proficient in the art if causing batsmen to take three vicious and futile swipes at the air and then sit down.

Well, be at the Oval early and avoid the rush!

Aaron B. Loses.

Trenton, Aug. 27.—Aaron B., the fast pacer owned by Adam Blair, of Plainfield, failed to finish in the money here Thursday in the 2.16 pace. The race, which was a six-heat affair was won by Ella C., the bay mare winning fourth in the second heat and fifth in the third heat. The best time was 2.15¼.

A free lecture will be given in the W. C. T. U. rooms, 100 Madison avenue, tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock, by A. J. Ritchie, of the Peoples' Pulpit Association, New York. His topic will be "God's Covenant and Its Meaning." All are welcome.

A cottage prayer meeting will be held at West End Tabernacle, Tuesday evening, at 8 o'clock, and on Thursday night at 8 o'clock the midweek prayer meeting will be held. The Sunday school will re-open Sunday afternoon, September 4, at 3 o'clock. All members and friends are urged to be present.

WOMAN FARMER'S LUCK WITH CUCUMBER FARM.

Riverhead, L. I., Aug. 27.—Miss Julia Nugent, an energetic woman residing in Riverhead, has "struck it rich" in pickles this year. Of course she doesn't do the actual work of growing and marketing her crop of cucumbers, but she sees that it is properly done, nevertheless.

Miss Nugent has already had delivered to a local salting station over 100,000 cucumbers from two acres of land, and still there's more to follow. The price paid is $2 a thousand cucumbers.

The pickle business is, by the way, another good one this year, for most of the farmers engaging in cucumber culture. A pickle house here has already well upward of 1,500,000 cucumbers salted, and will have over 2,000,000 by Saturday night. Several acres of vines were burned up in the excessive heat during July, and it then looked as though the crop would be mighty small for everybody, but rain came in the nick of time to save the bulk of this as well as other crops.

Most of the cucumber farmers hereabouts hav two acres apiece. Some have more and some less, but from the two-acre pieces nice returns are being made.

The Misses Anna and Ethel Vail, of Elmwood place, are visiting Mrs. A. W. TenEyck, of Lebanon, Hunterdon county.

SIX CATHOLIC BISHOPS PLAN TO VISIT NEWARK SOON.

Six bishops of the Roman Catholic church will visit Newark at the close of the Eucharistic Congress at Montreal. This was announced at Thursday's meeting to further consider arrangements for the German Catholic convention next month.

The party of prelates will be led by Bishop Vincent Wehrly, of Bismarck, N. D., and on their arrival will be quartered at Catholic rectories in the different local parishes.

The meeting Thursday was in the nature of a conference between the German Catholic priests and the committee of arrangements, the clergymen in attendance being Rev. Rudolph Huelsbusch, Rev. Theodore Peters, Rev. P. Romanus, Rev. Michael Mechler, Rev. Dr. Hubert Behr, of Elizabeth; Rev. Edward Schutler, of Passaic; Rev. L. Meyer, of Jersey City, and Dr. Thomas McLaughlin, professor at Seton Hall College, who represented Rev. Peter Kurz, of Orange.

Among the laymen present were National President John B. Oelkers, Secretary Fred Sarg, Anton Steines, chairman of the finance committee; Urban Schaefer and these organists and precentors: F. A. Winderich, August Scharfenberger, Charles Suenderhaft and Leonard Baumann. Dr. August Hoelper, of New York, who is taking an active part in the work of preparing for the convention, was also on hand.

It was given out that the principal address in English at the mass meeting to be held on the opening day (Sunday) will be made by Dr. G. G. Coyle, of New York. The principal speakers at a mass meeting to be held Tuesday night, when proceedings will be conducted in German, will be Johann Giesbart, member of the German Parliament, and Rev. Peter Jansen, of Pechry, Ill.

It was also decided to exclude children from the proposed outing by boat on Thursday of the week of the convention. For the very small children taking part in the children's parade conveyances will be provided. The headquarters of the committee of arrangements will be at the Hotel Navarre.

ASK DATA TO BEAR OUT ATLANTIC CITY CENSUS.

Atlantic City, Aug. 27.—Resort officials who have been surprised at failure of an official report of the census of the city to appear, believe the census bureau authorities at Washington suspect Atlantic City's returns are padded. The census officials communicated with Comptroller Heston Thursday, asking for data to bear out the returns from the city. It is thought the total returns op the sixty-thousand mark, although the census men will not give out the exact figures just at present.

Comptroller Heston, assuming that the final reports will most certainly go over the 45,000 mark is deferring the sale of $400,000 worth of city bonds, believing the official returns will insure a better market.

SUPT. MOORE DEFENDS THE RECORD OF REFORMATORY.

Rahway, Aug. 27.—Superintendent Rev. Dr. Frank Moore, of the New Jersey Reformatory, has written the following letter to a local paper, giving the records of some of the inmates of the institution in reply to criticisms that this place is being filled with undesirable citizens:

Within three months of the time that the present superintenednt became the head of the State Reformatory, he issued an order that no inmates of the institution should be paroled to the city of Rahway for the reason that it did not seem wise either for the boy or the community that the many inmates who knew each other should be located in any one community.

Since that time no positions have been sought for in Rahway. A number of requests have been received from citizens for boys, but nearly all of these have been refused, and as a result since this policy was adopted, over a year ago, but seven boys altogether have been paroled to the city, and of these only four remained for any considerable time.

Concerning the record of the inmates who have been paroled to Rahway, a careful study of the facts taken from the reformatory records and confirmed by the police records of the city shows the following:

Number of inmates paroled to Rahway and vicinity since November 1, 1907—68.

Number of inmates arrested in Rahway in the same time—12.

Percentage of those who have made good—82.

To have 82 per cent. of wayward young men of such character as the reformatory receives turn out to be law abiding, seems as if a good record like this ought to be looked upon with pride by the city of Rahway, and be encouraged by its best citizens, and we believe it is.

That the police department which makes an average of 300 arrests a year and that has made approximately 900 arrests in the above three years referred to, should only have to arrest 12 reformatory boys, an average of 4 to a year or 1 1-3 per cent. of the total arrested, certainly does not bear out the statement that so many of the crimes committed in Rahway are by reformatory inmates. As a fact also, it is not true that so many crimes have been committed by the inmates during the past two years; seven of the twelve crimes on record werec ommitted before the present superintendent took control and only one of all the number has been committed by an inmate sent sent out under the present administration, and that one was paroled within two months of the time the administration started.

It perhaps is to be regretted that the reformatory is spoken of as the "Rahway Reformatory," but unfortunately it has become the custom of people to call institutions by the name of the nearest city. The reformatory is continually struggling to correct this error and is constantly endeavoring to be known by its true name, "The New Jersey Reformatory," and to be a credit to the State to which it belongs, and at the same time be not the slightest injury to the fair name of the city so near to which it is located.

SIX-YEAR-OLD BOY RUN DOWN BY AUTO.

Asbury Park, Aug. 27.—Harry, the six-year-old son of Mrs. E. H. Romond, of Perth Amboy, was run down by an automobile at Main street and Cookman avenue Thursday just as he and his mother alighted from a trolley car. The child sustained a fractured leg, in addition to being bruised considerably about the body. He has been taken to his home in Perth Amboy. The owner and driver of the automobile is John Sleight Goodsell, of Ludlow and Second avenues, Spring Lake, and 324 West Seventy-second street, New York.

No sooner had the accident occurred than Goodsell brought his car to a standstill and rendered all to the injured boy. Goodsell was taken before Justice of the Peace Borden, who held him in $300 bail to appear in court.

In describing the accident to the police Goodsell admitted that he saw the boy in front of the car and that he was unable to stop the car owing to the refusal of the footbrake to operate properly. Failure of the brake to work was caused by grease on the brakeband, and it all happened so quickly that Goodsell did not think to apply the emergency brake.

was $125,685.47, showing an increase for the year of the goodly sum of $8,118.57.

The Grand Castle finances show the following figures:

Balance on hand at last report, $330.36, receipts for the year, $2,844.22; total receipts, $3,174.58. The expenses were $2,949.98, leaving a balance in the Grand Castle treasury of $224.60, in addition to which there is $590.79 in the emergency fund.

A matter often discussed upon the floor of the Grand Castle will come up again in the form of a project to amend the constitution as to time and place of meeting. The proposed amendment reads: "There shall be one stated session of this Grand Castle held each year, during the first week in September, at such place and on such day as shall be ordered by the Grand Castle at the preceding regular session."

The project has been frequently defeated in the past, the Grand body adhering to Trenton, Labor Day at 11 o'clock, as the most suitable place and time and refusing to accede to the proposal to "jump over the State."

The Grand Temple of Ladies of the Golden Eagles will meet in Trenton at the same time, occupying another room in the Ribsam building. This organization is said to have had a prosperous year.

The Supreme Castle of the United States will convene in Scranton, Pa., on Tuesday, October 11, next. Supreme Chief Lake has reappointed P. S. C. William B. Kirby, of Bridgeton, official press reporter for the session.

Quite Oft.

Quite oft I walk about the town—
Indeed, I never ride;
I have an innate pride,
A kind of natural crown,
Which makes me feel that I
Must pass the luxury by
Of riding at my ease while those
My letters, possibly—who knows?—
Must walk. And so I walk,
And as I walk I think,
Perhaps I even talk,
and say I'm on the blink,
Or by the living Jar
I'd own a big red car
And ride in it and run the walkers ~down
And say
What right had they
To clutter up My way!
Quite oft I walk about the town.

DUNELLEN.

A mad dog scare was circulated about New Market yesterday afternoon. But it was no nature fake for Mrs. Titsworth, who lives on the road leading to Dunellen, saw the dog enter her cornfield. William Hysloop and Conrad Schoffer, employes of the Public Service Gas Department, happened to be passing the house at the time and went to the assistance of Mrs. Titsworth. Hysloop took a double-barreled shot gun and went after the vicious canine. He found him in the cornfield and killed him with one shot. The dog was in the last stages of hydrophobia.

Several of the borough people had a merry time yesterday afternoon at the expense of a newly married couple, who came from the direction of Plainfield and boarded at train at the local station. No one knew their names but somehow or other the report was circulated that they had just been united in wedlock. A number of the younger set of the borough went to one of the local grocery stores and purchased some rice, which was showered upon the "newlyweds." The couple then took the train for New York.

Considerable interest has been shown by the borough fans in this afternoon's game with the Central Railroad team. The contest should prove to be an exciting one from the very start.

Emile Doty, of Dunellen avenue, has resigned his position with the Hall Printing Press Company. He will go to Cranford, where he will engage in the butcher business.

Miss Anna Wagner and Miss Margaret Wagner, of Brooklyn, have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Louis Block and family, of North avenue, for the past week.

Miss Elsie Wagner, of Brooklyn, came to the borough on Wednesday to visit with the family of Louis Block, on North avenue.

John Haynes was in charge of Clarence T. Voorhees' butcher business, while the latter was on his vacation in Atlantic City.

Edward Hannon, of Dunellen avenue, left the borough this afternoon for Easton, Pa., where he will visit for a week.

Arthur Shannon, of Whittier avenue, went to Brighton Beach this afternoon to be gone until after Labor Day.

Frank Margentino, of North avenue, spent Thursday visiting friends and relatives in Newark.

Mrs. Charles Gerthies, of Washington avenue, has removed to Princeton.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The carnival which was held on the chapel grounds at Oak Tree was more of a success the second night than the first. Large crowds came from Plainfield and the surrounding towns and villages and the receipts will far exceed expectations. The moving pictures which were of a high character deserve special mention. An amusing incident was the raffling off of a live pig which was won by George Nelson, of Piscataway, and created a lot of mirth and merriment.

Rev. J. J. Allen, pastor of the Baptist church here, will preach in New Market tomorrow, and his father, Rev. E. R. Allen, of Philadelphia, will occupy the pulpit here.

Charles Brantingham and family who moved to the west some two years ago, expect to return and occupy their house in the village.

All the fire plugs in the village and vicinity have been painted red and black. They can now be seen at quite a distance.

Fishing on Spring Lake has been particularly good this past week. Quite a number of large fish have been caught.

Mrs. Stenson and her daughter, Dorothy, left today for their home in Broklyn, after spending the summer here.

Daniel Randolph's farm on Maple avenue, has been bought by a New York syndicate and is being laid out in streets.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The service tomorrow at the Baptist church will be Sunday school at 9.30 a. m.; morning preaching by the pastor, Rev. Franklin K. Mathiews, at 10.45. B. Y. P. U. meeting at 7 p. m. in the parlor of the church.

A mixed team of local and Plainfield players are playing the Plainfield Y. M. C. A. team this afternoon at Crescent oval.

Joe. Alberts, manager of the local ball team, had an off day and is donning the Bound Brook uniform this afternoon.

The Township Committee met last night in the Town rooms, only the regular routine business was transacted.

SENTENCE SUSPENDED ON MRS. MARY GILES

The case of Bicknell against Giles came up this morning before City Judge Runyon in the police court and resulted in a suspended sentence for Mrs. Giles. Mrs. John Bicknell, the complainant alleged that Mrs. Giles had used profane and abusive language to her on the afternoon of Sunday, August 7, at which time Mrs. Giles' son was fighting with some neighbors, according to the story, and instead of using the language ascribed to her Mrs. Giles declared that she was only trying to induce her son to go home with her.

Mrs. Bicknell declared while that some unprintable language was used by the defendant and that the only reason for its application was a culmination of an old feud.

Among the witnesses called by F. J. Blatz, counsel for Mrs. Bicknell, were Mrs. L. Miller, of Lake street, the mother of the complainant and several other neighbors. The defendant was amply supplied with witnesses who were called to the stand by S. S. Swackhamer, counsel for Mrs. Giles. After hearing the entire story Judge Runyon advised the litigants to keep away from each other in the future and while finding Mrs. Giles guilty of the offence as charged in the complaint, suspended sentence.

THE FORUM.

Asks for Information.

Editor, The Daily Press:

As an interested property-owner and one who was affected by and complied with the proclamation issued by Mayor Charles J. Fisk requesting that all persons holding a permit for the use of hose and lawn sprinklers desist from using the same during the long spell of dry weather, I would like to inquire through the columns of your newspaper how much longer the Plainfield-Union Water Company is going to enforce its rules about lawn sprinkling and the general use of a hose.

The drought is now over and considerable rain has fallen since the Mayor's proclamation was issued, and it seems only fair that the company return to its consumers the rights formerly enjoyed before the dry spell. Like hundreds of others, I have been anxiously waiting for an announcement from the company stating that hose and lawn sprinklers can be used during the specified hours. I do not wish the return of the privilege so much on account of my lawn but would like to use a hose for washing off the porch, windows, etc. I also understand that the company agreed to give its consumers who complied with its request about the use of hose and sprinklers, a rebate in consideration for so doing, and I would like to know whether this has been done.

Yours truly,
A. E. FORCE.

Plainfield, Aug. 27.

Mrs. Albina Delmo.

Mrs. Albina Delmo aged twenty-seven years, died at her home in Scotch Plains this morning. The dead woman is survived by her husband and two small children. The funeral will be held from St. Mary's church Monday morning at nine o'clock and the interment will be made in St. Mary's cemetery.

For the Children

W. E. D. Stokes, Jr., the Boy Inventor.

William E. D. Stokes of New York, though only twelve years old, has made a name among wireless experts by an invention. He designed what is called a "receiving box." This contrivance not only catches dispatches sent in the ordinary code used by the Marconi and De Forest systems, but reproduces the words and sounds of wireless telephony in volume deep enough to be heard at a distance of several feet from the apparatus. Working alone on the roof of his father's hotel in New York, the youngster made his important discovery. Recently he attracted attention at Washington, where he appeared before a senate committee in opposition to a measure to prevent any but authorized companies from taking wireless messages from the air.

Fox, an Outdoor Game.

This is suitable for a boys' game and is better played out of doors.

A space is marked out for the fox's den, and the fox and the rest of the players use their handkerchiefs—knotted at the end if they prefer—in attacking each other. Fox, to show he is ready to begin, shouts out, "Twice five are ten." The others call, "Fox, fox, come out of your den." Fox comes out hopping on one foot and trying to hit any of the players on the back with his handkerchief, they hitting him if they can. If fox while hopping succeeds in striking any player the one hit becomes fox and is driven to his den by the handkerchiefs of the others. After reaching the den he may give warning and hop out as the other one did.

Should fox in his efforts to hit his enemies lose his balance and use both feet he is driven home under the blows of the handkerchiefs.

The Game of Post Town.

This is an interesting game for children of nine or ten who know something of geography and are familiar with the names of places. One is chosen postmaster. Each child takes the name of any town she prefers. If there are too many for the postmaster to remember he writes down the names and holds the list in his hand. He then calls out, "I am going to send a letter from Richmond to Boston," for instance. The children bearing the names of the towns mentioned exchange seats. If they fail to do so the one who does not respond pays a forfeit. Occasionally he exclaims, "General post!" Then every one must exchange places. If any one does not secure a seat she must pay a forfeit, and these are redeemed when the game is over. Excitement is added if long postal routes, including many cities, are named.

Forbidden Letter.

The idea of this game is to try how many sentences can be spoken without containing a certain letter which has been agreed upon. Supposing, for instance, the letter "f" is not to be introduced, the first player might ask, "Is this a new game to you?" The second player could answer: "Oh, no! I played it years ago, when quite a youngster."

He would perhaps turn to the third player and ask, "You remember it, do you not?" The third player might answer, "Yes, but we used to play it differently." This player, having used a word with an "f" in it, must pay a forfeit and remain out.

The answers must be given at once without hesitation, and the player who avoids for the greatest length of time using a word containing the forbidden letter wins the game.

The Little Purchaser.

A pound of jumps!
And I looked in surprise
At little black Rose
With her shiny eyes.

A pound of jumps!
My mamma said.
A pound of jumps!
And she nodded her head.

But, my dear,
We've flour and sugar in lumps
And peanuts,
But never a pound of jumps.

We've walnuts and chestnuts
And corn that pops.
Oh, oh, I forgot!
It's a pound of hops!

GIGANTIC TREE STUMPS.

Big Enough to Be Hollowed Out and Used For Houses.

The fine firs of the Pacific northwest are so colossal that after the trees are hewed down the stumps are used for children's playgrounds, houses for families to live in or for dancing platforms.

To make a stump house the material from the interior is removed, leaving only enough to form walls of suitable thickness. A roof of boards or shingles is put over the top of the stump, holes are cut for windows and doors, and a family of five can and often does make it their dwelling. The stump houses are sometimes used by settlers until they can build larger and more convenient homes.

After the stump home has been vacated it is turned into a stable for the horses or sometimes into an inclosure for chickens or hogs.

Next to the big tree of California the fir or sequoia of Washington and Oregon has the largest diameter. As they decay rapidly, the hollowing out is easy. Sometimes they are used for dance platforms, some of them accommodating as many as four couples.

Another custom is to turn the big stumps into playgrounds for the children. The children reach the top by pieces of wood nailed against the sides or by ladders. A beautiful use of the large stumps is making them into flower beds and covering them with trailing vines.—Chicago Tribune.

THE WAISTCOAT.

It Became Popular by the Patronage of Charles II.

Few men realize how much they are being influenced in their dress by King Charles II., and yet it is to that monarch we owe the adoption of the waistcoat as a regular article of gentleman's dress, says London M. A. P. At least that is so if we are to accept the statement of Pepys, who in his diary under date of Oct. 16, 1666, states: "The king has declared his resolution to set a fashion which he would never alter," and "This day King Charles II. began to put on his vest. It is a very fine and handsome garment."

Prior to this date they were exceptional garments, and there is even some doubt whether they were originally worn by ladies or gentlemen, though there is good reason to believe they superseded the doublet, such as was worn by Raleigh, Essex and other notables of the Elizabethan age.

A neat waistcoat "wrought in silk and gold" is mentioned in "Patient Grissell," 1602, and there is a painting in distemper of a vest on the walls of Winchester cathedral, dated 1489, so that what Charles II. took was merely an existing garment, which he remodeled, and by his patronage so popularized it that it became a standard article of gentleman's dress.

Clever Reasoning.

Rather an original lesson in political economy was that once taught by the Japanese nobleman Awoto and thus translated by Sir Edwin Arnold in "Seas and Lands:"

One evening as he was going to the palace to take his turn in keeping the night watch he let ten cash drop out of his tinder case into the stream and then bought fifty cash worth of torches to search for the lost coin. His friends laughed at him for spending so much in order to recover so little, and he replied, with a frown:

"Sirs, you are foolish and ignorant of economics. Had I not sought for these ten cash they would have been lost forever—sunk in the bottom of the Namerigawa. The fifty cash which I have expended on torches will remain in the hands of the tradesman. Whether he has them or I is no matter, but not a single one of the sixty has been lost, and that is a clear gain to the country."

Wedding Ring Mottoes.

When posies or mottoes inscribed inside wedding rings were first introduced does not seem to be known, but from the sixteenth century until the middle of the eighteenth it was customary to have them engraved on rings. These mottoes seldom consisted of more than two lines of a verse, often of only one, but there are a few instances known where three lines were used. Some of these posies are very quaint and curious, and a few reach a high standard of poetic beauty. The South Kensington museum has a good collection of posy rings, and among them are the following inscriptions: "United hearts death only parts;" "Let us share in joy and care;" "Love and live happily."—London Standard.

The Cause.

"Did you hear the awful shriek that engine gave as it flew by?" asked the first man as they approached a railroad crossing.

"Yes. What caused it?" rejoined his companion.

"I presume the engineer had it by the throttle."—Smart Set.

A Mean Retort.

"There goes a man I could have married," she said softly.

"Yes," he chuckled, "and I notice that he keeps on going as though he were afraid you might try it again."—Detroit Free Press.

Way It Goes.

"Could you give a starving woman work?"

"Yes; I need a girl to scrub."

"Too bad; this girl's a parlor maid."—Washington Herald.

The small courtesies sweeten life, the great ennoble it.

A CUNNING WEASEL.

The Trick by Which He Trapped His Big Rat Antagonist.

Once a sawmill in a western town was infested with rats, which, being unmolested, became very numerous and bold and played round the mill among the men while they worked during the day. But one day there appeared on the scene a weasel, which immediately declared war on the rodents.

One by one the rats fell victims to the weasel's superior strength, until only one very large, pugnacious rat was left of the once numerous colony. The weasel had a go at the big rat several times, but on each occasion the rodent proved more than a match for his slender antagonist and chased the weasel to a hiding place.

Shortly thereafter the weasel was seen busily digging under a lumber pile near the mill. He was engaged for some time, but later appeared again in the mill, seeking his old enemy. He soon found him and at once renewed hostilities. As usual, after a lively tussle the rat got the better of the argument, and the weasel ran, pursued closely by the rat, straight to the hole under the lumber pile.

He ran in, still followed by the rat, but immediately reappeared round the end of the pile and again dodged into the hole behind the rat. Neither was seen again for some time, but the weasel finally reappeared, looking no worse for the fight.

The curiosity of the men in the mill being aroused, they proceeded to investigate the hole under the lumber pile. They found that the weasel had dug the hole sufficiently large at the opening to admit the rat, but had gradually tapered it as he proceeded until at the other end it barely allowed his own slender body to pass.

When the rat chased him into the large end of this underground tunnel he quickly slipped through, and while the rat was trying to squeeze his large body into the smaller part of the hole the weasel dodged in behind him, caught him in the rear and in a place where he could not turn round and finished him at his leisure.—Harper's Weekly.

POISON IN FLOWERS.

Dainty and Beautiful Blossoms In Which Lurks Death.

When the good friar in "Romeo and Juliet" reflected upon the properties of the simple flower, "within whose infant rind poison hath residence and medicine power," his observation embraced a goodly category of well known flowers whose secretions furnish the world with so many poisons.

For instance, the laburnum, which has been compared to a fountain of gold leaping into the sun—a most charming sight—is one of the most poisonous things imaginable, inasmuch as it is poison in leaf and flower and seed. Even the grass growing beneath it is poisonous by reason of its proximity to the innocent looking blossoms overhead, and it has been found necessary to guard against cattle eating this grass for fear of fatal results.

The bulbs of such dainty and beautiful flowers as the narcissus, hyacinth, jonquil and snowdrop secrete the most deadly poisons, not to speak of the oxalis, the monkshood and the foxglove, all of which furnish noxious liquors sufficient to destroy life.

To these may be added certain of the crocuses, the lovely lady's slipper, the quaint old jack-in-the-pulpit and the laughing little buttercup. The latter, despite its most innocent appearance, is one of the worst of the poisonous flowers. Even the cow is aware of that and carefully avoids it. The cousins of the buttercups, the peonies, the larkspurs and the rest, all contain toxic fluids.

Another source of deadly poison is the oleander tree, while the bark of the superb catalpa tree contains many deadly doses.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

An Unfamiliar Alias.

There may be nothing in a name, but the American traveler of whom the Living Church tells found at least confusion therein. He had landed at Liverpool and hastened out of the city to a rural village, where he found a charmingly old fashioned inn which delighted his soul. It was late when he arrived, and when he asked what he could have for supper the buxom landlady suggested minced collops. He agreed with enthusiasm, the dish sounded so romantic, so Robin Hoodsy, so almost mediaeval. And what do you suppose they brought him? Just plain hash!

Bread In Sweden.

In Sweden the bread of the people is for the most part hard, thin as a dinner plate and about the size of one. It is baked without yeast, and the water is practically all extracted in the process of baking; hence, relatively per pound of bread, its cost is much higher than in the common forms of bread as we know them, containing one-half their weight in water that has cost nothing. Loaf bread and rolls in Sweden are a luxury.

Making Time Profitable.

"See here," cried the busy merchant, "don't you know my time is valuable?"

"Well," replied the book agent, "I'm sure it might be valuable to me. If you'll give me five minutes of it I believe I can sell you a set of these books."—Catholic Standard and Times.

Finding Issues.

"Sure. Then we'll have a lot of issues to offer the people."—St. Louis Star.

Virginia of the Air Lanes

A ROMANCE OF FLYING

... By ...

Herbert Quick

Copyright, 1909, by the Bobbs-Merrill Company

"I have spoken in my weak way of what might make a landholder unwilling to have his air used as a highway. But he doesn't have to give a reason—he can show his deed and tell the whole world to go to—to the captain's office and settle. Your honors, I adjure you to cling to your unbroken precedents and uphold property, on which society is based. To say that we do not own these strips of land, but only rights in the air, is foolishness of the damphest sort. The landowner may sell the surface and keep the minerals or sell the mineral rights down to China and keep the surface. Our grantors owned and sold these rights to us. It is slanderous to say that we have hornswoggled—to coin a phrase—the farmers by promising cheap nitrates by the Craighead method. It is my intention to take a few moments some day to perfect the Craighead method and begin to extract nitrogen, but that is another narrative. The point is that we've got those rights. We have what nobody ever had before—the proof that defendants pass over our lands, because they have to. Nobody else ever had lands hemming in everybody. We have. This makes our proof simply pie, and we call upon you to protect us in the name of the law of landownership, on which every government in all the world is founded.

"They say we seek to enslave travelers. This absurdity applies as forcibly to surface rights or mines. If the traveler can't pay our scale let him go by public highways or by boat or rail—or stay at home. We anticipate that rights to air navigation will become more and more valuable. We expect to charge whatever the situation makes possible. This is as moral as increasing rent for lands. We shall grant licenses or not, as we please. We may demand title to all patents on airship inventions before allowing them to be used, thus applying the rules you and your predecessors have so wisely laid down. 'He who owns land owns to the sky!' How beautiful the principle! What a stimulus to enterprise it offers—in cornering space! Our getting of these rights may be a horse on Mr. Shayne, but the rules of the game—and what a game it is, your honors!—give us the pot. The costs constitute the kitty."

Justice McFadden tapped on the desk, and Craighead paused.

"Your language, Mr. Craighead," said he, "is unusual, though your points seem well taken."

"You're on!" ejaculated Craighead. "You're on! In fact, to speak grammarianly, 'You're on, your honor; you're honest!' "

A bailiff interrupted by handing a note to the astonished court.

"Mr. Craighead," said Justice McFadden, "it is suggested that you are not a licensed practitioner at this bar or at any other. This extraordinary address of yours leads the court to doubt. What is the fact? I thought I recognized you as a member of this bar. Have we not met?"

"Your honor," said Craighead, "studied language under me."

"Language!" roared the justice. "When?"

"I was your teacher in English and drawing," replied Craighead, "in Schlosser's billiard parlors—English and drawing, with incidental instruction in the use of the globes; also dry nursing, the masse and the follow!"

"Remove him from the bar, Mr. Bailiff!" thundered the court. "Take him to jail!"

"Stung—in the same old aching spot!" cried Craighead. "Still the great uncalled! But know ye, proud judges, I have been expelled from worse places than this! What harm have I done ye? Filley, get me out of this!"

CHAPTER XVIII.

ALONE ON AN ISLAND IN AIR.

THE bailiff, a tottering old functionary with a white mustache of Bismarckian fierceness, warily laid a raptorial claw on Craighead's sleeve.

"Amateur day in court!" he hissed in the bailiff's ear. "The hook! The hook! I go, but my logic sticks! Stone walls do not"—

Mr. Filley here interposed to such effect that Craighead was fined, expelled and set free. Mr. Filley's masterly address was based on the law laid down by Craighead, reference to which finally evoked a smile from the justices. In a week an injunction was issued as prayed. The airships of the whole nation were tied up; the Universal Nitrates and Air Products company made the Carson-Craighead Aeronef company its sole licensee; the Carson aeronefs were the only flying machines which could be used; the law of real property was vindicated; Aerostatic Power dropped to nominal prices; Craighead was suddenly recognized as the most overshadowing genius legal strategy had ever known; Carson stood high in finance and diplomacy; the factories for manufacturing flying machines were offered to him at his own terms, payable in Carson-Craighead stocks; thousands of men were put to work on the Carson aeronefs; the Waddy family began to occupy space in newspapers and magazines; the world of finance whirled about and readjusted itself to the explosion—all of which took time.

And in the midst of the first excitement the following item appeared in a newspaper:

A bizarre result of the McFadden decision is the marooning of Mr. Finley Shayne, erstwhile prince of the powers of the air, at Shayne's Hold, where the Roc was enjoined. There is no egress from the hold save by airship. The Carson crowd has the air rights surrounding the mountain, and Mr. Shayne and his family have no means of getting away except by violating the injunctions.

No craft save the Carson aeronef, the Virginia, can go to them or anywhere, and Mr. Shayne will starve rather than allow her to land. This sounds like a joke, but Mr. Shayne takes it seriously. The castaways are Mr. and Mrs. Shayne, Miss Suarez and Mr. Max Silberberg.

Carson approached Craighead with this paper, his finger pointing to the item. Craighead read it with glee.

"When Shayne has eaten the last poisoned rat," said he, "and worn his knees raw snaring rattlesnakes off the cliff for food I'll go to him and say:

'THE HOOK! THE HOOK! I GO; BUT MY LOGIO STICKS!"

'Proud ex-plute, if on your bandaged knees you beg my kingly clemency I'll give you this sandwich and bottle of beer; otherwise s-s-s-s-s-tarve, and be 'anged to you! Either that or wire him permission to depart in the Roc. Which sayest thou?"

"I have wired him offer of the license," said Carson, "and he declined insultingly. Then I offered to come for them in the Virginia."

"And he answered?"

"That he would shoot me or any man in my employ that dared invade his air over Shayne's Hold!"

Mr. Carson brooded over the fact that the very writ of injunction that made him master of the air confined the girl for whom he had striven in a petit trianon on a mountain top with Max Silberberg.

But if the victor felt a ferment of spirits, what of Mr. Shayne and the castaways in a palace?

Silberberg was spending an afternoon with Virginia on the Shayne grounds.

"We are alone," said Silberberg, "on an island in the air. Are you sorry?"

Virginia was thinking of the victory of Carson. He had been great in working out his creation, and now he had made war on her Uncle Finley, the tiger of the Stock Exchange, in his very den—and won! But yet this last victory was not like the first. This was the old story of finding how to exploit the world by monopoly; that was doing, creating. Yet Theodore had mortally offended her in that matter of being her uncle. All was over between them. Yet she finally answered Silberberg inconsistently.

"No," said she, "I am not very sorry. But I shall need my hand now to hold my dress out of the dew."

"Tell me once more that you are not sorry, please," said he.

"I am not," she reassured him. "In fact, I—I am rather glad, Mr. Silberberg."

"Max!" said he unctuously. "Let it be Max, your fellow prisoner!"

"Well, Max, then!"

Virginia now systematically hid from Silberberg, dinners and forced interviews bringing no advancement to his courtship.

One blowy day it culminated. Virginia from a summer house opening toward New York braved the moist gusts and swept the sky with her fieldglasses for—well, for something. Silberberg followed her, swearing inwardly at the perversity of the girl, and as he found her things began to happen. Far over to the southeast and driving fast before the gale came the only flying machine in America free of the McFadden interdict. Unfortunate Silberberg!

At the same hour Mrs. Shayne burst into Shayne's den, her breath short, her face flushed, her attire and coiffure disarranged. Shayne knew the symptoms.

"Oh, tell me it isn't true!" she cried. "Tell me that I am not humiliated, actually controlled, by that bandit from the Alabama forest!"

Mr. Shayne begged her to calm herself.

"It's only an injunction," urged Mr. Shayne. "We can't use the Roc because the court forbids it"—

"At that man Carson's request!" I tell you, Finley Shayne, it is a trick of the proletariats to immure us here and come at their leisure and kill us!"

"My dear, my dear!" urged Mr. Shayne. "That is quite impossible! We could go in the Roc rather than be murdered."

"You imprison me and then insult me. Coward! If going in the Roc is so easy, why don't we go? I thought I was married to a man!"

Shayne sprang to his feet.

"Marie," said he, "the Roc will be ready in half an hour! I'll show you I'm no coward! Get ready! Call Virginia and Silberberg! Hurry!"

Mrs. Shayne knew better than to try stopping him. He yelled messages and orders into telephones. He issued hurry calls for valets and maids. The forcefulness that had made him what he was came uppermost.

Suddenly into Shayne's den burst Silberberg, his face red, his whole being simmering hot.

"I'm done with you!" spluttered Silberberg. "Get me away from here if you're a gentleman!"

"If I wasn't I'd have you kicked off!" said Shayne. "You can't jump on me, if you are my guest! I'll"—

"She's refused me in a way I can't stand," protested Silberberg, with hands upflung. "She said I was disgusting! I can't stay!"

"Well," answered Shayne, "the Roc sails at once."

The other members of the imprisoned party were at the garage before Silberberg, Mrs. Shayne in the cabin, Virginia and Shayne in animated debate on the platform.

"Well," Shayne was saying to her, "stay, then, like a simpleton! But how are you to get away? I don't know how long the courts will keep this up, and our running the injunction won't make it any shorter!"

"It's blowing awfully," said Silberberg.

Nobody noticed him but the pilot.

"I know it, sir," said he. "It's foolhardy to take this gas bag out."

"Shayne," said Silberberg, "the pilot says it's not fit to go out."

"Then stay," answered Shayne. "You're welcome to the house."

"But, Shayne," cried Silberberg, "it may mean getting whirled out to sea or"—

"Out to sea!" sneered Shayne. "And the wind southeast. Stay if you're afraid. Virginia, Mr. Silberberg's going to stay with you."

Virginia walked aboard with a look of disdain, the bitterest cut of all. The winches drew back the leaves of the great roof to let out the Roc, and the surge of the outer air filled the garage with windy tumults. Silberberg suddenly resolved to go and leaped to the gangplank. The drawbridge roof dropped down; the Roc, huge, steely and majestic, went out of her vast nest.

Shayne sullenly gave orders to lay a course dead for Temagami in spite of the northwesterly wind back of the clouds. By waiting for the turn of the wind they might have made New York, but every mile of northing took them farther from the central "low" and into a larger circle of the huge whirl of the gale. The pilot knew that Temagami was out of the question, though the wind blew dead toward it—nay, because of that fact, for a high wind never blows straight, but always in a circle about the "low." So Shayne, violating the rules of weather outside to make sunshine within, was not surprised when told that they were approaching the line of reversal—the turn of the wind.

"Head against it," ordered Shayne, "and cross Lake Ontario before dark if you can."

"It looks more than we can face," said the pilot. "If it is shall we run before it and try for a Pennsylvania port?"

"Use your best judgment," said Shayne.

"Yes, sir," said the pilot, whose best judgment had been to stay housed. "And you may want to know, sir, there's some sort of craft astern and overhauling us."

"The devil!" ejaculated Shayne. "I'll take a look at her."

The binoculars revealed an aeronef perhaps five miles astern, with wide wings, in which he could see the shimmer of blades in rapid revolution. The exclusive rights of the Virginia, the singular swiftness and power of the flight of this aeronef and the shimmer in her wings assured Shayne that he was pursued by the machine which had wrecked his monopoly. They wanted to put him in jail for breaking their injunction, he raged. The shame of it—he, Finley Shayne, a fugitive for sailing God's free air in his own ship! And the danger of it, too, for Canada and safety now looked utterly unattainable.

The mountains slipped from under them, and the farms and villages took their places on the moving concave of the earth as the big ship made speed toward the Mohawk. The Roc was struck by an opposing gale; a sudden hurricane smote her decks as her momentum drove her through the north wind. She turned before it. The great concave panorama below slowly reversed and began paying off to the north as the vast aeronat drifted like a bubble to the south before the fiercest blow she had ever dared encounter. Canada was out of the question.

"If we reach an aerial harbor," said Shayne through the speaking tube, "what do you think of trying a landing?"

"She'd rip to strings," said the pilot. "We'd be killed."

To the pursuing Carson the Roc seemed doomed to the aerostat shipwreck—a shattering fall in landing or watery extinction in the open sea. And Virginia! Agonizing for her, Carson followed, watching like a wrecker when a full rigged ship drives on a reef.

And yet, even after her turn, all seemed well with the Roc. The sea lay south and east. Northing was impossible; but, edging into the gale with all the power of her screws, she worked stanchly off into the west. Yet Carson knew it was a losing fight, and Shayne walked the deck in agony as she gave ground at last before the wind, which howled in across the Pennsylvania mountains and beat the great hunted creature to the Delaware at Philadelphia.

Virginia came on deck. "Where are we, uncle?" said she.

"Oh, we're all right!"

Time enough for the trouble when the crisis came, for shipwreck in aerial voyaging has no tossing before the cyclone ere the final plunge, no wrestle with the waves, no tiring at the pumps, no roaring of white surf scabbarding the teeth of the reef. All is steady and comfortable until underneath yawns destruction. Though every moment inevitably marked a loss of gas in the balloon once out at sea, they must keep up to win the far African coast or to bear around the whirl to Nova Scotia or Labrador, and in that quadrant was rain. Before that could be done the huge gas holder would grow wrinkled, flabby, weak; the car would drag her down, the stronger ones would cut everything away to lighten the ship, the weaker would drop into the brine with no hope save in the prayer time accorded by the life preservers, and finally the last man clinging to the fragments of the nacelle would see the huge mass of flapping silk and gum and tin foil drop into the waves, himself utterly lost in the utter desolation of hopeless solitude—food for the fishes.

Dinner was served, Shayne trying to smile and discussing with these dear women the time of reaching Temagami.

Virginia, again on deck, stood gazing ahead, not knowing that their actual flight was astern. She thought she was looking toward her destination. She had lost sight of the Virginia, and she was not sorry or displeased to have Carson give chase unsuccessfully. She was very angry with him.

Suddenly she looked astern and was amazed that such a body of water had been passed without her knowing it, as one journeying over a prairie might feel to look behind and see an ocean. The subtle expression of the tossing waves told her that this was the open sea. For miles and miles she saw great waves bursting in immense explosions of spindrift and spray, swept clean of shipping, the glassy rear of the racing billows throwing back to her eyes sinister glints from the rare gleams of the western sun, and out into this fierce fight of the elements the Roc was drifting stern on in spite of the frenzied thrust of her great screws into the suck of the gale.

"Uncle," said she, pointing, "I see! It's the ocean!"

"Yes," said he. "God forgive me, Virginia, for murdering you and your aunt! Go to her!"

Suddenly Virginia pressed his arm. "Uncle"— said she.

"On board the ship!"

The call sounded in their very ears. Within thirty yards hung the Virginia, headed into the wind and drifting easily with the Roc.

"What do you propose to do?"

It was Carson's voice through the trumpet, but it sounded sweet to Shayne. He had no idea of any manner in which the Virginia would aid him, but the sickening speed with which he was driving out to sea made anything welcome as a modification of his despair.

"Do you understand?" shouted Carson. "You are lost if you drift on. Drop your painter, and I'll give you a tow!"

Swallowing his pride, Shayne ordered the painter dropped. The Virginia, running easily into the wind, dropped back, took the line and, with a word of cheer, walked up into the blast, pulled the painter taut and, like a tug with a freighter, threw herself against the pressure of the immense gas bag, and for the first time the people on the aeronat's deck clung fast and turned their faces from the wind as they felt its stroke.

"Hurrah!" came the cry from the engine room. "She's holding us!"

For a moment she did, and then she droped the painter, and the abandoned Roc fell off before the storm again. The aeronef, having shown her power, had quitted its exercise. But the Virginia again drew close in.

"Put on your life preservers!" cried Carson. "I'm going to put you in the water."

"No, you'll not!" said Shayne. "Willett, keep her up and run before it. We'll circle the whirl and make shore."

"Mr. Willett," said Carson, "do as I say or as there is a God in heaven I'll go above, rip your envelope and let you drop from wherever you happen to be! If Mr. Shayne interferes confine him, and take orders from me—or drop from here!"

The second engineer went forward to Mr. Shayne. The answer of the others was to set the depressor screws going, and the doomed Roc, now quite over the sea, dropped nearer and nearer to the waves.

"Now," said Carson, "I'll tell you why I turned you adrift. Your envelope won't stand the strain. It had started to cave in at the bow, and in another moment it would have ripped open and dropped you. But I'm going to give it the test. If the Roc can stand the strain I believe I can tow her and land you. If she doesn't I shall drop you into the Atlantic, you'll collapse, and I can tow you in the water easily. Put on your life preservers! Hurry!"

ELECTRIC POWER A MONEY SAVER

To the man who needs power in his business the use of electricity is commended.

Electricity can be made to work in numberless ways and it does its work effectively and economically in every instance.

It is convenient because the turn of a switch starts it going, and it is economical because when it is stopped in the same manner the expense stops instantly. No fires to keep going. No boiler charges. No energy wasted.

We will supply you with central station power for any purpose and in any quantity at a price which will save you money as compared with steam drive. Can we interest you?

years and is well known throughout Somerset county, having lived within its limits since he was six years old.

Mr. Kirch has conducted a successful business and has entered the political arena only after the almost unanimous urgings of his friends.

WEDDING ANNOUNCEMENT WAS DELAYED ONE YEAR.

Belated announcement is made by Mrs. John Anderson, of South Plainfield, of the marriage of her daughter, Katherine, to Albert W. Pearson, of 1018 East Front street. The ceremony took place in Newark a year ago on August 21. The parents of both the bride and groom were aware of the marriage directly after it was performed, but the couple kept the affair secret from their friends and are now having it announced for the first time.

Mrs. Pearson said yesterday that she and her husband went to Newark the night of August 21 last year and were married by a minister there. Upon their return to this city, they informed their parents of what they had done and took up their residence in South Plainfield. The couple have just been spending the first anniversary of their marriage in Asbury Park and will now live in the Netherwood section, where Mr. Pearson has recently purchased a house.

A Pleasant Surprise.

A pleasant surprise party was tendered Miss Lizzie Williams, of Rahway, who is visiting at the home of Mrs. John Smith, of South Second street, on Thursday night. It is his third, for Smith also won in 1905 at Fox Hills after a tie with Will Anderson. The winning score was 301, and, as when Smith gained the national championship in June, J. J. McDermott, who scored 303, was in second place. "Marty" O'Loughlin, who played in the tournament, failed to get in on the money prizes.

The speaker at the Netherwood Fresh Air Camp tomorrow afternoon will be Rev. Ora J. Shoop, pastor of the Grace M. E. church of the borough. Clifford Braider will be the pianist and a special musical program has been arranged for the children. The service will begin at 3:30 p. m.

Miss Myra Dunavan, of East Second street, graduate of P. H. S., Class '10, has taken a temporary position with the Randolph Insulating Company, of Newark.

POLITICAL TALK.

Congressman Fowler's meeting last night in Rahway Auditorium was attended by less than 100. Mr. Fowler, though in the house shortly after 8 o'clock, did not commence to speak until nearly 9, and then had a table brought from the platform and spoke from the floor. He commenced by asking for the Republican Club, as but few of its 450 members were present, and nearly all of the prominent Republicans in the city were conspicuous by their absence. He said that the Republican party had come to be the party of darkness. His reception was even colder than he had received in Plainfield the night before.

That Charles N. Fowler, candidate for Representative, United States Senator et cetera is blind to the fact that he is making votes for his opponent in the Congressional fight every time he lets loose his mud-batteries, was clearly evident on Thursday night when he renewed his mud-slinging in addressing local voters in this city. The intelligent voter has long snce wearied of the muck-raking, demagogic, sore-head tactics pursued by office-seekers who in their wild flights, mortified in their vanity by impending defeat, cast truth to the winds in their gallery playing methods to incite the populace in the hope that by concealing fro mthe voters the real issues they may achieve their selfish purposes.

PERSONAL.

Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Randolph, of Mercer avenue, left yesterday for Lake Sunapee, N. H., where they will remain until after Labor Day.

Munroe Farnham of East Second street, accompanied by some friends, spent yesterday crabbing at Elizabethport. The party returned with an unusually large catch of crabs.

Mrs. Valentine Utzinger, Mrs. Charles Jeter and Mrs. William Crow, of the borough, will leave Monday for Saratoga Lake, N. Y., where they will spend two weeks.

Mrs. Melissa Cook, her daughter, Mabel Cook, Mrs. Irene Irving, of East Fifth street. Miss Edith Runk, of Park avenue, are at home, after a stay of three weeks in the Catskill mountains.

Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Deakin and children, of 864 Clinton avenue, left today for Cape St. Vincent, on the St. Lawrence River, Canada, the former home of Mrs. Deakin. Mrs. Deakin and children will be gone about two weeks. Mr. Deakin will return Monday.

ONE VIEW OF THE COLONEL.

Colonel Roosevelt's relation to public affairs in this country is a matter of interest to us all. We can't place him with the sages; he is not a sage, but he is a vigorous, active man. He does not give out advice, warning, admonition. He gives out authoritative statements concerning this human, mundane affair in which we are all involved. He is quite positive in all he says. That is the reason why people of a certain way of thinking accent what he says.

It is also the reason why people of another way of thinking incline to reject even the most obviously sensible things he says. Democracy in America is not a mere phase. It is a fact. Te colonel owes whatever power he has among us to our acceptance of him as a competent American who has devoted himself to affairs of government. To the fact that we accepted him in that capacity and elected him to administer our affairs he owes whatever acceptance he has got abroad. On the whole, he has done very well. But he is not a genius; he does not represent any great and fundamental truth; he does not stand for any transcendent cause. We will simply go ahead with our political and other activities as if he were not there if he gets on the wrong side, with his help if he gets on the right side. When we want him we will call for him; when we don't we wont'.—Collier's.

STEPPED INTO THE LAKE

HAD AN EXCITING EXPERIENCE.

Mrs. Warnock, Miss Anna Warnock and Miss Florence Levy Are Brought Safely to Shore by as Many Men.

Miscalculation as to how far they could step from a high dock to a row boat, caused Mrs. W. W. Warnock, of Craig place, her daughter, Miss Anna Warnock, and Miss Florence Levey, of High Bridge, to take an involuntary bath in Lake Hopatcong Saturday noon and incidently furnished more excitement than has been seen at Nolan's Point in several years. All three were thrown in the water and piercing screams emitted by Mrs. Joe Levy, who was nearby, and who believed her daughter and friends would be drowned, caused a rush of 1,000 people to the scene.

Although the struggling women were in no great danger as the depth of the water where they went overboard is only about 4 feet 5 inches, would-be rescuers leaped in after them and a score of boats put out from as many directions. The struggling and hysterical trio were quickly lifted ashore and today are no worse for their experience except for slight colds.

Mrs. Warnock and her daughter and Miss Levey have been guests at the cottage of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Haynes, in Great Cove, and with Mrs. Levey spent Saturday morning at Allen's dancing pavilion. They were about to return home at noon when the accident occured. The two girls had gotten into the boat and were standing in an upright position holding it to the dock for Mrs. Warnock's benefit. The latter misjudged the distance and instead of stepping in the centre came down full weight on one side. The boat immediately capsized and Mrs. Warnock went to the bottom of the lake while the other two were thrown on top of her. Miss Levey was terribly frightened and her cries brought every one in hearing on a run to the dock. Her screams even reached scores of dancers on Allen's floor and every one stampeded for the doors, musicians included.

Adolph Hoffman, of Paterson, a student in the University of Maryland, and an expert swimmer, was the first to leap into the water and lifted Miss Warnock out of all possible danger. He was quickly followed by Jack Williams, a steam boat captain, who sprang from the deck of his craft, and Carlton Voorhees, of Halsey Island, who caught hold of Mrs. Warnock. She was half conscious because of swallowing a large quantity of water and did not fully recover until taken to the Haynes cottage. Miss Levey was rescued by Bert Stockbower and John T. Treadwell, who were in nearby launches. Mrs. Levey continued screaming all the time the victim was in the water and was hysterical for several hours afterward. Although she did not participate in the ducking, she suffered more through fright than any of the others.

Mrs. Warnock and her daughter gave an exhibition of nerve after they had donned dry clothing by getting into a launch and making a mile and a half trip to Ram's Horn Camp on Halsey Island where they had a dinner engagement. Mrs. Warnock returned home yesterday while her daughter will remain at the lake until after Labor Day.

FUNERAL OF MRS. SERRELL HELD SATURDAY AFTERNOON.

The funeral of Mrs. John Albert Serrell was held Saturday afternoon from her late residence on Myrtle avenue. Only the relatives and most intimate friends of the dead woman attended the services, Rev. Dr. Boocock, the former pastor of the church in Bayonne, to which Mrs. Serrell belonged, officiated.

The minister spoke briefly upon the beautiful life which Mrs. Serrell had led and declared that little need be said about the woman for her life spoke for itself and all those with whom she had come in contact knew of her sweet Christian character better than words could express.

After the services, the remains were placed in a vault at the Hillside cemetery awaiting burial.

—Tomorrow Neuman Bros. will have 250 baskets of fancy canning peaches, white and yellow, which they will sell at 50c, 75c, 85c and $1 per basket.

SOLTRIO WAS LIBERATED.

Tom Lee, an Italian, and William Brown, Colored, Must Keep Away From Their Usual Haunts.

The morning grist turned out at the local police court savored of the Essex Market court in New York this morning. Everything from alleged chicken thieves to common disturbances of the peace of the Sabbath came before Judge William N. Runyon and were disposed of with characteristic alacrity.

Salvatore Soltrio, who was accused of trying to slash with a razor Anto. Campanetti, was released by the judge after he had heard the two witnesses produced by the accused man. Strangely enough, Mr. Campanetti disappeared immediately after learning that witnesses for the defendant were in court.

Patrolman Meyers had Dominick Chiro, of Cottage place, arraigned for carrying concealed weapons. Chiro declared to the judge that his object in carrying the revolver which was discovered by the officer was intended for the protection of his sister, who had been annoyed by a man whose name was withheld. The fact that the gun was not loaded and that no cartridges were found on Chiro led the judge to believe that it was not so dangerous as it might have been with the cartridges in it or nearby, and after telling the police to confiscate the weapon allowed Chiro to go. He was warned to never carry another gun.

An Italian who gave his name as Tom Lee, who had been arrested at the instance of Mrs. Dominck Chambozzo, of Cottage place, on a charge of annoying her with a putty blower, was allowed to go with a suspended jail sentence on his promise to leave Mrs. Chambozzo alone in the future.

William Brown, a colored man, the thirty-year-old son of John Brown, of 616 West Fourth street, who was arrested by Patrolmen Dobson and Saffron on complaint of his parents on a charge of disorderly conduct, was told by Judge Runyon to remove his personal belongings from the home of his parents today and to molest them no more. A fine of $20 was hung over his head, to be collected for any further trouble he may create.

The funeral services of Otto Arens whose death occurred in New York on Friday, were held from Grace church at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Those present as the official representatives of the Consolidated Exchange were William O. Worth, D. K. Young, George M. Kirkner of this city; C. H. Badeau, E. R. Betts, E. R. Grant, G. W. Hoagland and H. Plummer.

There were a great many beautiful floral tributes from relatives and friends; also from the business associats of Mr. Arens. The burial, which was at the convenience of the family took place in Hillside cemetery, following the service.

Preached Inspiring Sermon.

A most inspiring and vigorous sermon was preached in the First Baptist church, last night, by Rev. Dr. G. W. Nicholson, of Bridgeport, Conn., a more extended report of which will be found in tomorrow's Daily Press. The sermon was an interpretation of the twenty-first chapter of John and had reference to the hope inspired in the disciple-fishermen on the third appearance of the Saviour after His resurrection.

Former Judge and Mrs. W. R. Codington and son, of Sandford avenue, will leave the last of the week for Newfoundland, where they will spend a few weeks.

MR. DAY FINDS HIMSELF

Oak Tree Man Who Disappeared July 11 to Kill Himself a Penna. Farmer Now.

WRITES TO THE DAILY PRESS.

He Says He is a Physical Wreck and That His Wife Was Not to Blame For His Strange Actions.

Wilson T. Day, the former ticket agent at Oak Tree and Potter's Crossing, on the Lehigh Valley Railroad, who suddenly disappeared several weeks ago and was reported to have committed suicide at Coney Island, July 11, has written a letter to The Daily Press, stating that he has returned to his wife and that at present they are sojourning on a farm near Easton, Pa., where he hopes to regain his health.

Mr. Day says that he is a nervous wreck and adds that his reason for leaving home was altogether a personal one, the blame for which can be placed on no one except himself. He further says "In sensational cases similar to this, there are always many different stories afloat, so I wish to make this public statement to exonerate Mrs. Day from any blame which the public may see fit to place upon her."

On the day of his disappearance, Mr. Day told his wife he was coming to Plainfield to visit a dentist, but an investigation showed that he did not do so. The next day, Thomas Brantingham received a letter supposedly from Day, in which he said that he had gone to Coney Island, and that his dead body would be found there. Some of his clothes were found in a bath-house, giving the impression that the man had taken his life. However, his friends did not believe such to be the case.

STRICKEN WHILE MOTORING; HE DIES IN THE HOSPITAL

Henry Vroom, aged 81 years, a well-known Somerset county farmer, died at Muhlenberg Hospital, this morning, following a paralytic stroke which he suffered Saturday night while taking an automobile ride with his daughter, Mrs. Etta S. Young, of 777 Clinton avenue, where he lived. The party was passing through Westfield, when Mr. Vroom was stricken. He was taken at once to the office of Dr. G. S. Laird in that place, and upon his advice he was removed to the hospital. Yesterday he appeared to be improved, but there was a change for the worse this morning and death quickly followed.

Mr. Vroom for many years lived on a farm between Weston and Millstone. Prior to that he resided at Readington. He had been living with his daughter about five years. He was a member of the Reformed church, Neshanic, and Rev. John Hart, pastor of that church, will conduct the funeral service from the late home Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock. The burial will be in the family plot at Readington, where Mr. Vroom has a son living.

STRUCK BY LOCOMOTIVE, BUT VICTIM MAY RECOVER

James Walsh, of 544 West Second street, who was injured seriously by being struck by a switch engine at Grant avenue on Saturday night, was reported as being better this morning at the hospital. After being struck by the engine Walsh was brought to the North avenue railroad station and was removed in an unconscious condition to Muhlenberg hospital. It was thought on Saturday night that his skull was fractured, but the hospital reports today that his wounds consist of lacerated scalp and bruises on the face and forehead, with possible internal injuries.

Walsh regained consciousness this morning and was able to talk, but only in short sentences. It is believed that he was struck while enjoying himself in the company of some boon companions at the Grant avenue bridge. It is likely that he will recover. He is married.

WRITER KILLS HIMSELF

James W. Harkins, of Worcester, Mass., Put Bullet in Brain.

DESPONDENT OVER ILLNESS.

Took Long Walk and Returned to Home of Cousin Weakened—Was Author of Famous Plays.

Apparently having become despondent over his poor physical condition, Jas. W. Harkins, Jr., a noted dramatist, of Worcester, Mass., committed suicide on Saturday evening by shooting himself in the head with a revolver at the home of his cousin, James Harkins, of 1003 Watchung avenue. County Physician F. W. Westcott, who was immediately summoned by Detective Sergeant Flynn, viewed the body and gave his permission for its removal to the undertaking establishment of George Cole.

According to the best information obtainable, Mr. Harkins had been suffering for some time from creeping paralysis and it was said that he felt that a cure was impossible. On Saturday afternoon, it is said, the dead man took a long walk, during which he made an attempt on his life, but finding the means inadequate, returned to the home of his cousin, and securing himself in his room shot himself to death.

The Harkins family were out of doors when the suicide retired ostensibly to rest, and they were suddenly startled by the sound of a revolver shot from the direction of the room occupied by the writer. Hastening thither, Mr. Harkins found the door to his cousin's room locked, and after forcing an entrance discovered the dead body.

The funeral will be private.

Among the works of Mr. Harkins which have enjoyed some big successes on Broadway are "The White Squadron," "The Midnight Alarm" and "The Man Without a Country."

MR. MURPHY WOULD FILL JUDGE RUNYON'S SHOES

Another aspirant for the position of city judge entered the contest at the eleventh hour, when Arthur Murphy announced himself today as a candidate for the honors. Mr. Murphy, who is the son of the late Rev. T. Logan Murphy, who for many years was rector of Holy Cross church, was born in Plainfield and has always lived here. He attended the North Plainfield public schools during his early life, and later went to the Franklin school and the city high school.

Leaving the high school, he held a position for five years in the Leather Manufacturers National Bank, of New York. At the expiration of that time he entered the New York Law School, completing the two-year course. He has practiced law in this city since 1907, in which year he was elected a member of the Union County Republican executive committee. Mr. Murphy is a brother-in-law of State Senator Ernest R. Ackerman, having married the latter's youngest sister Miss Lydia Ackerman.

Mr. Murphy says that he is independent in politics and if chosen will fill the position to the best of his ability.

HELD AS CHICKEN THIEF

Geo. Minsky Caught by Albert Barber of East Second St., at Revolver's Point.

DOG ASSISTS IN THE ARREST.

Empty Bag and Cap Found Near Coop and the Cap Fits Minsky—Losses Reported From Other Hen Coops.

When Albert Barber, of 1475 East Second street, heard his wife scream at 11:30 Saturday night, he decided that it was about time for him to investigate the trouble which had been evident in his back yard for a few minutes previous. Grabbing his revolver, Mr. Barber ran down stairs, clad only in his nightie, and ran to the assistance of his wife, who had discovered a man crouching close by the Barber chicken coop, with his hand in the coop exit. He called to the crouching figure to get up and face him, adding the threat to shoot if compliance was not forthcoming. The man did not move, and Mr. Barber fired one shot in the air. The figure moved with a sudden jump and attempted to get away.

A dog owned by Mr. Barber caught the intruder by the coat tails and held on until Mr. Barber had time to get a clutch upon his arm.

Then, leading him to the street lamp, he managed to get a good look at the man, and then he telephoned police headquarters. Detective Sergant John Flynn and Roundsman Higgins were soon on the job, and caught two men, George Minsky and Frank Slonsky, both of whom appeared suspicious. Later Minsky was identified by Mr. Barber as the man whom he found at the chicken coop.

After hearing the stories of the two police officers and viewing the bag which it was alleged the thief had dropped, together with his cap, Judge Runyon held Minsky in $100 bail for the action of the grand jury, and Slonsky was allowed to go, insufficient direct evidence having been produced against him.

Five owners of fowls have reported to the police thefts of their feathered beauties during the past few weeks, all of whom live in the neighborhood of Mr. Barber. They are Mulford Cole, Lines Groo, John Conway, James Eatts and Micahel Vestegard.

It is believed that the thefets will stop in this section, now that Minsky has been caught.

JEROLAMAN IN CUSTODY

Fugitive Wanted as Highwayman is Arrested at Deansboro, N. Y.

IS NOW BEHIND THE BARS.

Got Away From North Plainfield Police, But is Located By Marshal Keeler—Lodged in County Jail.

Through the clever, consistent, detective work on the part of Marshal Charles Keller, of the borough police force, William Jerolaman, who had escaped from the authorities after an attempted alleged highway robbery on Greenbrook road Saturday night, a week ago, was located and arrested in Deansboro, N. Y., a small town twelve miles from Utica, Friday night. Marshal Keller had been on the man's trail ever since his escape and at last determined his whereabouts by careful investigations. The would-be robber was taken to the Somerville jail last night by County Detective Geo. Totten, who was sent to Utica to get the man.

The fact that Jerolaman was last seen in the company of Fred Stewart, of Park place, at Seventh street and Clinton avenue, Sunday morning, Aug. 21, by John Smalley and Edward Terry, led Marshal Keller to believe that Stewart and he had skipped the city together. These two men had been chums for some time and this strengthened the marshal's theory as to Stewart's knowledge of the alleged highwayman's whereabouts. The marshal immediately made a thorough investigation but was told by Stewart's father that his son had been at home all the week. But Mr. Keller was of a different opinion and so Chief Marshal Weiss went over to Fox Hills to interview John Apgar, formerly of the borough, with whom Stewart had been employed in the merry-go-round business.

Mr. Apgar said that the young man had left him some time before and had declared that he was going to Deansboro to work on a hop farm. This gave Marshal Keller the necessary clue and a sharp lookout was kept on the mails. By some clever inside work, Marshal Keller learned through a letter, written by Jerolaman and signed by Stewart that the former was picking hops on a farm in Deansboro. The letter had been mailed from Mauch Chunk.

As the affair is a county case, Prosecutor Fred Pope was immediately notified at Somerville and word was then sent to the police at Utica. A detective was immediately dispatched from the force at that place and sent to Deansboro. Jerolaman was at work in the hop field, when the officer arrested him. He made no resistance. Jerolaman was then taken to Utica, where he was met by Detective Totten and brought to Somerville. He is being held awaiting the fall term of the Somerset grand jury.

Jerolaman was caught by Marshals Keller and Culver directly after the holding up of Mr. and Mrs. John Winwroth, of New York city, on Greenbrook road, a week ago. Frank Wade, of Philadelphia, was also arrested by the policemen as being Jerolaman's accomplice in the crime. By a quick move, Jerolaman escaped from the policemen while being taken to the jail, and succeeded in avoiding the authorities by hiding in swamps. Wade is also being held for the grand jury.

AMONG OUR NEIGHBORS

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

The baseball fever is rising to a high temperature among the local fans. On next Saturday afternoon, the deciding game of the series between the Dunellen team and the Plainfield Baseball Club will be played at the Crescent Oval in Plainfield. Each nine has now won a game, the locals taking the first contest by the score of 1-0, and the Plainfield aggregation winning the second game, 2-1. The locals are speeding along at a great rate and the admirers of the Dunellen team are confident of a victory in the deciding game.

Shortly before 6.20 Saturday morning, a heavy freight train stalled the traffic on the railroad just above Dunellen for nearly half an hour. One of the cars of the freight train had an overheated journal and the damaged car had to be side-tracked at the local station. The passenger train, which is due in Plainfield at 6.27 was delayed for a half hour on account of the accident. And then to make matters worse for Dunellen commuters, who use that train, they were held up on the Newark bay draw bridge for another half hour.

The fact that the tools in Higgins' carpenter shop on Whittier avenue, which was destroyed by fire some time ago, have not as yet been found, leads to the supposition that the fire was set by a thief, who tried to cover up the robbery of the tools by burning the building. It is evident that the theft was committed by the same person that has robbed several other carpenter shops in the borough. Marshal Benson is working hard on the case and says that if the thief is caught, it will be hot for him.

Amil Vogel, a machinist living in the borough, and Walter Davis, also of Dunellen, were taken to Muhlenberg Hospital, in Plainfield Saturday night suffering from typhoid fever. Mr. Vogel's condition is reported as being very serious while Mr. Davis' case is a light one.

Mrs. George Huff has gone to Liberty, N. Y., where she will help her son, Cornelius, started in the farming business. It is reported that her son is much improved in health and that he has gained sixteen pounds in weight.

Mrs. William E. Terry and children have gone to the Pocono mountains for their annual vacation.

Morris Coyle is out again after being confined to his home by a severe attack of illness.

Mrs. Annie Abbot has gone to the Pocono Mountains for a vacation of several weeks.

Walter Platt has rented his house on First street to Edward Williams.

Emanuel Appert is now able to be about after a serious illness.

BABY CAMP SERVICES CLOSED YESTERDAY

The closing service of the summer at the King's Daughters' Baby Camp on the mountain was held yesterday afternoon and was especially noteworthy for the fine attendance, in spite of the rain, and for an exceptionally fine musical program rendered by an orchestra and chorus of good singers.

Parts of the program were given by soloists of merit and included Mrs. Thomas MacDonald, of this city, and Mrs. William Sebring, of Merchantville, vocal so'os, and Dr. F. J. Berg, 'cello; Garrett T. Dunham, trombone; E. H. Guest, cornet; Elmer Wheeler, flute, and Harry C. Runyon at the piano.

The services were held on the big porch and were in charge of George E. Hall, superintendent of the Park Avenue Baptist Sunday school. Mr. Hall gave a short talk on the Beatitudes, and the services came to a close with the singing of "America" by the entire congregation. It was one of the most pleasing services of the entire season.

GOOD PAPER FROM BAMBOO

Its Use Promises to Insure to the World an Endless Supply—Idea Not New.

For years we have read how the paper pulp mills are devastating our forests; gloomy statisticians have been telling us how many square miles of spruce and fir are sacrificed each year to keep the printing presses running; with the consumption exceeding the new growth and with added demands each year, we are told that a paper famine is inevitable.

Now comes—and from that land of many surprises—word that perhaps the world's future supply of paper will come from the thickets of Formosa; a company has been formed to exploit the bamboo on a commercial scale.

Making paper from bamboo is no new thing. The Chinese have done it for centuries, but their methods of to-day are the same as those used hundreds of years ago. The Japanese way of doing things is different. This Matsu Bishi company has been making experiments at a scientific station, and will use methods as up to date as those in any American mill. The government has granted it a perpetual lease of 8,000 acres in Formosa, and the production of 300 tons of pulp a month, which is already arranged for, can easily be doubled. There will be no trouble about a supply of raw material for bamboo grows inches in a night.

The interest of papermakers of the world will be centered for the next year or so upon this Formosa pulp factory and the mills at Kobe, where its product will be converted into paper.

Bird's Value to Farmer.

An example of the value of some of the native birds as insect destroyers has come to light in the Dapto district of N. S. W. A plague of caterpillars appeared in the oat paddocks, and when the crop was cut for hay myriads of martins invaded the fields. The mission of the birds was not generally known until one was shot. A post mortem revealed the fact that it had dined on no fewer than 23 caterpillars.

Dennis Wyckoff, of Millstone, has been visiting friends in town for a short time.

FUNERAL SERVICES OF MRS. MARTHA SOPER

The funeral services of Mrs. Martha G. Soper were held at 10.30 o'clock this morning from the home of her son, Frederick L. Soper, 616 East Second street and were largely attended by relatives and friends. Rev. Lewis Bond, of this city, officiated, reading appropriate Scripture lessons and offering prayer.

Mrs. Soper was the widow of Thomas N. Soper, who died at Springfield, Mass., in 1891. He was well-known as the blind lecturer and author, one of his best known books being "Green Bluffs." He was buried in North Plainfield cemetery. Mrs. Soper was a native of Newburg, N. Y., and was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Moore. She made her home in Springfield, spending part of the time with her children.

The burial was in the family plot in North Plainfield cemetery, and the pall-bearers were Benjamin Moore, Elmer Ganun, P. H. Latourette, George F. Watts, Theodore Van Pelt and G. H. Mundy.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

John Leal will conduct the midweek prayer meeting at Hope chapel, Thursday night.

There will be a special meeting of the ways and means committee of Hope chapel, tonight.

The Christian Endeavor Society will have charge of the Wednesday evening meeting at the Park Avenue Baptist church, and Rev. F. St. John Fitch, of this city, will be the leader.

Kenneth Miller, of Union Theological Seminary, who has been in charge of the Sunday night services at Hope chapel the past month, will continue in that position for the first two Sundays in September. Rev. L. R. Howard, who is in Maine, is expected home the middle of the month.

FADS AND FASHIONS.

For street wear there is a growing fashion for the severe frocks of striped linen.

Furze wood, maple and bamboo seem to be the favorite woods for parasol handles this season.

Hand-painted scarfs, ribbons and dress stoffs, as well as parasols, are decidedly smart.

White kid gloves are stitched in colors to match the frock. Lavenders and pinks are especially favored.

A new kind of embroidered stocking shows eyelets in vine design, and solid embroidery is also much in evidence.

Capachons for the evening are of Mouseline de soie sheered and trimmed with rosettes of old gold or silver tissue.

A Persian belt adds a smart touch to the frock of black or old and dark blue serge, and natural colored linen or pongee.

Even foulard parasols are veiled with plain colored chiffon with effects that are just as good as those secured in gowns.

Pumps are very fashionable in one form or another. In kid, suede and patent leather. The stiff pump bow is seen, and the string bow also.

Very smart, indeed, are the all-linen hats in most picturesque shapes. They are usually trimmed with loops or bows of soft ribbon.

Silver is used more and more as a setting for precious and semi-precious stones, whether in rings, pendants, pins, bracelets or buckles.

The pulley belt is among the new belts. It is made of elastic, finished at each end with a covered ring and fastened with a ribbon bow.

Chantecler gloves have come to match the Chantecler handkerchief. A tiny rooster or a golden pheasant is embroidered at the elbow.

Trimmings of baby Irish, valenciennes, cluny and white oriental lace are all lavishly used on the midsummer frock of lingerie, mousseline de soie, and fine linens.

Chiffon cloth waists in colors, as well as white, are as smart as any separate blouses seen this summer. Pompadour silk is frequently used for lining these filmy fabrics.

The new parasols from Paris are nearly all fringed. Handles all show the effect of the new overworked Chantecler craze. Nearly every one displays a cock or a golden pheasant.

—An exceptional opportunity will be offered housekeepers tomorrow, when Neuman Bros. will place on sale 250 baskets of fine white and yellow canning peaches at 50c, 75c, 85c and $1 per basket.

GEORGE SIMON WON TEN MILE CYCLE RACE

Starting from the one-minute mark, George Simon won the ten-mile handicap bicycle race in the city championship series yesterday morning on the Mountain avenue course. Edward McNee, who leads in the total number of points for the summer's races was second. He received a handicap of one minute. The time prize and third place was won by Robert Gutridge, a new man from Netherwood, who covered the course in the remarkable time of twenty-seven minutes and fifteen seconds. Percy Haberle took fourth place, starting from scratch and finishing only a fifth of a second behind Gutridge.

The race was one of the best ones that have been held by the Plainfield Cycling Club this year. There were eight entries, William Drake and E. S. Bird being put out of the race on account of falls.

Woodruff and sons, William and Arthur Woodruff, of Westervelt avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bellis, of Fairview avenue, have returned from Asbury Park, where they visited Miss Harriet Nischwitz, also of this city who is spending the summer at Hotel Windemere. The party made the trip both ways in an automobile.

How to Wear a Veil.

For those who are partial to the use of the sailor hat, here is a wrinkle concerning the adjustment of the veil: First fasten the top edge of it to fit round the crown, so that it stands up firmly in a fold; then gather up the loose ends and knot them at the back. The veil (of double width) thus maneuvered, seems to soften the outlines of the whole hat, fits over the face perfectly, and defies the stormiest wind. The perfect fitting of a veil is no mean triumph, as she, or even he, who ever makes observations on this point must acknowledge. Last summer, French women formed the top edge of their veils into a definite fold, which they placed to stand round the brim of the hat. With fresh crisp veiling the effect of this is extremely good and most becoming.

Autoist Had Narrow Escape.

While John C. Christenson, of 730 Woodland avenue, was crossing Front street, at Watchung avenue, yesterday afternoon in his automobile, the large arc light, which is suspended overhead, dropped to the street, just missing Mr. Christensen's head by a foot. The rope, which held it in position, broke. Hugh Sweeny, of the Plainfield Business College, was in the vicinity and he notified the Public Service Corporation of the accident.

WOMAN'S IDEAL HOME

Showing How the Comet Was a Blessing After All.

By A. B. SEARLE

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

"Fellows," said Ned Griggs as they were packing up to leave the university at the close of their college course, "I have a proposition to make. My cousin Loretta Butler"—

"The pretty one you were gallivanting around with on class day?" interrupted Fred Mason.

"The same. She's gone out with a lot of girls and old maids to establish a new woman's institution of some sort. They call it the Woman's Ideal home. The object is to establish a propaganda for the amelioration of the condition of women"—

"Woman's rights, votes for women, equal pay for women with men and all that?" asked Clarence Hughes.

"Exactly. They won't have a man on the premises. Now, I propose that we investigate the Woman's Ideal home. What do you say?"

"That invited we stay, forbidden we go."

"Don't you fool yourself about getting in easily," said Griggs. "We'll have to effect an entrance by strategy."

After a conference the young men decided to write a letter to the president of the Woman's Ideal home ostensibly from one of several women desiring to establish a similar institution requesting permission for a committee to inspect the home and look into the constitution and bylaws. As soon as the young men were established in a camp which they had prepared for their summer outing the letter was written, and in due time a reply was received inviting the committee to the Woman's Ideal home.

There were but three out of a dozen young men of sufficiently delicate and youthful appearance to warrant their attempting to personate women. These were Ned Griggs, Fred Mason and Clarence Hughes.

"Ladies," said the president of the home on receiving them, "I welcome you to our institution in the hope that you may duplicate it, and others may duplicate yours till our land is full of such homes for women."

"Mrs. President," replied Mr. Griggs, "it will be our object to duplicate the work you are doing."

The president designated three elderly maiden ladies to show the visitors the institution. Mason and Hughes were so disgruntled at the selection of the guides that they came near giving away the party by their stifled grunts and grimaces. However, the three old maids and the three visitors sallied forth on the tour. At the end of ten minutes there were three old maids and two visitors. One of the visitors had lagged behind and couldn't be found. At the end of twenty minutes there were still three guides, but another visitor was missing. The inspectors seemed to be melting away like John Brown's little Indians in the nursery rhyme. Just half an hour after the start, the three elderly guides stood alone together wondering what they were there for.

The first visitor to drop off was Ned Griggs. His cousin, Miss Butler, had recognized him. Shocked at his presence in the home and fearing the consequences for him if detected, she had beckoned him to drop behind with a view to getting him out as soon as possible. The second dropper out, Mason, had taken a desperate fancy to a black eyed girl the party had passed on their tour and concluded to get what information he desired about the home from her rather than the regularly appointed guides. Hughes, finding himself deserted, told his conductors that he feared something had happened to his two associate committee women and he had better go and look for them. Coming upon a blue eyed, flaxen haired girl, he begged her to assist him in his search.

The president was looking over the proofs of an article detailing the objects of the home when the three guides entered. The president looked up and, seeing the ladies alone, was astonished.

"Where are the ladies you had in charge?" she asked.

"Don't know," said one of the guides.

"Don't know! What do you mean?"

"One after the other they disappeared."

"Good gracious!"

Stepping to a bell button, she pushed five times, which meant that every woman in the institution should report in person immediately at the president's office. In a twinkling old, middle aged and young ladies came pouring into the room. When there seemed to be no more to come the president ordered:

"Call the roll."

The roll was called. The A's were all present, but when the B's were reached Miss Butler (Loretta) was absent. Among the F's Miss Fairchild (Dora) failed to respond. A third ominous silence occurred when Miss Waterman (Helen) was called upon to answer.

"Ladies," said the president sternly, "there was something unusual in the appearance of the three visitors that made me hesitate to show them our institution. It is evident from their nonappearance upon the sounding of the alarm that they are somewhere in the building, and the nonappearance of Misses Butler, Fairchild and Waterman, three of the prettiest girls in our home, means that these visitors are—yes, ladies, we may be sure that they are men!"

"Heavens!" exclaimed a hundred voices, and 200 hands were clasped over another hundred bosoms.

"You ladies were appointed to show these—these intruders the premises. Go at once and make a search for them. Bring them and the three missing girls here. All others remain where you are."

Meanwhile there was a concentration of the enemy's forces. The three visitors and the three missing young ladies were in a room together, and the girls knew that the visitors were men who had walked into a lion's or rather a lioness' den. Miss Butler was terror stricken on behalf of her cousin, and the other two girls sympathized with her and them. The girls were startled at the sound of the signal order for all to appear in the president's office. Miss Butler, seeing that the battle was on, took command. Two points of retreat were to be considered, the cellar and the cupola. She chose the latter.

"You girls," she said to Misses Fairchild and Waterman, "go and report. Leave these boys to me."

"It would not be honorable," said Miss Fairchild; "to let you shoulder the matter. I shall go with you."

"Me, too," said Miss Waterman, her excitement getting the better of her grammar.

The six of them ran up to the cupola and closed the trapdoor behind them. Then they all sat down on the door, screened from any one below by the encircling railing and seat.

Battles are often won or lost in consequence of some trifling incident, and it was so in this case. One of the searchers whose part it was to visit the cupola attempted to open the trapdoor. Since she could not move it, she assumed that it was locked. She was about to go for the key when it occurred to her that if it were locked no one could hide there, so she reported "nothing found."

When the search committee returned to the president and reported that not only the three visitors, but the three prettiest girls in the home, had vanished a hundred voices mingled, each voice suggesting some means whereby the vanishment might have occurred. In this way much time was consumed, and a couple of hours had elapsed before any further action was taken.

"'Night or Blucher,' as Wellington said at Waterloo," moaned Griggs.

"What do you mean by that?" asked Hughes.

"I mean that if we don't get a show to leave the place pretty soon under cover of darkness it's all up with us."

Fortunately while he spoke the shadows were deepening. As soon as it was dark he told the others that he was going to slide down a steep descent of the roof to a lightning rod and thence to the ground. If he was not put out of the fight, then the next man was to leave by the same route. The girls told him the rod had been in place for thirty years or more and surely would not hold. But Griggs determined to try it. Hughes watched him as he descended till he was lost in the darkness. Presently there was the sound of a shake on the rod, a signal agreed upon to indicate that he was on terra firma.

Hughes followed Griggs, and Mason followed Hughes. The girls were alone.

Now, it needs to be stated that all this occurred at the time when Halley's comet was flaunting its tail at the earth in the western sky. No sooner had the last man descended than Miss Butler, looking up at the heavens for inspiration in forming a plan to get out of the dilemma, saw the comet.

"Girls, I have it," she exclaimed.

"How? What? Which?" cried the other two at once.

"Open the trap and call down for them to come up and see the comet."

"The very thing!" exclaimed the other two.

Miss Fairchild pulled up the trap, and all called out:

"Hello, hello! Mary, Blanche, Sadie, everybody! Come up and see the comet."

The ladies, who were scattered about below, all ran to the foot of the cupola stairs.

"Call Mrs. President!" cried Miss Wrinkles, vice president and custodian.

The president was called. Meanwhile the calls from above were continued.

"Oh, do everybody come up and see the comet! It's beautiful. The tails are as long as a broom handle."

"Young ladies," cried the stern voice of the president, "come down and give an account of yourselves!"

The girls descended, each wearing a well feigned look of innocent surprise.

"How long have you been up there?" asked the president.

"We went up this afternoon," said Miss Butler, "with our work. It was so cool up there. Then when it began to get dark we concluded we'd stay till the comet grew visible."

"Indeed! Where were you when the signal bell rang?"

"What signal bell?"

"To report at my office."

"Was there a signal bell to report at your office?"

"There was. Now I wish you to tell me what has become of the three visitors who came here this afternoon."

"What three visitors?"

The president, seeing that she was baffled, gave in, and when the girls turned upon her for her unjust suspicions she apologized and gave orders that the disagreeable episode should not be again mentioned.

That night the visitors told the story of their adventures beside the campfire.

THE FASHIONABLE DOG.

Samoyede Canine Pets Are "It" This Summer.

THE LATEST FAVORITE OF FASHION.

The Samoyede dog is the latest comer in canine pets for fashionable favor. This dog is a sort of four footed Admirable Crichton. He can do anything you ask of him—that is, anything within canine powers—and he can do it very well. He comes from the northeast of Russia, and, although new as a smart pet, he is the oldest domesticated dog in the world.

He is an ideal dog for children—intelligent, quick to learn tricks, good tempered and gentle, intensely affectionate, faithful and invariably well behaved. In short, he is a perfect four footed gentleman.

The Samoyede does splendidly harnessed singly or in pairs to a child's gocart. He takes to harness naturally, is untiring and strong and, to use a horsy expression, "quite without vice."

Apart from these excellent traits of character, the Samoyede dog's appearance is distinctly "fetching." In the puppy stage he is a fascinating little creature with a soft, fluffy white coat, for all the world like a Teddy bear. As he grows older he passes through the usual leggy state and at about a year old develops into a most aristocratic looking animal, very handsome and attractive, with long white fur standing straight out from the body, each hair having the icelike glisten peculiar to the breed.

Standing nearly as tall as a collie, ears pricked, eyes expressive, tail a spreading plume—not coiled tightly, like a chow—the striking appearance and elegant carriage of the Samoyede attract attention wherever he goes.

A Vacation Pest.

The most delightfully planned outing in the woods may be ruined by that vacation pest—the mosquito.

Some persons poison so dreadfully life is a torment, and there is always danger of malaria from the bites.

If you are especially poisoned by mosquitoes, arrange to go where they are not. Don't go in for camping or frequent resorts that are subject to them.

If you will go, take with you preventives in the form of mosquito nets, lump camphor and citronella.

In extreme cases there are head nets that can be bought for a dollar. They are made of fine black bobbinet that will stand rain and washing. There is a circular cloth piece above the net over hat and a yoke shaped piece at bottom fitted to the shoulders and tied under the arm.

For night use it is possible to buy frames and mosquito bars to fit folding camp cots.

The Beetle Watch.

Oddities in jewelry are constantly to be found, and the latest fad is the beetle watch that is worn on the end of a neck chain or a long piece of half inch black moire ribbon.

A slight pressure on the end of the wings and the wings open and show the face of the watch.

An Outing Precaution.

Never go into the woods or out of the way places without being supplied with remedies in case of an emergency. Always take a hot water bottle and a medicine kit, stocked with such simple home remedies as you are accustomed to use.

In addition, there should be whisky, bandages, absorbent cotton, adhesive plasters, quinine, mustard and belladonna plasters and some colic tablets. An ointment to allay stings or itching is also good.

Virginia of the Air Lanes

A ROMANCE OF FLYING

...By...

Herbert Quick

Copyright, 1909, by the Bobbs-Merrill Company

Again the Virginia took the painter aboard and surged against the gale, but this time drifting with the wind while the life preservers were adjusted. Carson was confronted with a fearful alternative. If he let the Roc got out to sea she had a bare chance, though no such escape was recorded. On the other hand, dropping her in the water was an expedient full of danger. The collapsed envelope might blanket the passengers and drown them; some might be hit by breaking beams or stunned by concussion with the water from a badly judged height. And Virginia! Yet, weighing the chances, he did not hesitate.

"All ready?" he shouted.

"No!" cried Shayne. "Come back here!"

"All ready, Willett?" asked Carson.

"Yes!" cried Willett. "Go ahead!"

Slowly crowding on power, the Virginia fought forward into the storm. The painter strained taut as a steel bar, and Carson wondered if it would hold. Suddenly a rainy gust bore down on them in fury, the envelope of the Roc crushed in at the bow with an awful ripping sound, and the huge steely bubble—longer than a city block, higher than a four story building—became a ragged cloud of tattered fragments and, with all on board, fell into the Atlantic and floated in a shapeless mass of wreckage.

Carson looked down to see whether the form he loved was smothered under the torn fabric or floating free, but never halted for the drowning or the living. He let out fifty yards of line he had made fast to the painter to give slack for the Roc's fall, and then with frenzied eagerness he dragged the whole huge mass ashore, and as the Virginia alighted on the beach her skipper, leaping out, began a fierce onslaught on the wreckage, seeking in its chaotic mass for her whose drenched form he dreaded to see.

CHAPTER XIX.

FINALE.

THEODORE carried Virginia to a seaside cottage just in process of being put in order for its owners.

"Tell me, dearest," he kept whispering, "that you are safe—safe!"

Virginia, wet, draggled, her strong little form resembling a rough cast statue of some one quite irresistibly shapely, silently hung about his neck.

"You love me!" said he. "I'm not going to let you leave me again, darling!"

She squeezed his hand in gratitude. Carson went out radiant, meeting Craighead with the red mantilla on his arm.

"You all do know this mantle," said he, "but not the soul of paltry in things great. Ethically, this is a lost damsel snatched from a watery grave as she went down in the penultimate descent. I put my confounded life in pawn—for what? For a mere trumpery kickshaw of silk with no more woman in it than a rabbit. Rotten! Rotten! This 'ere rescue ain't up to sample!"

"Craighead," said Carson, "I want you to run an errand, and be serious. Run for a doctor, Craighead. I believe she loves me."

Pacing up and down the veranda, Carson was in a delicious disturbance of spirits. He forgot Shayne and his wife, but ran down to see the Virginia and found in charge the village constable.

"I know the rules of these cases," said he to Carson. "When you give this to the papers say something about the way the police end of it was handled."

"Thank you," said Carson, having made sure that the Virginia was intact. "I shan't see any reporters."

"Sure you will," said the thoughtful constable. "I've sent f'r them."

The doctor, a nervous little man with no voice, whispered to Carson that his wife, meaning Virginia, was uninjured and urging him to go in and quiet her by his presence.

"Neurology my specialty," said he slyly in Carson's ear. "Left big practice in Philadelphia on account of nervous prostration. Acute neuropathic symptoms in your very beautiful young wife, sir—but accident! Nothing to it!"

Carson explained, with some neuropathic symptoms of his own, that the young lady was not his wife.

"Excuse me!" whispered the doctor, on tiptoe. "As to whose the mistake is, yours or mine, omission or commission, can't say, but pardon me, just the same. Must go now. Other patients, you know. My card!"

And, slipping his card to Theodore with the air of a man seeking to establish a connection in the castaway trade, he whispered himself out, being replaced almost immediately by two local representatives of the metropolitan press, to whom Theodore resolutely refused to say a word beyond the statement that the Roc was wrecked and that the passengers were saved

"BUT ACCIDENT! NOTHING TO IT."

This, however, did not prevent them from sending in highly colored accounts of the wreck and of the sensational assistance accorded her by the Virginia aeronef—which were expanded in the city offices into the sensation of the day. Shayne of Aerostatic Power had violated the Craighead injunction in the Roc! Craighead, Carson and the Shaynes were together in a New Jersey village! Rumors and canards on 'change and the curb! Extras and red type on yellow first pages! But the real sensation was not known until afterward.

Craighead was a long time gone, returning with a perspiring man carrying a notary's seal in one hand, a huge volume under one arm and a flat book like an exaggerated check book under the other. Following them were a tall, angular, serious looking gentleman in wading boots, his eyes covered with immense blue goggles—a French chauffeur if one might judge by certain strong proofs in garments and feature; a life saving crew from up the coast who had just arrived after a long distance view of the wreck and several water side characters belonging in a New Jersey way to the Captain Harrod class. The man with the books seemed tired with his burden and was using occasional strong words.

"Set down, set down your honorable load," said Craighead, "if honor may be harried with a curse. Fellow citizens, we are delighted with what we have seen of your little city. The climate is lovely, the air fresh and the water warm. We like it. What do you call it?"

Carson drew Craighead aside and suggested dry clothes.

"Be silent, sirrah," cried Craighead, "and do as you are bid! Friends, the performance in the big tent is about to open. This, Mr. Van Brunt, is one of the principals."

"Of age, I see," said Mr. Van Brunt, looking at Carson. "I guess it's all right. An' where's the other party?"

A maid who had devoted herself to Virginia replied that Miss Suarez was quite able to see people.

"Come, Mr. Van Brunt," said Craighead, "and view the precious remains."

Craighead entered at Virginia's "Come in," but Mr. Van Brunt went no farther than to insert half his body and all his head in the room and look searchingly at Miss Suarez.

"Of course," said he, "you're over eighteen?"

"Considerably," said Virginia, "but"—

Mr. Van Brunt had vanished. Craighead gazed solemnly at Virginia and spoke sepulchrally.

"These," said he, "are some of the local forms of the initiation. Be obedient and thou shalt prosper. Don't do nothin' that you ain't told to—see?"

"What does this foolery mean?" asked Carson as Craighead emerged into the parlor, where Mr. Van Brunt was engaged in filling up blanks and tearing them out of the big check book.

"Foolery?" said Craighead. "Profane not the sacred mysteries of Eleusis! Don't get cynical or funny. You are not a very important person here. Friends, fellow citizens, Jerseymen, lend me your ears. We have met for certain reasons connected with the vital statistics of our common country—to originate an epithet. Two problems look the American people in the face and gnash their problematical teeth and snort. What are they? My friend the doctor, who has returned with healing in his fins, and our reverend friend in the waders can bear witness from their reduced perquisites that I speak sooth when I say that these portentous national dangers lie in celibacy. I have made a speciality of it."

"Hooray!" shouted the captain of the life saving crew.

"My honorable and gallant friend," said Craighead, indicating the captain, "hath a Smith college pin on his service shirt. It's not to thee, O potential benedict, that I speak! We are here to call not the inoculated, but the hitherto immune, to repentance. Fellow reformers, at the request of my friend Mr. Carson—General Theodo' Cahson, M. A.—I sent a motorcar for Mr. Van Brunt, and the county seat of this county, so far as the marriage records are concerned, is here. The Rev. Mr. Coryell has kindly agreed to perform the ceremony. I will assume the chair if there are no objections. I will entertain a motion ordering the nuptials to proceed. I assume a motion for the regular order. Reading of the minutes dispensed with. All in favor of the marriage of Theodore Carson and Virginia Suarez say 'Aye!'"

There was a swelling roar of "ayes" that startled Virginia into a belief that a political convention was in session in the parlor. Craighead called for the "nays," with no response.

"It is a vote," said he—"unanimously! I congratulate you in this harmony! It augurs well for a successful campaign and a triumphant election. Will some one volunteer to play the wedding march? Thank you, sir."

This to the captain of the life savers, who seated himself on a piano stool and ran his hands over the keys.

"And now, general," said Craighead to Carson, "all is ready. The statutes in such case made and provided are all fulfilled. Bring out the bride and let the rapture culminate!"

"Craighead," said Carson, "come outside and I'll break every bone in your body!"

No one heard this but Craighead, and he received the announcement with the suavest of bows and a withdrawal with Carson on his arm.

"Just a little delay," said he to Mr. Coryell. "You know how it is—last kisses of bridesmaids—veil askew—rubbish—but we must wait."

Mr. Coryell, with Craighead's money in his pocket, sufficient in amount to pay the entire expenses of his vacation study of Atlantic gasteropods, waited smilingly, rubbing his hands. Mr. Van Brunt lighted a cigar and looked officially grave. Carson seized Craighead by the throat in the privacy of the kitchen.

"What do you mean?" he snarled. "What insane thing is this?"

"Explanations," said Craighead, extricating his throat, "are uncalled for, it seemeth to me, but if given require the use of the tracha. Ah've done did what you done tole me, boss!"

SHE LAY IN HIS ARMS, QUITE SURRENDERED.

"What do you mean?"

Carson stood before Craighead with clinched fists, furious at Craighead's scandalous use of Virginia's name in public.

"Strike in due time," said Craighead, "but hear! You told me to do for you what I'd want done in your place. You said Virginia loved you"—

"I said I believed it!" answered Carson, groaning. "Oh, Craighead, Craighead, you've ruined me!"

"Ruined your granny—that is, of course, I disagree with you entirely. Faint heart never won the money. I tell you the wedding bells are now ringing. Go to, sirrah—go to her. Give her the rush. Lay it on me. Throw a fit on the rug, rip and tear, snort, weep, fight, fast, tear thyself, drink up eisel, eat a crocodile, take her in your arms, and incidentally mention the fact that the thing's a matter of record and will be in all the papers. It'll work. Why, blast your picture, it's got to work. If it doesn't I'm stuck for $75 for fees and corruption money!"

Carson walked back and forth, torn with rage, embarrassment and anxiety for the result with Virginia, thrilled with a growing realization of what it might mean to him.

"I'm going in to tell her," said he. "And if I fail I shall come out and kill you, Craighead!"

"I shall make no will," said Craighead. "Why, if she were Caroline and I you"—

Carson walked into the apartment of Virginia. The serving girl withdrew and left them alone.

"Virginia," said he, "I'm going to take you with me!"

She flushed rosily, but, woman-like, refused to take his meaning.

"I can't go back, unkie," said she. "You failed in your exams. You are marked away, away down as an uncle! But I've forgiven you."

"Don't let's talk of that," said he. "I shan't even apologize. I'm glad I deceived you! Glad, do you hear? And now you're going back—Psyche—as my wife. Don't struggle and try to escape. Don't you love me? Don't you love me? Don't you love me?"

She was past the struggle now, and in the new print gown of the servant maid she lay in his arms, quite surrendered. The time passed much more rapidly for them than for Mr. Craighead. His voice grew hoarse, the rococo periods grew shorter, and at last he rapped on the door and called "Time!"

The audience had entered upon the phase of impatience characterized by stamping in unison.

"What do they want?" asked Virginia.

"I'm," said Carson. "Let us go out."

"Out?" queried Virginia. "Out there?"

"Virginia," said Carson, "did I not say I was taking you away with me—now?"

"Oh!" gasped Virginia, shrinking back. "You don't mean for me to understand"—

"The minister is outside—to marry us—darling! Come!"

"Oh, Theodore!" she gasped.

The door opened. Craighead's voice came through in inquiry.

"All ready?" he asked loudly. "Then let the cortege move! After these nuptials we shall have the full music of the grand sweet song. Like Prince Agib of Gilbertian story—

"We will diligently play
On the zoetrope all day
And blow the loud pantechinicon all night!

"Forward, march!"

The wedding march from "Lohengrin" tinkled feelingly forth from the piano. The minister stood in the narrow cirque left open by the crowd. Craighead, like a new ducked usher, bowed grandly at the door to let them through. Theodore took Virginia's plump, print covered arm and whispered in her ear promises which instinct told him would break down the last resistance. The short service went on as remembered by the priest.

"Who gives this woman away?"

And who but Finley Shayne broke through the press to take her by the hand and respond heartily, "I do!"

And when the ring was called for who but the captain of the life saving crew, true to the traditions of the service, came forward and took it from his chain and saved them?

And when the minister asked, "Do you, Virginia, take this man to be your wedded husband?" and the dear old remainder of it who but Theodore Carson turned dizzy at the bride's pause before answering, and who but Virginia said sweetly and clearly, "I do?"

And as for Craighead, that worthy gentleman would have been in still higher feather had he known that within two weeks he was to succeed in persuading his adored Caroline to join him in a similar ceremony.

THE END.

Sir Arthur Sullivan's Reverses.

Twice in his career Sir Arthur Sullivan, after building up a small fortune, was placed in the same unenviable position as was Mark Twain when in 1895 his "rainy day" balance disappeared in the failure of a concern in which he was interested. And the famous composer met financial disaster with the same equanimity as did the author. By far the greater of the two financial disasters which overtook Sullivan happened in 1882, and the news reached him under very dramatic circumstances. In that year "Iolanthe" was produced at the Savoy, and as usual its composer conducted the first performance. On the day fixed for the production the bankruptcy was announced of the firm in whose keeping Sir Arthur had intrusted all his securities, and the news of the crash reached the composer just as he was setting out for the Savoy theater. "In a moment," says Mr. Lawrence, his biographer, "the result of the work of a lifetime and of economy had been swept away. From the monetary point of view he had to make a beginning all over again; but, unmoved by his ill fortune, he conducted the first performance of 'Iolanthe' that night."—London News.

Blamed the Architect.

An architect who had business at the criminal courts building saw an old private pupil of his on trial for burglary. He waited around until the man was convicted; then he spoke to him.

"How did you happen to go to the dogs, Jim?" he said. "I expected better things from a man who pegged away at architecture as earnestly as you did."

"I pegged away because I needed a knowledge of architecture in my business," said the burglar. "I was a bad one then, but I wasn't proficient. I found I could accomplish much more if I knew how houses ought to be built. Suppose I wanted to tackle a strange house and had no way of examining the interior beforehand. If I knew the rules of architecture I could reconnoiter and get a good idea from the outside of the house how it was planned on the inside and so move about much more safely than a dunderhead who knew nothing about building. What I learned from you helped me through many a tight place. I wouldn't have been caught this time if I hadn't struck a house that had been planned by a bum architect."—New York Press.

The Odd Minutes.

It is really wonderful how much can be gained by improving odds and ends of time in keen analytical observing, thinking, reading, studying. Think of the untold wealth locked up in the spare moments and long winter evenings of every life. It is possible to pick up an education in the odds and ends of time which most people throw away. If those who have been deprived of a college education would only make up their minds to get a substitute for it they would be amazed to see what even the evenings of a few weeks devoted conscientiously to the college studies would accomplish. When a noted literary man was asked how he managed to accomplish so much with so little friction or apparent effort he replied, "By organizing my time—to every hour its appointed task or duty, with no overlapping or infringements." There is a great deal of time wasted, even in the busiest lives, which, if properly organized, might be used to advantage.—Success Magazine.

MATHUSHEK & SON PLAYER-PIANO is the most advanced instrument of its type on the market today, and in its capacity for individual musical expression and for the artistic rendition of music, whether popular or classic, it cannot be surpassed, for it places the control of tempo and phrasing entirely in the hands of the performer, enabling him to give expression to his moods and emotions quite as if he were playing the piano manually.

Our experts have spent a number of years in producing this instrument, and every detail has been carefully thought out and perfected so that it may, without exaggeration, be described as the most perfect Player-Piano Mechanism in the world.

Chalmers
MOTOR CARS

The Chalmers "Thirty" is the Only Medium Priced Car That Was Ever Awarded the Glidden Trophy

Never before has a car costing under $4,000 won the Glidden Trophy.

This year—the longest, the hardest, and most racking route ever undertaken—the Glidden Trophy was won by the Chalmers "Thirty" in competition with cars of more than twice its price, and rated power.

What more could you ask of any car, at any price?

With such a proof of its study and reliable quality, the demand for 1911 models is going to be even greater than last year, when the output was sold before the season was half over.

The increased demand will not effect the Chalmers policy of building cars of quality, not quantity, not how many cars, but how good, is our constant aim and effort, this is the principal reason for the fact that the Chalmers has never been defeated in any motoring event by any car of its price and power.

The 1911 Models are being delivered in order of purchase. Demonstration of new models by appointment.

Southern Hemlock is a brashy wood. Southern Spruce is a good article, but on account of its texture, and the warm climate in which it grows, it is not even so strong as Northern Hemlock. While Northern Spruce is the best of all. We manufacture and import both of the last named woods, and it is for you to see that your house is built of some of this stock, and it is to your interest, as we are selling this Northern Spruce for less than some people ask for Southern Hemlock.

Suburban Nine Goes Back With a Victory Over Plainfield Y.M.C.A.

SLAB ARTISTS' EXHIBITION.

Opportunte Hitting of Scotch Plains Aggregation Told in the Result of Game, Which Was 6 to 4.

From a somewhat loosely played game, the Scotch Plains ball tossers carried the scalps of the local Y. M. C. A. nine back to their native haunts Saturday afternoon as a result of a 6-4 victory over the association boys in the opening contest of the double-header at the oval. Hits when hits meant runs did the trick for the suburban team, while the same diagnosis holds for the defeat of the cityites.

The pitching honors of the game were just about equally divided between Slocum and Fredrickson. Both twirlrs fanned eleven men and although Slocum was only banged for six hits, he gave free trips to the initial sack to five batsmen. The game was attended by a large crowd of fans, who were interested in seeing these two promising and much talked of young twirlers opposed to each othr. Brit Martin scored the first run for the association team in the seventh round. He got a pass, stole second, and came home on a trot after Fritts sent a clean single into the vicinity of left field.

The Bound Brook baseball team defeated the Elizabeth A. C. in a ragged game on the Bound Brook grounds Saturday afternoon by the score of 18-2. FANS SEE GREAT GAME

It was the Real Article When Plainfield's Team Defeated McNulty's Nine.

BY SCORE OF TWO TO ONE.

"Brit" Martin Shines, as Do Many Others—The Local Aggregation Has But One Error Marked Against It.

Before a crowd of fifteen hundred wildly-cheering fans, the Plainfield Baseball Club team defeated its old rivals, the McNulty Brothers' nine, of New York city, on the oval Saturday afternoon by the score of 2 to1. The local boys got right into the harness in the first inning and clinched the game by bringing two tallies across the rubber. Although the opposing aggregation managed to save itself from a shut-out by scoring one run in the sixth, the result of the contest seemed never in doubt.

On account of rheumatism and a strained knee, Warry McLaughlin, the old standby of Dorflinger's aggregation, was unable to do the twirling and so Ward, a youngster from Newark, occupied the slab and he did the honors in great style. He was opposed by Wolfe.

Brit Martin, the first man up for the Plainfield team, clouted the first ball pitched to him for a double into deep center. "Chick" Boyd did his part in the cannonade by lacing a neat single into the same garden. Brit rounded third and as he was starting for home, the centerfielder recovered the spheroid and threw it to the plate. The catcher stood with open arms to give Brit a warm reception, but the second baseman stepped in the backstop's glove and scored the first run. Of course the fans went wild with joy.

Boyd in the meanwhile had reached second and then stole third. Emery sent a pop fly to short-stop but Jack Martin was on the job with a hit into deep short and Boyd raced home. "Chick" also got in a mix-up with the catcher at the plate but came out of it safely and with a run to the good. That ended the Plainfield scoring.

The McNulty's tally came in the sixth round, which Dowling opened with a triple into the high grass back of centerfield. Holler, who had not made much of a noise as a third-baseman, wafted his willow for a single at the crucial moment and that's how the run came in.

Brit Martin made a clean double in the first game and two two-sackers and a single in the second game. He also made some catches in the field that were thrillers. Jack Martin was there with the stick work, too, making a double, and two singles with five difficult chances at short without an error. Barnes also deserves credit for his steady playing on the initial sack. Fourteen putouts without a misplay is going some.

Here's the work they each did:

DUNELLEN WINS FROM CENTRAL R. R. NINE

The Dunellen baseball team defeated the crack nine of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, Saturday, at Dunellen. Pender was pounded hard throughout the game, the good support by his team-mates being the only thing that kept Manager Adams' boys from running up a much larger score. Montross was invincible in every inning except, the fifth when the Centrals bunched three of their hits, and aided by an error, they made their only runs of the game. The score:

OLD FASHIONED GOSPEL

Sermon by Rev. Dr. G. W. Nicholson on Sunday Evening.

"WHAT'S THE USE", THEME.

Declaration of Connecticut Divine on Sunday Throws Light on Common Interpretation of Uncommon Subject.

A vigorous and inspiriting old-time sermon was preached by Rev. Dr. G. W. Nicholson, of Bridgeport, Conn., at the union service in the First Baptist church Sunday night. He gave one of his remarkably clear and concise interpretations of the Gospel of John and declared that "What's the Use" is an oft repeated expression calculated to show to the world that your personal case is hopeless. But he said that God never intended to convey to the human mind that anyone should believe that temporary discouragement was anything to build on. "I cannot conceive," he said, "of any mystery as to the recognition of our friends hereafter, when the comforting words of the Gospel according to John are thoroughly understood."

Dr. Nicholson said it was just human when a proposition of any kind is made to a business man for him to ask "How much is there in it for me?" But there are so many things that money cannot buy. Wealth, honor and popularity may be yours, but all these cannot ameliorate the pang of grief for lost ones. Jesus' mission in this world was to give what no money could buy, a life everlasting.

"Was it not strange that these fishermen would listen to the advice of a person they had failed to recognize? Jesus was not a fisherman, yet the disciples on the boat did not hesitate to follow the advice of the Carpenter. And look at the result—more fish than their nets could hold were taken. And that means the same to us. If we will but take His word we shall come into possession of a priceless treasure, the gift of eternal life."

Dr. Nicholson declared that "every place where sin was found ought to be a pulpit occupied by an honest teacher. Every man can become a messenger of the Gospel if he will only accept his opportunities. Any place was good enough for the Saviour to do His work in. His work was to save souls, educate and enlighten mankind and everyone of us ought to be doing the same every day."

"There is a social element in every human soul which should be developed. I don't mean cards and other amusements, but the social character which craves companionship and love. With this element properly fostered and strengthened our churches would have to be enlarged to hold the crowds. It has been made too easy for gaining membership in the church today, but let me say that there is nothing to be gained by compromising—the old way was best and the old fashioned religion the kind that sticks."

Owing to the rain the congregation was not large, but those present were thanked by Dr. Nicholson for attending.

Clifford A. Braider presided at the organ and George W. Smith, the regular tenor of the Baptist church, acted as prescentor.

A. S. HERR'S AUTO SKIDDED AND STRUCK POLE.

While coming up West Front street Sunday afternoon in his little "Maxwell" runabout, A. S. Herr had a narrow escape from serious injury when his machine skidded on the slippery pavement and crashed into a telegraph pole. As it fortunately happened, the automobile was going at a very slow speed and the only damage done was a broken rear wheel.

Mr. Herr says that he was running his auto in the car tracks and as he turned out of the way of atrolley car, his rear wheels skidded on the pavement and struck the pole. A new wheel was put on the machine and Mr. Herr proceeded on his journey.

PRIMARIES CHALLENGERS

County Board of Elections Decide Upon Interpretation of the Law.

DISREGARD STATE ATTORNEY.

There Will Be No Agents For the Congressional Delegates at the Primaries in Union County.

In view of the conflicting opinions given by the Attorney General's office and County Attorney Mann, of Essex, as to the interpretation of the election laws regarding the right to challengers, the Union County Board of Elections, at a meeting at the court house, in Elizabeth, this morning, discussed the matter at some length. The members finally came to the conclusion that for the primary election, the respective county chairmen are entitled to name two challengers for each district; that candidates to be voted for throughout the county are likewise entitled to two challengers, and that delegates to conventions, whose names appear on the tickets, are only entitled to challenge in their own right as candidates.

According to the interpretation of the law by Chairman McAdams, and agreed to by Messrs. Stewart, Morrow and Zior, his colleagues, the opinion that each man whose name is on the ticket is entitled to either one or two challengers is erroneous for such was not the intention of the framers of the primary law passed in 1907, though apparently such right was given by a provision of the general election law enacted in 1898.

The provision of the law, paragraph 280, section 25, upon which the county board relies for this interpretation follows:

"The chairman of the county committee of each political party in each county of the State may appoint two agents for each election district in his county; such agents shall be the authorized agents and challengers of their respective parties at the primary elections held under this act, and shall be at liberty to challenge the right of any person to vote thereat; the appointment of agents may be made in writing under the hand of the respective county chairmen, and shall specify the names and residences of the agents, and the election districts for which they are severally appointed; such appointment papers shall be filed with the respective boards of election in the districts named therein as evidence of the authority of such agents to be present in the polling places said agents may be present inside the railed enclosure while the votes cast at the primary are being cast and counted, and hear and see said ballots counted (and every person whose name shall be printed upon the official primary ballot shall also have the rights and privileges of a challenger as hereinbefore provided), and every person whose name shall be printed upon the official primary ballot, and who is to be voted for throughout the county, shall have the right to act as a challenger, and also to appoint in writing two agents for each election district in his county, and said agents shall have the rights and privileges of an agent and challenger, as provided in this section."

In other words two challengers can be named by such candidates as those running for Assembly nomination in addition to the two for the district to be named by the county chairman of his party. Delegations to the congressional and other conventions will have to use their own right to challenge, and can not name others to perform that duty. The purpose of the law, as interpreted, appears to be that the county committeeman of a given district has the right to nominate to the county chairman two challengers to represent his party at the primaries for the candidates. It is up to the county chairman whether he will send these names to the county board for the proper credentials or whether he will disregard these nominations and send in names of his own selection.

Independent candidates, outside of the two big parties, however, are entitled to challengers the same as are the regular parties, but there can be no challengers for a factional candidate.

A number of vacancies in local boards were filed by the county board, this morning.

MRS. HOYT'S FUNERAL WILL OCCUR TOMORROW.

The funeral of Mrs. Frank R. Hoyt, who died at Brussels, Belgium, on August 11, will be held tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. The services which will be conducted by Rev. Elory Bowers curate of Grace P. E. church, will be held at the home of Mrs. Isaac N. Field, 1018 Field avenue. Mrs. Hoyt was a sister of Mrs. Field, and had lived in Geneva for the past fifteen years and had many friends in this city.

Mrs. Hoyt was born at Bergen Point on April 20, 1856. Surviving her are her husband and her daughter Dorothea, and besides her sister, Mrs. Field, she leaves one brother, William Dutcher, of Central avenue. Rev. Mr. Bowers will be assisted by Rev. Dunham Van Syckle, of New York.

New Rubber Industry Here.

The Standard Tire Vulcanizing Company, of Madison avenue, has started a new phase of industry in this city in the rubber business. The company is making pure sheet rubber in its plant on Madison avenue from solid blocks of crude gum. A piece of rubber, only one-sixteenth of an inch in thickness, and of almost any practical size, is being made from crude gum, which comes from Africa in chunks several inches thick. The process is a secret one, but the industry is a new and novel one in this city. The sheet rubber is utilized in the patching of rubber coats, football bladders, and such delicate material. An idea of the present value of this substance can be obtained from the retail price of sheet rubber about six inches square, which sells for $2.50. And rubber is still going up in value.

The Dr. King Property Sold.

The Dr. King property at Putnam avenue and Richmond street, has been sold to Miss Isabella V. Lyddon, of North Plainfield. The dwelling, a substantial brick and frame building, contains fourteen rooms and has every modern improvement. The lot has a frontage on Putnam avenue of 92 feet and a depth along Richmond street of 179 feet. This sale also includes an extra lot in the rear 46x100 feet. The price paid is said to be about $15,000 and the sale was effected by Tapscott Brothers, of 138 North avenue. Miss Lyddon expects to occupy the property soon.

Will Meet in October.

It has been decided by the executive committee of the Board of Trade to hold the first meeting in October. Elaborate plans are under way to work out many of the ideas suggested during the first half of the year and push them to conclusion. The decision to postpone the opening meeting until October, was brought about by the fact that many of the members are away and numerous things are now engaging the attention of those interested.

Preparing for Theatre Opening.

Plans are rapidly being completed for the opening of the regular season at The Plainfield theatre on Labor Day, with that stirring western drama, "Three of Us," to be followed the last half of the week by "St. Elmo." The box office will be opened on Thursday for the sale of tickets at popular prices. Proctor & Sanderson are making many desirable changes at the theatre, which they feel sure will be appreciated by the patrons.

Borough Board of Education Meets.

The North Plainfield Board of Education held a meeting in the Somerset street school last night. Five members were present. Bills to the amount of a thousand dollars were ordered paid. There was no other business brought before the meeting.

WILL BE RED HOT CAMPAIGN.

Bitter Fights to Be Waged For the Mayoralty, Councilmanic and City Judgeship Nominations.

When the hour of midnight arrived last night, City Clerk James T. MacMurray was still on his job receiving petitions for every district for primary nominations. The Democrats and the Republicans alike filed their petitions for every district, but the former did not name any candidates for the mayoralty or for city judge. The minority party took advantage of an interpretation of the election law, given by Attorney General Wilson, permitting them to file some petitions on Sept. 3.

Saturday by a forester from Syracuse, N. Y., his object being to ascertain if the fumes from the tar preparation sprinkled on the streets has any effect on the foliage. AMONG OUR NEIGHBORS

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The Italian residents are preparing for an all-day celebration Labor Day, the day's program beginning with a parade of the Italian residents through the streets of the town, headed by Professor Verdi's band. At 10.30 the paraders will attend mass at St. Mary's church, Stony Hill. In the afternoon at 3 o'clock there will be games and contests on Stanbury's field, corner of Union and Stanbury avenue. At 8 o'clock at night there will be a band concert and grand display of fireworks on the field.

The local ball team go to Flemington Labor Day afternoon to try conclusions with the fast Hunterdon county team.

Miss Evelyn Buckley has returned from a two weeks' visit with Miss Leona Henry, of Liberty street, Plainfield.

Mrs. George H. Johnston and children, of Westfield avenue, are enjoying several weeks at Asbury Park.

Miss Louis Meyer has returned from a week's stay at Asbury Park and Ocean Grove, N. J.

Mrs. William Deegan, of Front street, is entertaining friends from out of town.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

While the team of big white horses, belonging to Charles Corriell, of Front street, were loading coal at the railroad tracks yesterday afternoon, it suddenly became frightened and started to run away, and the valuable horses and wagon would have been badly damaged had it not been for the quick work and the presence of mind of William Greenhalgh and young Louis Block, both of North avenue. The horses came dashing across the field near the tracks and the young lads who were playing baseball in the street, saw them heading directly for a telegraph pole. They both realized that if the horses should hit the pole, both of the fine steeds would be killed. So young Block and Greenhalgh ran as fast as they could toward the oncoming horses. Each boy grabbed one of the horses by the bridle and brought it to a stop before the pole was reached. Then the two young heroes climbed into the wagon and proudly drove up North avenue with the fugitive steeds and returned them to their rightful owner.

Harry Randolph, of Dunellen avenue, was severely cut about the face and arms as the result of a collision, which he had with an automobile, while riding his bicycle on Prospect avenue, Thursday afternoon. Mr. Randolph was riding in front of the vehicle and as he turned to the left, he ran directly into the path of the auto. The cyclist was thrown from his wheel and landed face downward on the roadway. The bicycle was badly damaged and Mr. Randolph is thankful that his own injuries were no worse than they were.

Sylvester Rinehart, of North avenue, is employed as a sorting clerk on the peach train at night and then he comes back to the borough in the morning. But yesterday morning, young Rinehart was tired and when the train reached the local station, Mr. Rinehart was in the land of dreams. Consequently he took an involuntary trip to Somerville.

Michael Readington, of the borough, was arrested by Marshal Benson on Saturday night, charged with being drunk and disorderly. When arraigned before Recorder David R. Campbell Sunday morning, Michael was penitent and the judge made it a fine of three dollars.

Miss Melissa Steele and Miss Bessie McLaughlin, both of Paterson, visited Miss McLaughlin's sister, Mrs. Benjamin A. Cole, of Washington avenue, on Sunday.

Miss Alice Pierce, of New Market, has been entertaining Miss Ritie Meeker, of Plainfield.

Miss Hilda Johnson, of New Market, is visiting relatives in Brooklyn.

WESTFIELD.

Local candidates had their petitions all ready for filing yesterday with the town clerk. From indications there will not be any contests for nominations except for town clerk on the Republican ticket, where there will be two names on the ticket, Councilman Charles Affleck and John McCormick. A Mayor, four councilmen, one from each ward and one to fill an unexpired term in the Second ward, assessor, collector, town clerk and two freeholders are to be elected. A strong effort will be made by the anti-saloon element to elect those candidates who pledge themselves in favor of not granting any saloon or hotel licenses.

The local peach harvest is at its height. Loads of the fruit come in every day from the farms of the local growers. The Johnson and Collins farms in Mountainside will market several thousand baskets, C. H. Brewer, of Clark Township, will have between one and two thousand baskets, and other growers on a smaller scale will have crops of a few hundred baskets each. Prices are ranging from 80 cents to $1.40 per basket.

The foliage of the shade trees along Westfield streets was inspected

GOLF.

Professionals who competed in the Metropolitan fixture at Deal last week will have to make a quick shift if they wish to try their luck in the annual open championship tournament of the Western Golf Association, to be played over the links of the Beverly Country Club, near Chicago, tomorrow, Thursday and Friday. It is expected that Will Anderson, now connected with the Philadelphia Cricket Club, who won the title last year with a record score of 288, will take part; also Fred McLeod, of St. Louis, and Gil Nicholls, of Wilmington.

Six prizes have been offered, as follows: First $200; runner-up, $100; each loser in the semi-finals, $50; winner of the consolation division, $50; runner-up in the consolation division, $25, and lowest score in the qualifying round $25. A gold medal emblematic of the Western open championship will be awarded the winner of the tournament, and in the event of an amateur winning any of the prizes mentioned he will be awarded the equivalent in plate.

Unlike the Metropolitan, the Western tournament will be a combination of medal and match play. On Wednesday morning the contestants will figure in an eighteen-hole testing round, and the sixteen players having the lowest scores will qualify for the championship. Those making the second sixteen will also continue on in the consolation fight. The first match round is carded for the same afternoon, and will be followed by the second and semi-final round on Thursday, thereby paving the way for a thirty-six-hole final on Friday.

Judging by the interest shown in the recent championship tournament of the Eastern Professional Golfers' Association at Salisbury, the Westerners are making no mistake. Their competition is to be decided under the rules of the game of golf as approved by the Royal and Ancient Golf Club of St. Andrews. It is significant that no mention is made of the United States Golf Association. The committee in charge of the Western tournament consists of Horace F. Smith; Edward A. Engler, Charles E. Willard, Charles T. Atkinson, Wendell Hertig, Frank L. Woodward, Clarence Stanley, John G. Cady and W. C. Fownes, Jr.

HOW UNCLE SAMUEL TAKES JAIL CENSUS

Many persons have, no doubt, wondered just how Uncle Sam takes the census of the jails and penal institutions in the country. The method is very simple and yet the work is carefully done. It takes the entire year to collect the necessary data. The census in the county jail here has not yet been completed and if the same system is being followed out generally, the taking of this part of the census will not be finished until January 1.

At the beginning of the year the warden of the local institution got his instructions. Blank cards were sent to him. He was told that at the end of each month cards were to be made out, one for each prisoner committed during the month. The cards are complete in every detail. A record of each man, woman or juvenile offender committed during the month is placed on the card and it is sent to the Census Bureau.

The name of the prisoner, nationality of parents, place of birth of the prisoner, his or her religion, whether he or she can read or write, and the occupation is all carefully noted. The date of the arrival at the institution, the term to be served and the amount of the fine imposed, if one was imposed, is all a part of this record.

The exact hour of the discharge of a prisoner must also be given by the warden if a prisoner is discharged during the month. Each month the cards are sent to Washington. Within a few days the names of prisoners committed to or discharged from the county jail during the month of August will be sent to the Census Bureau.

A Chapter in Stelle History

By O. B. LEONARD

CHAPTER II.

Of the three sons of Rev. Benjamin Stelle, the outline genealogy of his oldest, Deacon Benjamin, born 1713, was recently given. The following sketch will record the descendants of his second son, Captain John Stelle, born Feb. 7, 1716, died at New Brunswick, N. J., Jan. 30, 1755. The N. Y. Gazette, Feb. 10, '55, thus makes public reference to him: "John Stelle, Esq., was a man of bright genius and superior knowledge in civil and religious affairs. He filled several stations in life which he discharged to general satisfaction."

He was town clerk for ten years, 1740-50, and a public testimonial is extant that he was "the first good penman and correct speller." During this period he was justice of the peace, and very frequently a land surveyor for many pioneers. His title of "Captain" was derived from his management of a sailing vessel.

By a marriage license dated June 16, 1739, it is learned that Rachel Thompson, born 1723, became his wife. They were parents of the five following-named children: Charity, Experience, Phebe, Thomas and Lewis Stelle, the last dying when eighteen years of age.

(1) Charity Stelle's birth is given in 1742 and her marriage to John Langstaff about 1760. Their children were Lewis, Rachel, Mary, Sarah, James, Ogden, John, Stelle and Henry.

(2) Experience Stelle was born 1744 and married, 1758, Justin Dunn (son of Benjamin). They had a large family of twelve children, viz.: Isaac, John, Alexander, Charity, Lewis, Mary, James, Rachel, Ambrose, Simeon, Olive and Hugh.

(3) Phebe Stelle, the youngest child of Captain John, had her birth in 1753, and in 1773 she married John Fitz Randolph (son of Joseph and Esther). She died April 21, 1818, and her husband died May 6, 1826. They had the following eight children: Rachel, Joseph, James, Thompson, John, Stelle, Lewis S., and Jacob Fitz Randolph.

(4) Thompson Stelle (the oldest son of Captain John) was born in Middlesex county, N. J., in 1746, and in 1765-6 married Sally Langstaff. He was a prominent and efficient officer in secular and religious affairs; captain in Middlesex Militia. He occupied every responsible position in the town and county from 1771-1813, the year of his death. For his loyalty to the cause of Independence, the British plundered him of property to the amount of several thousand dollars. While serving as Commissioner for the apprehension of traitors, he was captured by the enemy, though soon afterward released on exchange for red-coat prisoners. He had four daughters and two sons, as follows: (1) Charity, married David Harris; had Lewis and Stella; (2) Sally, married Peter Dayton; had Thompson and Sarah; (3) Rachel, married Dr. Samuel Swan; (4) Experience, married Mr. VanZandt, whose granddaughter married John Inman, the artist; Lewis D. Stelle, the oldest child of Capt. Thompson Stelle, was born 1766, married Margaret Taylor, had Gertrude, Ann Amelia and James.

The last and most distinguished son of Captain Thompson Stelle was James Stelle, born 1768-70. His childhood was passed in the county of his birth (Middlesex), and at a time of great peril and unrest. The British army was quartered in New Brunswick, and scouting parties were constantly devastating the farming region, in 1776 and '77. His observation of military maneuverings from boyhood developed a spirit of such service in after life. Upon reaching manhood he decided in favor of a soldier's occupation. October 1, 1798, he was commissioned by President John Adams captain in the United States Artillery and Engineers, 2d Regiment. Capt. James Stelle being unsettled in his location and not reporting for duty, went Southwest shortly to the Franco-Spanish Territory of Louisiana. On the second of April, 1802, he was re-appointed by President Jefferson to take rank under date of first commission. After 1803 that extensive region was purchased by our government and became part of the United States. Here in the Mississippi Valley, far away from the place of his birth and among people of a different speech and nationality, he married in 1805 Mrs. Margaret C. Watts (born 1775, Mar. 23), widow of Don Manuel Gayuso de Samas, Brigadier-General and Governor of the Spanish Colony at Natchez until 1797 and afterwards Governor of Louisiana. The bride of the young artillery officer was the daughter of Stephen Watts, whose father and grandfather had been Baptist ministers in Pennsylvania, but at this date were living along the Mississippi River. During the year of his marriage Captain Stelle resigned his commission in the U. S. service and traveled. For a time he was in Cuba, but always lived thereafter in Southern latitudes. His whereabouts were unknown to his former relatives and even his mother, widow of Thompson Stelle, Esq., made no mention of him in her last will, dated and probated in 1837 and filed in the New York Surrogate's office. (Wills '76, p. 476.) She styles herself "Sarah Stelle, of New York, formerly of New Jersey." She was probably living with her Langstaff family relatives, dying at an advanced age of over 80 years.

The children of Captain James Stelle and wife, Margaret C. Gayosa, nee Watts, were six in number: James, Frances A., Caroline, Lewis, Edward and Sarah. The three sons died in young manhood and unmarried so that the Stelle name passed out of history in the captain's family. Their respective births and deaths are the following: James, born 1807, January 4, died 1833, February 18—Lewis, born, 1813, January 9, died 1830 in July. Edward, born 1815, March 9, died 1850, September 27. The daughters all married and had families.

Frances Ashton Stelle, of Captain James, was born June 22, 1809, married Nov. 25, 1824; Joshua Baker, graduate of West Point, Military Academy and subsequently Governor of the State of Louisiana. Their three children were: (1) Anthony Wayne Baker, born 1826, married Emma Fusilier bad Joshua and Christine; (2) Margaret Cyrilla Baker, born 1828, married 1847, J. P. Van Bergen, had Anthony B., Frances A., John P., Katharine W., Caroline S., Maria L., William S., Thompson S.; (3) Caroline L. Baker, born 1830, married William A. Bisland, had Calvin, Margaret, Jane, Baker.

Caroline Stelle, of Capt. James, was born March 11, 1811, married John Brownson March 13, 1828. Their ten children were: (1) Elizabeth Brownson, born 1829, married 1850, David Ker, had Caroline S., Mary B., Elizabeth, Katherine, Frances A., Margaret, William, Sarah, David and John B.; (2) James Brownson, born 1830, married 1864, Harriet Eliza Williams had Howell, Coleman, Caroline S., Mary B., Robert W., James S., Jr., Abbie L. (3) John Brownson, born 1832, married 1856 Emma Baker, had Anthony, John, Mary, Margaret, Edward, Alfred, Lewis, Laclere, James. (4), Frances A. Brownson, born, 1833, married 1852, John R. Bisland had Mary, Edward S., Caroline S., John R., Jr., Ashton, William A., Leonora, Frances A; (5) Caroline Brownson, born 1838, married 1860, Dr. J. A. Gillmore, had Caroline, Margaret Frances A., Mary B., Lewis A., Gertrude A. (6) Margaret C. Brownson, born 1839, married 1858, Thos. S. Bisland had Mary Louise, Thos. P., Elizabeth K., Estelle, Margaret, Presly-Lenox. (7) Mary Brownson, born, 1842, married 1871, R. W. Haw had Sarah L., Celestine W., John James. (10 Lewis A. Brownson, born 1850.

Sarah Stelle, youngest daughter Captain James and Margaret C. Watts Gayuso, was born October 20, 1817, married April 25, 1838, Abner Pride. Their seven children were: (1) Edward Pride, born 1839. (2) Caroline Pride, born 1841, married William Bisland, had Ralph A. Louise, Leonora, Sarah, William. (3) Frances E. (4) Anthony B., (5) James S., (6) Lewis A., (7) Harriet.

The Republican convention for the nomination of a candidate to represent the Fourth district in Congress will be held at Flemington, at noon, Thursday, September 15. Nothing has yet been heard of Democratic candidates.

Shoe Facts

This store is an old-fashioned family shoe store, old-fashioned, however, only because it carries all kinds of dependable boots and shoes for every member of the family—its styles are right and it is thoroughly up-to-date in all its methods and arrangements. We take particular pride in the fact that there are scores of families who never bought much of anything in the shoe line except at this store. Your fathers and mothers bought shoes of us (some of them) when they were lads and lassies—and that's the kind of trade we want—it's the kind every store wants, for that matter. New fangled ideas dont' necessarily instill confidence—quality and fair dealing are the two great factors. We have built up our business on these conservative lines and shall continue to hew along these same broad lines.

Men's Shoes 2.00 to 6.00

Women's Shoes 2.00 to 6.00

The longest excursion trains of the season passed through here on their way to Bellewood Park and Mauch Chunk. These resorts have become so popular it is thought the Labor Day excursions will exceed any heretofore.

TRAVELING SUITS.

Holiday outfits are under consideration by those yet to go away. Coats and skirts of serge, waterproof wraps, the smart but practical jersey and knitted coat naturally suggest themselves as being more suitable for holiday outfits adapted to some places than summer muslins, lawns and zephyrs.

The short skirts now worn are excellently suited to traveling requirements, and the belted style of coat which still prevails is a convenient and becoming fashion. The little close-fitting toques and bonnets of straw, draped with veils of rainproof tulle, are comfortable for traveling, as they permit the wearer to rest her head against the back of the seat.

Cotton crepes and crepons are delightful materials for the traveling skirt. They are dainty and pretty, and the absence of starch contributes to the comfort of the wearer. The turndown collars now so generally worn are also ideal traveling wear. The uncompromising high collars of stiff linen shows every speck of dust and every smut, but the dainty little strip of tucked and embroidered lawn looks quite fresh at the end of a long journey.

Shantung can be made to resist the rain, and is a perfect holiday wrap, but a smartly made serge or cloth coat in navy blue or gray is a desirable acquisition.

Packing is fortunately no longer the ordeal it was in the days before resourseful inventors came to the rescue with patent tray trunks and hat trunks. Many women, by the way, will make the unpleasant discovery that this season's hats decline to go into hat boxes of a couple of years ago. Hat trunks large enough to take the big hats of the period, however, can be bought.

USE OF PLEATINGS.

Pleatings in two or three rows will be used to edge the skirts this fall. The old-fashioned knife pleating, varying from one-half inch to two inches, is the kind referred to, and the fullness of the other days will not be evident. In other words, these pleated ruffles will be adjusted flat without any other gathering, and allowed to hang in straight lines, preserving a slender silhouette.

Pleatings of colored net are used to edge little modified revers and collars. They are excellent to outline cuffs and tiny yokes. Black and white pleatings or maline or net are combined, the lower frills slightly wider than the top.

Pleatings are just the finish of transparent color that summer dresses need. When satin or velvet are too heavy, and the material of a frock undesirable, a pleating of mousseline de soie, net, tulle or crisp maline is just the touch that any home dressmaker can give. It will frequently raise a garment in the decorative scale making it reminiscent of the French gown in the addition to the little lines of color for which imported gowns are noted.

So look at the seemingly finished frock. Try a pleated frill of net. You cannot realize what a change it will make.

In millinery, too, the pleated nets and laces are used as facings for lingerie hats. They give a softening that adds to the youthfulness of the wearer's appearance. This season laurels and pleatings are almost inseparable. This is why your modistic attention is called to them today.

Less Lavish.

Woman's World

Mrs. Clara Foltz, First Woman to Be Assistant District Attorney.

MRS. CLARA SHORTLEDGE FOLTZ.

Mrs. Clara Shortledge Foltz is the first woman in the United States to be appointed to the office of assistant district attorney. Mrs. Foltz has her home in Los Angeles, Cal., where she was made assistant district attorney several months ago. She is the sister of Samuel L. Shortledge, who is the law partner of Delmas, the man who defended Harry Thaw. Up to the time of the earthquake her home was in San Francisco, but when the conflagration which followed the quake destroyed it she moved to Los Angeles and took up the practice of law there. She rapidly made a name for herself and proved so able in arguing cases that the district attorney finally asked her to join his staff.

Mrs. Foltz has a commanding presence and an eloquent and pleasant voice. Her eyes flash as she speaks, and she puts strength into every sentence, while her language evidences wide reading and original thinking. She is not masculine in any sense and is a stanch antisuffragist. When asked to give her views recently on the suffragist question she declared that there was little likelihood that the suffrage would be extended to women and gave as her reason that the women of the country generally were opposed to entering a field peculiarly masculine.

"Nature itself has decided the suffrage question by making man stronger than woman," she said. "Woman was intended for the home and man for the battle of life. Woman has her own sphere, and it is bounded by the boundaries of family life. Take away from woman the power to look up to man, to regard him as her protector and guardian, and you take away her dearest privilege."

Mrs. Foltz has the following to say about the power of the district attorney's office: "The district attorney is not and should not be a prosecutor pure and simple, because his position and peculiar relation to the people make him an officer of justice and not a mere avenger of crime.

"It should be his duty and privilege to see that the scales of justice do not incline any more to severity than to condonement, and his aim should be not to achieve a record number of convictions, but rather to bring about the attainment of absolute fairness in the trials in which he takes part."

Servant Problem 3,000 Years Old.

It is rather comforting for distraught housewives who have difficulties with their domestics to know the servant problem is nothing modern and not, as has been surmised, an effect of a perpetual war between capital and labor. Mistress and maid, man and master, have always been in antagonism to each other. Reverse the situation and it would be the same, as it has been ever since the world began. A Philadelphia authority rejoices because at Fordham university it has come to light that nearly 3,000 years B. C. the Egyptians were having as poor a time with servants as some people in the United States are experiencing this very day. It was not all rapture and roses in the best families of Egypt owing to this branch of domestic life not bearing proper fruit. From some ancient papyri which have recently been unearthed in a tomb near Memphis maxims have been deciphered that are eye openers. The Egyptians must have had a terrible time in their households when such sentiments as these survive the centuries: "In sooth thou shalt find it hard to satisfy thy servants despite thy earnest desires, for if thou be harsh with them they shall say: 'He is a cruel master. Lo, we shall go!'" Solomon knew what he was talking about when he said there is nothing new under the sun, for it made no difference to Pharaoh's servant, "even though thou give princely gifts of gold [tips, of course] and precious stones to thy higher servants, content is not in them, for they shall say: 'Lo, the master is suddenly grown gracious! We shall go.'" If any more of these manuscripts dealing with this subject are found it is hoped they may be deciphered for the consolation of the world. Misery always loves company, and even these musty maxims of 3,000 years ago are as fresh as daisies.

A NEW WEAVE OF SWEATER

The Long Effect In These Coats Is Smartest.

FOR THE GOLFING GIRL.

If any girl can go through the summer without a sweater she is a rare specimen of femininity. Its uses are infinite and too many to enumerate. Each year the type of sweater varies. Last season we had the long style, and this summer the longer lengths are still modish, but the difference in this year's sweater is in the weave. The illustration shows one of the newest and smartest of the season's weaves, a broad fancy stripe, which is very becoming to the figure.

Charge It to the Woman.

That cheerful farce known to the public as an "inquiry into the causes of the cost of living" assumes more amazing proportions day by day. Somebody or something is to blame for the prohibitive prices which mock our indigence, and under no circumstances may the sensitive feelings of the protectionists be hurt. Consequently political economists who are not calm enough to share the frank indifference of congress offer us strange and artless solutions of a problem which has grown too formidable for play, says Agnes Repplier.

The most original of all these suggestions comes from an instructor in economics in the Wharton School of Finance at the University of Pennsylvania, who holds that food is dear because women buy it and women "have no basis for estimating the value of what they spend." Money to a man represents so many hours or days of labor. Money to a woman stands for no economic effort. The price of all commodities is unreasonably dear because of the "extravagant willingness of women to pay for them."

If this be true all that is needed to reduce the cost of living is that men shall shop and market. The poulterer will not venture to ask $2.50 for a pair of chickens; the dairyman will blush at the mere thought of demanding 50 cents a dozen for eggs when confronted by the wage earner of the family. Hogs were quoted recently at a figure calculated to make these lordly animals swagger in their sties, but they will soon be reduced to humility and moderation if the father of the family buys the morning sausage. Even the cook will cheerfully accept $4 a week instead of $7 when her master pays her wages, especially if she can be brought to understand that he is philosophically indifferent to his food and that it was only the "extravagant willingness" of her mistress to pay her $7 which made her ask so much.

The Charm of Enthusiasm.

Have you ever realized what a charm there is in enthusiasm? Life is so often monotonous that we like occasionally to be wakened up with interest, and the person who is radiant over small things is always a delight.

The girl who carries enthusiasm into her work as well as into her play will find that she holds a winning card. Work that is done for the "joy of working" is likely to be well done. Lack of interest makes for dull routine, remarks a writer. It brings discontent and often failure. The men who succeed are the ones who can inspire both themselves and others by their magnetic personality, and there is nothing so magnetic as enthusiasm. People will follow us, like us and admire us if we have it. It is worth cultivating if it is not natural endowment.

Pleasantness a Tonic.

Don't be afraid of being pleasant. It cannot hurt you and will be as good as a tonic for all you meet.

What though you do think yourself superior to most of your acquaintances, is it good taste to placard your belief by a freezing countenance?

There is nothing like affability to conceal one's family skeletons. A haughty manner is a direct bid for the rest of the world to rake up ancestral secrets that you thought buried.

The Molly Gray

A Girl Makes Good a Claim

By CLARISSA MACKIE

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

Clarkson threw aside his pick.

He posted his notice of possession by laying the paper on the newly broken ground and placing a stone on top to keep it from blowing away. Any one who jumped that claim now might expect the wild justice of the mining camp to be visited upon him.

As he drew near the camp the thunder of the stamp mills smote the air, and the blur of smoking chimneys dimmed the eastern sky.

Pete Clarkson's persistent efforts and dogged determination to find something that would enrich him sufficiently to offer Molly Gray a home had resulted in his striking what was probably the lost vein of the Great Dome ledge.

He stopped once at the house of Jim Gray, superintendent of the Great Dome, and Molly Gray, sweet as a rose, with gray eyes, brown hair, pink cheeks and pink gown, came to the door.

"How'd you make out, Pete?" she asked, her little brown hand lost in his great earth stained palm.

"It's the Molly Gray," he said quietly, thrusting the lump of ore into her other hand.

"Oh, Pete," she cried joyfully, "where?"

"On Crow ledge, near Crow rock."

"Where we saw the sunset that night?"

"Same place."

"What were you doing there, Pete?" she asked, with dimpling cheeks.

"Prospectin'," he grinned sheepishly. Then, passing his hand over his unshorn chin, he nodded toward the Great Dome smelter. "I guess it will be all right now down there," he said confidently.

"You know it has always been all right with me, Pete," said Molly softly.

"I know," he said soberly. "I'm goin' down now to git out my papers. I'll stop on my way back."

"Haven't you registered yet?" she asked anxiously.

"Nope; stopped here first thing. Got her staked all right, though, and the name posted. Goin' back there to make camp. So long; see you later." And with a backward wave of his hand he loped down toward the registering office.

From the doorway of the cabin at the head of the street Molly, holding a pair of fieldglasses to her pretty eyes, watched him enter the office. Then her gaze fell upon the figure of a man sprawled upon the rough veranda encircling the one roomed building. A wide brimmed hat was drawn over his eyes, and to all appearances he was lost in slumber.

Molly looked at the open window over the man's head and calculated that if Pete Clarkson announced his discovery in his usual bluff, hearty accents it could readily be heard by the man on the veranda if he were awake and listening, and if it should prove to be Dave Lumly, who was own brother to Jim Lumly, the registrar of claims, why, then, Pete Clarkson would have a race for his claim, that was all. She remembered the case of Allan Smith, the young prospector from the east who made a find and staked his claim. Before he could register it and return to the scene Dave Lumly had news of the find and had jumped the claim. With his brother to back his title to it Lumly had defied the sheriff and his posse to oust him. Young Smith had shot himself, and, after all, the mine had proved worthless.

Ah, the somnolent one arose slowly, stretched himself, took a careful survey of the street; then, with a swift movement, leaped into the saddle of a waiting sorrel and rode out Black lane. It was Dave Lumly.

Presently she saw Pete emerge from the registry office and cross the street to the assayers. With sudden energy she re-entered the house, scribbled a few lines informing Pete of her whereabouts in case she could not find him, pinned the note to the front door, saddled her little mare Daisy, mounted and dashed down the street toward the assay office.

"If he comes back tell him to go up to our place. There's a message for him. Will you tell him?" she inquired breathlessly.

"Sure thing, Miss Molly," he said heartily; then he watched her disappear down the long street and out upon the short cut through the canyon to Crow mountain. The afternoon sun shone on her hatless head and the light wind fluttered her pink skirts as the little mare broke into a gallop.

Once she drew rein and took a swift survey of the country.

Mile after mile the mare covered, scrambling up steep hillsides and sliding recklessly down the slopes. Molly, with blazing eyes and compressed lips, watched for the reappearance of the sorrel horse and its slouching rider. Lumly, taking advantage of the information he had gleaned at the registry office, would remove Pete's stake, substitute one of his own and claim possession of the Molly Gray. If she could only reach Crow rock before Dave Lumly she would fight with all the fierceness of old Jim Gray himself for the possession of her lover's rights.

Molly frowned as she thought all these things over, and every now and then she turned and looked back along the trail for some sign of the approach of Pete Clarkson. If he returned to the cabin, as he had intended doing, he would find her note.

With heart beating in time to the muffled thud of Daisy's hoofs, she drew rein on the crest of the ledge and looked about for Dave Lumly, but he was not in sight, and with resumed confidence she cantered along the narrow, uneven trail to Crow rock.

When she rounded the rock the sorrel was nipping the parched turf and Lumly, on his knees, was stuffing a piece of white paper into his pocket. His back was toward her, and he had doubtless mistaken the tread of her horse for the trampling of his own beast.

"Look here, Dave Lumly!"

Lumly jumped to his feet and looked into the barrel of a revolver leveled with cool precision.

"You git outer my way, young lady," he snarled defiantly, making a movement to grasp her bridle rein.

"Stop there or I'll fire!" she said calmly.

"What do you want?" he growled, looking at her out of stealthy red eyes.

"I want you to put that paper back in the hole," she commanded sharply.

"And if I don't?" he grinned savagely.

"Why, if you don't," she said, with a calculating glance, "I believe I'll just bore your right arm!"

"The devil you will! It seems to me you are pretty highty tighty, miss."

"Are you going to do that?" she asked.

"Oh, sure; of course I couldn't refuse a lady," he said, taking the paper from his pocket with his right hand and furtively reaching with his left around to his hip.

"Your left hand up!" she commanded again.

With a muttered oath he swung his arm aloft. The sorrel horse drew near and thrust an inquiring nose toward his master. With a quick movement Lumly held out the paper, the sorrel caught it between his lips, and in another instant it fell to the ground a mass of pulp. Lumly laughed exultingly.

Molly Gray whitened about the lips. "Other hand up!" she commanded shortly.

The man obeyed.

"Turn your back and walk toward me." Then, as he hesitated, she added contemptuously, "Don't be afraid I'm not going to shoot you in the back."

He turned sullenly and backed slowly up to the mare's side. With muzzle pressed close to his shock of rough hair she abstracted the six shooter from his belt and ascertained that there was no other weapon. The man trembled slightly. It was a pesky dangerous thing to have a woman fooling with a revolver. One never knew what—

"Now walk forward twenty steps and don't turn; if you do it will be for the last time!" Molly did not recognize her own sweet voice in the firm tones that cut the air like the lash of a whip.

The man obeyed. When, at her word of command, he faced about, the feet of the little mare were gathered in the hole in the ground, and her rider, with shining eyes and bright, glad smile, looked at him down the length of his own six shooter.

"In fifteen minutes at the latest Pete Clarkson, Mill Hodges and the sheriff will strike this ledge. I advise you, Dave Lumly, if you value your life, to prospect around Cartertown way for a few years. The trail is plain; there's your horse, and I'm giving you a chance."

Lumly looked back down the trail. Several horsemen were riding rapidly up Crow creek bottom. There was a flash of sunlight on metal.

With a muttered curse he turned toward his horse. "You'll pay for this holdup, girl," he said threateningly.

"It's not a holdup; it's a hold down," retorted Molly saucily.

As Lumly disappeared among the distant western slopes three men rode madly down the trail and rounded Crow rock in a cloud of dust and a scatter of flying stones. Molly Gray, with trembling lips, smiled upon them.

"Where is he?" demanded Pete, while the other men looked unmingled disappointment and admiration upon pretty Molly.

She pointed toward the west, where a solitary horseman was silhouetted against the amber sunset sky ere it dropped behind a distant hill.

"So you let the critter go!" uttered the sheriff ruefully.

Pete looked at her questioningly.

"I didn't want bloodshed on Crow rock, Pete," she explained in a low tone.

A light of understanding came into his eyes. He nodded his head. "That's all right, sheriff. I guess that coyote won't jump any more claims hereabouts, I reckon."

"Where is your claim, Pete?" asked Hawkes, looking curiously around.

"Here it is," interpolated Molly, blushing. "He was jumping it when"—

"And you stood him off?" chorused the men.

She nodded gravely. "He fed the paper to the horse, so I held him up, and now I'm holding down the claim myself."

"I don't understand," said Hodges blindly.

"Why, you see," faltered Molly, while Pete grinned fatuously upon her, "I'm the claim—that is, I'm Molly Gray, and I'm holding down the claim. It's the Molly Gray, you know," she said, slipping down from the saddle into the outstretched arms of her lover.

BASEBALL.

The employes of the gas department and the commercial department of the Public Service Corporation will meet in a diamond battle, September 3, when there will be a clambake of the local employes of the company. The ball game will be a feature of the outing. The battery for the "gas blowers" will be: Jack Carney, the well-known twirler, and "Con" Schropfer, who used to catch for the Franklin A. C., of Perth Amboy.

Those Martin brothers were certainly there in that game Saturday. "Old Pop" had his eagle eye on the ball and clouted two doubles and a single, while his younger brother reversed the order with two singles and a double. Brit isn't a back number by a long shot. And then, too, he made the first run for the Y. M. C. A. boys and brought in another one by a hard two-base swat.

The question as to who had the better of the argument in that game between the Y. M. C. A. and Scotch Plains on the Oval Saturday afternoon, Slocum or Frederickson, is a hard one to decide. The association twirler had better control and was steadier in the pinches but the opposing box artist kept the Y. M. C. A. hits in a more scattered direction. Both of the phenoms struck out eleven men, which is travelling some for youngsters. They certainly pitched clever ball and the way those southpaw slants of Frederickson shot over the pan was graceful to behold.

Well, how did you like Ward?

He Warded off a defeat anyway! (Ain't it awful Mabel?)

And Fritts can come back. It was about time that he added a contribution to the Y. M. C. A. slugging averages for he had fallen off considerably in his batting during these last few weeks. And then he landed out a pretty double for the Plainfield team but unfortunately no one was on the bags.

Pfeiffer was right on the job and made his usual hit with the gallery gods in Saturday's game. He had nine chances, accepted eight of them and made one error. Did you notice the downcast expression on the little shortstop's face when he made that missplay? But it is a very rare thing for him to do such a thing in an important game.

The McNulty Brothers were a little disgusted with the playing of Ruber in centre field, Saturday. They said he was a new man and that he played like a Rube. He certainly did show up poorly in the first inning when he let two flies drop unmolested.

By the way, do you know who old man McNulty was? Well, we don't.

Ayers agreed with his name in the Y. M. C. A. game Saturday, for the 'Plains' left fielder fanned the air three times in succession. Then he surprised everyone by sending a long fly out to left field, but Peacock was there and spoiled Mr. Ayers' vain hopes of making a hit.

But it must be admitted that the association boys were badly crippled on Saturday. With the two Adams boys out of the game and Hand and Marsh among the absent ones, things looked sort of hopeless for Listman's and Charlie Line's Hopefuls.

And those McNulty boys can run some. The way that Dowling (McNulty) went around those bases when he made that three-bagger was enough to make Melvin Sheppard look like a back number and to put Ty Cobb among the also rans.

And 1,500 people on the Oval is some crowd for Plainfield baseball.

Lew Wiltse in Elks' Line-up.

Notice was received today by Captain Marcus Hoyt, that among the wonderful things to be expected in the line-up of the Elks' team on Thursday afternoon Lew Wiltse, who needs no introduction to the Plainfield fans, will be a prominent figure. One or two other celebrities, including "Doc" Cadmus, are certain to be on hand. After all this who dares to say that Brooklyn, No. 22 will have a look in?

FOOTBALL.

H. R. Reiter, a former Princeton football star, who is well-known here, has been engaged by the athletic committee of Lehigh University, to coach the football team of 1910, in place of Byron Dickson, who goes to Bucknell. "Bosey" as he is best known by his friends, has had charge of all athletics at Wesleyan University for the past three years. Prior to going to Wesleyan, Mr. Reiter was married here to Miss Burt, of West Eighth street. He gained fame as a life-saver at Asbury Park during his college days.

HERE AND THERE.

Parisians in their zeal to do away with the hobble skirt are trying to make themselves believe that they were not responsible for its existence. They are calmly blaming America for it. In fact a wave of virtuous indignation has spread over the entire city against "this ridiculous and exotic style," since the skirt recently claimed two more victims, who broke their legs trying to get out of taxicabs when their gowns were too tight to allow of their making their necessary step.

It is not putting the case too strongly to say that Paris is horrified that women can wear such skirts. Says the manager of the Maison Laferriere: "The hobble skirt cannot continue to exist. It is not worn among really smart women, only by those who wish to appear conspicuous in the street. It came to us from across the Atlantic."

The director of the Maison Rouff also declared in an interview that "American women tried to accustom Paris to this fantastic style of skirt which they liked, but htye have not succeedd except very temporarily. Now it is considered distinctly provincial and common."

That word provincial from an authority practically settles the matter. It is the word the Parisian dreads most of all and if the hobble skirt is designated in this way its doom is sealed.

Mrs. J. E. Tompkins, of this city, is visiting at the Shattuck Inn, Jaffrey, New Hampshire.

POLITICAL TALK.

If the Democratic mule never laughed before he certainly heehawed jeeringly at the joke of Frank McDermit's candidacy for United States Senator!—New York Press.

George Teller, of Cranford, has announced himself as a candidate for freeholder on the Republican ticket to succeed the present incumbent from that place, E. K. Adams, and it is said that he has reecived the endorsement of the "regulars" in Cranford.

Grover Cleveland's birthplace in Caldwell may become the home of a Democratic club composed of citizens of Caldwell, Verona, Essex Fells and Roseland. The house, which is an old mansion, is on Bloomfield avenue. The club is as yet a tentative organization, but the prospects are that it will be formed and the Cleveland house purchased. The house now serves as a Presbyterian parsonage, but it is said to be for sale. A bronze tablet, on which is an inscription recording the birth of ex-President Cleveland in the house, occupies a position over the fireplace. Grover Cleveland lived in the house until he was about four years old, at which time his father, who was a Presbyterian minister, removed from Caldwell. The house evidently had no sentimental attachment for Mr. Cleveland, as it is not known that he ever visited Caldwell to see the place of his birth.

We quite fail to comprehend the reasoning by which the Progressive party of this county finds itself able to approve the candidacy of Charles N. Fowler for United States Senator from New Jersey. The man is in no way fitted to fill the position, either by personal ability or service in the public behalf. He has been somewhat ridiculous in his pledges and promises to his constituents, but this humorous feature may be left to the New York Sun for comment. What we Jerseymen know of him is that he has not been constant nor faithful in attendance upon his duties as Representative; that the Roosevelt he now lauds he formerly condemned; that his financial nostrums have been rejected by practical men; that he poses personally and politically; that his business methods have been vagarious, and that he has no settled principles beyond self advancement. We may frankly say that either Mr. Colby, Mr. Sommer, Mr. Record or Mr. Martin would be a more effective senator, and probably much more trustworthy. There is not a little to be said in favor of an independent candidacy for the Senatorship, but there is not a word we have seen written or heard spoken which justifies the election of Mr. Fowler to the Senatorship—and his own pleas have been manifestly feeble. No good cause prospers by such opportunism as the Progressives have manifested in this case.—Newark Sunday Call.

—A. G. Hooley, of Rockview avenue, shipped nine of his prize English setters to Allentown this morning to compete in the fair of that city.

—A private patient was removed yesterday from New York to Muhlenberg Hospital, in an ambulance from the former place, and will receive treatment at the local institution.

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE IS SEEKING PLEDGES.

The Anti-Saloon League has sent a letter to each of the candidates for Governor who have not made a record on local option, asking them what their position will be on this measure if nominated and elected. The letter says:

"May we suggest that everyone who is a student of public affairs recognizes that there can be no change in the Sunday law, nor any possible weakening of that law in all human probability as long as our present constitution with equal representation from each county governs us, for in fifteen counties at least there is no sentiment for the slightest weakening of present Sunday government.

"More than this, last winter, at the hearing on the local option bill, the brewers, who won at least seventy-five per cent. of the saloons, officially, through their attorney Robert H. McCarter, declared that they favor the present Sunday law and were against any change in the bishops' law, and since no one officially desires any change, we sincerely hope you will not in your response to this plain, fair question, endeavor to evade or avoid the issue by strongly affirming other matters which are not involved or questioned."

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

There will be a service of the Danish Lutheran church tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in the Swedish Pilgrim church on West Sixth street. Rev. Theodore Beck, of Brooklyn, will be the speaker.

Great Bill at Proctor's.

The great bill offered at Proctor's theatre attracted a capacity audience to the popular playhouse, last night. It is one of the best shows presented at this house. Homer Lind and company in "Gringoire, the Street Singer," is a beautiful dramatic sketch, and it made a decided hit, as did also Frederic Guillaume and the Moulin Rouge Orchestra. Mr. Guillaume is very clever in impersonations of well-known composers and the music by the orchestra fairly sets the audience in a dance. "The Emancipation Day" at school, together with Ford and Wesley complete an exceptional bill.

PLAYGROUND A SUCCESS

Closing Exercises at Bryant School Win Approbation of Commissioners.

CHILDREN EXHIBIT HANDIWORK

Visitors Applaud Folk Dances and Highly Commend Work Accomplished by Miss Harriet Moe.

The closing exercises at the Bryant School Playgrounds yesterday were attended by several interested persons, notably President of the Playgrounds Commission George P. Mellick and Mrs. Mellick, Mayor Charles J. Fisk, Harry Marshall, Wm. S. Tyler, a member of the Board of Education, and Mrs. Elory G. Bowers. One of the noteworthy features of the afternoon was the commonly remarked character of the improvement in the children who have been entertained and instructed by Miss Harriet E. Moe, of New York, during the summer since July 5.

Mr. Mellick in commenting on the general result of the institution of the playgrounds in this city said: "Not today nor tomorrow will the parents of the children realize the splendid results that have been achieved in the past three months. But the time is coming when they will all believe in and help the playground scheme. It has proved itself to have been of inestimable value to not alone the children who have enjoyed the privileges of the open-air play as to their health, but the far greater and more vital result to their characters which in after life will be found by them to have been the real incentive to do right."

Many of the mothers who were on hand to see their little ones were glad to repeat the saying that "This is one of the best things ever invented for the children!" One of the women declared that the language of her boys had been so changed that her children were entirely made over in deportment. They were all in that jolly mood which indicates that these mothers were glad that the "new idea" for the children was one of the greatest of blessings ever proposed and carried out anywhere. The greater share of the credit falls to Miss Moe and her monitors for the splendid discipline which has been maintained.

One of the attractions at the grounds yesterday afternoon was the exhibition of work done by the nimble fingers of the children during the season. The work consists of examples of needlework, paper cutting, knitting, sewing, reed and raffia baskets and last, but not least, some good examples of clay moulding in which a dozen boys and girls had achieved splendid results.

During the afternoon the organized games, folk dances and other amusements indulged in by the children were a source of amusement and pleasure to those who were fortunate enough to have seen them. In the folk dances the children accompanied their twinkling feet with their tuneful voices, and in the costumes arranged for them made pictures which will be a lasting argument in favor of more playgrounds and perhaps the cultivation of latent talents in the little folks.

There are several things which are needed for the grounds, including paraphernalia for the out-door gymnasium and a tent for shelter during the wet spells and hot sunshiny days.

This afternoon the children are enjoying a final party where refreshments are being served to the youngsters as well as the parents who have cared to attend. There were more today than yesterday, and judging from some of the statements made to a reporter of The Daily Press, the entire playground commission would have had difficulty in escaping the thanks of the women who wanted to tell them so many complimentary things.

And the best part of it was that the praise was all deserved, particularly to Miss Moe, and all those who have assisted her in the work.

Acted as Church Soloist.

Mrs. Mary McNeill Hopcraft, who conducts a vocal studio in the Babcock building, and who has been spending the summer at Digby, Nova Scotia, will return home in September to open her studio. While in Nova Scotia, Mrs. Hopcraft for several Sundays acted as soloist at the services held at the Old French church, Grand Pre, N. S. Her singing delighted the large congregations attending these services.

Announce Engagement.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Patrick J. Melvin, of this city, and Miss Mary Lynch, daughter of Patrick Lynch, of Berckman street. The couple will be married within a short time at St. Mary's church.

HOOLEY BRINGS HOME MANY MORE TROPHIES

At the Lehigh Valley Kennel Club show held at the beautiful Central Park, Allentown, Pa., yesterday, A. G. Hooley's English setters won twelve cups and six medals. Meadowview Rock won the President's cup for best dog in the entire show, beating "Pride of York," the wonderful Airedale Terrier just imported and who was considered one of the best dogs in England. This was one of the greatest honors Mr. Hooley's dogs have won, and he was congratulated on all sides by breeders and exhibitors.

Meadowview Rock, the dog which won this signal victory, is the dog which has won the trophy for best English setters for the past two years in the New York show and was bred by Mr. Hooley. Charles G. Hopton, one of the most prominent international judges, handed out the ribbons in the specials, and Harry M. Posten, for many years the leading exhibitor and breeder of English setters, judged the English setters. Mr. Hooley also won first and reserved winners in dogs and bitches and eight blues and eighteen special ribbons.

EUROPEAN TOURISTS HOME

Party of Twenty-nine Make Eighty-seven Day Trip Without Accident.

THEY SEE THE PASSION PLAY.

Climbing the Jungfrau Being Made a Pastime by Swiss Engineers Italy's Hills are Explored.

Returning after his 82d tourist trip in which his party of twenty-nine people covered a distance of 11,500 miles, A. V. D. Honeyman said this morning that not a single day during the trip did the thermometer get above 70 degrees Fahrenheit, nor was more than a half-day spent indoors because of rain.

The trip occupied eighty-seven days. The party left New York on June 7 and returned on Monday last aboard the steamer Prince Frederick Wilhelm, and during the entire trip nothing of moment occured to mar the pleasure of the entire party.

A new experience was given Mr. Honeyman's party and one which later will become common—up the famous Jungfrau on a railroad built especially for tourists seemed a few years ago an impossibility, but the Swiss engineers have surmounted almost impossible obstacles and have extended the iron rails in a circuitous path up to within 200 feet of the summit of one of the most difficult climbing propositions ever encountered by travelers and explorers.

Mr. Honeyman said this morning that the greatest problem to be solved after the summit of Jungfrau is reached will be how to keep the perpetually falling snow from the entrance to the top. An average depth of ten to twelve feet of the beautiful is always to be found there, and it will require some ingenuity to overcome the trouble caused by the continuous snowfall.

Among the places visited by the party, Oberammergau and the Passion Play were distinctly novel to the voyagers. In Italy, Ravenna was visited, and it is believed that this is the first time that a party of Americans has penetrated thus far into the Italian hills.

BOROUGH REPUBLICANS TO ORGANIZE SEPTEMBER 6.

There was only a small attendance at the meeting of the Republican voters of North Plainfield in Debele's auditorium, last night, and consequently nothing definite was done in the line of organization. Mayor Newton B. Smalley and about fifteen of the "old faithfuls" were on hand and the political situation for this year was discussed at length. After an hour and a half of political talk, it was decided to postpone the meeting for organization to Tuesday night, September 6 in Debele's auditorium.

Considerable interest was taken by those present in the proposed outing of the Republicans of Somerset county to Witzel's Point on the 14th of next month. A large delegation is expected to attend from the borough.

Funeral of Henry Vroom.

The funeral of Henry Vroom, whose death occurred at Muhlenberg Hospital, Monday morning, following a paralytic stroke on Saturday, was held at 10 o'clock this morning from the home of his daughter, Mrs. Etta S. Young, 777 Clinton avenue. Rev. John Hart, pastor of the Reformed church, Neshanic, conducted the service. Afterward the remains were taken to Readington, Hunterdon county, for burial in the family plot.

Free Outing for the Poor.

The free outing for the poor of the city to be given by the local corps of the Salvation Army at Wayside Park, Labor Day, promises to be a big success. Arrangements are complete for the transportation of the people. Captain Hewitt would like to hear from a number of persons who could spare their automobiles for half-hour in the morning to convey at least one party of children to the park.

Business and Pleasure Trip.

W. R. Codington, Dr. P. J. Zeglio, James C. Manning, John E. Dunn, of this city, and H. C. Croffott, of New York, will leave tomorrow night for New Foundland, N. S., combining a business trip with pleasure. They will inspect some timber lands, and also enjoy fishing and hunting.

Funeral of Francis W. Hanaford.

MR. FOWLER TO TALK ABOUT HIMSELF AGAIN

Carrying the battle to Judge Runyon's own stamping ground, Representative Charles N. Fowler, who is fighting the Plainfielder for the Republican Congressional nomination, has arranged for another mass meeting to be held at The Plainfield theatre on Friday night. The galaxy of speakers will include Mr. Fowler, Representative Victor Murdock, of Kansas, William P. Martin, of Newark, the Progressive candidate for the Gubernatorial nomination, and Louis V. Hoagland and Lester E. Wurfel, of Elizabeth, anti-organization candidates for Assembly.

Both Congressional candidates will cover the three counties on a still hunt for support. Judge Runyon will "shake hands" with Morris county folk tomorrow and Friday, and on Saturday he will jump over into Warren county. During the fore part of next week he will campaign in Union.

OLD NASSAU'S GRADS TO 'ROOT' FOR WILSON

As a result of the recent announcement by Woodrow Wilson that he would accept the Democratic nomination for Governor of New Jersey if it appeared that such was the wish of "a decided majority of the thoughtful Democrats of the State," a movement has been started to unite the 1,400 members of the Princeton Alumni Association in New Jersey in support of Mr. Wilson. With this end in view, a circular has been sent to each member of the association asking his aid in furthering the candidacy of Princeton's president.

The circular says that if the tide continues to run as at present the nomination of Mr. Wilson seems certain, but that there is always danger of an eleventh hour change, and that it behooves the friends of Mr. Wilson to get together and work hard in his behalf. It goes on to say:

"This is clearly an unusual opportunity for the friends of good government in New Jersey. In the judgment of qualified observers his nomination is equivalent to an election by a very large majority. Regardless of all partisan and personal considreations, New Jersey would be tremendously the gainer through the entrance of Woodrow Wilson into the official and political life of the State."

GAVE LUNCHEON IN HONOR OF THE BRIDAL PARTY.

A delightful luncheon was given yesterday in honor of Miss Eva C. Kelly, daughter of Mrs. Lillian Kelley, of Putnam avenue, to the young woman who will assist at her wedding to Leslie R. Stewart, of Lenox avenue, next week. The decorations comprised yellow roses, a wedding bell suspended over the dining table, from which the favors were drawn. The handsome place-cards were hand-painted by Miss Kelly, the feature being daffodils.

The guests at the luncheon were Mrs. Chester Briggs and Miss Bessie Moore, of Cranford; Miss Sue Lowrie, of Dunellen; Miss Ethel Prior, Miss Clara Crane, Miss Elizabeth Pound and Miss Leontine Huntsman.

WATCHUNG SILK MILLS NOT ON THE MARKET.

According to one of th stockholders of the Watchung Silk Company, the concern has not changed hands, neither has it been sold. The company has only arranged a change in the distributing agents in New York.

The new agents are T. J. Mitchell & Co., and it is the intention of the owners of the mill to continue to push the sale of their product through the new agency. The mill has now enjoyed a continuous growth from twenty to nearly a hundred looms and is still adding to its equipment.

New Bank Vault.

A huge steel vault, constructed by the Manganese Steel Safe Co., is on the siding just west of the Park avenue bridge. The vault is consigned to the State Trust Company, the newly organized bank which is to be opened in the Marsh building, corner of Park avenue and Second street, opposite the Plainfield Trust Company's building.

Howard Drake a Benedict.

Howard Drake, son of Henry J. Drake, of North avenue, was married this afternoon. The bride is Miss Josie Banks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Banks, of 207 Netherwood avenue. Mr. Drake was for some time in the employ of H. C. VanEmburgh, of this city.

STREET IMPROVEMENTS

Noticeable Decrease to Objections Against Top Dressing Here.

PLAINFIELD HAS THE BEST.

Observations of Mayor Fisk Show That Investment in Good Roads Pays—Darrow Avenue Example.

That the efforts to make Plainfield's streets and roads the best that human ingenuity can devise is being successful, is a matter which nobody can deny. The conditions confronting the City Fathers at the beginning of the "better road" era have so far been improved that there is scarcely any necessity for comparison. As an example of what has been done within a couple of years, Darrow avenue can be referred to with pride.

It has been noticeable that the objections first raised against the different compositions for building a lasting roadbed had been used by the city have entirely disappeared, and now people are all praising the foresight of those who are responsible for the great improvement.

During Mayor Fisk's trip home from the Adirondacks, his Honor stopped off at Albany and took extensive rides through the roads outside New York's capital city. He discovered that the asphalt had been used in great quantities there and that it was accorded the premier position among the best of road building binders. The Tarvia preparation also made a good impression on the Mayor so far as direct value is concerned, but there remains a distinct belief that in the final array of good roads preparations some asphalt combination will survive the test and become universally used.

The added cost of maintaining a road once topped with an asphalt binder seems to be at first glance an extravagance not to be countenanced, but on deeper reflection the known results of such a composition must have its inevitable results in convincing the sceptical that expense in the line of road building eventually results in economy. And this theory has been proved to a large extent in Albany.

DOG BITTEN BY SNAKE BUT WHISKEY SAVED HIM

While Borough Councilman William L. Smalley, Jr., was walking through the mountains yesterday afternoon with his valuable hunting dog, the canine suddenly emitted a howl, and started to limp. Mr. Smalley looked down and saw a big copper-head snake scooting off in the bushes. The dog's leg began to swell and the councilman knew that the reptile had bitten his dog.

Mr. Smalley lost no time in summoning a veterinary surgeon, who recommended that the best cure for the dog was a stiff dose of whiskey. The liquor was then forced down the victim's mouth, much against his wishes. The canine soon became tipsy and Mr. Smalley had to tie him up to prevent him from whipping all the dogs in the neighborhood. This morning the dog was sober and the swelling on his leg has receded in size.

When the wound was opened by the surgeon yesterday afternoon the fangs of the reptile were plainly visible.

FUNERAL SERVICES OF JAMES M. DUNN HELD

The funeral services of James M. Dunn, the pioneer grocer, who died suddenly on Saturday, were held yesterday afternoon from the late home on East Fifth street. Rev. Franklin K. There was a good attendance of relatives and friends, including several of the older residents of the city who had known Mr. Dunn for many years.

Mr. Mathiews, after reading the Scripture lesson, made eulogistic remarks concerning the life of the departed, referring impressively to his exemplary home, business and church life, and of the grand record which he left behind him. He spoke of his Christian devotion to his home and family and to his church.

During the service Miss Etta Raybert sang two selections, "Lead Kindly Light" and "Nearer, My God, to Thee." There were a great many beautiful floral tributes, including those bearing the inscription, "Papa" and "Grandpa," and in addition several from friends and neighbors. The burial was in the Evergreen cemetery on Plainfield avenue, and the pall-bearers were Oliver B. Leonard, John Joseph Randolph, A. L. Force, Albert G. Thorn, William H. Shotwell and John L. Brower.

A WOMAN'S BACK.

The Aches and Pains Will Disappear if the Advice of this Plainfield Citizen is Followed.

A woman's back has many aches and pains.

Most times 'tis the kidneys' fault.

Backache is really kidney ache;

That's why Doan's Kidney Pills cure it.

Many Plainfield women know this.

Read what one has to say about it:

Mrs. Margaret Reville, 732 W. Third St., Plainfield, N. J., says: "For a long time I was troubled by a weak and lame back and I was unable to find anything that would give me relief. My back pained me so badly that I could hardly stoop and when I caught cold or over-exerted myself my suffering was doubled. Doan's Kidney Pills, procured from Randolph's Pharmacy, helped mea t once and I continued taking them until I was cured. I have had no need of a kidney remedy in the past two years, but value Doan's Kidney Pills today as highly as ever."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

WESTFIELD.

In order to enable every property owner in Westfield to know the valuations, the Council proposes to have the tax duplicate printed and circulated among the taxpayers. The financial statement of the town is issued in pamphlet form every year, but the publishing of the tax duplicate is a new idea, and is in a measure the result of the agitation of last year over alleged unequal assessments.

VOTING MACHINES TO SCRAP HEAP.

Another violent push was given voting machines by voters of East Orange yesterday when citizens of the Third district, Third ward, and the Fourth district Fifth ward, consigned to oblivion the devices. In the Fifth ward district only five voters wanted to keep the machines from the scrap heap, while forty citizens voted the other way.

The other district gave 37 votes against the machine and 11 in its favor. Little interest was taken in the question of sending the machines away as it was generally agreed they were not desired.

The Fifth ward machine had seen in its brief history some vigorous protests from voters and in the early days of the machine aged men declined to monkey with the contrivance, and had vowed never to vote again until it was removed. These men will have their first chance in years at the coming election to cast ballots.

We make a specialty of outfitting children for school. Here you will find a superior line of handsome dresses—all smartly fashioned and made to fit perfectly. Save yourself the bother of home sewing—we offer ready-to-wear dresses that will prove satisfactory in every way.

CHILDREN'S SCHOOL DRESSES
98c TO $2.98

It's surprising to most women how we can sell such neatly, well-made dresses for the children, 4 to 14, at such very reasonable prices. A great many of those who used to do their sewing for the girls say they will not spend the time at the sewing machine when the ready-made dresses are so pretty, and fit so nicely, and such little difference in the price is not enough to pay for the bother and worry—for instance—we show a neat little Percale Dress in neat checks at 98c and $1.25, or a dress made of the ever serviceable "Galatea" at $1.69 and $1.98 and so neatly matched in trimmings, too. Then Checks and Plain Ginghams at $1.49, $1.98, $2.25 and $2.98. If you have been making your girls' school dresses, just try one of these and you will do less sewing this season.

At 25c, the widely advertised "Black Cat" Stockings on sale here. They are popularly called Leather Stockings, and they do wear mighty long; in two weights, fine and heavy ribbed, with triple knee, and the light weight a lisle finish; we are sole agents in Plainfield for "Black Cat" Stockings; sizes 6 to 11½.

CYCLING.

There is some class to that Eddie McNee. He showed in that race Sunday morning that he is good at almost any distance. After winning three five-mile handicaps, he took second place in the ten-mile event Sunday. And he is well in the lead for the point prize, having twenty-two to his credit.

The standing in the summer's championship races to date is as follows:

	Points.
Eddie McNee	22
William Drake	11
George Simon	11
George Simon	11
Gifford Jones	7
Eddie Simon	6
Percy Haberle	4
W. Southard	3
Raymond Mantz	3
E. S. Burns	3
Jack Todd	3
Robert Guthridge	3
A. F. Miller	1
A. Brokaw	1

The officials in Sunday's race were: Referee, Caspar Waglow; judges, F. S. Sheppard, H. A. Alberts, L. E. Hansen, Frank Dentz, William Klein and Jack Todd; scorers, Horace Martin and A. B. Dunham; handicappear and timer, Jack Horner.

"Bob" Guthridge was there with the speed in that ten-mile race Sunday. The boy from Netherwood made the distance in 27.15, which is going some. He started from scratch.

Percy Haberle was also in his prime in the ten mile eevnt. He was right on Guthridge's heels when the latter crossed the tape. Percy was only a fifth of a second behind him.

Young "Eddie" Simon is training hard for the Labor Day events. He is riding ten miles every night and is then given a hard rub down by his able trainer, Harold Gloak. "The Kid" will have a three-minute handicap and with this added to his regular speed, he will be a figure in the final sprints.

GOLF.

It has been definitely decided to hold the next intercollegiate golf championship tournament over the links of the Essex County Club, Manchester, Mass., September 19 to 24, instead of September 5 to 10, as was originally intended. As usual, the favorites for both individual and team honors are representatives of Yale, Harvard and Princeton.

According to B. P. Merriman, the Yale captain, the Blue is stronger than ever this year. The team will consist of Merriman, Robert E. Hunter, Harry G. Legg, recent winner of the trans-Mississippi championship; Karl E. Mosser, Robert Gardner, the national title holder, and Chapin Tubbs or George E. Stanley. The last two are substitutes, and Merriman has not decided which will be the choice.

On paper this certainly looks like a great combination—stronger, in fact, than anything yet seen at Yale, unless Robert Abbott's 1906 team is excepted. That year the New Haven institution had Abbott, Dwight Partridge, Eddie Van Vleck, W. H. Lyon, W. E. Howland and Ellis Knowles.

The Harvard captain is McKim Hollins, who is also president of the association. He is able to call upon S. W. Sargent, the exceptionally long driver; H. C. Clark and P. M. Smith. The Crimson will lose W. F. Morgan, Jr., the former captain; C. L. Lanigan and Arthur Sweeney.

Princeton's captain is D. A. Houston. He has Albert Seckel, the intercollegiate champion; A. G. Kay, of Pittsburg; E. A. Eddy and A. G. Van Dyke. F. H. McAdoo, last year's captain, will be missed, but even so the team is bound to be strong.

Williams has R. L. Jackson, captain for the last two years, who will be assisted by E. A. Fish, G. P. Loomis and F. H. Taylor. At the University of Pennsylvania H. B. Heyburn, one of the best in the South this season, will again be on hand, and so will H. P. Kirchner, who reached the semi-final round in the association's individual championship a year ago. K. E. Blair, B. Howle and H. C. Legge are also available.

Dartmouth, Columbia and Cornell are doubtful, although the first named is reasonably certain to have a team. It has been so hard for Columbia and Cornell to muster teams of any strength that they generally content themselves with sending two or three representatives for the individual. Apropos of this end of the tournament, it may be said, that Seckel, Gardner, Legg, Hunter and Merriman will be the favorites.

There will probably be some action taken at the annual meeting, which will be held on the Wednesday evening of the week of the tournament, with regard to the new Western intercollegiate body. C. W. Evans, the former Western champion, is the leading spirit in that organization, and it is understood that he favors a team match or some kind of a contest between the two.

Plainfield, N. J., August 31, 1910.

WHOM THE GODS, ETC., ETC.

Here are some of the gems from the speech deliverd by Charles Newell Fowler at the Plainfield theatre last Thursday night:

I have not ben following the Republican party; the Republican party has been fol'owing me.

It was this impulse in 1895, five years before the Republican party had reached the gold standard, that impelled me with only two other men in the House to come out and advocate the gold standard when everybody was for silver.

In the intervening years I have done what I could to educate the American people on the tariff commission, and the position taken by me now I advocated thirteen years ago and have been advocating it for thirteen years.

Here is a case where I have been conducting a fight for thirteen years and I have just got it now and the President is rising to fame because he is going to revise the tariff by schedule.

Two years ago I became convinced that the House of Representatives as organized was the most gigantic scheme for blackmailing that existed anywhere.

I took a solemn obligation that if I lived I would follow these two men (Speaker Cannon and Senator Aldrich) until I drove them both out of public life if it was in my power.

POLITICAL TALK.

Harold J. Howland, associate editor of "The Outlook," and the Progressive candidate for the Republican nomination for Congress in the Fifth New Jersey district, has issued a challenge to R. Wayne Parker, the present Representative, who is a candidate for renomination, to meet him in joint debate.

Yesterday was the last day on which delegates to the Congressional convention may file their papers, and so far as the 2d District is concerned not a single delegate has been chosen save those already instructed to present the name of Congressman John J. Gardner. In view of the much talked of opposition that would be made to Mr. Gardner, this would appear that he would have a walk-over and would receive the unanimous vote of the convention for the nomination.

J. Rogers Maxwell Getting Well.

J. Rogers Maxwell, president of the Atlas Portland Cement Company, is recovering at the Long Island College Hospital, Brooklyn, from an operation performed a week ago for internal trouble. Dr. J. A. DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

The fund for a public library in the borough is aagin being forwarded by Arthur Bogardus, one of the most interested boroughites in the proposed building, is also hard at work and from present indications, it loks as though the much talked of institution would become a reality. Nearly everyone in the borough is in favor of the proposition and if sufficient funds are procured from the citizens of Dunellen, the State will contribute a large share toward the expense of such an institution. It has been suggested that the new building be erected next to the town hall.

Cornelius Huff, of North avenue, who has been living in Liberty, N. Y., for some time for the benefit of his health, has rturned to the borough for a visit. Mr. Huff is much improved in health but expects to go back to Liberty to take up farming in that vicinity.

The Young Americans, a team of boys from the borough, defeated the Wayside A. C., at Wayside Park in an exciting baseball game Friday by the score 9-2. The second game between these two nines was won by the Waysides, 5-4.

The Maloney Bros. A. C. defeated the Lincoln A. C. at New Market, Saturday morning by the scor of 9-2. The game was an exciting one.

Edward Quinn, of Dunellen avenue, and James and William Greenhalgh, of North avenue, spent Sunday at Boynton Beach.

Alden Wilmot, of Washington avenue, resumed his business in New York city, Monday morning after a two weeks' vacation.

The Holy Name cadets received communion in a body at the St. John's Roman Catholic church Sunday morning.

Manager Charles Adams, of the borough baseball team, went to New York city Monday on business. More games?

Miss Katherine Rinehart, of North avenue, has returned from a two-weeks' vacation in Waterbury, Conn.

Benjamin Cole, Jr., of Washington avenue, has returned from a week's visit in Ocean Grove.

Charles Tinsman spent Monday in New York on business.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The public school reopens for the fall term one week from Tuesday, Sept. 13, at 9 a. m. There will be but four changes in the corps of teachers. Miss H. M. Squier, who was obliged to give up teaching early in the spring on account of her health, has recovered and will resume her position again. Miss Anna Sullivan, of Little Falls, N. Y., is one of the new members. Miss Sullivan has had several years' experience, is a normal graduate and comes well recommended. At school number 2 Mr. Clarence Honestine, of Kentshrdluer, Pa., has been engaged as principal, his assistant being Miss Georgette Lee.

Money well spent was the amount paid by the township for oiling the street. The covering of oil still does its work and this is the first summer in many moons that the residents have been able to sit on their porches and enjoy an hour's airing.

Briant Johnston, of Westfield avenue, who has been enjoying a two weeks' fishing trip along the coast, has returned home. Briant's trip reduced the number of fish in the Atlantic some, but there is still some left for the other fishermen.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Walpole and daughter, Mrs. Hattie Brasch, of Front street, have returned from a two weeks' visit with friends at Valley Centre, N. Y.

A new iron bridge is being erected over the Central tracks on Terrell road to replace the old wooden structure which has done duty for many years.

The Misses Lillian and Marjorie Demarest, of Front street, have returned from a week's sojourn at Asbury Park.

The regular monthly covenant meeting of the Baptist church will be held tonight in the parlors of the church.

THEATRE SEASON PLANS

ment of Earl Brugess in repertoir plays. Recently, she played with great success at the Alhambra, Milwaukee, and in Minneapolis. She is a grand-niece of Robert E. Lee, and is naturally proud of the fact. She has won her way to the top through hard, consistent work. A feature of her work is found in the gowns she wears, some of them coting $1,000 easily.

Miss Eleanor Woodruff, who has the reputation of being the youngest second woman, comes from Towanda, Pa. She has been a prominent member of the Orpheum Stock Company, of Philadlphia, and has played with Robert Hilliard, Thomas Jefferson, William Faversham, and has sung with Caruso. She has played all kinds of parts, and has appeard in "The Two Orphans," "As You Like It," "The Rose of the Rancho," "The Middleman," "The Palace of the King," "Rosedale," "Clothes," "Dorothy Verdon of Haddon Hall," and other productions. She has also played character song parts and has much ability as a singer and dancer. Her last work was in taking the leading part in "Just Out of College," presentd at the Broad Street theatre, Philadelphia. She is always accompanied by her mother, as chaperone.

Miss Laurie Davidson, who is the character woman of the company, is a relative of Walter N. Lawrence, who produced the play, "The Three of Us." She has appeared with James K. Hackett and Virginia Harned, and under the maangement of Henry Savage. She played the opposite part to Harry Berresford in "My Friend from Below," and has appeared in many of the musical successes, including "The Sultan of Zulu." Miss Davidson's home is in New York and she comes of a family noted for its achievements in the theatrical profession.

Miss Gloria Gallup, who will take an important part in the forthcoming productions, can almost be called a Plainfield woman. She has been living in this city this summer, where she has made a host of friends. Her first appearance here will be in "St. Elmo."

Harold Mead, who will be the leading man, is an Englishman by birth, but has a farm on Staten Island. For five years he was under the management of David Belasco, appearing in "The Music Master," and "The Grand Army Man." He also appeared with Miss Langtry in light comedy leads, and later with Marie Tempest.

Frederick H. Speare, whose home is in Philadelphia, another member of the company, has also appeared with Sothern and Marlow, and was a member of the Orpheum Stock Compny, of Philadelphia and the Coniss Edwards Stock Company, of Wilmington, Del.

James J. Frawley, a cousin of the famous "Dan" Frawley, of The Spendthrift Company, has been assigned to comedy parts. He has appeared in many of the Cohan & Harris productions and also in vaudeville.

John A. Robb, who hails from Providence, R. I., has been assigned the character parts. He was formerly with the Albee Stock Company, of Providence, and more recently appeared with Elsie Janis in her latest successes. He has a fine, well-trained voice.

John Dougherty, who plays the heavy parts, hails from Bolliver, N. Y., and one of his claims to distinction is that he is a brother to "Pat" Dougherty, the well-known baseball player. He has appeared in "Faust," "The Parish Priest," "Credit Lorraine." During the past year he has played in the west with considerable succes with the Dougherty Brothers' Stock Company.

The box-office for the sale of seats for the forthcoming productions will be on sale tomorrow morning. Under the management of Proctor & Sanderson, the following will comprise the staff at The Plainfield theatre: Harry Brunnell, manager; John Toeller, superintendent; Geo. Pitt, treasurer; Warren F. Hill, stage director; William Vroohm, stage carpenter. Albert Operti the well-known scenic artist is now engaged in painting the scenery for the local productions. Women ushers will be introduced at the theatre and by Monday everything will be in readiness for the initial prformance.

18 CANDIDATES PASSED UNDERTAKERS' TEST

The State Board of Undertakers and Embalmers met yesterday in the office of John F. Martin, the secretary of the board, at Elizabeth, to examine the papers of twenty-six candidates who reecntly took the examination to become undertakers at the Court House in Camden. Out of the twenty-six the following eighteen were successful: J. Allison Kruse, Vineland; Jacob Vonk, Passaic; Eugene J. Mullin, Perth Amboy; Oscar R. Benn, Salem; George W. Kephart, Philadelphia; Lee S. Hagemann, Philadelphia; Sylvio Perrazzo, New York; Clarence Carson, Collingswood; Thomas J. Carroll, Coshohocken, Pa.; J. C. VanMater, Easton, Pa.; W. G. Taylor, Wildwood Crest; W. W. Carpenter, Pearl River, N. Y.; George B. Horner, Stockton; Charles L. Shurtleff, Philadelphia, and Walter H. Ashton, of Reigelsville, Pa.

The State Board is comprised of five members appointed by the Governor, and as the term of office of Raymond S. Taylor, of Camden, expired on July 24 and the death of William J. Allen, of Jersey City, on August 14, the following three members of the board were present: W. Nelson Knapp, of East Orange, president; John F. Martin, of Elizabeth, secretary, and Bernhard F. Schroeder, of Camden.

Governor Fort has not appointed the other two members yet, but it is probable that he will, within the next few days. Those spoken of as being most favorable are John V. Hubbard, of New Brunswick, and George H. Poulson, of Trenton.

The annual meeting of the board will be held at the Coleman House in Asbury Park, on September 6, which will be just prior to the State convention of the New Jersey State Funeral Directors, which will convene at the same place on September 7 to 9.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

Walter Horn, at Lambertville Spoke Works, had his left arm badly cut and torn when caught in machinery Monday.

Five hundred union carpenters of Atlantic City, Pleasantville and Ocean City will hold their annual outing Labor Day at Lenape Park, Mays Landing.

Bitten on the left hand by a dog Monday, B. F. Hunter, fifty-one years old, of 14 Park place, Camden, had the wound cauterized at the Homeopathic Hospital.

Work will be started this week on the new boulevard from Mays Landing to Tuckahoe, the long-desired auto route to Cape May county and its many resorts.

Mildred, the seven-year-old daughter of William Ginley, fell from a sliding-board at the children's playgrounds at Bordentown, and broke and arm and dislocated an elbow.

The body of the man found in the Delaware River at Washington Park on Saturday has been identified as that of Edward L. Marshall, of Leipsic, Del., by William Dilkes, of Mantua, for whom the man worked.

Lawrence Doran, of Camden, who was recently appointed a county detective by Prosecutor Scovel, was sworn into office Monday by Deputy County Clerk Howard Truax and he immediately assumed the duties of his office.

Two men were bitten by horses in Paterson Monday, and both will enter complaints against the owners of the horses in the police court. Michael Passetti, of 168 Mill street, and a man of the name of Brands are the victims.

William S. Black, who left Beverly in 1876, saying he would not return until he had made a fortune, fulfilled his promise, and landed in that town on a visit to relatives, Sunday. He owns a number of large farms near Ravenna, Neb.

Surrounded by their children and grandchildren and friends from several States, Deacon and Mrs. John B. Hoffman, of Shiloh, celebrated their golden anniversary at their home yesterday. Both are in excellent health despite their advanced years.

The C. E. How Company directory for Camden shows more people within the city limits than do the numerators of the Federal census. The official census figures give the city about 96,300 population, while the city directory, on a careful estimate of its published list of names, fixes the total at 97,225. The big book just out, has 6,000 more names than that of last year.

John Weaver, catcher of the Florence Field Club, who was struck by an "inshoot" while at bat on Saturday and was knocked unconscious, remained in that state for ten hours. Then he lapsed into unconsciousness again. During the game two of Weaver's fingers were broken, but he continued in the game.

In a tumble from a third-story window of the home of Mrs. Mary Swift, Second and Arch streets, Camden, through a shed roof Monday, Dayman Lee, forty-seven years old, narrowly escaped from death. He tumbled while walking in his sleep. He was sent to Cooper Hospital, where it was found he had sustained a badly sprained back.

Daniel Phillips, of 86 West Thirtieth street, Bayonne, was awakened Monday by a noise in his yard. He went downstairs and came across two men who were trying to break in. The intruders sprang over a fence and disappeared, leaving behind a big bulldog. The dog remained growling about the yard for two hours, then scampered away.

While assisting in unloading a big stone monument Monday afternoon at Princeton, Charles Dansbury, of 848 Centre street, Trenton, was pinned fast by the falling of the stone and was seriously injured. He is now at St. Francis' Hospital, Trenton, where he is suffering from injuries about the abdomen. His condition is not thought to be fatal.

After spending nearly two hours in an effort to reduce Asbury Park's tax budget for 1910 below the figures of its previous meeting, Council Monday night finally adopted the total of $195,264.61 as the amount of money needed to carry the city through the present year. This is a decrease of $10,760.69 from the previous total of $206,024.61, which was an increase of $20,003.80 over 1909.

Believing that his wife is in the company of Chinese in Trenton, Harrison Williams, a farmer of Lower Makefield township, Bucks County, Pa., went there Monday and solicited the aid of Captain Cleary. Williams is sixty-nine years old, while his wife Laura is but thirty. On Sunday night she left her home after informing her husband that she was going to Trenton to pay a visit at the home of friends.

Policeman Robert W. Colkett, of the Third ward, Camden, was dismissed from the force Monday night after a hearing given him by the Police Committee of City Council on charges of conduct unbecoming an officer and neglect of duty. The charges made against him were made by Sergeant Stow and Antonio Rocco, an agent of the New Jersey Law and Order League. The former charged him with neglect of duty and using profane language and insubordination. No defense was offered.

Severe sentences were imposed by Recorder Stackhouse, of Camden, Monday on two men who had been terrifying women on the streets. One was Tony Caldano, of Mickle, near Second street, who was sentenced to four months in the county jail. The other was Joseph Polinski, accused of trailing and insulting Martha Mitchell, a young negro woman, and a companion, while they were on their way from church. He was sentenced to six months in the county jail.

Because they could not get the money due them as waiters at the Manhasset Hotel, Sea Side Park, so they allege, Cleveland Coles and Clarence Brown, colored, started "rough house" at the hostelry Monday, and then made a break for the beach. After being chased a mile or so they were halted at the muzzle of guns, handcuffed together and taken to Toms River Jail. Before they started away from the hotel, however, they managed to spoil the comliness of the features of Henry S. Black, the head waiter, also colored.

LITERARY

Gross earnings of the twenty-five leading railways for last January amounted in round figures to $37,300,000. There has been no month since last February in which the earnings of these same roads fell so low as $40,000,000 and the figure for July is $42,000,000. As the highest month's earnings of these roads in the buoyant year 1909 was a little less than $48,000,000, there is ample room for argument in these figures that general trade conditions cannot yet be considered very bad. There is a constant tendency to spend more for transportation.—From "The Progress of the World," in the American Review of Reviews for September.

In the September number of Scribner's Magazine Theodore Roosevelt tells of the rarest and, from the naturalist's point of view, the most interesting of his hunting experiences in Africa. The so-called "White" rhino, which has the square nose of the hippopotamus and a hump on its shoulders like the sacred cow, is found in the Belgian Lado along the Nile, where Mr. Roosevelt was permitted to hunt by the Belgian Government. This strange rhino used to be found in South Africa, but it has practically disappeared, and Mr. Roosevelt's account of it in its remaining stronghold, the Lado, is a record of great value. With courage and persistence Kermit was able to make a series of photographs of the living rhino such as has never been equalled. The article contains some wonderful descriptions of the journey down the Nile.

Harry Nash, of DeLacy avenue, is sojourning at Atlantic City for several days.

Miss Elsie Jones, of Jersey City, who has been visiting here, has returned home.

John VanPelt, of Millstone, has been visiting his son, Harvey VanPelt, of the West End.

Mr. and Mrs. Julius E. Erickson, of Hillside avenue, are expected home this week from their summer outing.

John W. Dunn of West Front street, the Republican aspirant for councilmanic honors, left yesterday for a trip to Canada to inspect some fine lands. He will return home within a week or so.

LITTLE SISTER.

She Made Life Worth Living For the Reckless One.

By F. B. WRIGHT.

"Aren't you going to answer my question? Won't you take me with you?"

Clifford Vane turned with surprise as he heard the voice. A girl with deep brown eyes and hair in which there was a tint of gold was standing beside the boat, her skirts blown out against her slender figure. The fluttering sail had made so much noise that Vane had not heard the girl before. He frowned unconsciously, for he was in no humor for company.

"It's too rough today. There's a nasty sea running, and you'll get wet through," he answered.

"As if I cared for that! And if it's so rough why do you venture out?"

"Because I want to, because it suits my mood."

The words sounded rude, but Marjorie Winthrop knew from the intent expression on Vane's face as he gazed out on the black clouds, the sullen green water of the bay and the wind blown whitecaps that he was speaking more to himself than to her.

"And if it suits my mood?"

"You with moods, child?" Vane said wonderingly. "What can you know of thoughts black enough to suit with such a day? Go back to your dolls or read your pretty fairy love stories and believe in their truth as long as you can," he added bitterly.

"You think because I'm only seventeen I'm not to feel and think."

"Think only of pleasant things."

"But if the day suits me it is pleasant. Please take me."

"What will your mother say?"

"She won't care. She only thinks of Edith. If it was Edith, now, it would be different, but I'm not such a valuable cargo. No one will bother about me."

There was a quaver in the girl's voice that made Vane look at her. She was looking out over the yeasty water with misty eyes and set mouth.

"All right," said Vane after a moment's hesitation. "I'm in a reckless mood. Let fate take care of us. What will be will be. Jump in."

* * * * * * *

It was a gusty day, and the Dot, too light for such weather, her lee rail almost under water, staggered under the flaws, every now and then burying her nose into the rollers and sending a shower of spray into the boat. Vane had all he could do to manage her and for a time forgot his companion and almost his gloomy thoughts in the grim pleasure of his contest with wind and storm lashed sea. It was Edith Winthrop he was thinking of, the woman who had led him on to love her and then thrown him over for another man. Edith did not care. Every one must be sacrificed for her amusement—yes, even this child, her sister. At the thought he glanced at the girl where she sat poised out to windward, like some spirit of the sea, her hair blowing in the wind, her cheeks aglow with excitement, her eyes fixed with a faraway look on the horizon. Vane had never noticed how pretty she was before. He had always thought of her as a mere child, and, lo, she was a woman! What was she thinking of? he wondered.

As if in answer to the question Marjorie turned and met his eyes for an instant and then looked away.

"You've heard of Edith's engagement?" she said.

"Yes," answered Vane, setting his teeth hard. "I found it out only today."

"I knew it weeks ago. You thought she cared for you?"

"Yes."

"You might have known she didn't. Van Allstyne is a richer man than you—in money. It's wealth and power she wants, and attention and admiration. Love! She doesn't know what it means. And you thought she had a heart!" cried the girl. "This sea has more."

"I know it now," said Vane, "when it's too late."

"And you—can you care for her still?" asked Marjorie after a silence.

"Yes—at least I care for the ideal I thought her."

"What did you think her?"

"Brave, courageous, noble hearted, with a soul as beautiful as her body, a comrade for a man, to face with him the storms of life, a woman tender and true, to fight for and dare for. I would have tried to give her everything she wanted. No man can love her as I do—and now"— Vane laughed bitterly as an ending to his sentence.

"Why did you come out today in this gale?" said Marjorie. "Is your life so worthless to you that you would risk it because a thoughtless woman has wounded you?"

"My life! What does it matter? I don't care."

"I thought you didn't," returned the girl gravely. "I knew you didn't. That's why I came. I couldn't let you come alone."

"And you came because you thought"—

"You would be reckless? Yes."

"And you were not afraid?"

"No. Why should I be? I knew you would take care of me—if not of yourself." The girl smiled at him confidently. "I am perfectly safe with you," she added.

So Marjorie had risked her life for him so that in his desperate humor he should not go alone. But how came she, a mere child, to understand? She, at least, had a heart to make some man happy. And here he was putting her life at the mercy of the sea to gratify his selfish mood of bitterness. Well, he must get her home at once—then—Van thought he did not much care what happened afterward.

It was blowing harder as Vane came about and slacked the sheet for the run to the far distant boathouse and the hotel on the hill. They were going before the wind now, the boat rolling dangerously in the clutch of the sea, the waves behind following with hungry jaws and threatening every moment to engulf them.

With braced body and strained muscles, every sense alert, Vane gripped the tiller, striving to hold the boat against the swirling buffets of the waves, his one thought to get her safe to land. Every moment the wind increased, every moment the bay became more tumultuous. Would they make it? he wondered.

They were nearly opposite the boathouse when there came a sudden whirl of wind from between the hills ahead. Vane had but time to cry a warning when the sail jibed, the boom came swinging over with an angry snarl, the boat was flung upon her beam ends, and the next moment he found himself entangled in cordage and battling for his life beneath the waves. With desperate fingers he cleared himself and came to the surface. And Marjorie—where was she? Had she been struck by the boom and made unconscious or killed, or had she, too, been carried down by the sinking boat?

For an agonized moment Vane could see no sign of her, and then he spied her just coming to the surface. She was going down again when he caught her and started for the shore. It was a long swim against a tide that seemed to drag him down as if with clutching hands, but Vane swore he would save this girl who had risked her life for him or lose his own. He could see people running to the boathouse now and getting out the boat. How slow they were! Would they never come? His muscles were giving out; his breath came heavily; his limbs felt like lead. Could he hold out? They were wearing fast now. He tried to revive his failing strength, to overmaster his weakness. The world grew black before him, and then a strong arm gripped his shoulder, and he and Marjorie were lifted into the boat and rowed toward shore.

* * * * * * *

In those days afterward, while Marjorie hovered between life and death, Clifford Vane learned how much he could do for this girl, this girl he thought was a child and now knew to be the woman in all the world for him. Gone was his love for Edith Winthrop. He knew now that he had in her sister all that Edith had seemed and more. And there came a day when he was permitted to see her.

He found her on an upper piazza of the hotel clad in a soft blue wrapper, her soft hair loose on her shoulders, and the smile her pale face held for him gave him hope that in saving her he had found happiness.

The English Soldier.

In Wellington's day death was the almost invariable punishment of the soldier who deserted in time of war, while even in peace time such atrocious sentences as 1,000 lashes with the "cat" were by no means infrequently inflicted. Yet in spite of this desertion was far more prevalent than it now is, for enlistment then was for life, and to "take French leave" was the only way out of it. Today the soldier is well fed, well paid and well cared for, and he does not desert, at all events to any great extent. He stops absent without leave, he "skips out" of one regiment in order to join some other he likes better, he rejoins the colors from the reserve under an assumed name, and so on, but these things, although reprehensible enough in themselves, fall short of desertion as popularly understood, although some of them are officially classed as such. Actual out and out desertion is, in fact, the rarest of army crimes nowadays.—London Tit-Bits.

He Knew the Requirements.

Uncle Silas in his youth had been "fond of the society of the opposite sex," to use his own words, and the timidity of his twenty-three-year-old nephew was a great trial to him.

"What's the matter of you, Rod, that you stick at home Sunday evenings?" he demanded plainly after many unavailing hints. "Why don't you go calling on some of your young lady friends, boy?"

"Oh, I don't care about it," said Rodney, turning a lively crimson. "They wouldn't find me interesting."

"Wouldn't?" puffed Uncle Silas. "Well, I should like to be told why they wouldn't! You've got a good black suit and a new hat, and you've got a pair of legs that could take you to the candy shop on Sat'day night and enough pockets to put a box or two in. I should like to know what more you need to make 'em find you interesting."—Youth's Companion.

The Great Advantage.

The preacher is usually no doubt the last man to recognize the sermon as the church emptier. But one worthy Scotsman, Dr. Robert Henry, author of the "History of Great Britain Written on a New Plan," showed by a sly joke that he did. He shared a charge with Dr. Macknight, whose dullness in the pulpit was appalling, and Dr. Henry's own humor does not seem to have attracted congregations. One day he dwelt with remarkable emphasis to his colleague on the blessing it was that there were two of them in one kirk, and Macknight, courteously acknowledging the advantage to himself, said he did not see how it benefited other people. "Ah," said Henry, "an it hadna been for that there wad have been twa toom (empty) kirks this day."—London Chronicle.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Sept. 4, 1910.

Topic.—Christ our Saviour.—John iii, 6-21. (Consecration meeting.) Edited by Rev. Sherman H. Doyle, D. D.

The word "salvation" is one of the most precious words in the human language. Our word salvation comes from the Latin salvare, which means to save, to keep, to preserve, and other similar expressions.

The field for the possibilities of salvation is a broad one. In many ways and under many forms human life, the human soul, material prosperity and even nations may be saved. No matter in what form the salvation may take place, it is always appreciated by men. Let a fireman climb a ladder and save a mother and child and he becomes a hero. Let a ship be saved at sea by the deed of a heroic captain, by the action of the wireless telegrapher who stands at his post at the risk of his life, and the world hales them as saviors and crowns them as heroes.

The world's recognized supreme Saviour is the Lord Jesus Christ—Christ, our Saviour! This lies in the fact that Christ came to save and does save the souls of men. Moreover, the value of Christ as our Saviour is immensely increased by the fact that in no other way than through Him is salvation possible. No angel, however high his estate in heaven; no man, no matter how powerful or how great or how exalted a position he may occupy in life, has any power to save the soul. "No man," said Christ Himself, "can come to the Father but by Me," and of Him the Apostle Peter said, "Neither is there salvation in any other, for there is none other name under heaven given among men whereby we must be saved." Jesus, our Saviour, is our only Saviour, and this should lead us to appreciate His salvation, for, since He alone could save us, if He had not done so we would have no opportunity of being saved. Increased gratitude is due our Saviour because only by His death could He save us, and that He might save us He died on the cross in our stead. Taking our sins upon Him, He ascended the cross and paid the penalty of them by dying in our stead. He also lived a perfect, sinless life, which, by faith in Him, is imputed to us, and we also are considered righteous by God. Made righteous by His righteousness and our sins atoned for by His death we are saved, provided we have accepted the conditions of faith in Christ, for it is by faith in Him and the acceptance of Him as our substitute that we can be saved.

Christ, our Saviour, is a universal Saviour. "God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life, for God sent not His Son into the world to condemn the world, but that the world, through Him, might be saved." The love of God was the inspiration of man's salvation, and as His love is worldwide so is the salvation that He offers to the world. It is not universal in the sense that all will be saved, but rather that it is to be offered to all and possesses the power to save all. But all do not want to be saved upon the conditions. "He that believeth in Him is not condemned, but he that believeth not on Him is condemned already." Christ came to bring light into the world. He is "the Light of the World." But some prefer darkness to light because their deeds are evil. Such have no hope while in that condition of being saved.

Christ, our Saviour, offers a free salvation. It is "without money and without price." In this world we pay for all we get. Salvation, the eternal life of the soul, is free. How inexcusable, therefore, if we do not accept it and are eternally condemned! The responsibility rests upon us.

Christian Endeavor's Power In China.

In the spring of 1909, says the Central China Christian, some delegates from the society in Chuchow went with flying banners to the Nanking Christian Endeavor convention. Here they learned that only four societies were at work in their province, and they determined that they would wipe out that blot. They started at home. They opened a branch in the hospital and called it the Young Men's Christian Endeavor. Meetings were held nightly for patients and neighbors. Then the schoolboys got the fever and started a branch in the school. They opened with tea, sweetmeats, etc. When they began one boy was a Christian. Now ten are followers of the Master. Every one carries a pocket Testament and reads it every day. Then the church in Chuchow held a convention, and an afternoon was given to Christian Endeavor. When the audience flocked to the church ushers met them and presented each with a Christian Endeavor badge in two colors. Then speakers told about the movement, how it started, what it is for and how it is organized in out stations. A call for the names of those that would join the society if one were started in their home station brought a response from forty-three visiting delegates. This showed visiting pastors what they might do with Christian Endeavor. To clinch the impression, to each one present was given a bag of nuts and fruit. On the inside of the bag was sewed a strip on which was printed: "You have eaten the fruit of Christian Endeavor. Now go forth and bear fruit yourself." And that is exactly what they will do.

BROOKLYN ELKS AT OVAL TOMORROW P. M.

The line-up of the Elks' baseball team, which will attempt to put it over the local men tomorrow afternoon, was received by Captain Marcus Hoyt this afternoon, and from the appearance of the bunch it looks as though there will be something out of the ordinary happening tomorrow. The lodgemen representing this city have learned some of the tricks which will probably confuse the delegation from the City of Churches, and now that it has been definitely announced that Warry McLaughlin will be unable to fling his wing owing to having wrenched it in a recent game, Lew Wiltse is sure to be on the mound.

John Dunne, who appears on the score-card as "amateur episode maker" for Brooklyn, is one of the few willing men hep to all the curves and twists known to the baseball world and one of the finest interpreters of the false motions of his opponent that ever happened.

The manager of the Brooklyn team believes that his tribe of hitsmiths is going to escort a plainly-won baseball away from this burg in a Jersey peach basket, but our ball dopes and psychologists believe differently and this is the reason:

BASEBALL.

In advance of the Elks' baseball game on the Oval tomorrow afternoon, the East and West Front street merchants will decide the championship of the Gay White Way. Both teams have won two games and now comes the final struggle for the envied reputation as the prize nine of the shopkeepers federation. Two of the best clerks in the baseball business will hand over the goods, Cor-Enders and Otto Linke being on the mound artist for the other gang.

The East Enders have been playing some classy ball of late and have been startling the baseball world with their wonderful achievements. The game will start at 1.30 sharp nings can be played.

The Elks are sure to draw a big crowd and with this added attraction on the program, the attendance ought to be overwhelming. Souvenirs will be given to everybody at the second game.

The merchants will line up according to the following dope: West Linke, p.; Young, lf.; Cullen, 2b.; J. Wilson, 3b.; G. Linke, ss.; Shirley, cf.; Pasch, rf.

East End—Snell, 2b.; McAfee, rf.; N. Luthman, 1b.; Dodge, ss.; E. Luthman, 3b.; Ayers, lf.; Lohrman, cf.; Fuchs, c.; Corriell, p.

There is sure to be some excitement on the oval Saturday afternoon when the Plainfield team lines up against Dunellen for the deciding game of the series. The first time that these nines met this season, the Dunellen boys were victorious by the score of 1-0. In the second game the local balltossers carried home the bacon with the odds at 2-1. Now what will be the score of the third game and which team will be on top?

Smiling Jimmie Montross had the hooks on that Railroad bunch at Dunellen, Saturday. He held them down to five hits, struck out five men, and gave two free passes. Jimmie is still in the game and don't forget that. In other words—he can come back.

The West End A. C., of this city, had what might be termed hard luck in its game with North Branch, Saturday. The score was a tie in the ninth inning, when with one man on base. Arthur Staats, of the opposing team drove a home run into the wilds of centrefield and thus the game was lost.

The Plainfield team has the rep of no defats on the home grounds this season. But the McNulty Brothers are coming for two games on Labor Day, one in the morning and one in the afternoon—and then perhaps the record of the local aggregation will be shattered. But Doerflinger's cubs will fight hard and everyone knows what that means.

Ellis, the left fielder of the St. Louis Cardinals, made an enviable record with the stick in the game with the Brooklyn Dodgers yesterday. He clouted to the tune of 1.000, making four hits out of four times at bat. He swatted a triple and then got to base on four wide ones. Needless to say, the Saints won the game and did a good job of it while they were going for the Superbas were smothered 14-2.

In the Y. M. C. A. game Saturday there were two clever exhibitions of bunting. DuMont perpetrated the first one, sending the ball straight into Slocum's hands, and the other show was made by Frederickson, who laid down as pretty a slow roller as anyone could wish to see. He reached the initial bag long before the sphere got there and Freddie is no speeder either.

Pierson Bailey, the old North Plainfield high school diamond star, was the real noise in centre field for the association team Saturday. He nailed four long flies and kept up to scratch all the time.

The Newark Eastern Leaguers have joined the "can come backs." They took the measure of the Bisons yesterday and climbed to within one game of the leading Rochester team. Rube Waddell, the St. Louis Browns' cast off, started in to pitch for the Tigers but weakened in the sixth inning and went to the club house to recuperate.

All Elks, who expect to take part in the game tomorrow with the Brooklyn Lodge, No. 22, are wanted at the oval this afternoon for a romp and a little practice in the use of their baseball antlers.

And by the way—those Brooklyn Elks are considered to be the best baseball team in the lodge. But the local boys say that they are from Missouri.

It will be either Warry or Lew Wiltse in that game at the Oval tomorrow. If the old Plainfield war horse recovers from his attack of rheumatism, he will occupy the mound but if he is unable to deliver his slants, Lew Wiltse, a former league pitcher will do the twirling.

And now how about that deciding game in the merchants' series? The dispute that started the baseball fever among the shopkeepers hasn't been settled yet.

And Plainfield and Somerville will revive the old baseball rivalry this year. Five games have been scheduled by Manager Doerflinger for the last part of the season.

Fair Play:—In answer to your query, Jack Martin did get three hits: The first one came in the first inning, when Boyd was on third and Jack hit a swift one toward shortstop and Pfeiffer stopped it with his bare hand, throwing the ball to the plate while he stood on one foot. In the estimation of the Daily Press scorer this was a hit for Martin since Pfeiffer would never have been able to have thrown Jack out at first. His second hit was a clean single in the third inning and the third one was a double in the fifth. Three hits.

P. C. C. PLANNING FOR THE CLUB CHAMPIONSHIP TOURNEY

The club championship of the Plainfield Country Club, will be one of the interesting features this fall. The date has not yet been definitely decided, but the qualifying round will probably be played on September 10, at which time most of the players will be home from their summer vacations.

As is the usual custom the winner of the club championship will have his name engraved on the championship cup presented by George A. Chapman, and in addition receive a gold medal, and the runner-up in this competition will reecive a silver medal. There will also, undoubtedly, be a prize offered for the second eight in the qualifying round to be played for at match play. Announcements regarding the events on Labor Day, Election Day and Thanksgiving Day will be made soon.

SAVAGE GOES TO THE DEATH CHAIR

Trenton, Aug. 31.—Edward Savage, a former Pullman porter, who killed Mrs. Ada Snell in Jersey City last October, was carried to the death chair in the State prison last night. The two deputies who performed the task laid the wasted form of the once muscular negro in the chair as though he were a helpless invalid. Savage died without uttering a sound, maintaining the silence which has been his part during most of the term of his imprisonment.

Savage's case had been through the Court of Errors and Appeals and his conviction by the Hudson county court was sustained. Some time ago, his counsel, Francis Spraggins, brought the case to the attention of Governor Fort by means of a letter from Dr. King, of the Hudson County Insane Hospital, stating that Savage was suffering with insanity, but could be cured.

Governor Fort declined to interfeer in the case. As soon as Governor Fort had departed on his vaaction trip to New England the case was brought to the attention of Acting Governor Frelinghuysen, who promptly called up Governor Fort on the long distance telephone and learned the steps that had previously been taken in the case. Acting Governor Frelinghuysen detailed Dr. Henry A. Cotton, of the State Insane Hospital, to make an examination of the man, the result being that he refused to take any action that would delay the electrocution.

The crime for which Savage paid the death penalty was a fiendishly brutal one committed October 18, 1909. With a shoemaker's knife that he had bought fifteen minutes before, he slashed to death his former mistress in her room in a tenement house at 57 Montgomery street, Jersey City, while the woman's daughter and sister beat furiously against the locked door of the room seeking to gain an entrance that they might stop the negro's furious assault.

RECOGNITION DEMANDED BY MONTCLAIR NEGRO VOTERS.

Montclair's negro citizens formally entered the political campaign at a meeting held last night by the Colored Republican Club in Odd Fellows' Hall there. There were three hundred negroes at the meeting, which indorsed Ernest C. Hinck for the Republican nomination for Mayor.

The negroes say they are going to be a big factor in the present mayoralty campaign. There are some five hundred negro voters in Montclair, and, solidly organized, they would hold the balance of power on Election Day. A strong organization, their leaders say, has been effected, and the negro citizens will vote for the candidate who offers the best inducements to their race.

One of the things that the Montclair negro population will demand from the candidate they support is representation in the municipal government. At present the only places they hold in the municipality consist of janitorships in public buildings. There are several negro letter carriers, however.

They aspire to places on the police department and fire department, and believe that their numerical strength at the polls will win them recognition this time.
